Horses, which now appear only on ceremonial occasions, have been replaced by speeding patrol cars equipped with two-way radio. The sled dogs have given way to a monster on skies called a bombardier snowmobile which costs less to run than the huskies.

Trim cabin cruisers patrol the larger lakes of D division and all branches are linked by radio to speed the work.

Behind the teams of constables stands a group of experts in the many facets of criminal investigation which has helped give Canada's national police a fine record of efficiency.

The first recruits in the old Northwest Mounted Police were assembled in Manitoba 80 years ago to start a weary trek across the Prairies establishing law posts.

It was 21 years ago that the RCMP—shorted fondly Manitoba police and took over provincial police work as well as federal.

D division is the second largest of the 12 in Canada. The Northwest Territories, administered from Ottawa, is the largest. Although the division extends into Ontario, constables there attend only to federal business, leaving the task to the Ontario provincial police.

There are 198 constables in D division under contract to the Manitoba government and 18 commissaries maintain separate arrangements with the force. There are 67 detachments spotted in the territory and duties include handling murderers, common drunks, safe-crackers, moonshiners, counterfeiters, confidence men and bewildered immigrants.

Heading D division is assistant commissioner Samuel Ballard, who controls the area from his Winnipeg headquarters. The division comprises three sections with their headquarters at Brandon, Winnipeg and Dauphin.

The individual detachment mounties is the backbone of the force. His duties may vary from midwife to doctor to councilor, if he is in a remote district. However, he is backed by the skilled personnel of the traffic section, identification branch, criminal investigation and aviation section.

Morley Smith's 'Ron Bar III' Is Launched

With champagne dripping down her gleaming bows Morley Smith's proud cabin cruiser "Ron-Bar III" slipped into the sun-glinting waters of the harbor off Wills Marina on Saturday afternoon.

One of the largest crowds to view the launching of a craft built in Belleville saw the colorful ceremonies as Mrs. Morley Smith cracked the traditional bottle over the boat's stem.

Gasps of admiration came from the crowd as the beautiful boat shining in her white paint and mahogany decks approached the Marina aboard a trailer.

And one of the proudest men present was Ed Chapple, designer and builder of the boats who spent a lot of time on his nautical brainchild and who saw the climax of weeks of study and labor at Saturday's launching.

The "Ron-Bar III" is as is suggested the third of the Smith boats to bear the name. It is derived from the names of the Smith children Ronald and Barbara both of whom with their parents were present at the christening ceremony, in fact all but Ronald took part in it.

The 36-foot beauty, the largest craft in the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's fast-growing fleet of boats, was launched via the trailer method, and slipped into the water as easily as her much larger counterparts would have done along greased skidways.

There was a prolonged round of applause as "Ron-Bar III" shook her trailer shackles loose and floated gently in the placid harbour waters.

The boat built by Messrs. Smith and Chapple was constructed in the large garage in the Smith Cartage Company on Bleecker Avenue with work being started last November.

Saturday it was loaded on a heavy trailer with a specially constructed rentway, and taken to the Marina for launching.

There wasn't a hitch to the launching. Both boat and trailer were backing to the water's edge, while another cabbe was attached to a truck across the road in Victoria Park.

Slowly the "Ron-Bar III" was eased into the water. A minute or two later the final clear of the trailer and the launching was complete.

Earlier in the day the new ketch "Tern" owned and built by Rogers Riedel of the yacht club was launched off the Wills Marina. The "Tern" with the mainmast yet to be stepped lay lazily at her anchorage during the "Ron-Bar III" launching, and evoked plenty of praise from the yachtsmen and others gathered there for the ceremonies.

On Saturday night, a large number of club members and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Smith, were their guests at a "launching party" in the club house.

Belleville Boat Wins Feature At Speed Regatta

WELLINGTON (Special) — Wind-whipped water provided a racing background that called for the utmost in driving skill here Sunday afternoon when the first speedboat regatta of the season was held in West Lake, off the eastern outskirts of the village.

Rough water prevented the regatta being held on the original course a mile east of the village off Stoney Point.

A large crowd saw some exciting races with only one upset occurring, that coming when Lee Robertson's "Hey Wait" flipped over in the second heat of the "B" division race. No damage was done.

"Bottoms Up", owned and driven by Russell Foley, Belleville, won the Class "A" Division honors from a field of five craft. Foley, who finished first in both heats was given a stiff race by Craig Platt, Wellington, driving "The Flame," and "Slow Poke," driven by A. Bigado of Picton.

Ron Frances, of Bowmanville, driven his "Fat Chance" to victory in both heats of the Class "B" Division. Foley's "Bottoms Up" chased the Bowmanville entry to the wire in both heats, with "Skip", driven by Gordie Kilpatrick, of Bowmanville, finishing in the three position.

"Slokmu," with Jack Palmer, Wellington, at the throttle, won both heats in the Class "B-2" division, showing a clean wake to "Oh, Oh III", a Bowmanville boat and "B.H. 31", driven by Bill Harden, also of Bowmanville, who finished in a tie for second place.

Palmer's boat also won the free-for-all class in a thrilling finish that saw two craft tied for top honors, "Slokmu" and "Noise sauce", driven by H. Granville, Oshawa, each won a heat with "Slokmu" coming out "Nuisance" in a thrilling "saw-off" heat.

Mrs. Headley Short, Wellington, won the draw.

The results:

Class "A" — "Bottoms Up," Frank Foley, Belleville; "Slow Poke," Craig Platt, Wellington; "Slow Poke," A. Bigado, Picton; "Miss Wellington," H. Short, Jr., Wellington, and "Little Lady," J. Walker, Oshawa.

Free-for-All — "Slokmu," J. Palmer, Wellington; "Nuisance," H. Granville, Oshawa; "Noise sauce III", Thornhill; "B.H. 31", "Oh, Oh III", "LJ Touch" and "Nuisance."

Prince Charles Provides Prize Camera Shot

One of the best photographs to emerge from the hundreds taken during the Coronation ceremony of Elizabeth II is this one featuring Prince Charles. Most of the time he watched in wide-eyed fascination at the pageant inside Westminster. But there is a limit to even a little boy's curiosity and here the young prince appears bored with it all. Perhaps he is thinking of his pets and his toys. Central Press Canadian.

U.S.-Canadian Defence Teams Given Workout

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—An imaginary atomic bomb exploded 1,700 feet above the city of Niagara Falls at 5:15 p.m. EDT Friday, setting off a civil defence drill involving thousands of U.S. and Canadian volunteers.

Fire and rescue units from Niagara, Genesee and Orleans counties in this country, and from Welland and Lincoln counties in Canada, poured into the presumably-stricken city.

M. Bradley Norton, Niagara Falls CD director, called the exercise "the first truly international civil defence movement in which Dominion and U.S. resources and manpower are pooled in a single operating unit, with international borders wiped away."

Worthington declared that "preparedness, through a good civil defence organization, will have more effect to deter an enemy attack than anything else."

An emergency newspaper went to press under the "Niagara contract" an agreement among the newspaper and radio stations of the area executed a year ago. Under the agreement, the personnel of the papers and stations, including such an emergency under the local CD director.

The emergency edition, a one page tabloid, was printed in St. Catharines. It was flown by air from Niagara Falls by the civil air patrol.

Too Many Persons in Jail Because Courts Do Not Use Facilities for Probation

EDMONTON (CP)—The former deputy commissioner of Canadian penitentiaries says too many persons go to jail with resultant hardship and suffering to families because most courts have inadequate use of the probation system.

James J. McCulley, new warden of Hart House, student centre at the University of Toronto, said in an address here that every province should develop an effective adult probation system.

"Local jails are poor examples of modern prison knowledge," he said. "Persons awaiting trial, convicted prisoners and first offenders, old and young, spend the bulk of their time in unproductive idleness with a minimum of segregation.

"This tends to aggravate the problem of treatment if such individuals are later transferred to provincial jails, reformatories or penitentiaries."

Mr. McCulley said Canada also has a need for greater use of the parole system. Experienced prison administrators as well as many that a prisoner comes to a certain point where he is a better risk for release than he would be later on, Weed Pak Chow.

It was no use providing better treatment for prisoners unless they could be assured of a fair chance to earn a living and to resume their place in society.

"The final test of the effectiveness of any prison system is at the moment of the return of the prisoner to society," Mr. McCulley said. "The responsibility for proper treatment at that stage is a purely personal and individual responsibility which should lie heavily on the consciences of all of us who call ourselves citizens of a humane and enlightened society.

"At times the courts respond to an hysterical public outburst at some particular crime by heaping it of crimes by awarding heavy deterrent sentences. Within the same jurisdiction there are frequently wide disparities of sentence for similar offences.

"It should be a maxim that punishment—if such it is to be called—should fit the criminal and not merely the crime."

An adequate approach to the problem had to be approached by providing more pre-sentence investigation with intelligent recommendations for treatment before sentence and not after. More adequate supervision might be made within Canada's legal and judicial procedure for a review of sentences which seemed excessive.

Remains of Many Famous Dead In Historic Tombs of Paris Moved to Provide New Graves

By JOHN MYERS

PARIS (Reuters)—The bones of the forgotten dead are being disturbed to make more room in the 117-acre cemetery of Pere-Lachaise in Paris.

Remains of some 2,000,000 persons lie in the tombs of Pere-Lachaise, already so crowded together it is sometimes impossible for a visitor to squeeze between them.

Macabre Operation

For the first time since its foundation in 1804, Pere-Lachaise is the scene of the macabre operation of opening graves to transfer their contents to an ossuary.

The ossuary is being built into the hillside at the foot of the grandoise columbarium which holds the ashes of the cremated. Through its sculptured portals will pass the remains of all those who lie in tombs for which the concession has lapsed.

Grave-diggers have been busy since the beginning of the year opening the abandoned tombs. A spokesman for the city operation, for some of the graves contain valuables.

Not Gloomy Place

But Pere – Lachaise is not a gloomy place, as cemeteries go, especially in the spring. Its cobbled alleys lined with acacias and plane trees make it more like a garden than a graveyard.

The medieval lovers, Heloise and Abelard, in their graceful sarcophagus, the opulent mausoleum, the oldest inhabitants of the cemetery to which they were brought in 1817 after several earlier moves.

Many Were Famous

It is said that the tomb of Chopin, rendezvous of modern lovers, has decreased appreciably of many idyllic.

Two of the most distinguished foreigners buried in the cemetery are two Britons: Oscar Wilde, Abelard, the novelist author, and Admiral Sidney Smith, gallant defender of Acre against Napoleon.

Authors, artists, actors, statesmen rest there in the scorn. To mention only a few: Moliere, la Fontaine, Daumier, Corot, Daudet, Sarah Bernhardt, Rostini, Bizet and Balzac.

Donald O'Connor Hottest Song, Dance Star

By James Bacon

Hollywood, which had the young comic for 15 years, let television discover just how really good he is. Now the movie-makers have jumped hard on the O'Connor bandwagon.

The youngest old timer in the business at 37, he literally has been knocking out audiences since he was 15 months old.

Some of his friends go back even further to a picture he made with Jimmy Durante called "The Milkman." That, these friends hold, established O'Connor as a major comic. His dancing ability never was discounted.

With Talking Male

From the Durante picture came his long and successful tieup as confidante of Francis, the talking mule. This series, made on a shoestring budget, helped to put Universal international from near-bankruptcy and established O'Connor as a box-office name.

NBC, dangling a $100,000 weekly bankroll from Colgate, signed up Bob Hope, Martin and Lewis and Eddie Cantor for TV's comedy hour. The network desperately needed another comic to fill out the once-a-year week schedule. O'Connor was picked despite some misgivings of official heads. As one NBC official said:

"Frankly, we were a little apprehensive of pitting O'Connor against such a fast field of established comics. We figured him to be the weakest of the bunch. That he finished the season as one of the highest rated is a tribute to O'Connor than our judgment."

Meanwhile his family's vaudeville act 26 years ago with the wedding block behind it. At three, he was tap dancing and at four he was singing.

Fifteen years later, then a role in "Singin' in the Rain," one of last year's musical standouts, climaxed it. He was in fast company with Gene Kelly, But O'Connor, to many, was the hit of the show.

Expensive Midwiceder

Now Universal-international has put its O'Connor muletender in "Walkin' My Baby Back Home," the most expensive musical the company has made in years. But that doesn't mean O'Connor has problems with Francis.

There's still "Francis Covers the Big Town" and "Francis Joins the WACs.

O'Connor, who wants a vacation so he can put on some weight, doesn't look like he's going to get it. Producer Cmdy Cowling returns from Europe, Paramount wants to team them in the forthcoming Bernie musical "White Christmas." The part originally was written for Danny Kaye, but the latter has since bowed out. That O'Connor was second choice is indicative of how his stock has risen.

It also will be a re-teaming. As Bing's small fry brother in a picture called "Sing You Sinners" back in 1938, Don made his movie debut.

Heavy Storms Cause at Least Four Deaths

CHICAGO (AP)—Spring thunderstorms which dumped severe rains over United States areas appeared dissipating today as they moved eastward.

Strong winds, rain and hail which lashed the nation's midsection caused at least four deaths, damaged crops and disrupted communications.

The storm struck hardest in Western Michigan and Illinois and followed a day of hot and humid weather in the central part of the country. The storm area extended along the Canadian border from Maine to Washington.

More hot and humid weather was the outlook again today for areas from Texas northeastward to the northern Great Lakes region and eastward to the Atlantic coast.

Fourteen counties in northwestern Minnesota were on emergency flood status as some rain-swollen streams reached 10 times their usual water flow.

The rain stopped Thursday but not before some fell there in 10 days than in all of 1952. State and Red Cross officials expect the flood situation to get tougher as melting snow from soaked land into streams.

Communities represented included Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Collingwood, Camp Borden, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Orillia, Port Hope, Toronto and Whitby.

Winners for trophies awarded by the Toronto Anglers and Hunters Association for the sporting rifle shoot here included:

Couple Remanded

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Thomas Cahill, 29, and his 31-year-old wife Margaret, were remanded until June 21 when they appeared in court here Friday in connection with the daylight holdup of a Royal Bank of Canada branch at Portland, 20 miles northwest of here.

The couple did not enter a plea. Bail was set at $5,000 each.

Cahill is charged with armed robbery while his wife is charged as an accomplice. More than $4,000 of the loot was found in their home at Seinlie Falls.

Earning $1,750,000 Yearly Abbott-Costello Still in Red

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Abbott and Costello, declared today they have been earning $1,750,000 a year for the last 12 years but are able to save nothing.

The fantastic finances of film players has long been a subject of conjecture. This is the first time that stars have revealed facts and figures and shown where the money goes.

Their disclosure shows some amazing things. Among them is the warning by the pair's accountants that they will never get out of the hole until they sell their homes and live more modestly.

"I have to estimate how much money I'm going to get in the coming year and keep paying taxes while the money is coming in," Lou said. "I've already paid $40,000 for this year and I'm $50,000 behind. If I fail to estimate correctly for any quarter, I get penalized.

"How can I estimate? We might suddenly get some frozen money from Europe that will upset all our figures. Then we get socked with a penalty. We just can't get ahead."

the big time in 1941. He said their earnings have averaged $1,750,000 a year. About $1,000,000 of this comes from their movies, on all of which they now share the profits. The rest of the revenue came from personal appearances and radio in the early years and TV today.

But out of this big sum comes enormous overhead expenses. An average year, Sherman said the boys would have these costs: Writers, $150,000; agents, $100,000; publicity men, $50,000; entertainment, $50,000; salaries, 10,000.

He admitted that these amounts sound high, but the comics operate on a lavish scale. They would take their radio gang to New York and buy meals and theatre tickets for all, as well as the usual expenses.

"They also give away huge amounts of money to charity and keep old pals on the payroll," Sherman said.

He added that the comics are in the 94-per-cent income bracket, which means they actually retain six cents of every dollar they earn.

Abbott says that he now is in the 13-per-cent bracket because of their finance since they first hit penalties on back payments.

Industrial Expansion Will Run Close to '52 Record Says Board

TORONTO (CP)—Industrial expansion in Ontario this year will run close to the 1952 record the Ontario department of planning and development forecast today.

New industries, several of major importance, were being established by manufacturers from the United States and other foreign countries. Existing industries were expanding.

The department's trade and industry branch said in its annual review for 1952 that this province held a commanding position in total Canada's achievements to date and in the potential for the future.

In manufacturing, Ontario equalled the combined strength of the other nine provinces and contributed half the total for all Canada.

in value of goods produced, employment, payrolls, and capital investment.

In 1952, Ontario's 13,200 manufacturing industries hit a record production valued at $8,000,000. The labor force of 1,826,000 in civilian employment was the greatest ever, with 36 per cent engaged in manufacturing.

Capital expenditures by manufacturing industries in new plants and equipment were $462,000,000, about 55 per cent of the Canadian total.

A total of 126 new industries were formed in Ontario last year, compared with 92 in 1951. Some 600 new industries had been established in the province since the Second World War.

Too Many Persons in Jail Because Courts Do Not Use Facilities for Probation

EDMONTON (CP)—The former deputy commissioner of Canadian penitentiaries says too many persons go to jail with resultant hardship and suffering to families because most courts have inadequate use of the probation system.

James J. McCulley, new warden of Hart House, student centre at the University of Toronto, said in an address here that every province should develop an effective adult probation system.

"Local jails are poor examples of modern prison knowledge," he said. "Persons awaiting trial, convicted prisoners and first offenders, old and young, spend the bulk of their time in unproductive idleness with a minimum of segregation.

"This tends to aggravate the problem of treatment if such individuals are later transferred to provincial jails, reformatories or penitentiaries."

Mr. McCulley said Canada also has a need for greater use of the parole system. Experienced prison administrators as well as many that a prisoner comes to a certain point where he is a better risk for release than he would be later on, Weed Pak Chow.

It was no use providing better treatment for prisoners unless they could be assured of a fair chance to earn a living and to resume their place in society.

"The final test of the effectiveness of any prison system is at the moment of the return of the prisoner to society," Mr. McCulley said. "The responsibility for proper treatment at that stage is a purely personal and individual responsibility which should lie heavily on the consciences of all of us who call ourselves citizens of a humane and enlightened society.

"At times the courts respond to an hysterical public outburst at some particular crime by heaping it of crimes by awarding heavy deterrent sentences. Within the same jurisdiction there are frequently wide disparities of sentence for similar offences.

"It should be a maxim that punishment—if such it is to be called—should fit the criminal and not merely the crime."

An adequate approach to the problem had to be approached by providing more pre-sentence investigation with intelligent recommendations for treatment before sentence and not after. More adequate supervision might be made within Canada's legal and judicial procedure for a review of sentences which seemed excessive.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Even the greatest athletes worry when they're not doing what is expected of them and Stan Musial is no exception.

"Suppose you were in business and it fell off 30 per cent," he asked. "Wouldn't you worry? Well, baseball is my business and I would say my work has fallen off 30 per cent this year."

Musial's fear is typical of himself is typical of Stan the man. He gave no excuses. He doesn't blame his batting slump on injuries. The poor weather hasn't affected him.

"I just haven't been hitting the way I should," he said. "That's all. Nothing is off. Don't ask me why. I just don't know."

East Hasting's W. I. Holds 52nd District Convention

The 52nd. district annual convention of the Women's Institutes of East Hastings was held in St. Johns United Church, Tweed, on Friday, May 29, with an attendance of 182.

No more beautiful setting could have been arranged for such a worthy occasion than this lovely church with its Biblical inscription around the arch — "The Lord is in His Holy Temple let all the earth keep silence before Him." The day was ideal with the church nicely decorated with baskets of lovely spring flowers.

As the delegates and members from the ten branches and the junior institute from East Hastings district entered to register they were given a cordial welcome. The registration was in charge of Mrs. C. Jeffrey and Mrs. W. Kelly.

Following community singing, led by Mrs. W. Slingsland and accompanied by Mrs. J. Parrott, the ode was sung. The minutes of the 1952 district annual and the financial statement were read by the secretary - treasurer, Mrs. F. Ray, and approved, followed by the auditors' report, by Mrs. Carnahan, confirming the financial statement.

Mrs. Rohson, district president, stated in her address, that she had visited the ten branches and found all doing good work. They are not all doing the same thing, but each institute is filling a spot in the community. She expressed sympathy to the friends of Miss Noble, the home economist. The W.I. is also sorry to lose Col. Kennedy, the Minister of Agriculture. He has always been a staunch supporter of Women's Institutes.

Welcome to E. Hastings

In Canada, as in every part of the world, the land is the basic stuff of life, and is indeed the chief of all resources. It should be of major importance to all to keep the land producing, not only for the present needs but for future progress and maintain Canada's position as a leader in Agricultural production.

The factory worker makes the implements, power machines, appliances and the farmer produces the food. Thus the "good earth" must be the ode we sing. The minutes of the 1952 district annual and the financial statement were read by the secretary - treasurer, Mrs. F. Ray, and approved, followed by the auditors' report, by Mrs. Carnahan, confirming the financial statement.

Collection, by the Plainfield Branch.

Fr. Institute Report

A number of girls participated in the call and house maker's clubs. Members aided in the choir, order of service and the beforehand details for the annual church service.

Club project for the year was the painting and selling of names for mail boxes. The girls assisted in canvassing, painting and putting up the signs. The project was in keeping with our Junior Farmer motto: "Self-help and community betterment."

The club was in the square dance competition for the county which was held in Stirling. Then they went to Peterborough and won for central Ontario. At the Royal Winter Fair they were not so lucky but they did have some very interesting experiences.

Marilyn Hodgins represented the Hastings' clubs at the Chicago conference for 4-H Clubs.

Girls at Camp

This year Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland counties had a junior camp at Robin Lake. Our Junior Institute was well represented and our club had the honor of having the "Spirit of the Camp."

The "Spirit" is supposed to be the most all-round person at the camp.

This year debating took a very active part in their program and two girls got as far as the semi-finals for Ontario. They were defeated by the winning team for Ontario.

They are now making a quilt in the county colors of gold and yellow. Blocks are of white and blue. They are selling tickets on a pure-bred Holstein calf and the draw is to take place at Belleville Fair.

In closing, Miss Homan expressed the club's sympathy in the loss of Miss Nea, whom they had grown very fond of and she will be greatly missed.

Public Relations

Each and every branch is participating in any way they can, in other organizations as well as taking full responsibility for having their own monthly meetings and activities a success.

Some mottoes were: "The influence of the Institute in the Community", "Good Publicity Leads to Success", "In Service Find Your Greatest Need", "We Help Ourselves When We Help Others."

Papers were given on the need of self control and self discipline. Public relations is 9/10 doing and 1/10 talking.

One institute catered at the Belleville Fair for two days and the results are being held in trust toward a new community centre.

One institute held two different service days for the Children's Aid and made 53 children's dresses.

A library is established in one and books are loaned to every one in the community. All are helping to make the new Canadians welcome in their new home.

Community Supper

One held a community supper, which was lastes' night and the men served the ladies and later presented a very excellent program.

Donations of very pleasing amounts were given to flood relief, the building fund, to the blind, Salvation Army, Christmas cheer, and local baseball teams.

A magnificent field of endeavor lies before us. "Are we big enough to go forward, thinking not of ourselves — but of what may be achieved through co-operation and understanding."

"After all what do we ask of life here or indeed, hereafter, but leave to serve, to live, to commune with our fellowmen and with ourselves and from the lap of earth to look up into the face of God."

Current Events

Tweedsmuir village histories are being kept up in most branches and Current Events are given at each meeting. Papers were given on the new Old Folks Home, the Flood in Britain, and the Duke of Norfolk.

One evening meeting was given to current events. A movie was shown of the round-up in the west in 1948 and commentary remarks showed the progress in less than 2 years after.

Mrs. Bell gave a review of the hour; memory work learned at school; who lived at my place; current events of days, and treasured memories.

Motions were: "Events of the present will be history of the future," and "Little things worth while."

Papers were given on the history of Hapsburg, tales of the rose, ancient treasures, F.W.I.O., the history of local school valuation, and activities of the average W.I. in England.

Displays were: Most Treasured Possession; Oldest Thing I Possess; Old Books and Jewellery.

Two girls attend the A.G.W.W. conference at Toronto, preserve pictures and clippings of this historic event.

Mrs. F. Webb, Moira, delighted all by singing, "I Love a Little Cottage," and "Land of Hope and Glory." She was accompanied by Mrs. J. Parrott.

Roll Call Greetings

Mrs. (Dr.) Beatty brought greetings from the North Hastings district, and wished the very best for all.

In all probability the Canniffon-Corbyville Women's Institute will be hostesses for the 1954 district annual."

SENTENCED TO LIFE

MONTREAL (CP)—Pierre Etienne Michaud, 46, was sentenced Friday to life imprisonment for the hammer-slaying of his wife last March at Riviere des Prairies. At his trial Michaud said he acted in self-defence when his wife attacked him with a hammer.

Churchmen Ask Earlier Closing Of Liquor Outlets

HAMILTON (CP) — United Church heads expressed alarm Friday over what they called the "sky-rocketing consumption" of alcoholic beverages in Ontario.

They will ask the provincial government to refuse any more banquet permits for weddings and to enforce a 10:30 p.m. closing hour for all liquor outlets.

The recommendations were contained in a report from the evangelism and social service committee of the Hamilton conference of the United Church of Canada.

The committee said the amount of alcohol consumed in Ontario has risen out of proportion to the rise in population. In the 15 years up to 1949, the province's population increased to 27 per cent while consumption of hard liquor rose 200 per cent and use of beer by 533 per cent.

Quoting a New York survey that said each habitual drinker cost the city $3,000 annually, the report added:

"To this must be added the indirect costs of lost working time, accidents, broken homes, child delinquency and poverty."

Report 781,747 As Presbyterians In New Census

TORONTO (CP)—Canadians who describe themselves as Presbyterians number 781,747, a report presented to the 79th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada said Friday.

The report added that, because many Presbyterians are now members of the United Church, there has been a drop of 48,859 from the census figure of 1941.

"After 1925, (when the United Church was formed) many United Church members and adherents continued to describe themselves as Presbyterians, thus adding to the total reported in the census.

"As the older generation passed away and a younger generation has given the census information, there has been an apparent increase in United Church members, adherents and an apparent decrease in Presbyterian members, adherents. What has actually occurred is a clarification of status. Neither element has varied to the extent suggested by census returns."

Calm Precedes Voting in Italy Starting Sunday

ROME (AP)—A law-enforced pre-election calm settled over Italy today as 30,000,000 voters prepared to ballot for their second post-war parliament.

The voting begins Sunday and will continue Monday. At stake are 590 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and 237 in the Senate.

Confronting the voters are three clearly-marked choices:

1. The middle-of-the-road four-party coalition headed by Premier Alcide de Gasperi, whose government has guided Italy for the last seven years. This centre bloc is composed of de Gasperi's Christian Democrats, Republicans, Liberals and moderate Socialists.

2. The extreme left of Palmiro Togliatti's Communist party, the biggest this side of the Iron Curtain, and Pietro Nenni's left-wing Socialists. The two parties are running independently but have an accord calling for unity of action.

3. The backward-looking extreme right made up of monarchists and the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI), which has shown a surprising increase of strength since the end of the war.

Army Polio Cases In Yukon Are Confirmed

EDMONTON (CP — Thirty-seven cases of polio among Canadian Army men and their dependents in the Yukon were confirmed Friday by western command headquarters.

Earlier, civilian sources had reported 75 cases including two deaths at Whitehorse, and about 15 cases at Dawson City.

Col. K. J. Young, command medical officer, said that some paralysis existed in 10 cases, and there had been one army death up to late Thursday. There were 28 "abortive" cases, along with eight cases with fever but not yet diagnosed as polio.

Two soldiers have been brought to Edmonton for treatment.

Two iron lungs, one each from medical supply depots at Vancouver and Edmonton, have been flown by the RCAF to the Whitehorse Military Hospital along with one portable respirator.

The parties have put up a total of 8,264 candidates through the country—4,311 for the Chamber and 1,953 for the Senate.

Are there good jobs in a nickel mine?

"Yes, there are good jobs and a lot of them in the nickel mines and plants. There is still a certain amount of heavy work to do, but machines have made most jobs a lot easier and more pleasant. For instance, the ore today is handled almost entirely by machines instead of by pick and shovel."

"Do the men get good pay?"

"Yes, at Inco even a beginner makes good money. As time goes on there are chances for working into better and better jobs. In addition, employees receive the best hospital care for themselves and families at very low cost to them. Pensions are paid to employees who retire or are disabled and these are paid for by the company. So you see Inco is a real good place to work."

Cleveland Indians Again Loom Up As Threat To League-Leading Yankees

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GREAT DAY!

Saturday was a great day for members of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. They saw two beautiful craft, new additions to the commodious fleet of the club, launched under weather and water conditions that were almost perfect. These boats, Moriay Smith's handsome cabin cruiser, "Son-Bar III", and Rogers Riedel's sleek jetish "Tern", slipped into the water while cheering crowd of yachtsmen and others looked on.

As is always nearly the fact, there was a touch of unrehearsed humor in the "Son-Bar" launching. Mrs. Smith, "godmother" of the craft, essayed to break the traditional bottle of champagne over the boat's bows. The bottle, streamed with ribbons of the boat's colors was suspended by a rope from the deck. Mrs. Smith swung, but the bottle refused to break. Finally it began to leak, as the lady peered "inside" over the gleaming white bow of the boat. Finally Moriay, himself, and Ronald and Barbara, the Smith children, each took a turn at the breaking ceremony but the doomed vessel was stubborn and refused to smash.

Rogers Riedel's "Tern" lay at its moorings at the Wills' Marina and saw the "Son-Bar" launched. The "Tern" was not stepped at the time but her mast lines and others features drew the admiration of the large crowd. A right neat boat.

EFFENDIS!

Speaking of boats and water, the boys who thrill to the thrusties of speedboats had a grand day near Wellington in the first regatta of the season held there Sunday afternoon. The water was a bit too choppy on the original course, so the boats raced over a more sheltered one on eastern outskirts of the village. Frank Foley's "Redman IV" took the Class "A" honors in two straight heats over a field of five and also took second in the Class "B" division. There was plenty of excitement when Park Palmer's "Shamoo" and H. Granville, Oshawa, fouling "Shamoo" for first place in the three-for-all heat. Palmer, who hails from Wellington, nosed out the Oshawa craft in a thrilling bow-to-bow finish in the finishing heat.

SOFTBALL

Glen Roy juniors, who have proved the all-out team in the District Softball League thus far tangle with the Old Clucker's Northern Electrics tonight at Alemite Field. The juniors are riding high on the crest of a victory wave, but they shouldn't sell the Electrics short. The boys you can come up with at times isn't just in the books. Should be a thriller.

BIG BOYS, BOTH!

Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, five time world's wrestling champion, has four hobbies, fishing, youth movements, wrestling and managing world champion Lou Thesz.

The "Strangler", a millionaire in his own right, was here "with his boy, Lou" Friday night in the semi-wrestling with Whipper Watson. He crouched on a low stool outside the ring and from time to time issued instructions to the agile Thesz.

Previous to that, the 327-pound ex-champ of the days when "ranklers were rankler" sat in his blue Cadillac and reminisced of the good old days, before modern mat mentors with a "plan" for the boy from the city of the blues.

The immaculate ex-champion recalled the days when wrestling titular battles went as long as five hours.

"The big fellie these days," he smiled, "battle for an hour and then sell it a draw. School boy stuff. I wrestled Joe Stecher in Madison Square Garden in June, 1917, and it took us three hours and eight minutes before I pinned him."

The Strangler also recalled the memorable battle in the Gardens when he defended his title against Vladimir Zbyszko, Polish strong boy. Lewis went five and-one-half hours to a draw. Another lengthy brawl was that between the Strangler and Stanislaus Zbyszko, a brother of Vladimir. He lost his world's title to Jim Browning in 1934 after a tremendous battle before a packed house in the New York Gardens.

Possessed of a wonderful physique and powers of endurance, Strangler Lewis battled in the ring until he was 57 years of age. He is now 63, a trifle overweight and taking it easy, managing champions.

Ed made a lot of money selling exercise and physical training equipment. He still holds a big share in a one-person manufacturing company.

He is vitally interested in Youth Work and some weeks he journeys to between 30,000 and 50,000 boys in various parts of the United States.

He is proud of Thesz and predicts he will be the world's official wrestling champion for some time to come. "He's fast, tricky, a bit rough at times, but one of the most beautiful natural I have ever seen."

Thesz, a likeable chap, jazzed in the dressing room with Referee "Bunny" Dunlop, and if this pair can do their professional jobs as well as they can unravel tall sports stories, they should be busy for a long time. They will take you on in any sport from croquet to push-penny and tell you experiences that never hit the sports pages.

If you listen "Bunny" will relate the story of the time he tossed back an eighty-two pound muskie in a Northern Ontario lake because the fish was always one to "pick on somebody his own size." Somebody else came up with the yarn about the fishermen who had their box of sandwiches stolen from the boat by a marauding bear. Later the bear was returned with a note: "Next time make 'em ham, not sardine, whaddya think we are, cannibals?"

Thesz, in more serious vein, said he was a hooker, trainer and "pal" of Doberman-Fincher dogs, and owns a large kennel of them. He officiates in a judging capacity in many outstanding American dog shows. He owns an office building on Second Boulevard, Los Angeles, is 36 years of age and has been wrestling for 19 years. He has held the world's title for the past five years and has met and defeated some of the best men in the game. The Whipper, he said, was one of the best he has faced in any city in the world, and Thesz has wrestled in plenty of countries, other than the U.S.A. and Canada.

Nearly Six Games Off Pace But Have Big Chance to Climb In 4-Game Set With Champs

By Ed Corrigan
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League is beginning to level off and as New York Yankees today took a casual glance behind, what was galloping along the second place but their old friends, Cleveland Indians.

The only trouble with the Indians is that they have an alarming tendency to fold in the stretch and play dead when they go up against Casey Stengel and his operatives. In 1951, for example, the Yanks won 15 and lost only seven to the Indians.

Last year, Cleveland made a better fight of it and the Bronx Bombers' margin was only 12-10. So far this season, the Yanks have won three and lost once against the Indians. The count still are 5½ games off the pace.

The Indians will have a good opportunity to make up some ground this week-end when the Yankees invade Cleveland for a four-game set.

Hopp

Manager Al Lopez of Cleveland can see a silver lining through the clouds. He probably will have Bob Feller, who until recently had not won a game in more than a month, available.

Feller pitched a nice six-hitter Sunday in the opener of a double-header against Philadelphia. The Indians won it, 8-4, then went on to take the nightcap, 4-3, Early Wynn, Steve Ridzik and Ray Narleski handling the mound chores.

But the Indians also won a double-header from St. Louis Browns, 9-3 and 7-2. The second triumph was the Tribe's 11th in a row and marked their longest winning streak under Lopez.

Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox, in the midst of a battle for third place split a double-header. The Nats piled up a 16-3 margin in the first, Porterfield to coast to the victory in the first game. But in the nightcap, Harry Dorish posted a 5-1 triumph for Chicago.

Detroit Tigers, as usual, lost. The Red Sox beat them, 4-1. Skinny Brown went the distance for the winners and hit a home run.

In the National League, Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers continued their neck-and-neck battle for first place, and today it is the Braves' turn to occupy the top rung. They won two games from the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-0, on Johnny Antonelli's four-hitter, and 5-3. The Brooks took a single game, swamping St. Louis Cardinals, 13-3.

Among the second division clubs, Chicago Cubs, aided by a pair of homers by Ralph Kiner, won two from New York Giants, 10-4 and 5-3, and Cincinnati Redlegs took a pair from Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-1 and 11-6.

The Cubs broke a six-game losing streak with their first victory over the Giants. Warren Hacker won the first game after losing eight in a row.

Schoolboys Break Rowing Records

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Three schoolboy rowing records were broken Saturday in the eighth annual Canadian Secondary Schoolboys Rowing Association meet. Records were smashed in the open heavy singles, open heavy doubles and the championship eights.

Don Guest of Etobicoke Collegiate cracked a mark set by his brother, Jack, Jr., in the open heavy singles when he covered the distance in 3:51. That was 23 seconds faster than the old mark set in 1951.

Guest also teamed with Larry Stephan of St. Catharines to win the open heavy doubles final. The third mark was set by Buffalo Lasayettes who covered the course in 4:39.3. The former record was 4:02.3.

St. Cathines Collegiate Institute racked up the highest point total, gaining 34 points. Welland Notre Dame was second with 30 and Burlington Central and Buffalo St. Joseph's were tied for third place with 20 points apiece.

BURLS NO-HITTER

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Joe Hatten pitched a no-hit game as Los Angeles beat San Diego 4-0 in the abbreviated end of a Pacific Coast League double-header here Sunday after the Padres took the opener 4-2 on the strength of Tom Alston's three-run homer. Hatten's was the first Coast League no-hitter this year.

London Majors Trounce Oshawa To Protect Lead

By The Canadian Press

London Majors bucked their two-game losing streak Saturday night and added another assurance win to protect their lead in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

Making the most of a few openings, the Majors downed Oshawa Merchants 4-1 in the Saturday night session. The Majors had previously lost two in a row, to Guelph Maple Leafs and Kitchener Panthers.

St. Thomas Elgins dropped Brantford Red Sox 9-6 in the only other game of the night. Kitchener was scheduled to meet Waterloo Tigers but rain forced a postponement.

Bob Penny pitched London to victory for his fourth win. Penny has kept seven Oshawa blows well spaced. Every London player got a fielding support, particularly from Bobby Deak who tossed out 11 Oshawa batters from his shortstop area. Al Cerringer was charged with the loss.

London managed three third-inning runs on a walk, a single by Gerry Wilson's 400-foot homer past the scoreboard sparked the London attack. He scored Clint McAlister ahead of him. Bobby Rose with a double and a triple in the next win batter scored the Majors' hitters. Chick Aleno's two for four was the only Oshawa hitting.

Lefthander Don Summer, who took over in the fifth inning, was credited with the St. Thomas victory. Veteran Al Osbaw Gill set on the mound for Brantford but was relieved in the third by Nig Parker who was charged with the loss.

While the Sox got five runs off starter Bill Byham in the second inning they just couldn't seem to make a rally stick the rest of the game.

Elgins started in the second with two runs on Ray Irvine's double, a walk, wild pitch and a balk from Lipka. In the third they chalked up two more when Joe Barbaton doubled to score both.

Royals Nip Leafs Two of Three; Wings Win Pair

By The Canadian Press

Some fine hurling gave Montreal the best of a three-game, week-end series with Toronto Maple Leafs and kept the Royals comfortably on top of the International Baseball League.

The Royals took both ends of a Sunday doubleheader from their arch-rivals, 4-3 and 4-1.

Lefty Ken Lehman pitched five-hit ball in the abbreviated nightcap, Equalling Roebuck's won-and-lost performance. Cuban outfielder Sandy Amoros hit a homer and a double in three times at bat.

The Leafs won the Saturday game 5-2, rapping three Montreal hurlers for 14 hits. Lou Sleezak got eight safeties for his second win against as many losses.

The Royals hold a three-game lead over Rochester Red Wings, who jumped back into second place at Toronto by taking two of three games from—the seventh-place Baltimore Orioles.

The Wings swept a Sunday twin bill from the Orioles, 10-3 and 5-0, but lost the Saturday encounter 9-5.

Righthander Floyd Meller got his initial win in five-hitting Baltimore's day opener. Baltimore's Stan Jok split honors at his team's runs in the nightcap—which the Orioles lost—with two three-run homers, pitcher Bob Tiefenauer got the win.

The fourth-place Ottawa Athletics Sunday halted a Syracuse winning streak at five games by taking the nightcap of a doubleheader, 3-1. Bob Trice hurled six-hit ball.

The Chiefs won the opener 6-5. Duke Markell was given the win although he was knocked out in the seventh. The A's outhit Syracuse 14-8, but were charged with four errors.

The sixth-place Chiefs won their first start in seven games by edging the tail-end Springfield Cubs 3-2 in 10 innings.

Buffalo Bisons, tied for fourth spot with the A's, took both halves of a Sunday doubleheader from Springfield Cubs.

Frank Carswell and Jack Wallace, making his debut in the Bisons' lineup, were in six runs to highlight the Bisons' 11-4 opening victory. Veteran Bill Voiselle pitched six-hit ball in five innings of relief, got the win.

Buffalo won the win game in the abbreviated nightcap by hitting all over two out in the first seventh inning for a 4-3 decision.

GRECIAN QUEEN WINNER

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Ben P. Whitaker's Grecian Queen Saturday won a nose victory over the Belair Stud's Safaitch in the $25,000 coaching club American Oaks at Belmont Park. C. V. Whitney's Wing Yellow was third.

Li'l Arthur Is Favorite Over Savoie In Tonight's Lightweight Title Bout

TORONTO (CP)—Li'l Arthur King fights Armand Savoie tonight for the Canadian lightweight title to be held before he left Toronto to campaign out of Philadelphia. The promoters claim the British Empire lightweight title also will be at stake.

King, who had the Canadian title taken from him for failing to defend it after he left Toronto for the United States, is favored over the Shubenacadie, Nova Scotia boxer. Savoie confound the experts, however, there are fewer in the fighting world who won't recognize him as the new British Empire champion, namely the British boxing board of control.

The board said Thursday it took King's Empire title from him last September and announced it recognizes Frank Johnston of Manchester as the champ as the result of his knockout of Australian titleholder Frank Flannery.

Never Escape

"I've never been beaten for the title," King said. "It's mine and they're not going to take it away from me this way. No one challenged me until Savoie came along."

Tuesday said the winner will be presented a $250 belt—paid for by Tuesday—as an emblem of the Empire title.

Victory will improve either fighter's chances of meeting the lightweight Jimmy Carter in a non-title bout in Montreal. Savoie also beat Sandy Saddler, regarded as one of the roughest lightweights in the business, recently lost out to Paddy DeMarco, the Bronx billy goat.

King beat DeMarco about a year ago, then was dropped by the retired fighter who had never been on the floor in 70 professional fights until that one.

BARILO BEATS GRAHAM

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio of Canastata, N.Y., fighting at a torrid pace through 12 rounds Saturday night, won a unanimous decision over veteran Billy Graham of New York. Basilio weighed 145, Graham 147.

LIVERPOOL TEAMS WIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Liverpool Reds, led by high-scoring centre Billy Lidell, won their seventh straight soccer match on their current American tour Sunday, overwhelming a Chicago all-star team 4-2. Liddell booted three goals.

United States Sweeps to 27-18 Win Over Canada in Pro Golf Tourney

By W. E. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Experience told the story in a pressure last-nine finish Sunday when the United States swept to a 27-18-point victory over Canada in the international golf team match for the Hopkins Trophy.

Although they had a seven-point lead from four-ball matches and singles going into the final play, it wasn't until the fourth match of Sunday's singles over the Beaconsfield Golf club course that the Americans were assured of victory. Then Jack Burke, Jr., sank a 25-foot eagle putt on the 18th green to split points with Bobby Locke of South Africa and raise the U. S. point total to 23, enough to take the team championship.

Jim Turnesa came through with a solid back nine to defeat Stan Leonard of Vancouver, and Julius Boros, U. S. open champion, finished with a 1-stroke push to overcome Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon. Turnesa and Boros each accounted for 3½ points.

Was Lead

Until the last nine Sunday, Canada led in three of the six singles, tied in two and trailed in the other one. The U. S. lead of 17-10 after play of Friday and Saturday had shrunk to 18-16.

Little Jules Huot of Montreal was the lone giant man Sunday—the only player to sweep all three points in a singles match. Huot overwhelmed Oscar Ford, running up a five-hold lead over the high-ranking American. He had three, got them all back in a row and finished the last nine by chipping out a 60-footer for an eagle three on the 18th.

Ted Kroll took the first cut at the growing Canadian point total by taking two of the three points from Bill Kerr of Montreal. Kroll took the first nine by two holes but the second nine by one and took the match. He shot a medal 36, the same as Kerr. Three down on the American side on match play were Jack Burke, Jr., and Boros, who also went down to Peter Thomson of Australia, playing for Canada, after they had tied their three holes to Thomson's two coming home. Both had medal scores of 71.

South Africa's Bobby Locke, trying to aid Canada's cause, had to settle for a halved match with Burke through the first nine. Burke birdied the 12th to get all square, but the 13th to Locke's birdie deuce and bounced back in front with a par and birdie at the 14th and 15th.

Leonard ran Will Nagle of U. S. Locke took the 16th with a birdie three and the 17th with a par three.

Burke's eagle-three put the issue to bed.

Baltimore at Toronto (night)
Rochester at Buffalo (night)
Springfield at Buffalo (night)

10 Records Fall At Montreal Track, Field Meet

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Despite rain and poor ground conditions, 10 records were broken and two equalled Saturday at more than 300 boys from Ontario and Quebec met at Molson stadium in the annual high school Dominion interscholastic track and field meet.

The boys, representing 19 schools, ranged up to 20 years in age. The records were set in the five classifications: Class 1 for those under 14; Class 2, under 16; class 3, under 17, and class 4, under 18.

Tom Skimming, from Toronto Runnymede, came through with one of the most creditable performances to win for his school the class 4 senior championship and the Currie Cup.

Skimming, who smashed the meet's pole vault record, compiled 18 points to edge Montreal High School with seven. Montreal High won the class 1 and 2 championships. Richmond vault of 12 feet, 3½ inches bettered the old mark of 12 feet 3 inches.

One of the highlights of the meet was the one-mile open, won by Ron Wallington of the University of Michigan in 4:34.4.

J. Forman, Toronto St. Michael's, who tied the meet record for the class 2 100-yard dash, also won the 440-yard event in 52 flat.

Forman equalled the interscholastic meet record of 10.1 seconds set by Lynch of Sherbrooke, Que., and G. Hicker of Cornwall.

Ralph Nichol of Ottawa Carleton placed the class 4 shot put 45 feet 4½ inches to beat the provincial mark of 44 feet 6 inches. Nichol also won the class 4 discus throw with a toss of 131 feet 9½ inches.

A. Robertson of Cornwall won the class 4 100-yard low hurles in 12.3. He and Bernard Landreth finished second to R. Ryan of Montreal High School in the class 3 440-yard run. J. Sloan, another Cornwall entry, won the class 2 shot put with a heave of 43 feet, 3½ inches.

The meeting also ratified an east-west uniform scoring system which has the pins marked, from left to right, 2-3-4-5-2. Formerly the east used 4-2-3-5.

Claim Oversight In Schedule Draft May Cost Win

KITCHENER (CP) — Manager Don Gallinger of Kitchener Indians said Sunday that an oversight in redrafting the Senior Intercounty Baseball League rules this year has cost them one of their seven victories and may prevent them from getting the services of an outstanding pitcher.

Gallinger said league administrator John Gillies of London has informed him that southpaw Bill Allan of St. Catharines is not eligible to play for the Panthers because he has not been released by the American Association.' He was signed by Panthers while on the voluntary retirement list.

Previously the rule had been that a man was eligible to play intercounty ball while on the voluntary retirement list. In redrafting the rule this year this clause was omitted although it is believed the intention was to continue it.

Gallinger said Kitchener has been informed this game has been forfeited to Waterloo.

Five-Year-Old Pacer Sets Mile World Record

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Hi-Le's Forbes, a five-year-old, raced to a mile world record for pacers on a mile-and-a-half track Saturday night when he was clocked in 1:58 3-5 at Roosevelt Raceway.

The listed record of 1:59 3-5 was established by Dartgreen Hanover as a four-year old at Delaware, Ohio, in 1951. The mile track record is 1:57 4-5 held by the late Billy Direct.

Henry Tinkey held Hi-Le's Forbes, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wagner of Lankover, Md., off the early pace as Herman Hanover stepped the first quarter in 29 4-5 seconds, the half in 59.4 and the three-quarters in 1:28.3.

Then Clabry brought the Wagner pacer up fast and he pulled away in the stretch to finish 1½ lengths in front of Meadow Rice, last year's three-year-old pacing champion. Thomas B. Scott was third.

Aussies Bowled Out by Hants

LONDON (Reuters)—The Australian cricketers were bowled out before tea for 268 by Hampshire at Southampton Saturday. The tourists retaliated by taking six Hampshire wickets in the last two hours of play.

The Australians had 190 runs to the board when their third wicket fell, with Neil Harvey hitting a 74 and Ian Craig a 50 among their scores.

But 70 minutes later the whole side was out. Roy Marshall dismissed Craig, De Courcy and Lord Sheel, Nick Ferri and Peter Sutherland got two each. Singles were added by Jack Sinkbeil, Al Garbutt and Chuck Simpson.

A county cricket championship match ended in London when Middlesex won over Somerset at Bath in less than five hours. Roy Tattersall took 13 wickets for Lancashire for 69 runs.

The Kibitzer

You have no doubt noticed a common fault of bridge hotshots. They hate to show support for a minor suit if it will end in a game in that suit. They prefer to reach game in a major or notrump.

This is a throw-back to the old auction bridge days. And it is kept alive by those who lack confidence in the playing trick count they employ. It lands them in many unmakeable contracts.

This is how the bidding should go:

South	North
1 D	1 H
2 S	3 D
3 H	4 D
4 NT	5 C
6 D	Pass

In his first three bids, north gave two raises, a promise of four tricks. With his own eight, south thus sees 12 in their pair. And north has impressed diamonds as their best trump combination.

The south four no-trump is the aces and kings asking signal. In reply thereto, six diamonds shows two aces and only one king. South then knows they lack sufficient kings to try for seven.

Declarer has an easy time making six diamonds. He takes the first club trick, pulls opponent trumps, and discards a heart that loses. All but the spade ace can be stuffed and ruffed.

When the second bid by south was spades, some north players ignored the diamonds entirely and ended at three no-trump. Some of the other north players did not impress their diamond preference when south supported hearts. So, they went down at six hearts.

Be in the right contract and tricks usually fall into place.

AT THE BELLE — Called one of the year's best movies, Shirley Booth, winner of the Academy Award for best actress of the year, for her performance in "Come Back, Little Sheba" — a compelling drama, co-starring Burt Lancaster, now attracting big audiences to the Belle Theatre. Featured in the cast of this powerful story of frustration and desire are Terry Moore and Richard Jaeckel.

Excitement Too Much for Her

VANCOUVER (CP)—Candidates got in their final campaign licks during the week-end as British Columbians prepared to vote in a provincial general election Tuesday.

After weeks of stumping the hustings in one of the most bitter campaigns on record, many of the 228 candidates took to the air waves Saturday night as the deadline for election broadcasting drew near. A few political rallies tonight will wind up the electioneering.

Premier Bennett, leader of the minority Social Credit government which was defeated on the floor of the legislature in March after only seven months in office, has charged the other parties with carrying on a "smear campaign."

Early election issues such as the Doukhobor problem and financing of education posts were all but forgotten in the final week as sensational charges involving the president of the B. C. Social Credit League grabbed the headlines.

Dr. W. N. Kemp, independent candidate in Vancouver-Point Grey, dropped the first bombshell 10 days ago when he accused John Perdue, president of the league and a candidate in the far north riding of Mackenzie, of having a criminal record.

Dr. Kemp charged at a public meeting that Mr. Perdue "has been convicted of more than one occasion of obtaining money under false pretences and similar crimes in Vancouver."

Mr. Perdue countered with legal action. He obtained a writ in the B. C. Supreme Court seeking unstated damages from Dr. Kemp for alleged slander. Mr. Perdue followed this up Saturday by charging the doctor-politician with criminal defamatory libel The summons is returnable June 12, three days after the election.

Dr. Kemp has filed a counter suit for slander and libel.

Meanwhile, Liberal leader Arthur Laing has denied that his party had any connection with Mr. Perdue's charges. He demanded that Premier Bennett issued an apology for Mr. Perdue's accusations.

Final results of Tuesday's balloting may not be known for another three weeks. The controversial alternative voting system, first used in the 1952 election, will again be in effect.

Counting of first choices is expected to be completed election night, but second choices under the preferential system will not be tallied until June 30, to allow for distribution of absentee ballots.

Standing in the 48-seat House at dissolution was: Social Credit 19, CCF 18, Liberal six, Progressive Conservative two, Labor one, and two vacant.

Small Port on L. Athabaska Prepares For Big Season in Uranium Field

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Saskatchewan's only port—Bushell —is preparing for the biggest season in its short history.

The uranium boom in northwestern Saskatchewan is responsible for the rush at Bushell, built beside a rocky ridge in an almost perfect harbor on the shore of Lake Athabaska.

Shipping was scheduled to open in mid-June and for four months tugs and barges are expected to arrive at Bushell's dockside after the run across Lake Athabaska from the end of steel at Waterways, Alta.

An estimated 40,000 tons will be unloaded this summer at Bushell, one-quarter to one-third more cargo tonnage than last year. Many of the uranium field's necessities are flown into the area but the heaviest items and much of the bulky mine goods go by barge.

Active Area

Two thousand men are working in this boom country but by midsummer when the last ice moves off the north lakes, making them more accessible to prospectors, drillers and surveyors, 3,000 to 4,000 should be working throughout the uranium-rich area.

The federal government-owned 25 dorado Mining Corporation has already gone into production. Ore is being produced at a rate of 500 tons a day and the corporation is aiming at 2,000 tons a day.

The Eldorado mill was scheduled to go into production this summer to concentrate the ore for shipment to the outside world.

Several privately-owned mines may be in the production stage this summer.

Another leading property in the area is the Gunnar gold uranium holdings, the talk of the north country.

In sharp contrast are the ultra-modern housing development on the Eldorado property and a mile or so away the shack tents of Indians pitched on rocky hillsides.

Big Installations

Bushell has a 300-foot long warehouse, owned and operated by Northern Transportation Co., a subsidiary of the Eldorado Mining and Refining Corporation. In addition there are tanks for storing diesel oil owned by Eldorado and the large Imperial Oil storage tanks.

Near the wharves are a few houses which were moved from Goldfields, for the most part unoccupied. Goldfields, now almost completely abandoned, was the chief centre of the area while the gold rushes were in swing in the 1930s.

For a period there was some support for retaining Goldfields as the main harbor for the new uranium area. But Bushell offered a more central, accessible route to the main uranium areas and this was the deciding factor.

ORILLIA (CP)—Friends of Donald Lawson, 22, of Longford Mills laughed at him when he reported seeing a pure white groundhog about two miles from Longford. So he went out and shot the albino, using a 30-30 calibre rifle with a telescopic sight to bring down the animal with one shot.

Little Benny's Note Book

In school today Miss Kitty told us about the value of geografity, saying, Geografity isn't just another thing in a book, it's spread over the whole world, but the trubble is, the world isn't really a whole world at all. It's divided into a lot of peeces, many of them fighting each other, but some day we hope it really will be one whole world, and that's why geografity is so important. Now we are going to do something very interesting. We'll have several geografity test, and all those giving wrong answers will be eliminated, and the 2 winners will be awarded prizes. The first prize is this bewtiful book called Poems of the Seasons, and the 2nd prize is this little box of water color paints.

And she asked the questions till everybody was out but me (Jimmie Mayor) and Norman Pen Oh boy, I want to come in 2nd and get the box of paints. Who wants to win a stupy book of poems? I thought, and Miss Kitty said, Now for the deciding questions, Howard, what is the world's largest ocean? she said.

The Gulf of Mexico, Gilmer said, and I thought, Heck, darn that guy, he's saying that just to get the box of paints. Everybody knows it's the Pacific Ocean, I thought, and Miss Kitty said Howard is eliminated and Benny gets a chance at the same question.

Lake Ontario, I said, and Miss Kitty said, I'm very serprized at both of you. This means there will be no ferst prize and under the circumstances I'll have to divide the paints, she said.

Making us both feel partly lucky and proving ignorance is libel to be bliss even if it's not pure ignorance.

U.S. Navy Surgeon Using New Operation to Reduce Amputations by Two-Thirds

BY ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A United States navy surgeon is using a new operation to reduce amputations by two-thirds.

Scores of marines are walking again, using arms and hands normally, who might otherwise be experimenting with artificial limbs.

A severed blood vessel is repaired by sewing a piece of undamaged artery to each end of the damaged blood vessel. These come from "artery banks," stocked from limbs so badly mangled amputation was essential.

Spencer performed more than 80 arterial graft operations with the 1st marine division, recently withdrawn to the rear after 33 months of front-line duty. In more than 65 cases the arm or leg of the wounded man has been saved.

Some sources estimate that one-third of all amputations in the Second World War resulted from inability to repair blood vessels of wounded men at or near the front. Developed In U.S.

In the last four years, Spencer said, the arterial graft program was developed in the United States, largely to save so-called blue babies. Spencer worked under Dr. Alfred Blalock at Johns Hopkins University, a pioneer in blue-baby technique.

"When an artery is wounded, the missile destroys a section of it. What is needed is a tube to reconnect the two ends, to bridge the gap resulting from damage to the blood vessel.

"The arterial grafts are sewed in place with very small stitches so that the connection will be watertight to let the blood pass through. The operation takes from two to four hours."

"Complete recovery is expected in about one month and usually the patient is walking in about three weeks after surgery."

Spencer said the operation has to be performed within six to eight hours after injury to be successful.

"If 10 hours have gone by," he said, "the chances of saving a leg or an arm decrease rapidly, and increasingly so as each hour goes by."

Only Finishing Touches Remain Before Agreement

Fighting to Halt 12 Hours After Armistice Is Signed

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist teams met in the tiny Peace hut at Panmunjom for 12 minutes today amid increasing signs that an armistice may be signed within the week.

Although an Allied spokesman gave no hint of what took place in the hut, the briefness of the meeting indicated only finishing touches remained before a ceasefire agreement is reached.

Lower level officers assembled after the plenary session—possibly to iron out the wording of the document that would call a halt to the three-year war.

The Reds asked the recess in the plenary session and another meeting was set for Wednesday morning.

Review of the cease-fire line to follow the present battle line probably was one matter discussed by representatives of the United States, original line was drawn up in November, 1951.

Guide Monday

The big obstacle was swept aside Monday with the signing of the agreement providing for non-forcible prisoner exchange.

Still, the threat of continued South Korean warfare after a cease-fire agreement worried top Western military officials. There was no indication what would happen if the Republic of Korea armies refuse to acknowledge a truce.

All fighting to halt 12 hours after the armistice is signed. Within 72 hours troops of both sides are to withdraw to create a 2½-mile-wide buffer zone. At the same time, machinery for the release of prisoners of war will be set in motion.

Leader Bitter

South Korean leaders were bitter over the prisoner exchange agreement. They have refused to turn it to the United Nations "fundamental principle of human freedom."

The agreement provides for the release of all prisoners who want it within about 60 days after signing a truce. Reluctant prisoners would remain in custody of a five - country commission for 90 days.

After that period, prisoners still refusing repatriation would be turned over for final action to a political conference, which would try to settle their fate.

Refugees who still balk at returning ho newohold then be free to go civilian life in South Korea unless the chance to go to a neutral state.

Ridgway Warns Western Europe To Keep Up Pace

PARIS (Reuters)—Gen. Matthew Ridgway, supreme Allied commander in Europe, today warned West European countries that any slackening of their defence effort would leave them open to decisive and disastrous defeat.

In a report to the military committee meeting group of the North Atlantic Pact organizatin, Ridgway said he knew of no facts leading to the conclusion that the military danger from the East has lessened.

Soviet bloc forces have been built up in that area, Satellite forces have increased from 1,000,000 at the beginning of 1952 to 1,300,000 now, including 100,000 armed police in Communist East Germany.

Ridgway placed the strength of Soviet forces in Europe at 175,000 at 4,000,000. Russia then had 175 line divisions, 30,000 front-line planes and a large reserve and more than 300 submarines.

In reply, the West had built up a "momentum of incalculable power," Ridgway said, but it must not lose it. Allied forces were still critically weak.

NATO, he reported, lack the necessary number of modern planes and tanks. NATO countries are lagging in development of air warning systems.

Boy Is Found Shot to Death On Mother's Farm

Provincial police, disclosing only few details of their investigation, said the slaying was not a suicide. They said no weapon was found at the scene.

The body was discovered by the victim's mother, Mrs. William Smith, who had lived on the farm five miles north of here for a year since the death of her husband couple years ago.

Mrs. Smith said she heard her son hammering at the racks of a hay wagon outside the barn at 1:30 p.m. She told police she found his body at 3 p.m. when she went out of the farmhouse to bring him a cup of tea.

CAN'T BAR FREES

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The California assembly Monday night completed legislative action on a freedom-of-information bill which prohibits closed meetings of local governmental bodies. The measure required 54 votes for passage in the senate, radio and television stations of any actual meeting. The provision does not apply to state agencies.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Warm air that swept into Southern Ontario yesterday has brought moderate to severe thunderstorms to the neighboring states of Michigan and Ohio a few destructive tornadoes developed but the storms have moved out over night. This violent activity was part of a large storm centre that moved northeastward across North ern Ontario during the night and into Quebec early this morning.

Cooler air possibly eastward across Ontario is replacing the warm air that arrived overnight. By late afternoon today the cooler air will cover the entire province.

Skies will be sunny throughout the province on Wednesday with afternoon temperatures ranging from 75 to 85 in the south and 60 degrees near James Bay.

HOWE HOPEFUL OF BETTER TRADE WITH BRITISH ISLES

'Must Not Assume U.S. Won't Play Fair'

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

LONDON (CP)—Prospects for better trade relations between Canada and Britain were seen today by Trade Minister Howe in an address to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain.

He based his hopes on what he has seen in Britain during the Coronation celebrations for Queen Elizabeth II last week.

"There are, indeed, good reasons for people of Britain to hope that this year, and the years ahead, are a new reign but the opening of a new and promising chapter in their history.

"I am encouraged to hope that this is not just the beginning of a brighter chapter in commercial relations between Canada and Britain, which have been so bedevilled by the dollar problem."

Much Depends on U.S.

"True, he said, much depends upon developments in the United States, but "there's nothing to be gained and a great deal to be lost if a defeatist attitude is adopted towards the dollar problem.

"We must, above all, say that problem is insoluble, that the United States must play the game again according to the rules, I do not know whether she will or will not, but what I do know is that it can not be taken for granted that the protectionists will prevail.

"Americans who believe in trade, not aid or in working hard for what they can get, whole, it seems to me, with some success. . . ."

Trade Must Grow

Britain, he said, is continued efforts to work along with the United States. It would be encouraged to do the right things by suspicion and mistrust."

Howe thought it would be in her own interests for Britain to sign the new international wheat agreement from which so far she has abstained.

Trade Vital

But, he added: "I have no doubt that their attitude will change when to its decision not to join in the new agreement, Canada will continue to sell wheat in the traditional way.

"We are in as favorable a position to supply the United Kingdom as any other exporter and we will meet the competition, from whatever quarter, on its merits.

"At the present time the price for the finest wheat sold outside the wheat agreement is above parity. It may be much lower by level at the opening of the new crop season."

Turning to Howe continued, "we do not wish to charge the United Kingdom more than $2.05. . . ."

Liberal-Progressive Govt. Returned in Manitoba With Same Majority as Last House

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitobans put their Liberal-Progressive government back into office Monday in a provincial election that saw the Social Credit party crushed to its second bid for power in Manitoba in 17 years.

In a contest that was as quiet as the campaign that preceded it, the electors returned Premier Douglas Campbell's administration with virtually the same majority that it enjoyed in the last legislature, adding another term to the party's 30 years of dominance in Manitoba politics.

Perhaps as significant as the government's victory was the defeat of the Social Credit group, which in its pendulum swing from the left in the British Columbia provincial election today and the federal election last June 10.

The Social Creditors first tried to gain power in the 1936 provincial election, but elected only five members, joined in coalition with the Conservatives. They were defeated in 1945, by-passed the 1949 election and then fielded 42 candidates in this contest.

Labor - Liberals Monday's voting showed this party standing with the number of ridings in which parties were split on the ballot.

Liberal-Progressives 34 (8); Progressive-Conservatives 8; CCF 7; Labor 3); Social Credit — (1); independents 3 (3); Labor-Progressive — (1); Communist — (1).

Two to Support Government

Two of the three independents returned have declared their intention of supporting the government.

The Liberal-Progressives won an acclamation in one riding and the Labor-Progressive in another.

The party standing in the 57-member legislature at dissolution April 23 was:

Liberal-Progressives 30; Progressive-Conservatives 8; CCF 7; Social Credit 5; Independent 1; Labor-Progressive 1 vacant 5. Of the 30 Liberal-Progressives elected in the 1949 election, 26 were elected in the Liberal-Progressive Conservatives 11; CCF 7; coalition with the Liberal party. Independent Progressive Conservative 1; Labor-Progressive 1.

Constituencies still in doubt election night and requiring a second count under Manitoba's system of the single transferable vote for rural constituencies included Assiniboia, Dauphin, Gilbert Plains, Fairford, Iberville, Minnedosa and Rockwood.

The vote still was incomplete, but Liberal members were elected in Carillon, Emerson, Ethelbert, Fisher, Gimli, Killarney, St. Andrews, St. Clements, St. Georges, Swan River and The Pas.

Four constituencies in the Winnipeg district, where vote is by proportional representation, returned only four of their quota of 12 members and further counts take place today.

All Ministers Returned

Premier Campbell, 58 - year - old veteran of 30 years in the legislature, and all of his cabinet ministers were returned. Labor - Public Works Minister Morton, received an acclamation in Gladstone riding unopposed.

For Mr. Campbell, who succeeded Premier Stuart Garson, the election was the first test at the polls since 1936. He was returned by acclamation in Souris-Glenwood in 1941; 1945 and 1949.

Errick F. Willis, 51, farmer-politician who became Conservative Progressive Conservatives since the 1930s, also was re-elected in the Fisher riding in 1936. Along with Mr. Campbell, he has been returned unopposed in the last two elections.

The party standing in the 57-member legislature at dissolution April 23 was:

W. J. Tinkler, president of the Manitoba Social Credit League and nominal leader of the Social Credit group, was defeated in Morris constituency by Harry Shewman, independent member of the last legislature.

Storm Causes Little Damage In South Ontario Districts

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Thunderstorms and high winds ripped across Southern Ontario Monday night, causing heavy damage to crops, stock, and cutting hydro wires.

Weather officials reported mild tornados which killed more than 100 persons in eastern Michigan were part of the storm disturbance. They said Ontario might have suffered from the effects of the twister.

One tornado blew itself out over Lake Erie, but struck ashore at several Michigan districts across the St. Clair river from Windsor.

It came about three weeks after a big tornado whirled across the United States Midwest and Canada's devastating blow and caused millions of dollars damage in many southwestern Ontario areas.

Some farmers were hit hard Monday night that a small twister hit a southern section of Point Pelee, a long peninsula which juts into Lake Erie about 40 miles southeast of Windsor. Crops were destroyed by high winds and hail.

Other damage destroyed two barns, 16 pigs and other livestock. Hydro lines were cut by falling trees.

Violent electrical storms swept the province from Windsor to North Bay, and east to Montreal. Windsor and district got the eastbound storm pelleted out over the Maritimes.

Woodstock residents got the jitters when a tornado was reported heading for Embro and Parkhill, east of Sarnia. Telephone communications were knocked out by high winds. However, little other damage was done.

Ottawa got almost an inch of rain, North Bay a half-inch and Toronto more than an inch. At Fort Erie a heavy rain fell, and in the Niagara area power was interrupted.

Weather officials said Ontario may have been spared the effects of the Michigan tornado because it struck late in the evening. It hit Flint, Mich., at 9:40 p. m. EDT.

Official Michigan meteorologic conditions around 10 p. m. usually are not favorable for tornadoes, the U.S. Weather Bureau in the United States twister perfect out before it got to Ontario.

Thousands Surge Through Streets Denouncing UN

SEOUL (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of chanting South Koreans surged through Seoul and other cities today as anti-armistice demonstrations against an impending armistice.

In one group of 1,000 Seoul University students carried banners their fingers and streaked with blood a sign reading "Don't let UN betray Korea."

Some rocks were hurled by one group of more than 100,000 which stormed a barricade of bayonet-wielding U. S. military police and Korean soldiers outside the 8th army headquarters compound here.

Police were placed on the alert ahead of the advancing mob hailed from all Communist areas. The crowd milled around, 50 Reds policemen waded boldly in, shed clubs and shoving. A few minutes later the crowd began breaking up.

Other mobs gathered in the capital as reported injured, but many Koreans in the unruly mob were trampled.

Flint Is Disaster Centre As Twisters Lash Across Sections of Michigan, Ohio

Tragic Scenes As Homes Fall Like Chessmen

By FENTON LUDTKE

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—A devilish, savage tornado whirlpooled the Flint area Monday night, leaving an unofficial toll of 111 dead and 630 injured by its murderous blow.

It was the worst tragedy in the history of the Flint area.

More than 200 homes were crushed into twisted grotesque piles of splinters and confetti of bricks.

Damage was estimated up to $10,000,000.

The angry twister whirled down one path—C-old water road—for seven miles. It struck at 9:40 p. m. EDT one mile north of the Flint city limits.

Refuges at Homes

A suffocating feeling of misery and death filled the air along the path of destruction. Hundreds were walled back to hospitals in downtown Flint.

Some were crying. There was disbelief.

"It's so much worse than anything we saw at Port Huron and Beecher," he said.

He stepped inside a state police car and called Lawrence Farrell, his executive assistant in Lansing.

"Larry, see that the governor's cohorts are notified of the tornadoes in the state and ask him to declare the stricken places disaster areas," he said.

That happened at 9:45 p. m. Monday.

Stricken Faces

The national guard armory and grief stricken faces tell the answer. In long lines, bodies covered in an armory here. One count of dead included 38 children, 34 women, and 29 men.

Tense, tight-lipped relatives walked fearfully among the bodies.

A woman crumpled near a body. She sobbed hysterically. A priest touched her on the shoulder. She looked and found nothing. They walked out together.

Only the name—Coldwater road —remained today.

Upended cars and sagging powerlines and muddy paths and pink flares and thousands of curious and curious awed persons—that was what remained today of Coldwater road.

It had been a road with modest, neat homes filled with lives of auto workers from Flint's busy industrial belt. Now it was a graveyard.

Many fathers and husbands were at work when the twister struck. They hurried home to find nothing.

'Put on Whole Armor of God' Reads Churchill to His Queen

LONDON (CP)—The Queen went to St. Paul's Cathedral in brilliant sunshine today to sit at the feet of the Archbishop of Canterbury and thank God for the crown she received from him a week ago.

The Queen seemed to be a small, lonely figure as she dedicated herself. For much of the service, in which 3,000 persons participated, she was alone. She knelt, face framed by high sitar, under the pulpit, and occasionally she glanced right across an aisle at Churchill, who sat in a reserved pew.

The lesson was read by Churchill. Carefully he climbed the high pulpit steps to the lectern, and then read in a solemn, booming voice from the sixth chapter of the Ephesians:

"Finally, my brethern, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand."

Then in a brief sermon the Archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, looking down on the Queen, told her that at the moment of her Coronation last week the British association of nations was close to becoming the kingdom of God.

Speaking of the young Queen in solemn ceremony, he said, had awakened the widespread appreciation of the power of religion.

"God has set us to maintain and increase among all peoples of the commonwealth a creative partnership of free co-operation, to which all contribute in due proportion," he said.

"This great task demands wisdom, not worldly wisdom but heavenly wisdom has its place as one of the instruments for our use) but the wisdom of Christ, who knows what is in man, and the word of Christ, who knows the way he could go."

Before resuming to speak directly to the Queen, he counselled:

"Above all, peace of God rule in your heart."

Eye-Witness Describes Death, Havoc

By FENTON LUDTKE

FLINT, Mich., (AP)—"It was horrible. It was the most terrible thing I ever saw."

That's the way John J. Turbin of Coldwater road described the tornado that spread death and destruction over his neighborhood.

Turbin and his wife and two relatives escaped unhurt, while neighbors were left in pain and death, their homes leveled by the twisting devilish wind that hit the area about 8:45 p. m. Monday night.

"I don't know why it didn't get us," Turbin, a retired auto worker, said in wonderment.

His son, Carl, whispered, "Thank God, thank God."

Home Is Ruins

Carl and his wife came in search of the Turbins when they heard of the tornado. When they saw the sagging Turbin home, Mrs. Carl Turbin said: "I just knew they were dead."

Instead of finding death, they found life. Turbin, despite his terrifying experience, was out helping neighbors. Even when the son got there.

He said his six-year-old son, Dennis, had just left the elder Turbins' home minutes before the twister struck. They were showing some of Carl's belongings into the barn which was blown away after they left it.

Tree Torn Out

"I looked out the dining room window," Turbin recalled, "and saw an 18-inch-wide maple tree twirled and twisted right out of the ground. There was a terrific noise and I felt something strike the back with awful force.

"A giant hand seemed to push me ahead and I flew through the doorway into the kitchen against the stove. My wife and sister were sitting at the kitchen table. Chris (his brother-in-law, Christ Kanellos) was in the dining room.

"Let's get out of here," Turbin warned them. Then he grabbed a two-by-four that had fallen from the ceiling and began to beat out a path through the debris.

FIREWORKS SAVE LIVES

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—Fireworks which started an $80,000 blaze in the Wilkins hotel Monday night probably saved the lives of scores sleeping guests, fire chief Clarence Johnson says. Johnson said the exploding fireworks woke up 125 guests in plenty of time to avoid injury.

Fear Toll May Be Doubled In Final Count

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Six roaring tornadoes, their black-cloaked heels dealing death and multi-million dollar destruction, ripped their way through parts of Michigan and Ohio Monday night, killing 128 and injuring 750.

The most deadly of the shrieking tornadoes flung full force against Flint, a heavily-industrialized city of 163,000 about 70 miles north of Detroit. In Flint alone at least 102 persons were killed.

Mile-long paths of total ruin were flattened like pancakes. Many mangled bodies were found today in the wreckage of homes.

Struck Michigan

A 5-tornado attack Michigan while the state was still cleaning up the May 21 twister that whirled through the outskirts of Port Huron, Mich., and jumped the St. Clair river into Canada, figured Sunday.

The first tornado Monday night struck Erie, Mich., just over the Michigan-Ohio line from Toledo, at 7:25 p. m. EDT. Another at 9:10 p. m. a twister hedge-hopped Waukesha county, Wisconsin, 20 miles to the north-and-swept into Milford Oakland county, 35 miles to the northwest of Detroit. Then it swung up the eastern coast of Michigan on Lake Huron, was hit at 9:35 p. m. and Flint at 9:45 p. m.

The tornado area confined from Toledo to Erie and across the Ohio-Michigan border to Bowling Green and a path of 200 miles.

Eight persons died in the twister that struck Erie, Mich., and injured six died in the Cleveland area; and one each at Elyria and Ceylon. Property damage, in addition to those at Flint, included four dead at Erie; four dead at Iowas City; one at Ann Arbor; and one in Brown City, near Lapeer.

Eight Died in Twister

Flint hospitals were filled with the injured—many mangled into corridors still stunned by the swift destruction that hit their homes. City officials predicted that the total eventually may be one of the worst disasters suffered by a U. S. city from a tornado.

Some of them said it may double the count reported when the last of the rubble is cleared away. Reckoned in the toll, they had 306 killed in a tornado May 27, 1896. One Flint man was sent through it all said "it was the most terrible thing I ever saw."

The first tornado, which hedgehopped east through Michigan's "thumb" to Lake Huron, dwarfed half-a-dozen others which struck along the entire south-south line from Tawas City, Mich., to Bowling Green, O.

HALF INCH OF RAIN DURING STORM

The Bell Telephone described the effects of the storm as causing nothing out of the ordinary. The firemen had as many night, attending no calls for fires started by lightning and the police department had no report pf damage to homes or buildings in the area.

Charge Made Junior Hockey Was Subsidized

A charge that junior hockey in the city was being "subsidized" by the Belleville Memorial Arena to the detriment of the people of the taxpayer, was heard in the city council Monday afternoon.

Alderman Don Thomas, a member of the arena commission, stated that last winter Belleville's junior hockey organization was guaranteed $5,000 above the 50-50 split of the arena take.

"I am shocked that the commission is subsidizing one hockey club and not another," the alderman's stated. The Belleville arena has been running without cost to the taxpayer, but if this foolishness—continues, the taxpayer will be subsidizing the arena.

The alderman said that last year the junior hockey club was given a 60-40 split of the arena take on junior games. Total gate for junior games was given as $19,930.75 with the juniors' share after referee and U.C.H.A. fees were taken out being $5,913.65 plus $2,000 guarantee allowing the hockey club an extra payment of $2,014.39.

He said the juniors were subsidized to the extent of $2,014.39 without public knowledge.

Alderman Bruce Smith as chairman of the arena commission asked that the matter be brought up at some future meeting, when all the members of the commission were present. He said the agreement referred to was made before he became chairman.

It was suggested that a report be made to council as to whether the junior hockey club was making or losing money as only on this basis could it be determined whether the deal given by the arena commission was sound.

Stores May Switch Half-Holiday From Wednesdays to Saturdays

Some far reaching effects are beginning to be realized in the city since the banks began closing on Saturday. At a special meeting today of the Chamber of Commerce retail section in the chamber offices, a suggestion was put to the representatives of the business groups for finally ending the present half holiday on Wednesday afternoon in Saturday afternoon for retail groups. Wednesday afternoon has been a standard throughout the nation as a half day off among retailers.

Merchants appeared to be in complete agreement at the meeting. However, further surveys must be taken before discussions on this project are resumed next fall, it definitely complain that, with the present arrangement, few customers are appearing in their stores on Saturday afternoon. The presence of staff is also a factor in the proposed move.

If such a change takes place, it is believed Belleville may be the only city in the country to have such a closing. In the United States, Saturday afternoon closing is already in effect in many cities.

Surrey For Santa

Whether or not the city is to have a Santa Claus parade in December may hinge upon the results of a survey, which will be conducted among the retail groups between now and the next meeting of the Chamber, which, on the whole, feel the project would be impractical economically.

Letters are pouring into the chamber in support of the chamber's move to devote a day's standard realized from parking meters to-ward increasing parking space in the city. It was reported more than 150 letters have been received at the chamber.

The proposed retail store closing last during December was agreed upon at the meeting. Until December 17, number hours will be observed till 6:00 p.m. On Friday, Dec. 18, stores will observe the usual evening closing hours. On Saturday, December 19, they will remain open until 9:00 p.m., as will be done also on the 21, 22, and 23. Christmas Eve, stores will close at 6:00 p.m. On Christmas and Boxing Days, they will be closed. Regular hours will be resumed after Christmas.

Dick Burrowes Given Permission To Use Speaker

A call for "fair play" with respect to privileges granted allowing the use of loud speakers for street advertising purposes was heard in city council yesterday following an application by Dick Burrowes for permission to use a speaker to advertise stock cars here.

Mr. Burrowes appeared personally before council asking for the permission and council moved to refer the matter to the traffic committee.

Alderman Duffy claiming this was unfair as it would not allow Mr. Burrowes his request until after another meeting of council. "It would be unfair," the alderman went on. "Last week a local town outfit was used loud speakers for advertising without even approaching council. Mr. Burrowes is the first man to come to council and ask."

The alderman noted the by-law did not permit loud speakers advertising but special permission was sometimes granted on application to council.

Alderman Argue said he had no objection to the application in question but he did object to the policy of breaking a city by-law. "Given it up to the discretion of the police department," he suggested.

"The police have no authority to grant such application," retorted Alderman Duffy. "The permission must be given by council."

Mr. Burrowes' application was referred to the traffic committee, the application for the permission to use loud speaker advertising on Friday night for a three-week period to allow the committee time to investigate.

Ald. Criticizes Some Service Club Personnel

Service club personnel in the city not taking part in local Coronation Day celebrations came in for some sharp criticism from Alderman Angus Duffy at city council yesterday.

As parade chairman for the Coronation celebration, Alderman Duffy expressed his appreciation to all taking part in the parade, particularly 'army personnel, veterans' organizations and Boy Scouts.

Noting that the Kinsmen Club was the only service organization whose members marched in the parade, Alderman Duffy noted that the celebration was a demonstration of loyalty to our Queen. "I am criticizing these service clubs as an alderman," he said.

Sheeping Dipping Day

Plans have been completed for a sheep dipping day at the farm of Messrs. Howard Allen and Son, west of Springbrook, on June 11. The day is being arranged by the local agricultural representatives, in co-operation with the production service of the Canada Department of Agriculture.

The approximate cost to the farmer for dipping and drenching will be 50c and all farmers are urged to consider the importance of this practice of dipping and drenching. Unthrifty sheep will not pay their way and leave the profits that the thrifty and well cared for sheep will.

Breeders are urged to bring their sheep early in the morning so that they will dry out reasonably well before night.

Building Permit Cost to Be Based On Fair Value

Applicants for building permits in the future will have to pay for their permit, according to the number of the proposed building rather than on basis of what the structure may cost the builder. Cost of the permit will be based on a "fair market value" of the job, it was stipulated by the city building inspector.

City officials noted there has been some confusion in the issuing the costs of permits by builders who were doing most of the labor themselves on the basis of actual cost of the materials.

Such builders claimed the permit cost should be based on the actual cost of the materials, cutting costs in some other manner. Such builders claimed the permit cost should be based on the actual cost of the materials, and objected to paying the normal rate.

But city officials feel otherwise and council yesterday approved an amendment to the by-law calling for the cost of permits to be based on the value of the building as estimated by the inspector, having regard to similar values in the city.

"Actually it is only a small amount and those contributing their own work should not object to paying the regular rate," observed one alderman.

E. A. Geen Named Member of Parks Board by Council

Lieut.-Col. E. A. Geen was named member of the Belleville Parks Board by city council, Monday afternoon, the appointment being made to replace Cleo Colling who resigned from the board some weeks ago.

Col. Geen will be the only man named by the nominating committee for the Parks Board position and before the matter of naming the same number of men as there are positions to be filled on municipal boards drew criticism from Alderman Angus Duffy.

"I have every respect for Col. Geen and I am not saying that our nominating committee did not doing a good job, but I think that our municipal boards should be missing the point," the alderman observed.

Alderman Thomas recommended that nominating committees should bring in the names of men whose members are to be named to civic boards, then council could choose and possibly get better men to serve on municipal boards.

"It's just a thought for future consideration," the alderman noted.

Hopes That Queen Revisits Canada

LONDON (CP)—Trade Minister Howe today expressed the hope that the Queen will pay another visit to Canada before long.

Addressing the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, Howe said:

"I believe our young Queen has given a new and deeper meaning to the abstract principles upon which the Commonwealth is founded.

"When Canadians sing the national anthem they no longer think of a monarch living in remote splendor thousands of miles away, but of the charming young woman, who, with her gallant husband, visited Canada so soon before she had to assume the heavy burden of the throne.

"I am sure all of you living will me in hoping that Her Majesty will be able to again visit Canada before very long."

Council Passes By-Law to Lease Right of Way

The saga of the dilapidated boathouse on Belleville's inner harbor, which has created some discussion in city council than many subjects involving large amounts of money, came to an end finally yesterday with passing of the by-law to lease a part of the right-of-way to Frank Weir giving access to his boathouse property.

Mr. Weir has been in and out of council for months. The boathouse, formerly owned by the Department of Transport, had been purchased by Mr. Weir, who expressed the intention of repairing the building which is on crown property.

But he did not want to go to the expense of repairing the boathouse until he was assured by council he would be able to retain the building. To this he had not right-of-way to his property and council agreed to lease him a part of an unused city right of way.

But Alderman Arthur Keegan, as chairman of the property committee, said the boathouse was an eyesore and should be removed as part of a campaign to clean up the waterfront.

Sugrels Buying Boathouse

After several recommendations, amendments and counter amendments, the by-law giving Mr. Weir a lease was passed yesterday by city council, but not before a suggestion was forthcoming from Alderman Argue, who said there was a solution to the boathouse issue. He suggested that the city enter into negotiations with Mr. Weir to buy the boathouse for the city's purposes.

Alderman Keegan had moved for the passing of the by-laws, but Alderman Temple said the rights of the little fellow should be protected. He noted council had refused to giving Mr. Weirs lease and since he has made improvements to the council four times. He observed that the taxpayers were asked to build the type of boathouse which might be acceptable for the area.

Alderman Argue supported Alderman Keegan and claimed that as an insurance policy planning Mr. Keegan was a "one man show."

"I admire him for it," Alderman Bedford said. "And I agree with him that the boathouse is an eyesore."

Rotary President Describes Trip To Paris, Britain

The globe-trotting president of the Rotary Club of Belleville, Lloyd bell, and Mrs. Campbell, returned last week from a trip to Paris, France, where they attended the annual Rotary convention held there last May. Mr. Campbell reported his impressions at Great Britain and France to the weekly club meeting at the Hotel Quinte on Monday.

Tremendously impressed with the courtesy of the French and Parisians, Mr. Campbell concisely described several instances which impressed him and which he also found humorous. Mr. Campbell recalled one situation where, in asking a French girl on the street a certain address, a crowd of 10 to 12 people finally congregated with him in the middle, all attempting to help the girl show how to locate the address, before he was able to get away.

When he arrived in London in the early part of May, he discovered the city was in the throes of preparing for the Coronation. The presidents impression was also impressed with British spirit, which he noted had risen with the advent of the Coronation. The decoration plans seemed to lift the morale of all England," he said.

"Every place we went, people were gay, cleaning and painting their dwellings. The whole country exuded an atmosphere of joy and celebration."

On the Queen Mary, crossing Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were guests at the captain's table throughout the entire trip. The ship's master was the officer who, during the recent strike of English dock workers in N.Y., without the aid of tugs brought the Queens' into dock.

While in London, the club president was fortunate enough to take a number of pictures of Prince, Charles and Princess Anne as they gazed out the window of Buckingham Palace to watch the changing of the guard.

The Campbells also drove through portions of Ireland and Scotland in an Austin they had rented.

Birthday roses were presented to Newton Thompson, Harry Hutchison and William Hunt at Wednesday evening's meeting. The presentations were made by Dr. B. Creegan.

The president received a letter from Will McIntosh of the Virgin Islands, formerly a student at Albert College. The boy won the Rotary plaque at recent convocation ceremonies at the school. The plaque is presented to the student going out of the country who adds the most to the promotion of good international relations.

FLINT IS DISASTER

Ohio—at least 12 persons were killed in storms and tornadoes. Eight were killed in the Cygnet area, two at Cleveland, and one each at Elyria and Ceylon.

Elsewhere in Michigan—four persons were known dead near Erie, just north of the Toledo and the Ohio-Michigan line. At Highland Park, Mich., couple were found dead in their tornado-wrecked car in Ionia county near Tawas City and their two children were missing. One child's death was feared in the county. One man was killed near Ann Arbor, in Washtenaw county, and one in Lapeer county, near Brown City.

No Deaths Reported

Apparently the same tornado which wrought so much destruction here and in Lapeer county also cut a swath through Lambton. This is a Lake Huron village a short distance north of Port Huron, where another tornado hit May 31, moving on to Sarnia, Ont., with a escaped death.

small loss of life but heavy damage.

There were injuries but no deaths reported at Lakeport.

The national guard armory at Flint was converted into a makeshift central morgue. At last count 26 bodies had been brought in. Priests and other clergymen administered last rites.

State police and national guard search crews worked through the night, probing through shattered homes, piles of debris sucked up and dumped by the terrifying twisters, and overturned cars blown into open fields.

The death toll was almost certain to rise.

Up until Monday night there had been 227 persons killed in 128 tornadoes this year. Property damage had been estimated at $146,000,000. Of the death toll, 141 were reported in 15 Texas tornadoes. A destructive series of twisters had swept through Nebraska only Sunday night.

Flint Crippled

The record United States tornado took the lives of 689 persons in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana when it whipped through the three states March 18, 1925.

Flint was crippled. Pleas were radioed out for doctors and nurses. State police hurried blood there from the state health laboratory at Lansing. Calls went out for anti-tetanus drugs.

Maj.-Gen. Lester J. Maitland, Michigan state civil defence director, ordered doctors and medical supplies brought to Flint from Pontiac, Saginaw, Ann Arbor and Detroit. State police and the national guard ordered big crews of rescue workers to the area.

Centre of destruction was Colbert Road, four miles south of Flint. The twister levelled 40 houses in a double row in a residential area for auto factory workers. One family of four was wiped out there.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan came here to direct state agencies in rescue and relief work.

At Detroit, meteorologist W. W. Reed said the number of tornadoes that hit southeastern Michigan was unparalleled in the history of the state. Oak said the tornado paths indicated there were four or possibly five.

One incident in the Erie tornado testified to its tremendous force. A 30-foot truck-trailer was picked up by the wind, transported the highway and dumped on its side into a ditch. The driver was jumped out and miraculously

Great Mockstone from South Hastings Attends Joint Service at St. Paul's Church

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLIN

Rawdon — A great motorcade from Belleville, Junior Methodists, descended on Stirling Sunday evening to honor the third Sunday of St. Paul's Centennial year.

Ministers, officials and members of Bridge Street, Holloway Street, Tabernacle and suburban Belleville gathered in large numbers together with worshippers from Frankford, Stockdale, Warkworth, Campbellford, Wallbridge, Rawdon circuit and nearby points to enjoy this fraternal visit. Soon after 7 p.m. the edifice was completely filled and several stood throughout the service.

Rev. A. E. Baker U.E. pastor of St. Paul's conveyed this delightful idea after he came to Stirling and outlined some of the past history of this district.

The Trail of Methodism

John Wesley, founder of Methodism had many followers and these dynamic Christians were in the vanguard, in one of Carroll's books he relates how Christ's love overcame the hearts of Belleville then-a rising village, named a new circuit comprising the townships of Murray, Sidney, Thurlow, Percy and Rawdon. Israel Chamberlayne was a young preacher and he attempted to "Bridge the Gap" and for Methodism.

By 1826-27 David Breckenridge Jr., Minister of Belleville circuit, formed several societies. Their membership was small in Belleville under the leadership of Rev. John Ryerson assisted by Rev. Samuel Waldron. An excerpt from Carroll's book reads as follows, "The fourth, fifth and seventh concessions of Sidney, also Thurlow, Rawdon and places farther off experienced the benefits from the outskirts of this rain of righteousness. The result of this revival was that John Ryerson was stationed as second minister on Belleville circuit.

Described Missionary Work

In 1828 John Carroll tells of his missionary work in Rawdon, Marmora, and Madoc. In the absence of more definite records it is thought that Methodism first began in Stirling in 1828 at least as far as organized work began and services were held in school houses and homes. In 1833 the first Wesleyan Methodist Church was erected and in 1858 the first Methodist Episcopal Church in Stirling and today 100 years later we have St. Paul's United Church.

Records show that in 1817 Rev. Israel Chamberlayne of Meyer's Creek, (Belleville), visited Stirling. Such a pappy association has always existed, this was the first mass meeting of the Belleville churches and it proved to be a huge success with hundreds in attendance.

The musicians were Mr. S. Alec Gordon and Mr. Clifford Templer who gave a piano and organ prelude. The massed choir from the Belleville United Churches numbering over 50 voices overwhelmed the choir-loft. They rendered two anthem "Gloria In Excelsis", and "Now the Day Is Over". In this number Mrs. Mary White, Holloway Street, took the solo part.

Mr. Harold McNish, organist of Tabernacle United Church, rendered a vocal solo, "The Voice of Him Crying In the Wilderness".

The pastors, Rev. S. E. Laman, Rev. Duncan McTavish, Rev. Raymond A. Rowley, Mr. Bruce Besley, lay supply, and Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E. Pastor, filled their places and the processional hymn was "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name". This was sung with fervor in the old Methodist style and tune and the very rafters reverberated with the flow of song.

First Conference in 1828

Rev. Rowley read the Bible lesson found in the third chapter of Exodus. Rev. McTavish delivered the offering which was gathered in historic long-handled collection bags. These were loaned to St. Paul's from Switzerville, where they were first used in 1825. Early records show that the first conference of Upper Canada Methodism was held in 1828 in that district. St. Paul's has two collection bags copied from the originals and they were also used.

The minister spoke briefly regarding "The Centennial Year Book" and presented a copy to the Belleville ministers.

Everyone was asked to pray for the success of the Hunter Mission, which begins next Sunday evening, lasting for a full week.

Presentation Made

At this point in the service Mrs. Baker quilted the tremendous amount of work done by Mrs. Robert Patterson in compiling the "Who's Who," of St. Paul's congregation. She also told the lovely story of "The Patterson Cross from the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia." Here Mr. Baker made the presentation to Mr. A. Patterson for his wife and Mr. Patterson graciously extended thanks. Mr. Baker widened the Patterson family of Bob, Jack and son Thomas, a happy holiday on their western trip.

Rev. Duncan McTavish, Bridge St., Belleville, expressed greetings and congratulations from the church. His theme was "The Place Where Thou Stood-eth." His message was based on "The Church Yesterday," and he took his audience back to the days when Moses was watching his father-in-law's flocks and everybody in Israel was displeased. He said there is no future for those people who live in the past lightly, as individuals must be proud of their heritage.

However, 100 years ago there were people in the churches who found fault, who did not like the preacher, who did all the work and left all the responsibility for others, or who just looked on and did nothing themselves. In 1953 the same, folk are in our churches. The speaker gave gracious invitation of Jesus to discipleship in the 18th. century. Bad morals, those who stole money from charity, especially one man who appropriated a large sum and built a stable for his private racing horses, also hundreds of children died of cholera in 1811-14 in the world is still bad in places today, still the church battles against forceful improvements during the century.

But in this very hour, where you live, each individual must remember that he is standing on Holy Ground. He himself must keep it holy. The church is not to where his forefathers stood in early days of pioneering but where his forefathers stood in their staunch principles for right living. Nor can he forge ahead to where his great grandchildren will stand. Life is on the march and the Battle of Righteousness goes on. We must learn to live daily on Holy Ground made sacred by the pioneers who have gone on before.

Rev. S. Laman, pastor of Holloway St. Church, brought greetings and congratulations to St. Paul's and Mr. Baker he spoke on the theme "The Church Yesterday." He stressed that individuals should come to church in worship. Almighty God and primarily Jesus Christ, the voice of God and let Him speak to individual's heart. He deplored the trend of today when folks clamor for short sermons on Sunday but are willing to attend clubs and sit in uncomfortable places and listen to long wrangled meetings who talk on and on, from one-half hour and one hour in length. Mr. Laman read Psalm 23, Revelation and Exodus and journeyed on to the days when men were men, from then on to Martin Luther and John Wesley. He challenged the said in each era there has been a conflict between ideas and ideals.

Our forefathers were staunch churchmen and they believed in the Old Time Religion. Today the folk are writing another chapter in church history and we are told "Christ's work was just a beginning. Anniversaries should be times of spiritual inventory and we should complete the challenge of the Christ to go to do the kindly deeds today and to provide funds to teach others of God's love.

The Church Tomorrow

Rev. A. E. Baker, Tabernacle church, voiced greetings on behalf of his people and his message was based on the theme "The Church Tomorrow." He said speaking in terms of the future of the church he felt the past, today and tomorrow were all tied together. The pioneers who have gone on before laid the religious foundations of this district and while the Christian church will always have its problems, still it is the organization that is both human and divine.

The church of the future is the one organization that will be the United Ideals of Christian civilization. The Christian church is always in the forefront. It started hospital work, it pioneered in education and still aims to promote all the high ideals of Jesus.

The future church must continue to speak loudly against the evils of the day and its members must remember that hymn, "With His Own Blood He Bought Her." Remember the church must promote better ideals and be prepared to "Go into the world and proclaim the gospel to every creature." There must be a greater missionary zeal for home, foreign and the Church of Christ must overcome race prejudice and must also work together for world freedom.

Individual church members must now should honor "The House God Made with the Hands of Today and Yesterday" and be prepared to promote growth everywhere. The pastor closed with a verse of the old familiar hymn, "The Church's One Foundation," Mrs. Grace Bowery, Ashley Belleville student supply, extended greetings after which Rev. S. E. Laman pronounced the benediction.

A fellowship hour followed in the church dining hall when members of St. Paul's W.A. served light refreshments for over 300 people and visitors and friends enjoyed a delightful hour before departing or returning to the city. It was a memorable occasion that will long be remembered by those privileged to attend.

RAWDON

Mrs. Roy Bush Gives Talk On 'Coronation Significance'

Rawdon — On Monday afternoon, the mothers of the school pupils and their immediate members gathered at River Valley public school on the Frankford Road in Sidney township.

The teacher, Mrs. Reginald Coombes and pupils had nicely decorated the school room with pictures of royalty, an empire, scrap books, flags, flowers and various emblems of royalty.

The teacher made the presentation to each pupil of the Coronation medals, provided by the Government of Canada for Canada. She also exhibited a set of alides showing many royal buildings in London, England, and scenes of the royal family."

Origin of Flag

Mrs. Gilbert Finkle gave a talk on "The Origin and Value of the Flag." She said everyone thought that in future years the young people would appreciate and value the Union Jack more than ever as there would be more travel to other countries, now and always.

Mrs. Ed. Heasman, president R.V.W.I., unveiled and presented a nylon flag to the River Valley public school on behalf of the club also presented a Coronation cup and saucer to each child and one Coronation plate to the teacher as a memento of "The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II."

The pupils of the school sang three patriotic numbers.

The address of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Roy Bush, and based her theme on "The significance of the Coronation."

She compared the privileges of school children in Canada with those of the children of other countries. Every word and action has a meaning and in its origins and structures the ritual goes back to the very beginning of national feeling and individuality. This mystic and solemn service of the 1953 Coronation depicts over 1000 years of history.

During the service the young Queen promises to govern her peoples wisely and well, according to their laws and customs. Mrs. Bush explained to the children how they and each Canadian citizen can pledge their allegiance to their Queen, their lawmakers. Children can be loyal to their school, to their teacher, to their church, to their homes and parents and, lastly, to the organizations that they are members of, such as Cubs, Brownies, and Girl Guides.

Past History

The speaker gave them a glimpse of past history and reviewed the scene during World War 1 when Richard Church, a former pupil of River Valley public school, was in England serving as Lieutenant with the British Grenadiers.

Her last address involved several officers to attend a luncheon at Buckingham Palace, and Richard ('Dick' to his friends) was present at Elizabeth's right as her escort. This was surely a signal honor for R. V. school, and indicates what they have developed in future as these boys and girls of today become men and women of tomorrow.

The former closed with the thought that the moderator of Scotland had presented Her Majesty with a Bible, signifying the need of religion in everyone's life, whether it be royalty or commoner.

Use Gas to Make Industrial Glues

By ALEX DIMEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Two plants of interest to the Canadian homemaker now are included in the sprawling row of refineries in suburban Montreal East.

The recently-opened petrochemical plants along waterfront Notre Dame street are producing phenol and acetone.

Phenol is used in the manufacture of synethics, adhesive glues and plastics which go into telephones, refrigerators, radio cabinets and other furniture and wood veneers, detergents and lubricating oils.

Acetone is the base of nail polish remover, and is used widely in synthetic fabrics, lacquers, synthetic rubber, plastics and paint removers.

In the past Canada spent about $2,000,000 annually for phenol. The only large production of phenolic was at Shawinigan Falls, Que., from calcium carbide, which now can be diverted to other uses. The plant is owned by the Shell Oil Company and the other by the British American Oil Company and Shawinigan Chemicals Limited.

The plants produce their phenol from what, as late as the 1920s, was waste; light hydrocarbon gas, released in the refining of petroleum. Now, with natural gas, these gases provide the raw material for the petro chemical industry.

INSECT WORLD DECLARES WAR

If it were true that misery loves company, the Bay of Quinte district would be quite comfortable with its latest guests, the hordes of caterpillars which are infesting poplar, birch and even oak trees. For Belleville and district have not been singled out for any isolated raid by the insect armies.

Rather, reports from the battlefronts indicate, this area is just one minor sector of a full-scale major offensive. From the Atlantic coast to the plains of the midwest, in Canada and in the United States, tent caterpillars and army worms are on the march.

The army worms in their millions are ravaging crops in Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Louisiana and Tennessee. Damage already has run into millions.

Tent caterpillars that mainly attack the foliage of trees and shrubs are gnawing in force in New Jersey, New York, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Washington, Georgia, Maine and Quebec.

In places of heavy infestation it is possible actually to hear them chewing the tender leaf material from the stems. Sidewalks have to be sprinkled with them, and they are to be seen and heard, dropping like rain from denuded trees or lowering themselves by their gossamer threads in search of more thickly leafed branches.

They even cross streams, and often on a lake beside an affected area, almost solid, large patches of them are to be found on the water going somewhere. They seem to prefer poplar, but will also strip white birch and other trees. Too frequent stripping by these caterpillars may work serious harm to the trees so affected.

To round out the picture gypsy moths in Massachusetts are threatening to strip trees of their foliage across 25,000 acres; grape steely beetles are attacking vineyards in sections of York, Ont., and black flies and mosquitoes are stalking the traveller of the Canadian forestland. This indeed looks like organization. At least the explanation seems as good as the one that the plague is due to freakish weather.

CANDIDATE FOR THE LUCKIEST MAN IN THE WORLD

Noticed a story the other day about a guy from Ottawa who got lost in the bush and lived to tell about it. Papers called him below the luckiest guy in the world. Don't you believe it.

Luckiest guy in the world is a tall, blonde linotype operator in Belleville. The name that goes with it is a big grin is Jimmie Abbotts.

Back about 1944 Jimmie had a slight disagreement with a Messerschmitt and when his Spitfire showed signs of a yen to leave him piece by piece Jimmie decided he had better be the one who would do the leave-taking. So he said good-bye to his Spit, jumped and pulled the rip-cord. First thing he felt a leg on his shoulder. The Spitfire was still with him. Wouldn't go away. In fact it was holding onto his parachute for dear life — and it looked like it was going to be Jimmie's life.

Necessity is the mother of invention and unable to arrange a parting of the ways with his Spitfire, Jimmie discovered a new way to ride it. In some manner he clambered up on its tail.

And that is the way that the Spitfire made a perfect three-point landing in the Lowlands. Now who is the luckiest man in the world?

A REMINDER

Spartan courage is legendary. It is founded on the school text which described the Spartan lad. He had stolen a fox and concealed it in his shirt-waist. Being found out and he silently denied having had any connection with the incident.

At that time the fox was seeking some means of escape and, according to the story, began to eat his way out. While it was doing so the youngster thought the entrails of our young Spartan, he was denying that he had ever seep the missing fox.

We were reminded of this Friday when we saw a man walking on Front Street with a small fox cub nestled in his windbreaker. We doubt that he had stolen it.

CHINA'S OLDEST ENEMIES

Hong Kong reports as many as 50,000 may have died of starvation in the flood-stricken province of Kwantung in China.

Here is a tragic reminder of the continued presence of China's most implacable enemies—floods and hunger.

They will remain after the passing years have freed that vast land of its present scourge, the Red tyranny. But today science is at last offering the Chinese a hope for eventual victory over these two age-old foes. What a pity that the Chinese must waste precious years fighting a man-made horror, instead of being able to bend all their energies toward the final elimination of ancient terrors!

JUST FOLKS

BOYS AND BASEBALL

Though I know the baseball's better where the experts play for pay,
And the finer exhibitions are finest on display,
Still, for thrills and real excitement give me baseball
Give me the way they play it on somebody's empty lot.
Give me that out-curve pitcher, much too serious to grin,
And every other player giving all he has to win.

Those games aren't played for money, they are played for victory's sake.
And the lad that is there pitching isn't thinking of a date
Or did he tell his mother that for supper he'd be late.
He's out there suffering heartache as the rival runs come in.
He has only one idea: He is out there just to win.

You never hear the youngster on the corner playing ball
Ever voice the grown-up notion that "You cannot win them all."
That's philosophy of men folk for the failure of a man.
But the glory of the youngsters is to try and believe they can.
And I think that while I watch them and I listen to their din,

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DON'T BE A DOUBTER

Doubting Thomas is a very inspiring brood—but perhaps they serve their end. For when a fact is set and a certain thing cannot be done it spurs him on, puts fight and renewed confidence in the doer. He usually does the thing people told him couldn't be done.

Over a hundred years ago British persistence and American vision finally produced the steam Randolph, a ship made of iron, and propelled by steam. The boiler plates were fabricated by John Laird, of Birkenhead, England, and brought to the United States in a wooden vessel. The ship was 210 feet long, had a beam of 35 feet and a depth in her hold of nine to ten feet. Her bottom and sides were rolled boiler plate a quarter of an inch in thickness.

The John Randolph was built for us on the Savannah River between Augusta and Savannah. Ga. The boat was built for Cazaway B. Lamar, a Georgia banker and cotton merchant. Young Laird was convinced that an iron ship would float and so built a ship which went to Ireland. The order for the John Randolph, therefore, became his second order.

Today we know that the iron ships have revolutionized methods of water transportation. In a single day, tons of naval vessels move through the Panama Canal with ease. Just a short time before ships like Laird and Lamar who are forging ahead and who have the courage to pay no attention to doubters!

It seems no good end to be a doubter. Who a few years ago would have believed the human voice could have traveled around the earth in about a moment of time—without a single wire to guide it upon its journey? And now we have TV!

Gopher Bounty

Reston, Man. Recorder

Forty years ago Pipestone municipality had paid out some $540 in bounty on gopher tails, which eliminated some 18,000 gophers from the municipality.

Nowadays about the only source of this money for the younger generation (without tapping the pocket-book of their parents) is gathering bottles, which many of them do. Somehow we don't think this pursuit is quite as beautiful as that of trapping gophers.

Nowadays gophers are not very plentiful, and it wouldn't pay to offer cash to pay for tails, even at five cents each. It might be good business to again pay a bounty—and have the children trapping gophers instead of gathering beer bottles.

Original Names

(Moose Jaw Times-Herald)

Saskatchewan has perhaps the most unique and originally named weekly newspaper — "the Moon"—and a large number of Suns, Comets, Stars, Mirrors, Mercurys and Globes, and quite naturally, in such a list there would be "the Light", "the Pathfinder", and several "Signals". The effect upon the community where "the Rippler" was published is not revealed, and what caused "the Sweet Pea" to fade is not disclosed but there can be no uncertainty of the intention of "the Redeemer's Voice", "the Forum", "the Klansman", "the Voice of the People" and "the Weekly Leader".

Soft Side Of Britons

Peterborough Examiner

We've been looking through the Coronation number of Punch and it's more so, as that publication often does, to some reflections on the character and good sense of Britain. That they are a great people is beyond doubt; they are courageous, ingenious and high-spirited. Their skill in matters of trade and industry is borne out by endorsement from us: Canada has felt the pinch of many a shortened British gaspain. They are a tough people; they can endure hardship with fortitude, and have done so because of all these rugged characteristics, it always surprises us when we come upon the soft side of the British—a quality which often attracts its appearance in Punch.

The sentiment about the Queen's youth frequently slips across the border into sentimentality; the sentiment about the Edinburgh and their children, as conceived by the artists of Punch, are of an almost cloying overtone. But it expresses about them are of a yearning softness. At first encounter such expressions of loyalty be said to come oddly from the rugged Island Race. But as we consider the matter, we think it can be explained.

The British are sure of themselves, and people who are sure of themselves are sure their feelings more completely than those who are always under the necessity of hiding appearances. A very strong-man, who has made his way with his fists, can afford to talk a little bit sentimentally about his roses; the weedy man, who has to be sure what people will think of him, dare not show his tenderness for fear it may be mistaken for weakness. Punch and the British, on a large body of British people, can afford to be sentimental; the people who stood behind the Rock of Gibraltar and spoke per need not care if their eyes fill with tears when the Queen is crowned. Strength and insensibility are not synonymous terms.

Why Every Vote Counts

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal.)

On the basis of the unofficial count, Hants East elected a Progressive Conservative by a majority of a single vote over his Liberal opponent, 2,280 to 2,324. (Neighboring Hants West had a similar one-vote victory favoring a Liberal, in the 1949 election.)

In Pictou West, only five votes separated the Liberal and Labor-Progressive candidates, 2,620 to 2,625.

Tallying up the returns, the defeated PC's could ruefully figure that if every one of their supporters through Pictou West, Pictou East, Shelburne, Digby and Antigonish would have swung these constituencies to Conservatism and won the provincial election.

Just as easily, the triumphant Liberals could figure that a few hundred more votes for their candidates in the right places could have wiped out Progressive Conservative gains and made it a landslide victory.

Throttle Back

(Winnipeg Free Press)

It may be a good omen for the generation now entering its twenties to accept trans-Atlantic flights as a matter of course experiences and nothing to get excited about. Already there are millions of men and women—and they are by no means decrepit—who remember as memorable as Alcock and Brown, and who still think in the fashion of the days of the Graf Zeppelin.

To these veterans of a more leisurely era, feats such as that performed by Wing Commander Roy Dutton, who flew the Atlantic verge upon the fantastic. By shrinking time by his 50-to-1 jet transport plane he was able to "take his speed down to 600 miles an hour. At this presumably cautious speed he and his young colleagues completed a "quite uneventful" flight from London to Ottawa in 7½ flying hours.

But however "uneventful" the trip may have seemed it was nevertheless quite the historical event; no transport plane in history had ever made the Atlantic crossing.

The new plane is a jet Comet and it carried a message from Sir Geoffrey de Havilland, whose company built it, congratulating Canada for maintaining her position in the pageant of aviation.

The people of Manitoba might be forgiven if they feel a particular and paternal pride in the fact that two of their sons, Wing Commar "n" Morrison of Winnipeg and Flight Lieutenant C. Brown of Minnedosa, took part in this record-breaking crossing. And this people of this province will with pride all the members of the Commonwealth a feeling that they, too, have a part in the fulness that the men who created the Comet, screaming jet are British men.

Britons See U.S. Flags

(Ottawa Journal)

Of the myriad flags that are flying in London there are none more difficult to identify than those displayed at the American Embassy in Grosvenor Square.

On show are the official flags of the 48 states of the United States and six territorial banners in honor of the Coronation. The 54 are hung in twelve clusters and fly on either side of the large flag of the American Stars and Stripes. They will be displayed until the end of June. No, even Americans can name them all and so the Embassy has put out diagrams listing the flags in their proper order. They are arranged from Alabama to Wyoming.

The dazzling gold of New Mexico and the grass green of Washington State are unmistakable. But even to the trained initiated the dark blue and gold of Pennsylvania might easily be mistaken for that of Vermont, or the bright sky blue of Oklahoma for the rival blues of Nevada or South Dakota.

The territorial flags are those of Hawaii, Alaska, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Panama Canal Zone.

Witch Doctor Has Charms

(La Voz de Espana, San Sebastian)

At Abijan, in French West Africa, there is a daily air service to points east and west. And when the plane is about to take off, a witch doctor attends it and sprays it with a white near-by bush country, in full regalia of necklaces, amulets, bracelets, earrings, nose rings and ankle rings. While the mechanics busy themselves with the motors, the local witch doctor goes into a fervent dance around the plane, and utters weird yells casting an incantation on the whole of steel.

When the plane takes off, the witch doctor will be seen completely satisfied with his work, returns to his hut, and waits for the next plane day at the same hour. But one day he did not show up at the usual hour.

"How strange," one pilot remarked. "I haven't seen a witch today." When the passengers had taken their seats and fastened their safety belts, the pilot tried to start the motors, but without success. He tried over and over again. The plane simply would not move. Then the witch doctor's assistant passenger was heard:

"What are we waiting for? Why doesn't someone one go and fetch the witch doctor!"

Rural Dark Lights Up

(Sudbury Star)

Canada's banner province will add 28,456 new customers to the hydro family this year, according to Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

In the past seven years more rural customers have been added to the list than in the previous 34 years of rural electrification. In 1945, for example, hydro was serving 138,000 rural customers. Now the number of rural customers stands at 348,000.

Saskatchewan has boasted of its rural electrification progress under the Socialist C.C.F. Government, but it is serving only 11 percent of its rural people as against 70 per cent in Ontario, where private enterprise has been responsible for the electrical power.

In Ontario, the rural electrification program is estimated to serve more than 80 percent of the farm-operated homes. In the Toronto area alone, rural customers are increasing at the rate of more than 1,000 each year.

A Wealthy Union

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

A concern with $160,000,000 of assets is entitled to rank as big business.

The International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL-CIO, now in that category. It reports the above mentioned sum in its general and special funds.

The union has $122,000,000 invested in United States Government bonds, contributed over five millions to philanthropic and labor causes in the last three years, and is in a prosperous condition.

Job for Father

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

A firm manufacturing power lawn mowers advertises that its machine is so easy to operate that everyone in the family wants to enjoy the pleasure of cutting grass. We'll go along with that idea, but suggest that someone that is before the novelty wears off. Which of course is long before the job is completed.

Then whom will you find running that mower, nervous with novelty. You guessed it—Father!

DON'T JUST LIE THERE

DR. BRADY

Of late, I find, the propaganda of the ever-ready operators is getting bolder and bolder against the injection treatment of varicose veins. This wicked propaganda grows bolder because unscrupulous physicians employ the injection method with indifferent satisfaction to their patients and themselves are too modest or too timid to combat it.

The old timers reject self-confidence as "no good" or "dangerous" or "tried and found wanting" or only the modern ambulant treatment of varicose veins, but also the ambulant (injection) treatment of hemorrhoids or hernia. As the testimony of hundreds of readers convinces me, the old timers are wrong if they honestly believe ambulant treatment for any of these common disabilities is "no good."

Ambulant means that the patient keeps walking — keeps at his or her ordinary work or duties while under treatment and does not spend days, weeks or months in a hospital bed. Hospital patients out of bed and active, rather than lying in state, is the aim of medicine, modern surgery and obstetrics today. No matter whether you have had an operation, a baby or a bout of kidney trouble, a medical doctor knows you will get along better if you are early up than you will if you just lie there waiting for something to happen.

Of course the old fogies will cling to the old methods as long as you credulous customers are willing to pay for antiquated service.

Thank you for your talks about the injection treatment of varicose veins" (writes Mrs. R. H.) "and how about sclerotherapy" (please, please, say injections) "obliterating so many large, lumpy, painful places in the valves of my legs. The doctor said it was lucky I came before the lumps broke down into ulcers. Several women I know had ulcers, which were cured by the injection treatment. It surely added years of enjoyment to my life. Finally the doctor dismissed me with instructions to report to him in six months for examination. I did so, and found further trouble. Then I became pregnant for the seventh time. I wondered whether the veins would again become enlarged, but I am happy to report that they didn't, and I continued doing all my housework, including washing and work for my large family right up until 8 hours before my baby was born. Since the baby's birth the veins have given me no trouble whatever. I expect I will have when I am on my feet too long—but this is natural. I elevate them for a few minutes, as you advise in your pamphlet. It is astonishing how many sufferers do not know about the injection treatment.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The ladies, God bless them, have a philosophic process of their own that materialists are often unwilling to. We used to get a pound in every week lovely greasy cooking margarine of sheer melting delight, dusted with the finest pulverized sugar, and we thought it great. Then came Turkish Delight now, but not often: and it was good, too,too—very good indeed. Vulcanized, kind of. You have to be careful, because the first time, your teeth bounce off it. But once Turkish Delight was so tender, you bored in, and it got the best out of a feather.

We gazed into space for a moment.

"No," she said, resolutely, "I'm glad I am not going 'round, I'd have the feeling so many things will be changed, for gone, All kinds of new things, of course. But not the same as I remember them. You don't have to know about everything. You can tell by the look on your face. Like Turkish Delight. It's just that nobody cares both apart if you bite one."

"And Turkish Delight!" I checked.

"We used to have a dish of it on the table all the time," said my wife. "Mother always had some. We used to get a pound in every week lovely greasy cooking margarine of sheer melting delight, dusted with the finest pulverized sugar. We thought it great. Then came Turkish Delight now, but not often: and it was good, too,too—very good indeed. Vulcanized, kind of. You have to be careful, because the first time, your teeth bounce off it. But once Turkish Delight was so tender, you bored in, and it got the best out of a feather."

You don't have to know about everything. You can tell by the look on your face. Like Turkish Delight. It's just that nobody cares both apart if you bite one."

"And Turkish Delight!" I checked.

Odd syntax, but basic.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

MISSIONARY ON WHEELS

A statement published in a theological seminary bulletin caught my attention. It was made by a boy who was telling how he had decided to study for the ministry.

He had attended a tent revival meeting in Oklahoma as a lawyer, became mixed up in the oil business, and then in a big construction project; he was making a great deal of money, and then when they were all set to pour concrete, a truck driver backed into the forms and ruined them. The young man lugged out a profane vocabulary and turned it loose on the driver. Instead of getting a similar tongue lashing in return, the truck driver apologized and and said he would fix the forms on his own time. Surprised, the boy said, "you have just used in an unholy way the name of a Friend who's very dear to me. And I want to tell you that you are missing a lot out of life."

Here is the rest of the student's story: "I was to say the least, confused. It was more than a bit resentful of that man, with his limited education, who had upset me with my own reaction to those . . . Shortly after that a lot of things happened to get the best out of me. Then I gave my life to God for whatever use He wanted to make of it. And one result is my starting out at the Seminary to become a missionary on foot—converted by a truck driver."

End of Carpetbagging

(Vancouver Province)

John Diefenbaker, whose constituency, Lake Centre, disappeared in the redistribution, has been nominated for Prince Albert, a seat long held by that practiced carpetbagger, W. J. Mackenzie King. Prince Albert is Mr. Diefenbaker's home town. For him, there is a promise that carpetbagging days are over.

Member Against Selecting Place For Executions

TORONTO (CP)—The province of Colombia has no right to name the community as the provincial reserve for executions, Dr. H. F. Lawrie (PC—Waterloo North) said Monday at a meeting of the legislature's select committee studying reform institutions.

Chairman William Stewart (PC—Parkdale) said the committee has been asked to select some isolated place where persons waiting to be hanged can be kept.

"If they are kept in existing jails they disturb the morale of the other prisoners and upset the residents of the district," he said.

The committee decided to do nothing until a sub-committee confers with the chief justice of the province.

Mr. Stewart said segregation of condemned prisoners in a central point would remove any deterring influence their execution would have on society.

Dr. Lawrie said: "The best way to handle it would be to abolish hanging by hanging."

CCF leader W. J. Grummett urged that there should be a central point for executions, but that no date should be announced, "just the week."

Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver said there is a need a new type of institution to take care of persons awaiting certification as insane.

Calls on Govt. To Recognize Chinese Regime

TORONTO (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, Monday night called on Canada to recognize the Chinese Communist government.

Speaking at a York South nominating convention, he referred to a statement he gave the press earlier in which he said Canada must persuade the United States to "take a more realistic attitude" towards admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

"Recognition of a government does not mean approval of a government," he said.

8 Awards Made To Canadian Seamen in Korea

OTTAWA (CP)—The skipper of the train-boarding champion of the UN navies headed a list of eight awards announced Monday to Canadian seamen for their deeds in the Korean war.

The Distinguished Service Cross went to Lt.-Cmdr. John Bovey, 36, of Montreal and Victoria, commander of the destroyer Crusader which has run up a better record than any other UN ship in molesting Communist trains.

Crusader's record is 4½ trains wrecked, three of them since May.

The DSC was also awarded to Lieut. Douglas C. Tuttle, 24, of Saskatoon, for his "inspiring" leadership in gunnery aboard the destroyer Iroquois.

The Distinguished Service Medal, lower-deck equivalent of the DSC, went to P/O. G. E. Jamieson, 28, of Ottawa, another Iroquois gunnery expert, in particular he was cited for his courage on Oct. 2, 1952, when a shell killed several of his men but did not prevent him from rallying the survivors and keeping the guns blazing.

Mentions in dispatches were awarded to five others, including the late Lt.-Cmdr. John L. Quinn of Prince Rupert, B.C., and Moose Jaw, Sask. He was killed on that Oct. 2 shelling.

Other mentions in dispatches:

Capt. William M. Landymore, 36, of Brantford and Ottawa, commanding officer of the Iroquois which he currently is leading off to Korea for another round of duty. In the first tour, he "led his ship many times into action, displaying much resource and devotion to duty."

CPO. Richard Williams, 33, of Victoria, for "displaying exceptional persistence in maintenance and repair of the gunnery fire control system" aboard the Crusader.

PO. J. E. B. Fortin, 28, of St. Aubert, Que., who was wounded himself when the Iroquois was shelled but kept on administering first aid to others.

AB. James G. Stewart, 25, of Melville, Sask., "for displaying exceptional initiative and ability in the performance of his duties" aboard Crusader.

Vulgar Advertising During Coronation Ceremony Stirs British Criticism

LONDON (AP)—A new transatlantic furor howled today over the commercials with which some U.S. networks punctuated British radio and television coverage of the Coronation. Critics got particularly hot about a chimpanzee that shared billing with the monarch.

British newspapers reported that one station "introduced a chimpanzee into advertising purposes during the showing of the abbey service" and that "another cut in to publicize a deodorant just before the Queen received her bride."

Across the Atlantic, television critic Jack Gould of the New York Times wrote that the "impeccable coverage" of the ceremony by the BBC "even survived the tasteless embellishments and outrageous behavior of some of the American networks."

The BBC asked its New York office for a full report on the commercials.

The non-commercial British network furnished its teleflims to the U.S. networks free, as a public service. Hugh Carleton Greene, assistant controller of the BBC overseas service, said the Americans agreed the ceremony in the abbey should be "free of commercials of any kind" and that sponsorship of the films would be "in a dignified way."

The advertisement of . . . products . . .

"I don't know yet to what ex... the agreement was broken and ... don't know what action, if any, we shall be able to take," Green said, "but if the evidence is black, we shall at least be able to tell the Americans what we think."

Gould's criticism was quoted approvingly by several papers. The Daily Telegraph's New York correspondent wrote: "If there was one criticism of American television coverage of the Coronation, it was that advertisers spoiled it by indulging in excessive and vulgar advertising."

Presbyterians Unable to Agree On Praise Book

TORONTO (CP)—The Presbyterian Church in Canada has withdrawn from a project with the United States PresbyterianChurch to produce a book of praise for use in North American Presbyterian churches.

A special committee reported the withdrawal Monday at the annual meeting of the Canadian general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, because U.S. church leaders would not agree to the Canadians' wishes to have a separate section for metrical psalms.

Province Able to Lend Helping Hand

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Secretary Welsh said Monday night that rwealex revenues resulting from the general increase in Ontario's prosperity have enabled the province to lend a helping hand to municipalities without imposing new taxes.

In an address over a provincial network of the CBC in the concluding series of free-time political broadcasts on provincial affairs, Mr. Welsh said Ontario now is paying more than $50,000,000 a year in education grants, compared to $8,000,000 in the early 1940s.

Grants to municipalities for road construction and maintenance have been boosted from $3,000,000 a year to $28,500,000 in 1952, he said.

"Today, the government is distributing grants of about $130,000,000 a year to municipal governments," he said.

SWEDISH UNIONS

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Membership in the Federation of Swedish Trade Unions increased by about 28,000 in 1952 to a total of 1,338,000. The Metalworkers' Union is the largest group, numbering 233,378.

DANISH FESTIVAL

COPENHAGEN, Edenark (CP) —The Carl Nielsen music festival will be held here from Aug. 31 to Sept. 4. An elaborate program is being arranged, featuring the music of the famed Danish composer, who died in 1931.

RUN OVER, LIVES

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. Nancy Lyles, 25, trapped on a trestle, flattened herself between the rails Friday as a passenger train thundered over her. She escaped with nothing more than a few scratches, and still clutched the paper bag containing her lunch which she was taking to work.

GREAT MILKER

HAISTHORPE, England (CP)—The Ayrshire herd owned by H. A. Shipley in this Yorkshire district, best yielding herd in the country, includes one cow that yielded 1065½ pounds of milk in 24 hours, equivalent to about 124 gallons.

SADLER—FRANCIS

Both graduates of Queens University, Kingston, Dr. Bruce Guy Sadler and Miss Celia Mari Francis were married in Morgan Memorial Chapel of the University last Saturday afternoon. Dr. Sadler, who is a graduate of the Faculty of Medicine, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Sadler of Oshawa, and his bride, an Honor Arts graduate, is the daughter of Mr. Arthur Francis, Q.C., and Mrs. Francis, of Ottawa.

Standards of snapdragons graced the chancel and the pews were designated by sprays of shasta daisies.

Wearing a floor-length gown of white satin, trimmed with bands of lace and seed pearls, the bride was given in marriage by her father. A coronet of satin and seed pearls held her fingertip veil and she carried a nosegay of lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Sinclair was Miss Barbara Ann Edwards of Montreal, who wore pale green tulle and lace with a matching tulle headdress. Pink and white carnations composed her nosegay.

Mr. John Sadler was best man for his brother and the ushers were Dr. John Playfair, Ottawa, and Dr. L. Doran of Toronto.

The honeymoon is being spent on the east coast at Portland, Maine. For travelling the bride chose an off-white linen suit with matching accessories and a rose corsage.

Dr. and Mrs. Sadler will make their home in Toronto.

A Lift for Your Dessert Slump

By Mary Moore

Next week I'm going to bust out all over with strawberries—a rash of strawberries a rush. They will solve the dessert problem for a few weeks and keep you out of mischief too with sugar, jam-making.

But if it were not for the faithful humble rhubarb and the luscious prune plum there would be a dessert slump. As a matter of fact, I am in one, for when we do not have plenty of apples to draw on it leaves a big gap in the dessert possibilities.

Sam threatened me with something—but smiling — concerning it if I wrote up his visit in the paper, as being a lady and an admirer of Sam in a proper country fashion I'll only say he took me and my dates out to dinner when he and his assistant assessor, John, were attending a convention in town.

The restaurant is famous for its Dutch chef and the Dutch chef is famous for his Dutch apple pie. . . and he let on somewhere for my Dutch apple pie either and I'm going to be better known at most immediately for here it is!

Emma's Dutch Apple Pie

Line to go to great trouble to cut lovely flops in eights after parting and arranging on slow-cooking and the next country clock-wise and so on in the pastry-lined deep pie plate. But lately I've been known to use any kind of apples—even canned pie apples. Whatever kind of apples you have to bake do with until the new ones come in August, make layers of them at least two deep. Mix together 1 cup brown sugar and 2 tablespoons flour, then beat into them 1 egg and 1 cup cream. (I've been known to use 0 horrors!—1 cup plain water instead of cream.) Pour this mixture over the apples, sprinkle cinnamon over and dot with butter. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for a starfit of 10 minutes and finish at 350 deg. Fahr. for another 30 minutes, or until apples are tender when tested with a fork.

Some of our young readers want detailed recipe for making their pastry flakier. No more appropriate time seems at hand, especially when I'm on the subject of pies.

Rich Flaky Pastry

Two cups sifted pastry or all-purpose flour sifted with 1 teaspoon salt, 2 to 3 tablespoons ice water. You can use your fingertips but a pastry blender keeps the dough colder, and your hands cleaner. Into the flour and salt work 1-3 cup of shortening until it is as fine as rice oatmeal. Now add remaining 1-3 cup shortening but do not work it so finely—just until it is in chunks about 1-2-inch in diameter. With a fork make 5 or 6 little depressions, and add a tablespoon ice water in each. Stir with fork until all of the flour particles have been moistened. Turn out on lightly floured board and press the dough into a ball that will hold together. Chill it. This amount will be enough for two crusts. Work quickly to keep the dough cold.

Lemon Pie With Non-Weeping Meringue

Line a deep 9-inch pie plate with pastry made as above but use only half the recipe for 1 crust. Flute the edge. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. until crust barely begins to turn gold. Cool.

Filling

Mix together in top of double boiler 1 1-3 cups sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch and when mixed stir in 1 1-2 cups boiling water. Add 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind and stir until thick over boiling water. Cook, covered, 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour a little of this over 3 beaten egg yolks, then return this to double boiler and cook, stirring, for 1 minute. Remove from heat and add 3 tablespoons each butter and lemon juice. Pour into cooled shell. Cool then cover with

Non-Weeping Meringue

Beat 3 egg whites with a dash of salt until stiff but still clinging to sides of bowl. To all add 6 tablespoons sugar but add only 2 tablespoons at a time by sprinkling over whites. Beat hard between additions, until meringue is stiff and glossy. Pile on cooled filling, then be sure to spread it so that it touches the pastry all around edges. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 15 or 20 minutes or until tinged with gold all over.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's Changed Her Mind — Maybe He Has Too!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 15, and have been engaged for about four months to a boy 19, with whom I have been going about a year.

Right after we became engaged he joined the marines, and we planned to be married on his first leave. But I changed my mind about getting married so soon, because I don't really love him and I don't want to get married. He also says that, I want to go out with other boys, because I don't like sitting home every night while my boy friend is away.

He seems to be crazy about me, and I'm afraid it will hurt him if I break our engagement. I have known him but little before he came home the last time, he was writing to me while he was in camp, so I don't see how he can love me so very much in so short a time. I'm a normal girl. It will be over six months before he gets another leave, so I would like to know what to do about this. J.R.H.

Dear J.R.H.:

I think you are afraid this boy will be hurt if you break your engagement because he is feeling just the same way you do, and is afraid of hurting you. You suggested that the engagement be broken. On the other hand, the fact that he has met another girl need not necessarily indicate that he has changed his mind about you, because it's only natural that boys in service should like to write to girls at home, from as many people as possible. But after all, both girls and boys should realize are very young to be settling down to the responsibilities of marriage. It would be much wiser if the two of you agreed that you consider yourselves free to date others.

A Loving Daughter Wants To Help Her Parents

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a problem which has to do with my parents.

My father is a truck driver and usually works late hours. When he comes home early, my mother wants to go out some place and he won't let her go.

I would like to know what to do to make our home happy and not have my mother and father angry at me then. I am 11 years old.

B.S.

Dear B.S.:

You are a very thoughtful and loving daughter to want to do what you can to make your home happy, and it is lovely to see a girl so young taking an interest in her parents problems.

Do you think that you could have a little talk with your father some time and try to get him to see that, while he has been out of the house all day, your mother has been working at home for the same length of time and needs a change now and then? Tell him you know how tired he must be when he gets home from his heavy day's work, and that you realize he just wants to rest, but that perhaps he might be willing to look at your mother's side of things and send her to go out for a good time when she feels like it. When people have been away working all day, they often feel they can rest by just staying home and relaxing. But others,

Too late for Agincourt

Even the bowmen who toppled armor-plated knights at Agincourt would have been overwhelmed by the range of a modern aluminum bow used at a British and Empire archery championship. It shot the winning arrow a distance of 333 yards, likely of a special alloy, the bow had a tensile strength of thirty-two tons!

While sturdy aluminum is playing an essential part in Canadian defence production for the free world, we're afraid the same aluminum bow is a little late for defence use in our annals—see Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

How To Address Wedding Invitations To Adult Daughters, Sons and Their Wives

When unmarried young people are to be included in the wedding invitations, is it correct to write their names on the inner envelope bearing only the "Mr. and Mrs."?

The best form is to send one invitation to "Mr. and Mrs. and a separate invitation to a grown-up daughter or a grown-up son. . . this gives proper compliment to each adult. Or one invitation may be addressed to two or more adult daughters: Misses Clark. (The same on outside and inside envelopes.) And to two or more adult sons: Messrs. Clark, on both envelopes.

Or, when the number of invitations must be limited, the outside envelope may be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. John Clark," and the inside envelope to:

Mr. and Mrs. Clark
Miss Mary Clark
Miss Anne Clark
Mr. Jack Clark

Or, for several adult daughters and sons:

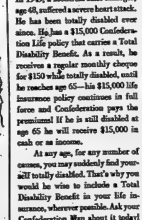
Mr. and Mrs. Clark
Misses Clark
Messrs. Clark

Important Note: All of these forms are for the "Mr. and Mrs." and family which is the most possible form, because it is too vague, does not make the proper bow to each person invited.

How Simple May Wedding Receptions Mean Be?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How simple may the menu be that is served at an afternoon (five o'clock) wedding reception, even if the reception is to be a large one after a formal church wedding?



B.

The menu may be as simple as whose work is in the home, find that nothing is overlooked to make the best rest for them.

You might try taking this over in your own way with your father, some time when he seems to be feeling quite well. Don't let him get the idea, though, that your mother suggested you talk to him. Tell him right away that you thought of it yourself after hearing them argue so much and don't be too discouraged if you find he doesn't agree with you. It's rather hard for parents to admit that their children may be right and they may be wrong.

One way I'm sure you can help, though, is by always being in a cheerful and happy and patient as you can around home, and always ready to lend a hand with the chores. Both your father and your mother will appreciate this, and in time you will show them that you are a responsible dependable daughter who is really interested in her home.

REGINA (CP)—If dollars could talk, Hazel Lawrence at Junior Red Cross headquarters here would have heard some stirring tales of children's adventures in Greece, Japan, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Germany and Holland.

But the dolls, collected by the International Red Cross, and dressed by children all over the world, tell their story visually.

The Red Cross is sending the dolls sought to promote international understanding and friendship between children of various nations. The collection was sent on tour of Canada and Miss Lawrence took them from her office here to Moose Jaw, Yorkton and Saumavon before returning them to Toronto headquarters.

Picturesque Dresses

Two dolls from Czechoslovakia are dressed in the traditional colorful peasant costume. They are mounted on a board and spread ready to go into a folk dance.

A Greek doll from Czechoslovakia is probably the most elaborately dressed. Over several petticoats, she wears a skirt of gold satin brocade edged with a wide border of white lace. Her blouse has full balloon sleeves to the elbow.

The Greek lassie is a skull-cap beaded—in bright colors and attached to the cap is a crown of lace and flowers. She wears black stockings and black shoes of soft leather that seem to have been made by a shoemaker.

Unbeaten Glens Dunk Northern By 13-2 Score

By BOYD UPPER

Glen Roy Junior continued their domination of the Belleville and District Softball League last evening as they steamrollered Northern Electric 13-2 to keep their unbeaten record intact.

The Juniors took a commanding 10-1 lead in the first three innings and then coasted home as lefty Bob Green three-hitted the Electrics in front of adequate support in the field.

The Glens opened the scoring in the second frame with Kellett getting a life on an error to the second baseman. Belnap and Green singled and Barclay drew a walk to force in Kellett. Claude Carr then unloaded a single down the right field line to drive in two runs. Goyer was safe on a miscue at first with Barclay scoring and Batchelor drove in Carr with a fly ball to the fence in centrefield.

The Electrics picked up a lone tally in the second when the right fielder played Pukancik's drive for a three-base error. Vic Halsey sacrificed to score Pukancik.

The Glens rolled out the artillery in the third for five more runs on singles by Kellett, Barclay and Goyer, and triples by Carr and Batchelor.

Slow balling Jack Holmes was rushed to the rescue with two away and retired the side without damage when John Batchelor was called out for interference.

Bruno McCurdy started for the Electrics and in two and two third innings walked none, struck out one, and gave up nine hits for ten runs. Jack Holmes was effective in relief, walking three, striking out six, and giving up five scattered hiff for three runs.

Ate Cake, Prayed Waved Flags, On Everest Peak

LONDON (Reuters)—What happened in those historic moments as 39 when a tall, lean New Zealander and his native guide stood on the peak of Mount Everest as the first conquerors of the world's highest mountain?

The Times of London says they ate moist cake, took photographs, waved a string of flags and prayed.

An editorial says Auckland beekeeper Edmund Hillary, 34, and his Nepalese guide Tensing Bhutia gazed down from the top of the world 29,002 feet high on a "flat and monotonous" view. They were too high for any grandiose mountain landscapes, it said.

The Times provided the first description of the exploit since word of the British expedition's success was flashed to London a week ago on the eve of the Coronation. The newspaper owns exclusive copyright to the expedition's story.

ANSONVILLE (CP)—An 87-year-old woman lost 13 hours in the bush south of here told searchers who found her Monday she shooed away bears during the night by banging an old kettle with a stick.

Dressed only in a house dress and a woollen sweater, Mrs. Irene Purdy was little the worse for wear when found today. She was reclining on a small knoll, a pot and stick lying beside her.

Mrs. Purdy was last seen Sunday near her home, six miles south of this Timmins district town. She said she didn't know how she had become lost, having lived in the district all her life.

Police carried her to a highway and drove her to hospital here. Doctors said her condition was good.

GIRL SKIPPER!

Veteran members of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club had better look to their laurels or the first thing they know they will be wiping spray from their eyes and watching their craft take the wash from yachts skippered by teen-agers.

It is not funny, McGee. In fact there was almost some first rate evidence of such a condition in the club races on Sunday afternoon.

A twenty-year-old skipper, who failed to commandeer a crew of veterans, took aboard a couple of teen-agers and what she did in the race has even the nautical greybeards of the waterfront talking.

She was Betty Seldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seldon. Betty had taken over the "Maicyca", trim yacht owned by her daddy for the afternoon's racing traffic. Mr. Seldon was unable to skipper the boat for various reasons, so Betty put on the figurative gold-trimmed cap and took over the helm.

She failed to recruit a crew which knew something about racing, that is a crew of oldsters, so she invited Betty Jane Goodwin, 18, and Ron Smith, 17, to go along. They did.

And what happened? We haven't the results of the race at hand at the moment, but grey-thatched waterfront railbirds tell us the attractive young "skipperette" showed a clean pair of heels to veterans of the club over the first leg of the triangular course.

She may or may not have won the race. That, however, is secondary. The fact remains that yachting is not necessarily an old man's sport. Anything a man can do the gentler sex, Betty Seldon's exploit, it should not be called that, because the pretty young miss has been around boats since she was ten years of age, proves that youth will have its fling, even at the helm of a yacht.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, re-named this year, through its own efforts, has brought yacht racing back to a fine status, one which at its present rate of progress is fair to hit the club in the first organizations of the species, to fly the sailing banner of Belleville.

It has been stated that nine new boats will augment the present proud fleet that flies the colors of the club. All well and good. In baseball, hockey, softball, and other popular sports, quality counts more than quantity. There is a minor "feed-box", so to speak. In other words they see to it that minor counterparts are fostered and taken care of so that there is a steady outpour of material for the higher brackets.

It has been suggested that the yachtsmen form a 'junior' branch at reduced membership rates. The youngsters could sail a small craft design of boat and then learn the fundamentals of racing which would be a fine groundwork for future sailing activities.

The idea or suggestion is not a new one. Years ago when this department toiled for the Halifax Herald, the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron had a junior branch and what those kids couldn't do with a small craft, dinghies, etc., wasn't worth recording. Some of those beardless boys are among the top-flight skippers of the squadron.

DOUBLE TROUBLE!

Well, lookit what's on tap for the wrestling faithful come Friday gloaming. Nothing but double trouble for somebody, for Marse Frank Tunney, who has been scrolling topflight cards here since the season opened will hand out the fire and the fury in twin doses this week.

None other than that rip-roaring rumbustious duo of ring villains, who by the very daring of their methods have taken unto themselves the world tag-team title. They are Lou Plummer and Dick Raines and television addicts, who have seen the pair in action can vouch for what a wicked, nasty pair they are.

But they'll be up against a combination that should give them plenty of trouble. They meet "Bo-Bo" Brazil, the colored sensation, who delights in the "coco-nuts", and the latest sensation here, young Don Jonathan. So let the Raines come and the Plummer had better not forget his wrestling tools for the Bobo-Don pair will give them the battle of their lives.

Added zest to the main bout will be that between Pat Flanagan, who makes his first 1953 appearance here and that moustachioed Pole, Firpo Zbyzko, a canny wrestler at that, even though his spiked lip adornment provides good handle-bar holds for the opposition.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—We can tell you on some of the best authority there is that the transfer of St. Louis Browns to Baltimore will be approved when the American League magnates hold their next meeting in Cincinnati July 13.

The success of Milwaukee's debut as a big league city has altered the picture radically, our informant says. Where only two clubs, Cleveland and Chicago, voted to approve the transfer last spring, the count should be virtually unanimous this time.

Some of the owners still will not like Bill Veeck, the Browns president, any better than they did in March (and the feeling will be strongly reciprocated), but the rival league's Milwaukee venture has convinced them they are missing a bet. They like money, and they are not getting it in St. Louis.

One report is that a Baltimore group is prepared to pay Veeck and his associates more than $2,000,000 for the franchise.

How wrong can you get? Only two weeks ago we assured you we would listen that the sands were running out on the Brooklyn veterans such as Jackie Robinson and Pee-Wee Reese, that the club's pitching was shot with uncertainties and that things looked bad in Flatbush.

Since then Charlie Dressen's club has practically killed off the league's except race except the Milwaukee Braves.

Roy Campanella, the team's great catcher, has stopped hitting home runs every day. But first-baseman Gil Hodges has come out of a protracted slump to again become one of the league's most feared sluggers.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves, hit his 37th home run, tying Roy Campanella for the league lead; doubled and singled, driving in five runs in the Braves' 12-4 victory over New York.

Pitching: Ned Garver, Detroit Tigers, scattered eight hits in Detroit's first victory in 16 games, 5-3, over Boston.

Hornsby, Said To be On Skids Develops Hit-Happy Squad; Win Six of Eight Road Games

By BEN PHLEGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

Rogers Hornsby, reported on the skids as manager of Cincinnati as recently as a week ago, was riding high today with a five-game winning streak and the sluggingest club in the majors.

With the advent of June, the hit-happy Redlegs have busted out all over. They've pulverized opposition pitching for 65 hits in their last five games, producing 49 runs in their biggest victory string of the season.

On their current road trip the Redlegs are playing at a .750 clip, winning six of eight including an 8-5 verdict Monday night over Brooklyn Dodgers.

Cincinnati's success was a bitter pill for the Dodgers, who slipped a full game behind Milwaukee Braves. The Dodgers had started the day with a seven percentage point lead over the rampaging Wisconsin outfit, but the Braves plastered New York Giants 12-8.

St. Louis Cardinals, who had lost five straight, battled 12 innings against Pittsburgh Pirates, winless in their last seven starts, before picking up a 5-3 victory. Philadelphia dethroned Chicago 5-3 in the other National League game.

In the American League contest the Detroit Tigers finally won a game after 13 setbacks incorporated with nine extra-inning ties. The Tigers scored four runs in the seventh inning to defeat Boston, 5-3, their first success since May 23.

A single by Walt Dropo brought home one run and two more scored on a triple by Matt Batts in the victory rally. Ned Garver was the winner.

Cincinnati got ahead in a hurry at Brooklyn, scoring twice in the first on five hits. The Redlegs, including a two-run blow by Bell, and a pair of walks.

The Giants and the Cubs both suffered fielding collapses that would have looked pretty bad in a class D league.

At the Polo Grounds the New Yorkers, ahead 3-1, presented Milwaukee with four unearned runs in the sixth inning on three errors and one lonely hit. The Braves poured in seven more runs in the next two frames to move ahead 12-2 before the Giants quite recovered. Eddie Mathews hit his 17th home run.

At Connie Mack stadium the Cubs committed four errors in the second inning which permitted the Phillies to score four runs—their eventual margin of victory.

Steve Bilko doubled home Red Schoendienst with the tie-breaking St. Louis run in the top of the 12th at Pittsburgh and rode in on a single by Rip Repulski.

Emory Jones Re-Elected Head American League

The entire slate of officers from last year, which includes John Chick of Hershey, first vice-president, Eddie Shore of Syracuse, executive vice-president and Jim Ellery of New York, secretary-treasurer, was renamed.

Official said the league will open Oct. 10, and that the schedule will be announced.

The same seven clubs that operated last season again will play. They are Buffalo, Cleveland, Hershey, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Providence and St. Louis.

Aussies Win Over Hampshire

LONDON (Reuters)—Australia's confident cricketers defeated Hampshire by an innings and 8 runs at Southampton Monday and thus earned themselves an extra day's rest before the fifth test match against England Thursday.

The Australians won by 158 runs after declaring their second innings at 341 for seven. Hampshire's first innings closed quickly for 131, leaving them 137 behind. The home team needed 296 to win after Australia declared.

Middlesex, the county champions, Surrey, appeared to be coasting to another easy victory when they forced Northamptonshire to follow on. But Northamptonshire, with a 188 first innings, rallied to 105 for two and are now only 76 behind Surrey's declared total of 341 for nine.

Close of play scores:

Australian tourists 288 and 168 for five declared, Hampshire 131 and 146. Australians thus won by 158 runs.

Middlesex 364, Yorkshire 228 for five.

Surrey 341 for nine declared, Northamptonshire 188 and 105 for two.

Cambridge University 355 for eight declared and 39 for one, MCC 375 for five declared.

Buffalo Wins Four in Row; Edge Cubs 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Everyone seems to pick on the tail-end Springfield Cubs. This time Buffalo is having its turn collecting a mess of wins.

The Bisons, currently holding down fourth spot in the International Baseball League, Monday night nabbed their third triumph over the Cubs 4-3 and extended their winning streak to four games. Buffalo gets another crack at the cellar-dwellers tonight.

Springfield now is 15 games back of the pace-setting Montreal Royals. The Cubs have registered only five victories in 41 starts.

Rookie Frank Lary, pitching cooler his ball until Springfield set off a three-run spurt in the seventh, gained credit for Monday night's victory. Lary allowed eight hits and walked seven. Rookie Jim Pisarcik allowed eight safeties and fanned seven. Pisarcik faced only three men striking out one and watching the others pop out.

Howie Fox of Baltimore Orioles stopped the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2 with a seven-hit performance.

'Tiger' Jones Whips Laurent

BROOKLYN (AP) — Ralph "Tiger" Jones pursued a willing but outclassed, Mickey Laurent from post to post Monday night to take a unanimous 10-round decision in a middleweight bout in Eastern Parkway Arena. Jones weighed 153½, Laurent 154.

The rugged Yonkers, N.Y., performer pressed the attack all the way, opening a cut over Laurent's left eye in the first round.

Laurent, who has lost only to Randy Turpin and Charlie Humez in 30 fights, sent Jones spinning against the ropes in the second round with a terrific right to the jaw, but that was the only time he had the better of it.

Six other test players and their scores were: Mrs. Lionel Rose of Cobourg, 88, Rose Kampman of Kitchener 89, Mrs. Simmons 91 and Donna Noble of Hamilton Glendale 98.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

A strange tale of coincidence that stretches over 53 years, and involved two rosters who had successively occupied the nets of a single hockey team, was written during the Stanley Cup series last April.

Back in 1950, in the midst of a semi-final Cup series, between Canadiens and New York Rangers, the Canadiens' goaler Bill Durnan, seven times winner of the Vezina trophy, had the courage and sporting spirit to tell coach Dick Irvin that he was not doing the team any good. My reflexes have slowed down, I'm through."

And so Durnan stepped out of the picture and ended a career, to be succeeded by little Gerry McNeil. But Rangers were roaring ahead, the victory of McNeil, then a rookie, bewildered and temporarily unsettled, and Rangers went on to win the battled them only temporarily, and Rangers went on to win the round, and give Detroit Red Wings a grim battle for hockey's most coveted prize.

On the Thursday night of April 2, last, Canadiens were defeated by Chicago Black Hawks, in a Stanley Cup semi-final game. That night Hawks won 3-2 edge in a best of seven series. One more victory, and the Chicago team would be in the finals. Canadiens were cornered. On the next game they must produce a fanatic, victory-mad Saturday night crowd scenting a Stanley Cup triumph for the first time in years.

On the Saturday morning, the long arm of Coincidence stretched across the years. For this time it was little Gerry McNeil, the rookie goaler in Durnan, who waited on coach Dick Irvin and declared: "Dick, I'm not doing the team any good. My nerves are shaky. My reflexes are shot. Put Jacques Plante into the net. He'll do a game for us."

Irvin gave the matter lengthy study. McNeil continued to urge the change. It was a momentous decision, but Irvin decided to take it. He inserted not only McNeil, but three other regulars, tossed in four rookies, including Plante, a hawk-faced lass, tossed in four rookies, including Plante, a hawk-faced lad, tossed in four rookies, including Plante, a hawk-faced lad, tossed in four rookies, including Plante, a hawk-faced lad

Randy Turpin, Humez Clash Tonight For British Version Middle Title

LONDON (AP)—Randy Turpin, idol of the people of British boxing, fights Charles Humez, former continental champion of Picardy, tonight for the vacant version of the world middleweight title and an autumn shot at the full-scale world crown.

Victory tonight, before a sellout crowd of 54,000 at White City Stadium, would be followed by an offer of a trip to New York in September.

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, is here for the fight and already definitely will offer the winner a September date against the winner of the Paddy Young-Bobo Olson elimination fight Young and Olson meet in New York June 18.

Hungry Fighter

Even though odds and most British sentiment were against him, the French middleweight was far from discouraged. Said he thought he would win. He also said: "I'm the hungry fighter. Randy Turpin is rich now, I'm the hungry man. I need the victory and the money."

Strange stories have leaked out of Wales about Turpin's training program—how he has been eating "a gargantuan daily, his dream state of mind in which he pounded hard on sparring partners just as he did in July, 1951, before he upset Sugar Ray Robinson and won the world's middleweight title, the personnel shuffle among his trainers, and his inability to find worthy sparring partners.

Similar stories have come from Boulogne and the Humez camp. He has battled through an astonishing 360 sparring rounds. He also had trouble finding sparring opponents; has done hundreds of miles of road-work and spent the remainder of his time fishing.

Estimates on the gate vary between £50,000 and £85,000 ($140,000 and $238,000).

The fight was scheduled for 5 p.m. EDT.

Young Hurler Gets Second Win In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The pitcher is the man behind the victories in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

An example of this is Eddie Drapcho, recently acquired 18-year-old southpaw with Oakville Maple Leafs. Since his start he has helped lead the Leafs up the intercounty ladder with two successive wins.

Monday night Drapcho won an 8-0 battle for the Leafs over Galt and gave up only six bases on balls. The win consolidated the Terriers. He fanned 11. Terriers Leafs' hold on fourth place.

In the only other completed game of the evening Kitchener Panthers edged St. Thomas Elgins 5-7. Waterloo Tigers met Guelph Merchants but the game was called in the top of the fourth owing to rain. Guelph was leading 5-0 at the time. Rain also cut a game between Lindsay Mayors and Bradford Red Sox in the top half of the second. Lindsay was leading 3-0.

Galt couldn't get a hit off Drapcho until the sixth inning when leftfielder Neil McDonald managed to beat out a drag bunt to the right of the mound. Zeb Eaton, Galt's hard-luck righthander, was charged with the loss. He was relieved after six innings in favor of southpaw Pete Koval.

Centrefielder Eddie Boehm broke out of a prolonged batting slump to lead the Leafs at the plate with a double and two singles. He batted in two runs. George Gunning also batted in two with a double and a triple.

Kitchener fought off a late rally to edge the Elgins on home grounds. Elgins took a 5-0 lead in the first frame but couldn't make a lead stick in the latter half of the game.

Dick Welker of Kitchener was the star of the game. He scored the first Panther run when his single got through the Elgin right fielder and he went the route. Walker also scored two other runs in the trips and was hit by pitcher to round out a perfect night.

Veterans Sign With Argonauts

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union have signed veteran halfback McKenzie and rookie Jack Roberts for the 1953 season, coach Frank Clair said Monday. Red Ettinger, all-star centre, signed earlier.

BILL QUACKENBUSH WEDS

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP)—Bill Quackenbush, star defenceman for Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, and Joan Olive Kalloch of Wellesley were married Monday at Our Lady Chapel at the Church of the Advent. The bride's sister, Judith Kalloch, served as maid of honor. Quackenbush's brother, Max, also a professional hockey player, was best man.

King Regains Canadian Light Title In Lack-Lustre Display With Savoie

TORONTO (CP)—Arthur King of Toronto once again holds the Canadian lightweight championship but the lack-lustre way he regained the crown didn't add to his prestige.

King, potentially a great fighter as his ranking among the leading lightweights of the world indicates showed little to back that up as he scored unanimous 12-round decision over Armand Savoie of Montreal Monday night in a bout that had more clutching than action.

A crowd of 7,000 in Maple Leaf Gardens, one of the largest in recent years for a fight here, voiced its displeasure with frequent booing and yells for action. It had expected a more rousing battle between Canada's two top lightweights.

The fight didn't clear up the muddled situation affecting the British Empire lightweight title. King claims that crown and the fight was part of a match that championship although the British boxing board of control has announced it no longer recognizes him as the champion.

Last British Title

The British body said last week it had stripped King of the title for failure to defend it in a stipulated time limit. In its eyes Frank Johnson became the active champion with his knockout victory over Frank Flannery of Australia.

King, who at 134½ had a pound advantage over Savoie, was a 3-to-5 favorite and let Savoie force the fight. He repeatedly caught the French-Canadian's bonnet with lefts to the head. They didn't carry any damage but they piled up points for him.

Both fighters were warned by referee Bobby Lawrence after the eighth round to make a fight of it. It didn't do much good and afterwards Savoie, who held the lightweight title since January, 1951, when he beat Solly Cantor of Toronto, said he "wouldn't have been surprised if the referee had stopped it and called the whole thing a no contest."

Savoie, beaten two years ago by King in a virtually other, previous meeting, admitted that the Toronto Negro, who for the last few years has been fighting out of Philadelphia, is the better fighter.

King, who held the championship from February, 1948, to September, 1949, when the Canadian Boxing Federation lifted it from him for failure to defend it, said he hurt his hand in the sixth round and blamed that for his unimpressive showing.

The only round the crowd got any action to speak of was in the fifth. Savoie connected with five hard rights to the face and three jolting lefts to the body. The blows didn't do any damage and King, like Savie, wasn't marked much at the end.

Savoie wasn't marked much at the impressive end. King gave in winning a decision over lightweight champion Carter of New York in a non-title bout in Montreal last February.

JOHNSON WHIPS WILLIAMS

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—George Johnson, 152½, up-and-coming middleweight, pounded former world's lightweight champion Ike Williams 147¾, into helplessness Monday night to win an eight-round technical knockout. Both are from Trenton.

SIGN FOR TITLE FIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson of San Francisco and Paddy Young of New York signed contracts Monday for their 15-round fight for the American middleweight championship at Madison Square Garden June 18.

Johnson belted his veteran opponent with both fists throughout the bout—until referee Joe Mangold stopped it at 2:32 of the eighth with Williams hanging limp on the ropes. Mangold's scorecard gave all seven complete rounds to Johnson.

SOCCER VISITORS WINS

NEW YORK (AP)—A late rally in the second half enabled the English All-Stars to defeat the United States select team 6-3 at Yankee Stadium Monday night. England led at the half, 3-0.

Pt. Anne Defeats CNR Diesels 15-8

By JACK BERTT

An eighth frame, three run rally, which brought them seven runs within fieling distance of Point Anne, failed to gain a win for the C.N.R. Diesels in a B.D.S.L. home played Saturday evening at the C.N.R. Recreation field. The final score, Point Anne 15, Diesels, 8.

Trailing 9-8 at the end of seven innings, the Diesels briefly changed the tide of the battle in their half of the eighth. A two base error succeeded in getting Vern Goyer to second as the first man up for the Diesels that inning. The next man flew out. Hunter's single drove Goyer to third, escaping to second himself on the throw. Wardaugh tripled driving in the first run and Whitlow aboard first on a walk. Wardaugh was left on at the close of the inning.

Diesel fans hopes surged again as the first man up for Point Anne popped out to the first baseman. Their joy was short lived. After that there began a series of walks, which loaded the bases. Mulholland singled bringing in the first two runs and safely establishing himself on third on the fielders' error. Gencreau's single scored two more and Hull doubled, later to cross the mound on an infield error which sent the next batter to first. Two other walks got the batters Gilmore, to third, loading the bases and Gilmore scored on a passed ball. Three were left on at the close of the top half of the last frame, but the damage was already done. Point Anne had scored six runs to increase their lead by seven points.

When the Diesels came to the plate in the last half, the first two batters hit caught balls and the last struck out.

Both teams began the scoring spree in the second frame, Elliott tripled, F. Marsace doubled along with Gencreau to give the Point Anne team an early lead of three runs.

The Diesels racked up two runs in their half of the second on two singles and an infielder's err . Wardhaugh and Rogers accounted for the hits.

Elliott singled, Green singled, and Buchanan doubled as Point Anne chalked up four more runs in the third frame. Doubles off the bats of Glen Young and Vern Goyer along with a single by Doug Swong were instrumental in bringing in three runs for the Diesels in the third, making it 7-3 at the inning's close. Point Anne's other two runs came in the sixth as the two batsmen were on on a walk and an error.

Hunter was best at bat for the Diesels, getting three for four. Gencreaux and Elliott got two for five for Point Anne.

Marscle went the route for Point Anne to strike out six, walk three and let the Diesels seven hits for eight runs.

Tommy Cavell was on the mound the nine innings for the Diesels. He struck out three, walked 10 and allowed 15 runs off . hits. The teams:

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

What gets your goat in a bridge tournament is not the mistakes of your pair. It is the tricks the cards will play on you. As in a recent match when the tables got this deal:

NORTH
♠K 6 4 2
♥K Q 7 2
♦J 10 5
♣K Q

WEST
♥A 8 4
♣A 9 2

EAST
♠8
♥9 6 5
♦K 9 8 7 3 2
♣7 8 5 4

SOUTH
♠J 10 9 5
♥J 10 3
♦K Q
♣J 10 8 2

Most tables played it in a part score of some kind. Without an ace of any kind, north did not have much hope of a game. With such a shortage of high cards, south was not looking for game. One group bid the stuff like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 S	Dbl	Pass
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
Pass	Dbl

The double by north was for takeout. The response of one notrump by south was not technically correct. But it was practical in these circumstances and raises no serious objection.

The first double by west is for takeout. The two no-trump bid by north was not technically correct. It was stuck in there to prevent east from getting a cheap chance to show what he may have.

If partner has not yet bid, a double is for penalty if the bid is more than three in a suit or more than one in no-trump. So, the west double of two no-trump was for penalty.

When the two no-trump bid got around to west he must have been furious and frustrated. He must have said to himself: "With four aces they can't do this to me." And two no-trump doubled was the contract.

Opening lead from west was a small spade. With any lead, every time south got in he pumped spades thru west and took nine tricks.

West could not stop south from taking nine tricks if he started mandamus proceedings. All he got were his four aces. And afterwards he remarked: "Maybe I was lucky to save even them."

Susan, his daughter, is married to Tony Garthwaite, the man her father has chosen to fly his new plane through the sound barrier. Believing that human life is more important than human progress, she condemns her father's aims as senseless ambition. Her brother, Christopher, and Tony both die in their attempt to live according to her father's ideals. Another attempt is to be made on the sound barrier. This time Philip Peel, Tony's best friend, is to fly the plane. Susan tries to dissuade both Phillip and her father. The flight takes place and Phillip flies through the sound barrier, landing without accident. Susan's father breaks down. For the first time they understand each other.

CAMPBELLFORD

Engineer Offers Services Free In Power Problem

Campbellford — An offer from Charles U. Peelling, a retired engineer, who designed the Campbellford power house, to come to Campbellford and give his services free of charge, was accepted by the Public Utilities Commission here last week.

Mr. Peelling now lives in Pennsylvania, and he was contacted to see what could be done with the plant to relieve the present power shortage. The Public Utilities Commission had been considering signing a contract with the H.E.P.C. and constructing a power sub-station in or near the town.

Mr. Peeling is a former Campbellford resident, and recently retired after a lifetime of power plant operation and power development work. He assisted in the original development of the town power plant at Crow Bay, north east of the town.

His offer to serve free of charge, except for out-of-pocket expenses, was unanimously accepted by the P.U.C. He was asked to come if his earliest convenience and to advise the commission as to what policy to pursue.

The manager, C. C. Denyes, reported on a suggested contract with the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission. He said he had contacted officials at Orillia, where there was a similar situation some years ago. Orillia had spent $3,000 for advice and had finally ended up buying power from the H.E.P.C.

Power Plant Men Seek Higher Pay

Campbellford — Operators at the Campbellford power plant presented a petition for salary increases to $348 per month, including cost of living bonuses, at a meeting of the Public Utilities Commission here.

A second request was presented, asking that operators having 15 years or more service be given three weeks' holidays with pay.

Commissioner Newman pointed that, with a pension plan coming up, the benefits received by the men would automatically be increased. Mayor Locke remarked that out of $90,000 revenue, salaries last year amounted to roughly $25,000.

A plan was worked out by Commissioner Newman, suggesting a 44-hour week instead of the present 48-hour week. He thought this would be a better plan. He said it would be equivalent to an 11 per cent increase in hourly pay. The commissioner's suggestion will be put before the men this week to see if they will accept it.

FARM HOUSE BURNS

PAISLEY, Ont. (CP)—Fire Monday destroyed a large brick farm house owned by John Wolfe of Arran township on the town line of Ilderslie and Arran township, about eight miles northeast of here. Mrs. John Derek Bryer, wife of the occupant who is employed by the owner, was alone in the house with a four-month-old child and had to run half a mile for assistance.

MARMORA

Three Congregations Join in Dedication Of New S. S. Room

MARMORA. — Sunday was a day of rejoicing for the three congregations in the Marmora circuit of the Free Methodist Church as they united at the Marmora church for the opening and dedication of the new Sunday School room in the basement of the church.

Rev. G. H. Bache, pastor, was in charge for the opening service which opened with a hymn, followed by prayer by the pastor. The Lorne Park men's trio consisting of Rev. H. McLeod, and Messrs. Jack Shepherd and Eldon Kay sang "Jesus is Always There". Mr. Bache extended a warm welcome to those present who filled the new room so that the overflow had to be accommodated in the church above. A chorus was rendered by scholars of Beaver Creek Sunday School under Mrs. Everett Derry.

Expresses Pleasure

Hilchie Wells, on behalf of the Sunday School of which he is superintendent and on behalf of the laymen of the church, testified to his pleasure at what had been accomplished. He plotted and used real for the Sunday School work of the church and lauded the group which had put in the basement of the church in the face of odds. He thanked them for their spirit.

Mr. Bache then called on three former pastors of the church, Revs. N. Bosko, R. Sedore, and L. C. Ball for short addresses. Mr. Bosko's message was "Put God first and make everything beautiful for Him".

Rev. Sedore carried the congregation back in thought to the years of his ministry, when, after the congregation had worshipped in a hired hall, the former St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church had been purchased to constitute the Marmora Free Methodist Church.

He concluded by saying that he took off his hat to all who held the vision of the value of the Sunday School.

Rev. L. C. Ball recalled the portion of the old song of the 1st World War "Over There", "Never Let the Old Flag Fall," which runs "When we stand, we'll fight, fight, fight". In his pastorate, he had had plans that were different from those which had been erected out for the accommodation of the Sunday School, but he testified that these later plans were for the best.

Built Upon a Rock

Mrs. F. L. Chase, of Frankford, representative of the Conference Commission on Religious Education, touched upon the fact that the Sunday School would be built as they were assembled, was actually built on the rock. She spoke of the joy it was to build for eternity and wished the Sunday School every success in its new location. Her concluding remarks were on the importance of boys and girls being saved.

John Goodrich, who supervised the construction of the new room and for years an officer of the church, having attended to its reasons for its construction, inadequate room for Sunday School sessions and other activities, briefly spoke of the accomplishment of the project, the difficulties such as the removal of muck rock without the use of one stick of dynamite. "We have been saved for help", he declared, "and it was through God's help we succeeded as we did."

The pastor expressed thanks to all who assisted in the promotion of the dedication service and said opportunity would be provided to receive further subscriptions towards the cost of the work. The collection was taken to the accompaniment of the hymn "Bringing in the Sheaves".

The Lorne Park trio then sang "Pray Till the Victory Comes."

As special preacher, Rev. A. B. Mottatt, district superintendent, gave a discourse on 2 Timothy 3-15 "From a child thou hast known the Scriptures which are able to make thee wise unto salvation", following two Scripture portions read by him.

He spoke of the pioneer of the Sunday School movement, Robert Raikes, who changed his original plan from "Crime is preventable" to "Crime is prevented; begin with a child."

The dedication ceremony was then carried out by him with Russell Wells, Gordon Derry, and Adam Chisholm, elders of the church, being called to the front and Rev. L. C. Ball assisting. The concluding hymn was "Let the Lower Lights be Burning". Rev. P. L. Chase of Frankford, pronounced the blessing.

Grind Alfalfa Into Meal At Campbellford Plant

By WM. W. REID

Campbellford—If you ask any person you meet on a street in Campbellford where the plant of the Trent Dehydrating Products is located, that person would undoubtedly be able to direct you to it immediately. But—if you asked him just what is done at the plant, or how and what they dehydrated, the chances are you would have him stumped.

Very few people realize just what is done at the plant. We confess we were one of the ignorant, so we set about finding out.

First, we sought out the plant manager. He turned out to be a chubby, good-humored individual by the name of Eugene Dunlay. A very obliging chap, he explained the activity at the plant from start to finish. He started as manager of the Campbellford plant in July, 1943, when the plant was rebuilt after a disastrous fire of 1941, when the establishment was completely destroyed.

The industry turns out alfalfa grass meal, a product used in the manufacture of cattle feed; dairy rations and hog and poultry feed. It is mixed with grains to produce various types of fodder and feed. As the dehydrated alfalfa leaves the Campbellford plant, it is known as alfalfa grass meal.

Approximately 120 to 150 tons are processed each month, and last year the plant turned out over 1,700 tons. The local plant is the only one of its kind owned by the company, whose head office is in Toronto. The company also operates a feed mill in Norwood and has recently purchased a mill in Chatham, which will also operate as a feed mill.

The local mill is the only one that grinds the alfalfa into meal. Another plant owned and operated by the company in Markdale was destroyed by fire over a year ago. The Chatham plant replaces the one lost by fire in Markdale.

Buy From Farmers

Huge quantities of alfalfa are purchased from farmers within a radius of 30 miles of Campbellford. Trucks bring the alfalfa in loads of about four tons at a time, and sometimes make as many as three trips a day. About eight or ten tons of alfalfa are processed each day by the local plant.

The company trucks dump their loads in a large storage shed, from which the alfalfa is fed into an ensilage cutter. The cutter reduces the alfalfa to short lengths resembling shredded wheat. The small particles are then forced by fans through a pipe and into a hammer mill. The hammer mill pounds the small pieces through a fine screen, reducing them to even finer particles.

There is a great deal of dust in the plant at all times and smoking is strictly forbidden. The fire danger is always foremost in the minds of employees.

As the ground alfalfa leaves the hammer mill it is drawn into a cyclinder, where it is forced through overhead pipes into an adjacent building. Here, it is collected in a large storage bin on the second floor.

Placed in Bags

On the ground floor of this building, directly below the storage bin, the bagging room is located. An operator at a chute fills and weighs 100-pound bags of the grass meal, ties and tags them, and places them on hand trucks to be taken to an adjoining room where they are stored for shipment.

Some of the meal is shipped by rail, and some by trucks, depending at the destination. Toronto feed companies purchase the majority of the meal, but shipments are made to many distant points, including Newfoundland and Winnipeg.

A new ensilage cutter has recently been installed at the Campbellford plant, and this promises to step up production considerably. The plant is always busy, with a number of standing orders always on hand waiting to be filled.

The industry provides employment for seven local men, and operates the year round. No actual dehydrating is now done at the plant. All the alfalfa is cured and sun-dried before it arrives. The trucks of the company, with their bulky cargo, are a familiar sight on the highways of the county.

Nobody Injured In Minor Crashes

Campbellford — There were four minor accidents in Campbellford area on the week-end, although property damage as a result of the crashes was extensive, nobody was injured.

Early Sunday morning, 17-year-old Jack Locke, of R.R. 5, Campbellford, lost control of his light half-ton truck when he struck loose gravel on the English line, about four and a half miles east of the town. The truck rolled over, causing about $150 damage. There were no passengers in the vehicle at the time. Locke escaped uninjured.

About $100 damage resulted to an old model car on Saturday evening when a car, which police say was driven by Carl Dalgleish, 28, of Campbellford, went out of control, crossed from the right to the left side of Saskatoon Ave., going north, took out a telephone pole and finally wound up against a tree on the lawn of Albert Durrington. O.P.P. Constable D. Ross and town constable Sam Baird investigated.

On Sunday afternoon a late model car driven by Charles Fraser, of Victoria St., was proceeding south on the old Havelock Road when a right front tire blew out. The car swerved to the right and struck a mail box at the home of Wesley Wilson, about a half mile north of the town. The windshield of the car was broken, but Mr. Fraser was not injured. O.P.P. Constable Dourias Ross investigated.

Two Salvation Army officers, Capt. Baker and Capt. Mutimer, of Campbellford, escaped unhurt but their car received about $150 damage on Friday evening in an accident on the Donegal County line between Trent River and Norwood. The Salvation Army car was travelling east when a car driven by George G. Heath, pulled out of a driveway on the south side of the roadway and collided with the side of the other car.

About $25 damage was done to the front of the Heath car. No one was injured. O.P.P. Constable Dourias Ross investigated.

Russ Halt Work On Giant Naval Base in Baltic Sea

Another Move in 'Peace Offensive' Believed Motive

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians have abruptly halted major operations in the construction of a giant naval base on the Baltic island of Ruegen, informed Allied quarters said today.

The East German Communist government's share in the huge plant also has been cut by more than half. A budget of 180,000,000 East marks for base and coastruction this year has been sliced to slightly less than 80,000,000.

Reason Unknown

The Ruegen Island plan, a dream of the Germans for many years, called for dockyards bigger than those in Hamburg, submarine pens, seaplane bases and a special harbor to handle ships up to battleship size.

Ruegen is the largest German island in the Baltic Sea. More than 350 square miles in area, it lies virtually due north of Berlin and is separated from the coast by the Strelasund narrow channel. Developed as a naval base, it would stand guard over Poland, Russia, aimed directly at Scandinavia.

Started Last Fall

The Russians aimed to establish a base that would advance their merchant fleet and Navy into the heart of north European waters, the north from central Germany.

The original plans would have required 12 years to build a base Allied officers said was much less bigger than Pearl Harbor.

Allied sources said they heard two reasons for the halt:

1. A Kremlin "peace offensive" move to relax tensions in the west spot in case of East-West negotiations.

2. Manpower shortages.

Socreds Appear To Have Won B.C. Election

VANCOUVER (CP)—The minority Social Credit government, defeated after seven months in office, appeared Wednesday to have been re-elected in British Columbia.

First election returns from Tuesday's general election put the government of Premier W. A. C. Bennett, well in the lead and it appeared almost certain they would have increased power in the next Legislature.

The CCF under its new leader Arnold Webster was headed for the role of opposition, a post it has held in B. C. for 20 years.

The election, for the second time, was conducted under the alternative voting system and only first counts were made election night.

Definite results in about 40 of the 48 ridings will not be available for three weeks. The second count will be started June 30. The delay is necessary to permit returns in home constituencies at absentee ballots.

Return to Religion Would Curb Crime Says Inspector

TORONTO (CP)—Arthur Moss, acting head of Ontario provincial police, said Tuesday that a return to religion would curb crime.

He told the Ontario legislature's committee on reform institutions that delinquency and crime is caused by parents who do not take enough interest in their children and fail to set good examples.

"There's been a tendency in recent years for parents to get their children off to Sunday School and then go back to bed," he said.

Clifford Magone, deputy attorney general, told the committee some repeaters are in Ontario jails because of crimes carefully calculated to fit the punishment.

Repeaters know the sentences magistrates can hand down and they carefully stay within the limits, he said. "They know it's just time of steel in 1953," the publication says.

ABBOTT URGES U.S. TO AVOID TARIFF BOOSTS

Import Bars Costly, U.S. Consumer Pays

MONTREAL (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott today urged the United States to refrain from further protectionist measures and said the Canadian government will protest against any tariff boosts which hit Canadian exports.

In a direct appeal to the American consumer and business man, Mr. Abbott declared that the imposition of American import restrictions is a costly process—"and the costs are borne by the American consumer."

"Inevitably, they must pay higher prices because domestic industry is shielded against competition from abroad," he said in a speech prepared for the 1953 summer conference of the American Marketing Association.

Have Little To Fear

Mr. Abbott suggested that American producers have little to fear from their colleagues in other countries.

"The U. S. economy is strong, its factories are efficient, its mines and farms are highly productive. Imports will not likely undermine the U. S. economy or drive American producers out of business."

But Canada, he added, has never made any secret of its concern with potential increases in American tariffs or Canadian goods. Canada had to export to live and her biggest market by far was the U. S.

Students Shout 'YankeeGoHome' In Demonstration

SEOUL (AP)—At least 2,000 young students marched "yankee go home!" and other slogans past Allied troops in the streets of Seoul today in the second day of angry demonstrations against an impending armistice.

The new demonstrations erupted during Premier Syngman Rhee's announced through a spokesman that he will not leave Korea "to carry a personal protest to Washington."

Gen. Paik Son Yup, chief of staff of the South Korean army, arrived here by plane from the U. S. today to take command of South Korea's 200,000-man army.

Must Be Ready

South Korea's draft bureau ordered all Korean men between 18 and 40 to be ready for call as government leaders reiterated threats to fight on alone if a truce does not bring Korea unity.

Men between 17 and 19 and between 41 and 45 were ordered to report their whereabouts and any change in draft status.

How to Invest Interests Many

RIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—Widespread interest in learning how to invest money was reported today by H. L. Gazzard of Toronto, education director of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada.

He told the annual meeting of the association's 200 delegates that such distant places as Hawaii, Peru and Australia have been entered in a correspondence course in how to invest offered by the University of Toronto.

Advertising for the course would be stopped by the United States next autumn, he said. Almost 600 students enrolled for last year's universities of Manitoba, British Columbia and New Brunswick have shown an interest in offering this course and indications are that it will be translated into French by the University of Montreal."

He said the executive Tuesday approved a booklet describing investment dealer services in Canada and 25,000 copies will be mailed for distribution to member firms.

SWISS WON'T ACT ON POW BOARD IF ROKS FIGHT ON

U.S. Officials Fearful Truce May be Delayed

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials expressed hope today that Switzerland would reconsider its refusal to participate in a five-country prisoner-of-war exchange mission in Korea unless South Korea agrees to the prospective truce.

This attitude is understood to have been made plain to the Swiss legation here by the state department.

Unless Switzerland changes its decision, apparently by the whole question of commission membership might have to be reopened between the United Nations command and the Communists. That would further complicate final agreement terms which may otherwise be reached within a few days.

Swiss minister Charles Bruggmann delivered a note to the state department Tuesday night giving notice of his government's attitude. Shortly after the decision was made at Bern.

Reasons Given

The Swiss federal council (cabinet) said in a statement that Switzerland could not serve on the commission unless the mandate to do so "were based on the agreement of the Korean conflict, including South Korea, and unless Switzerland were permitted to operate in full independence and in the common interest of both sides in the conflict."

U. Alexis Johnson, deputy assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs who accepted the note, was reported to have told Bruggmann it was hoped his government would reconsider its position and agree to serve.

Staff Officers Putting Korean Armistice Into Final Form

BY ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

Panmunjom (AP)—United Nations and communist truce negotiators—their work pretty well finished—today handed staff officers the job of putting a Korean armistice into final form, then recessed indefinitely.

All signs still pointed to a ceasefire within the week, but these developments stood in the way:

1. Switzerland announced it would not serve on the five-country prisoner repatriation commission unless South Korea approves the truce.

2. South Korean leaders reiterated bitter opposition and antiarmistice demonstrations broke out in Seoul for the second straight day.

3. A spokesman for Syngman Rhee dashed reports that the South Korean president will fly to Washington to make a personal appeal against the truce. Rhee, he said, will not leave Korea "at this time of grave situations."

Subject To Call

After 12 minutes, they recessed at communist request subject to call by either side.

Lower level officers then assembled in the tiny truce hut and went to work on the text of the cease-fire line that will separate Allied and communist forces in truce.

They met for an hour and 26 minutes, then adjourned until Thursday morning.

South Korean leaders generally declined comment on Switzerland's refusal to serve. Late press secretary, Chang Ki Bong, said:

"That shows that Switzerland, at least, understands our position. Change complained he was speaking for himself.

While Rhee and his cabinet secretly discussed the Swiss move, thousands of Korean youths snaked through local streets in apparently well-organized demonstrations.

Shouting "make go home!" they marched on UN and U. S. buildings but were held back by military police.

Worcester, Mass. Mass of Rubble; 2,500 Homeless

Several Canadians Believed Among Dead and Injured

WORCESTER, Mass. (CP) — The most devastating tornado ever to strike New England smashed through populous central Massachusetts Tuesday night with a toll of at least 82 dead and more than 700 injured.

At dawn, eyewitnesses said, the smashed area resembled pictures they had seen of the damage wreaked by the atom bombs on Japan in the Second World War.

Authorities said they won't know how high the death toll might reach until rescue workers finish digging through every piles of debris for those who might possibly still be buried.

The crushing wind caught many workers in their homes as they were sitting down to their evening meal.

Others were killed in stores, factories and on the streets.

The twister struck in many less than 24 hours after a similar storm hit sections of Ohio and Michigan with a toll of 139 dead and 1,000 injured and $15,000,000 in property damage.

The storm's boiling centre struck Worcester and adjacent towns but its destructive force was felt over an area of about 40 square miles.

Pittsfield in western Massachusetts and Exeter, N. H., also felt the effects of the tornado but no deaths were reported there.

Worcester alone counted about 35 dead and 400 injured.

Big houses were lifted completely off their foundations and dropped yards away. Automobiles were tossed as much as 150 feet.

In Holden, Mrs. Ruth Ouimet said her 3-year-old baby was whipped her two-week-old daughter out of her arms and out of sight after rain from her house in the belief she would be safer in the open.

Approximately 150 men searched a wooded area through the night for the baby.

One eyewitness said here he saw a mother and her small child crushed to death beneath a big trailer truck that had been lifted by the wind and carried several feet.

Several Canadians were believed to be among the dead and injured.

Three Nuns Killed

Three Roman Catholic nuns and a priest were killed at Assumption College, Worcester, where a retreat was in progress. Some 100 priests were attending the retreat.

Killed were Sisters Matilda, St. Helen and St. John of the Cross of Rev. Engelbert E. Devineu, a French member of the order of Assumption of the Blessed. The sisters were members of the Soeurs Assumption of the Blessed, the mother house is at Chicoutimi, Que. This order has a house in Montreal, home to believe the nuns were Canadians.

Young Cockneys 'ave Begun to Go 'ighbrow Through Teachers' Drillings

BY ROSS BERTWISTLE

LONDON (Reuters)—The sons and daughters of London's costermongers 'ave begun to go 'ighbrow.

The influence of the cultured accents of the BBC announcers and drilling by teachers are doing it.

The children are picking up their h'aitches but they still say "I can't 'elp it can't make me do that" and "I fink (think) it's all right."

Cockney is spoken in pubs, in taverns and vegetable markets of the East End still can hear old-time Cockneys sounding off in the rich old dialect which is regarded by the lusty ancient speech of outliving Kent, Essex and the east Midlands.

The news that the dialect is dying came from one of the teachers learned by the London County Council's education inspectorate.

The booklet, called "The Art of Speaking," also said that upper-class people have grown less snobbish toward people who talk Cockney.

Every tourist who comes to London is eager to run into Cockneys, whose speech has won millions of admirers through movies such as "Pygmalion."

The best strategy—now that the dialect is dying—is to go to an East End pub and listen to the locals with an old-timer. If he invites you home, you can meet him extend this invitation for tea to a neighbor:

"Tell your trouble and strife to send the kids up the apples and pears and you and I will 'ave a nice jar and come over for a cuppa char and a wad."

Translated from Cockney this means: "Tell the wife to send the kids upstairs to bed, put on your hat and come over for a cup of tea and a cake."

The guardians of speech culture, in their booklet, also rejoiced that certain slang imported via the underworld movies has failed to take root.

They said "okay" and "yeah" had for a long while been in use for years. But, they added with dignity, they are not heard much any more in Britain.

The booklet ruled that the BBC is good for people's speech, but that movies have, in general, a bad influence.

It deplored such "slovenly" omissions in the Cockney dialect as "wa'er" for "water" and "bu'er" for "butter."

Michigan-Ohio Death Toll Now Stands at 139

FLINT, Mich. (CP)—The death toll in the Michigan-Ohio tornadoes stood at 139 today as crews removed more bodies and the long search for more dead. More than 1,000 were injured and damage was estimated as high as $15,000,000.

Worst hit in the roaring winds that whirled down out of Monday evening's dark skies were the northern outskirts of this industrial city. The dead here were counted at 113.

But the twisters took at least eight other gigantic swipes.

Eight died in the Cleveland area, eight in West Canada, Ont., and two each in Elyria, O., and Ceylon, O. in Michigan, four were killed in Erie, but across the Ohio line, Monroe Twsa, a non-town resort town, and one each in the Ann Arbor area and the Lapeer county village of Brown City.

All Bodies Found

State Police Capt. Lawrence Meehan, in charge of hundreds of police still on the scent north of Flint, reported workers were convinced they had found all bodies.

Farming Conditions in Ontario Retarded by Wet Cool Weather

TORONTO (CP)—Rain continued to retard farming conditions over most of Ontario last week, an agricultural crop report bulletin showed today.

Most counties in western Ontario reported seeding had not yet been completed. The pastures are good.

In Dufferin, where practically no progress has been made during the last week, 15,000,000 more hens were required to lay eggs.

Eastern Ontario has completed most of its seeding. Carleton has some corn to replant, late potatoes and turnips to put in. Pastures are generally good.

Dundas has completed seeding of spring grain with the exception of corn. Here practically no Orchards have suffered from rain and frost.

Lennox and Addington county is reporting a number of cattle losses due to scours. Renfrew had its drought situation relieved by rain. Hastings, Peterborough, Brant, Elgin, Haldimand, Kent, Lincoln, Oxford, Welland and Wentworth are also yet to complete seeding. Norfolk had some dry spells and farmers had a chance to plant corn. Norfolk farmers are planning a larger acreage to soybeans.

Ontario county reports spring grain and pasture growing well in growth. Farmers here and in Prince Edward and Victoria had difficulty with corn planting because of wet weather.

Grey county reports seeding completed in most areas. Pastures are good.

Simcoe county reports spring grain and pasture growing well. Farmers here and in Algoma and a shortage of hay and pasture in Cochrane South is causing a loss of weight in cattle.

'Rhubarb' Breaks Up Frankford, Pt. Anne Game

The Point Anne Cementmen and the Frankford Merchants resumed their two-year war of words last evening in Frankford, with the Cementmen being awarded a two inning decision when the umpires tired of debate and forfeited the game to the Ox Pointers.

The considerable discussion apparently took place in the first inning of last night's abbreviated affair but the rival umpires didn't start crying in full voice until the second frame.

Frankford's version is that the Point Anne catcher was tipping the bat and that the umpire failed to take action when this had been pointed out to him on two different occasions by the Frankford skipper, Bill Hankin, the reigning genius of the Merchants. Point Anne disagrees in the umpire with his eloquence and was benched. However, in returning to the Frankford bench for the game his sleuth incurred still more official displeasure and the game was forfeited.

If you are from Point Anne the story goes something like this: Frankford batters were deliberately trying to hit the Point Anne catcher with their bats so that they could advance between and get safely to first. The umpire rightly failed to countenance such tactics and when a batter in the third strike on a Frankford batter who was an intent hitting the catcher that he failed to see the pitch, the poor umpire was subjected to considerable unnecessary abuse and was left no alternative but to bench Hankin, the Frankford coach who had been creating a disturbance from the start of the game.

Point Anne also claimed that when the Frankford coach was banished, he not only left the field about 15 minutes prior to with the umpires for a second time, this time accompanied by one of the Frankford players. The whole argument lasted more than five minutes and that the latter pulled a watch on the Frankford coach.

The two versions of this story coincide in detail but differ markedly in interpretation.

A similar situation developed in the league playoffs last season when Frankford and Point Anne had a disagreement at Point that lasted only for almost that an hour when Point Anne batter really should have already, so it was claimed, time for the Frankford pitcher to regain his form, and halting play effectively so that darkness descended before a decision could be reached.

Incidentally, Point Anne was leading 1-0 when the verbal jousting began last evening.

Safe Driving Pins Awarded Drivers By Oil Company

Upwards of 65 employees of the British American Oil Co. Ltd., gathered behind No. 3 fire hall on Tuesday afternoon for their annual safety training in fire extinguishing. The men, or whom number 30 are truck drivers of petroleum trucks for the company, took turns in putting out several types of fires most concerned with their work.

Later in the day presentations of badge awards were made to eight city residents and employees of the company after a dinner in the fire hall. The safety men were awarded safe driving pins along with six others from Belleville, Trenton and Belleville: Carl Weese, six years; Clayton Paul, five years; Jack Flemming, four years; Lorne Birch, three years; Morley Bleecker, two years; Ralph Hankinson, one year. This set of pins was presented by Ralph E. Cox, district area manager for the company, while the six year pin was included in the long service awards list. They were G. H. Ackerman, Earl Hall, Ernest Hall and Harry Smith of the pipe line terminal; Jack Hall, the line foreman; regional sales manager made these last presentations.

Prior to the drivers involved in extinguishing the fires in the training session, Ralph Hankinson, who was the instructor, told them that they had learned from the previous night's session. On the instruction end of things, were Roy Noddle and Clifford Hartung. The men met the fire and traffic instructors and spend the evening in practice previous instructing drivers in the various safety and security measures.

Men Lectured

The men were lectured too on the use of three fire extinguishers and they were shown the proper extinguishers to use in combatting several types of fires. "Ansul" and "Carbon Tet" powder extinguishers were shown to put out electrical fires, while the pyrene, liquid extinguisher was used to extinguish blazes restricted to wood and textiles.

The entire display was presented in an effort to give the employees confidence in their fire fighting equipment. A strong winds, yesterday, hampered the exhibition and it was necessary to postpone the fire displays.

However, at the Shrine Club, the men were shown a movie illustrating the use of the equipment they had handled earlier in the day. Chief Gordon Hodgins of safety supervisor for Ontario, F. J. Moss was in the city from Toronto. He told the men there were 406 B.A. safety drivers in the province. Mr. Moss illustrated the use of some of the company's safety testing equipment and the tests before they are employed by the company are subjected to rigid driving examinations involving tests of the driver's reactions, eyesight and other factors in the promotion of safe driving.

Thursday there will be offered the "Girl in the Goldfish Bowl", one of the show's outstanding attractions.

Usual Concessions

Then there are the usual concessions. Refreshment booths will cater to the "inner people" while for the children there are the toothsome candy apples, candy floss and other sweetmeats.

Mr. Peter March, proprietor of the Midway, says his show has been booked solidly up to Thanksgiving Day, ample evidence of its popularity in the district and province.

There is a matinee this afternoon and another on Saturday when all kiddies will be able to enjoy the rides at a five-cent admission fee.

The Kinsmen announced today that the Swimming Pool will be officially opened on Sunday, June 14th, when free swimming will be permitted from 1.30 to 3.30 p.m.

Truck Hits Gravel, Rolls Over in Ditch

Campbellford—A light truck driven by 18-year-old Alerie Cochrane of Rannoy Street went out of control on the 9th concession of Seymour, Sunday hour miles east of Campbellford, about 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Cochrane lost control of the truck in loose gravel. The truck careened into the ditch, struck a telephone pole and rolled over, causing damage estimated at about $300. There were no passengers in the vehicle, Cochrane was not injured.

Provincial constable Archie Eady of Campbellford investigated.

First Jet Ace Bags Two More

SEOUL (AP—Maj. James W. Jabara, the first jet ace, shot down two MiGs today to boost his score to 1 and become the sixth double jet ace of the Korean war.

Jabara, on his second combat tour in Korea, is credited with three probables and eight damaged MiGs in addition to his 15 kills. One other MiG probably was destroyed today, the air force said, as 84 Sabre jets fought in the skies over North Korea.

Thunderjet and other jet fighter-bombers hit two Red airfields in North Korea.

Wee Jamie Clark Meets Son Whom He Thought Long Dead

The committee and citizens responsible for sending "Wee Jamie" Clark to Scotland for the holiday can take an extra bow.

The old lad, known as the native Dundee, was full of surprises for the eighty-four-year-old piper, but the climax of them all came a few days after Jamie's arrival.

He met his only son, sixty-three-year-old James Clark whom he thought had died several years ago.

Mr. Clark who lives at 48 Cresent Lane, Dundee, was reunited with his father in Jamie's room at the Royal British Hotel.

"Well, son," he said, his voice trembling. "I never thought I'd see ye alive."

Embracing his father with obvious emotion, Mr. Clark said: "I was sure that was what you were thinkin' about you all these years."

Father Left Because

Then came the inevitable reminiscences. Mr. Clark's son bears a striking resemblance to his father,—he is even the same height—and as the time went by Jamie and his partner played at the Palace Theatre, Dundee, on the same bill as Harry Lauder, the famous Scots singer. Highland pipers and stepdancers.

The reunion was brought about by a letter published in the Dundee newspaper. A nephew, Thomas Clark, 14 Loons Lane, read it and was positive that Jamie was his uncle. Believing the family dead when they lost touch with him during the depression years ago.

Later in the day, while out walking he saw the five-foot-two-inch Jamie coming toward him. He had never been his uncle in the flesh but recognized him immediately from the family likeness which ran through it.

After the first excitement was over they adjourned to local pub and coincidence. Jamie was brought up to date with all the family news and introduced to another couple of nephews.

A Dundee newspaper reporter wrote, "Jamie intends wearing the spotted white bow Royal Stewart kilt and feather bonnet when the Coronation. And if the occupants of the Royal British Hotel are awakened by the strains of the pipes, they'll know that Wee Jamie is celebrating in his own way."

Jamie's nephews said "there are shoals of relatives for Jamie to meet and dozens of new sights to see. The weeks are going to be crowded ones for the old man who thought he was going to be lonely."

Not Forgetting Belleville

And in the midst of this furore of welcome, Jamie is not letting his many friends and his adopted city of Belleville down. You can bet on it that Belleville is getting plenty of publicity through the best interests of Belleville.

He told the good folk of Dundee that the Belleville Kilties Band with which he toured the world and of the 9th Lad Trade Regiment band, of which he was a member for so many years, and which published his "God Speed" when he left for Scotland. And forgetting the press folk back here who made his holiday possible.

The above story was made possible through Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomson, 126 Bonsall Street, Belleville, who received a newspaper clipping and visited further Mr. Thomson's brother Jim, 14 Balmore Street, Dundee.

Mr. Thomson played his part: "I contacted wee Jamie at the hotel after some difficulty as he is busy being pestered by reporters and other well-wishers so much the old man doesn't know whether he is on his head or his heels.... He is indeed a wonderful old man. ....He is being well looked after at the hotel and his relatives are seeing to it that he is having a grand time."

Brewery Trucks All Use Cec. Irwin's Safety Idea

The use of truck fusees to cut a critical time lag in setting out flares when a truck is stopped on the highway at night has been adopted by the Brewers' Retail Company drivers across the province.

Company safety officials feel that use of these flares may prevent a number accident and all drivers are being trained in their use.

The idea is of particular interest in the Belleville district because it is the invention of a local man, "Cec." Irwin, drivers' helper with the Brewers Warehousing Company. The suggestion was made by Mr. Irwin following a fatal accident in which a passenger car crashed into the rear of a parked truck. The driver of the truck was quoted as saying the accident occurred because he had no opportunity of setting out pot flares in time.

Mr. Irwin pointed out that it takes time for a driver to get out pot flares. Fusees could be place them on the highway as quickly as possible, and are lighted quickly, affording instant protection.

Provincial Police were contacted by company officials and demonstrations of the fusees as a good one. As a result the Belleville safety suggestion was implemented and all company trucks are now fitted with the fusees cut critical time lag flare equipment.

Scandinavians Hopeful Seaway Will Boost Trade

TORONTO (CP)—Some foreign governments think the building of the St. Lawrence seaway will afford a new means for their countries to earn dollars in North America.

Jacob C. Prebensen, representative of the Norwegian Export Council in New York said Tuesday at a press conference held in connection with the Canadian National Trade Fair that the seaway will be of special benefit to Norway. His country's merchant marine, third largest in the world, brings in as much revenue as all of Norway's exports combined.

Some small Norwegian ships already serve Canadian ports, but the opening of the seaway will mean more shipping between Norway and North America and additional revenue for Norway, Mr. Prebensen said.

Norway supplies under a seven-to-one advance balance of trade with Canada. She sells $2,000,000 worth of sardines, herrings and sporting goods a year here, but buys $14,000,000 worth of Canadian goods.

Other Scandinavian representatives expressed the hope of increasing their exports to Canada. Knud Gylling, commercial counsellor of the Danish legation, said Denmark buys $5,000,000 worth of Canadian goods and sells Canada between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 worth annually. K. Kivi, Finnish commercial agent, said his homeland is trying to find new outlets for her industries after paying off hundreds of millions of dollars in reparations to Russia.

Close to 20,000 boxes of cheese were sold on the Belleville Cheese Exchange Tuesday night as the board inaugurated the federal government announcement that an end price of 28 cents per pound would be guaranteed for cheese left surplus next October.

A total of 19,179 cheese was offered on the board, including 5,322 white, 12,272 colored and 585 specials. Twenty-eight cents was the only price bid and with the exception of a few factories, all cheese went to the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board.

W. O. Coon, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association reviewed the cheese situation, noting that as result of deputations going to Ottawa, together with the efforts of the producers' organization, they had finally got around to what he hoped was a fair price for 1953 cheese.

"It's a better offer we could get from the Government and I hope the factories will accept it," he said.

In Three Phases

He noted that the government offer had been in three phases. First was the balance of 1952 production would be taken over by the government but final details were still to be worked out.

Secondly an initial price of 24 cents would be guaranteed for the 1953 production under the marketing act, with an end price for surplus cheese to be set at October at the 30 cent level.

In the meantime he was hoped that salesmen and factories would give their co-operation. Sales would be on the open market and the cheese producers' marketing board would be "in there bidding."

Mr. Coon's remarks touched off a discussion that at one time threatened to last the rest of the night with the cheese sold.

A number of factory salesmen expressed dissatisfaction with the 24c initial price, one declaring that in a similar deal last year they had been provided the same initial price with the balance on April, May and June cheese to be paid later. They still had not received the "balance" for that period of production.

Money Comhar

Mr. Coon replied that farmers still had money coming to them for 1952 cheese and this would be paid when the 1952 surplus cheese was sold. He was unable to say what this payment would be.

Another point brought out by Mr. Coon in reply to a question by W. D. Cook, cheese buyer, was that the government would not purchase cheese from buyers at 30c any cheese left on their hands next October.

Mr. Cook claimed this was being done in the face of the government support of eggs and could not see why the same procedure could not be carried out with the spect to cheese.

Mr. Coon said the government had refused to do this as it "would necessitate price support of cheese on a Dominion-wide basis." The deal offered by the government was for Ontario only, through the marketing board.

It was pointed out that if cheese sold to the trade at a price of 27c this did not necessarily mean this would be all the farmers would receive. An initial price of 24c would be paid and the balance of the money received through the season would be pooled and pro-rated back to the factories.

One salesman came up with the idea that perhaps the marketing board to purchase all cheese, hold it until October, and then receive the 30 cent guarantee from the government.

Mr. Coon replied that factories were making cheese to sell. "How would it get into the hands of the consumer if it were all held until October," he asked.

He also reminded that farmers had to have some money to operate. Under the deal offered by the government they would get an initial price of 24 cents for cheese as soon as it was sold.

But discussion still continued with a number coming from the floor to refuse to accept the 24 cent initial price. This motion was duly carried and was later rescinded when a second motion was tabled that the offer be left on the table on the board.

Another farmer thought acceptance of the 24 cent initial price would create a serious situation in that factories and cheesemakers hired and were under contract for milk handling. If 24 cents was all the farmers could see they would switch to other milk in order to receive a greater immediate return.

75,000 Ready for Sale

Cheese M. Heath agreed that the situation was serious but pointed out there were now 75,000 cheese ready for sale in Ontario and many farmers had received no money for their milk since early in April.

It was unreasonable to expect the trade to purchase more cheese than could be disposed of on the domestic and export market. There was virtually no export market today.

Under the plan proposed at least some money would be going to the producer.

"Farmers may not be ready to accept the 24 cents initial price but what better is there to be offered?" Mr. Heath asked.

U.N. Officials Hopeful Rhee Will Change Mind

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO (AP)—Leading United Nations officials are operating on the theory that the last minute South Korea's President Syngman Rhee will agree to terms of a Korean truce.

But they admit they are taking a calculated risk.

There have been no threats, no promises and no pleading with the 78-year-old leader who is threatening to wreck a Korean armistice.

News that Switzerland had refused to serve on the neutral nations commission for the exchange of prisoners of war unless South Korea was satisfied with the terms will only help bring the Republic of Korea government into line, it is predicted.

Gen. Mark Clark and his advisers were said to believe this is the only way to look at the Rhee situation because all but one of his demands have been complied with.

One has said his government will not respect a Korean truce as long as the country is not unified and as long as one Chinese Communist soldier remains in Korea.

SOCREDS ARE REBUFFED

The significance of the result of the provincial election in Manitoba on Monday is not in the return of the administration in power but in the complete rebuff of the Social Credit party by the electors of that province.

The government of Premier Douglas Campbell, now self-styled as Liberal-Progressive, has been in power since 1922 when the active participation of farmers in politics was being felt on the prairies and also in Ontario. John Bracken was chosen by the United Farmers to head their new administration and it remained in power under his leadership for over 20 years. Even with his departure into the federal field of politics the party maintained its strength in the provincial field with a record of three deeply-rooted strength, and apart from a recent short-term coalition with the Conservatives which was reached in stemming the flood tide opposition of the CCF then rising in the west, has remained the dominant political force in Manitoba.

No one looked for its defeat in Monday's voting but there were many who wondered how effective the Social Credit bid would be to attract

Pacific Defence To be Dismissed By Prime Ministers

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill has invited Prime Minister Robert Menzies of Australia and Sidney Holland of New Zealand to a Thursday meeting on Pacific defence.

Informants say Sir Winston requested that talks on the Pacific—including the Anzus pact among Australia, New Zealand and the U.S.—be held after the current conference of commonwealth prime ministers which ended Tuesday.

Canada is not likely to be represented at the Thursday discussions, though she may be kept informed, Prime Minister St. Laurent, who has attended the general Commonwealth meetings, is to return to Canada by air today.

During the last session of the Canadian Parliament some members of the parliamentary opposition urged that Mr. St. Laurent's government take steps either to join the Anzus pact or get into some wider Pacific defence alliance. External Affairs Minister Pearson replied that Canada had not been invited into Anzus but would not shirk her responsibilities if called on to join some general Pacific defence pact.

No official information was obtainable on the probable course of the British-Australia-New Zealand talks on the Pacific.

A dispatch from Canberra, published in the Times, has suggested that Britain may urge Australia and New Zealand to provide greater help in safeguarding British Commonwealth communications in Southeast Asia, particularly in Malaya.

Among the problems that may well be discussed is a possible redeployment of Allied strength in the Far East, particularly in the event of an armistice in Korea.

U.S. Abandons Effort to Settle Iran Oil Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has virtually abandoned its two-year-long efforts to mediate the oil dispute between Iran and Britain.

The flow of Iranian oil to the West has been blocked since June, 1951, because of British opposition to Iran's plan for nationalizing the $1,000,000,000 properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

U.S. ambassador Loy Henderson, who has served as on-the-spot mediator, has returned to the U.S. for a vacation. He decided prospects for any development were so slim that he could safely leave Tehran without jeopardizing any negotiations.

Henderson gave this report personally to State Secretary John Foster Dulles in Pakistan where he flew to meet the secretary, then touring the Mid-East.

Dulls himself avoided going to Iran on his 10-country visit. The ostensible reason was that Iran was too far from the other countries he intended to visit. But informants acknowledged Dulles felt he had no new ideas on how to end the Anglo-Iranian oil argument and wanted to avoid rehashing old arguments with Iranian leaders.

In view of this, the U. S. strategy now seems to be to put the Anglo-Iranian problem on ice while Britain and Iran each re-examines its position to see if new concessions are possible.

Canadians Use Specially Trained Dogs in No Man's Land Patrols

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — Canadians here have started taking dogs along on their no man's land patrols.

The British-trained Alsatians warn of enemy presence and lead the patrols to the enemy.

First Canadians to use a dog were from the 2nd battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment. Lieut. Robert H. Scullion of Hamilton took all the section leaders of his platoon out into no man's land on a reconnaissance patrol. Its mission was to get information on which to plan a raid.

The section leaders also were to learn the ground over which they later would be taking their men. The leaders were Sgt. Charles Saumier of Temiskaming, Que., Sgt. Rodney Gill of Toronto, and Pfte. Henry Priddle of Toronto and Leonard Parsons of Smiths Falls.

Few Trained Dogs

There still are only a few trained dogs, and units try to get one at will. But the RCR's experience has sold the Canadian brigade on the idea.

Scullion reported that his patrol's work was done more efficiently in half the usual time. And the dog's keenness imparted greater confidence to him and the men.

Their British handlers accompany the dogs.

Scullion's patrol an eight-month-old Alsatian was handled by Pte. George Ball of Leicester, England, a 19-year-old who has lived and worked with him for five months. It was the man-dog team's ninth patrol.

Ball said that only weather affects performance; rains or wet ground affected the scent.

When scent is picked, the dogs are supposed to freeze. The handler takes a firmer grip and says "seek" if the commander wants to close with the enemy.

Makes no Noise

As the patrol draws near the enemy the dog pants quicker but, trained not to bark or whine, makes no other noise.

"The confidence you get is terrific," said Scullion later. "You can really clip along. The biggest strain on a man here is the time he spends in the valley (between the Canadian and Chinese hill - top positions) on patrol. On ordinary patrols you've got to go slowly and carefully, taking cover all the while, lest enemy groups spot you.

"It's amazing, too, how friendly the dogs are to white men, and how hostile to orientals. We were told we couldn't take Ratomos (Korean Army troops attached to the Commonwealth division) with us on patrol."

Police Rule Out Theory of Murder At Millbrook

MILLBROOK (CP) — Ontario provincial police have ruled out the theory of murder in the mysterious death here Monday of Jack William Smith, 20-year-old farmer. Mrs. Smith, the victim's mother, found her son lying on the ground beside his hay wagon with a bullet through his heart.

Police said they believe a stray bullet, fired in target practice or hunting, caused the youth's death.

Mrs. Smith, who went to get her son a cup of tea before the shooting, said her son was hammering at the rack of a hay wagon at 1:30 p.m. She said she heard the hammering stop and discovered the body at 2:45 p.m.

Turtle Disappears

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —The bets are off here. The turtle has disappeared.

Headed north between the rails of the Algoma Central Railway's main line, the turtle was the subject of speculation Monday as forest rangers and railwaymen placed bets on his destination.

The wagering was based on this:

If the switch at Hawk Junction was open, the Turtle would head was killed.

for Lake Superior at Michipicoten Harbor, 40 miles up the line. If it was closed, the next stop was Hearst, 145 miles north.

But now there is no sign of the turtle. The lure of the bush apparently was too much.

SABRE JET CRASHES

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A spokesman for the Canadian branch of Parke, Davis and Company, Ltd., said Tuesday property has been purchased in Brockville, as a possible site for a new plant but "we are definitely no plans being made" for erection of the plant during 1953.

J. Howard Stephenson said in a statement made on behalf of the drug manufacturing company that it has for some time considered improving manufacturing facilities in Canada.

"The trend today is towards single-floor operation" the statement said.

Weddings

COOPER—MINAKER

PICTURESQUE with baskets of summer flowers decorating the altar, St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was the scene of a lovely wedding, Sunday afternoon, when Elaine Merle Minaker, daughter of Mrs. Clifford Gerow, Picton, became bride of George Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cooper, Picton. Rev. W. McClean officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Cecelia Foilard was at the organ and Mrs. Ronald Colliver was soloist.

Given in marriage by Clifford Gerow, the bride wore a gown of white nylon net over satin, featuring a bodice of lace with long sleeves coming to points over the wrists, a standup collar and small buttons down the front. The lace continued into an overskirt made in a panier effect. She wore a Dutch style cap of lilies of the valley with fingertip length veil, and carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Thera Falconer, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore mamaizine nylon net over satin, made in strapless pattern with a matching stole of the net. Her coronet was of silver and she carried deep pink roses. The bridesmaids' dresses were made silks of nylon net over taffeta in an off-the-shoulder style and they wore silver coronets. Mrs. Lorie Minaker chose green and carried pink roses, while Miss Joan Sloan chose lilac shade, carried yellow roses. Miss Sandy Pierson, as flower girl, was sweet in a dress of pink net over taffeta with bandeau of pink flowers and net in her hair. She carried a nosegay of white roses.

Les Anderson, Toronto, was groomsman. Ushers were Lorie Minaker, brother of the bride and Dennis Cooper, brother of the groom.

Reception Held

A reception was held at the Falcons' where peonies, lupin, lilies and spirea were used in decoration. Mrs. Gerow, mother of the bride, wore beige lace over satin with matching hat and accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother was in navy sheer with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses. Servers were Miss Arlene Dodds, of Toronto; Miss Patsy Farmer, of Belleville; Misses Lois Kerr, Lois Brooks, Margery Dodds and Dawn Cooper, Picton.

For a motor trip to New York, the bride wore a poudre blue dress and stole with white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. For their return Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will reside in Collingwood.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Osmond Elliott and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Steele, Kingston; Mrs. Arlene Dodds and Hazel, Toronto; Mrs. Ronio; Miss Patsy Farmer, Belleville; William Thompson, Hamilton.

BROOKS—MOFFATT

Marmora Free Methodist Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon as Betty Eileen Moffatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moffatt, of Marmora township, became the bride of Charles Stanley Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Brooks, of Deloro. The pastor, Rev. G. H. Bache, officiated. The interior of the church lent itself well to a decorative scheme in which tulips, peonies, iris, snowballs, spirea and fern were well-used.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Ronald Beckett and solos were rendered by Kenneth Snider, consisting of "Because", and "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was daintily attired in a floor length dress of powder blue nylon with matching feather trim on the sweetheart neckline. She carried a bouquet of red roses and fern.

Miss Donna Moffatt was her sister's bridesmaid, frocked in pink nylon with matching hat and gloves and carried a bouquet of pink roses and fern.

Thomas Brooks, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and another brother, Robert Brooks, of Peterborough, with Clifford Gregory, of Niagara Falls, Ont., discharged ushers' duties.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received in a gown of navy blue with white hat and corsage of pink carnations. Similarly attired was the bridegroom's mother, who assisted. Friends of the bride acted as waitresses namely, Jean Brooks, Jean Moffatt, Wilma McKinnon, Joan Shannon, Gwendolyn Jones and Ivy Peck.

Later, the bride and bridegroom left on a trip to western points, and, on United States, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit with navy blue and white accessories. On their return they will live in Marmora.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Trenton, Norwood, Peterborough, Toronto and Niagara Falls, Ont.

Many Showers Fete Bride-to-Be

Miss Barbara Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Wood, 10 Evans Street, bride-to-be of this month, has been honored with many showers during the last week, among these was a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Florence Lathurgie, 312 Charles Street, with Miss Lathurgie and Miss Marie Sloan as co-hostesses, at which time the evening was spent in playing games and a social get-together.

A beautifully decorated chair was provided for the bride-elect who was presented with many lovely gifts.

A linen shower also was held recently in the church parlors of the College Hill Church, sponsored by the Young People's Society. In addition, the choir of the church presented Barbara with an electric tea kettle and the Woman's Association, gave her a miscellaneous shower, at which time a "Tom Thumb" model marriage was held, providing a happy interlude.

Giving Medicine To Junior? Some Advice

For parents faced with the problem of getting Junior to take a dose of medicine, Dr. L. Eugene Dally, writing in the latest issue of Health, lists the following do's and don'ts:

Be casual, relaxed and matter of fact about giving the medicine—don't anticipate trouble.

Don't be afraid to use juice, syrup or soda if the medicine itself does not have a pleasant taste—mixing it with something sweet in no way affects the strength of the dosage.

Don't use threats, intimidation or force to get it into his mouth and don't bribe the child or let him blackmail you—you may get the medicine down this way, but it is no way to build character.

Don't try to corner the boy or youngster, tower over him and give him the feeling he is being attacked—get down on his level and the whole task is easier for both of you.

Be ready to talk about something pleasant, but if the child insists on talking about the medicine be honest with him and explain why he must take it.

If you can catch him busy at play so much the better.

And remember, many of the medicines prepared for children today have a much more pleasant flavor than the castor oil you may recall with horror from your own childhood.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

What Has Become Of Natural Beauty?

Some poet whose name we have forgotten wrote that the lovely coloring on his lady's cheeks was "like the faint streaks of dawn." Sounds pretty, huh? It seems that, in the old days, a lot of blushing went on. Nothing doing along that line nowadays. Blushing is just about the only trick a girl can't learn.

Complexions are better, finer, healthier than in the days of your grandmother's young ladyhood, as she will tell you. But they are not colorful. "Such war of white and red within her cheeks," wrote Shakespeare. These beauty wars are continuing, but the red comes out of a rouge compact.

Considering how far the beauty-seeking contingent has progressed along the health-and-beauty road, you'd think that skin loveliness would include fine coloring. We have plenty of outdoor life. Look at the bathing beauties in the summer time! Our lungs are air-conditioned, and that means normal circulation.

The balanced diet is something about which we have heard ably during the last few decades. Fresh vegetables and all kinds of fruit are available all the year round. They furnish us with vitamins and mineral salts, supposed to be beauty rations. You'd think that better nutrition would bring the cheek coloring that has been lost to the present generation.

The daily bath, of cosmetic values, has become an institution helps the skin all over the body to function normally.

Why then is pallor so common a good-looks liability? There are two guesses: One life is delirious, too rushed, too hectic, and two, few women get as much sleep as they should have to restore energy. What girl or woman ever has the opportunity to grab forty winks during the day? Not the career girl, naturally, nor the homemaker who tramps the domestic treadmill, looks after the kids, is cook, nurse and seamstress.

Even women who apparently have nothing to do, do it at the expense of a great deal of energy. Women of wealth and leisure have charities and social affairs that keep them on the jump.

Relaxation is the answer, plus longer sleeping periods.

Elon College, first of the great English "public" schools, was founded in 1440.

He moved to Toronto in 1903 as assistant manager of the Hartford Insurance Company in Canada, and joined the Sun Life in 1913.

DROWNS IN QUARRY

FREELTON (CP) — Herbert Workman, 19, of Hamilton was drowned Tuesday in an abandoned quarry on the Gore sideroad near Puslinch in spite of the efforts of his three chums to save him. Quick-cooked Cream Cabbage

Pineapple (or Banana) Cream Pie

Directions

In banana-growing countries underripe, bananas are cooked and used as a staple starch food, much as we use potatoes. One night I dreamed of a beautiful platterful of sautsed bananas, and nothing could hold me until I'd bought some underripe bananas and sautsed them—in bread daylight.

The flavor of a ripe banana eaten from your hand remains unchallenged. But the sautsed banana that I dreamed up were different, for they were not a dessert at all, but were served as an accompaniment to Baked Ham. I tried to make them as beautiful in reality as they were in my dream. Without being consulted Pete said "I think those are good enough for your readers Mum"—and he knows that has to be good, and that is what I was hoping for.

Sautsed Bananas

Six firm green-tipped bananas, 2 tablespoons each lemon juice and butter; salt, pepper, paprika. Peel, then cut bananas in halves crosswise. Brush with the lemon juice. Heat the butter in a frying pan, but do not brown it. Add the bananas and saute them for 8 minutes or until golden brown and tender, turning them once. Heat should be gentle. Sprinkle with salt and paprika and pepper. These are good with many meat dishes.

Baked Ham Slice

Cut 2-lb. slice smoked ham 1-inch thick is spread with a mixture of 1-4 cup brown sugar and 2 teaspoons (or less) dry mustard. Place in shallow baking dish, barely cover with milk or skim milk and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 2 hours or until tender. Garnish the ham slice on the hot platter with the sautsed bananas.

Quick-Cooked Cream Cabbage

Shred cabbage until you have 4 well-packed cups (to serve 4 people.) Cook this in the top of double boiler with 1 tablespoons butter and 1 cup hot milk and about 1 teaspoon salt. Turn it over occasionally. The cooking time depends on the fineness of the shredded cabbage—20 minutes to 30 minutes will be plenty. The cabbage absorbs some of the milk but if yours is too thin to serve neatly thicken it with a teaspoon flour stirred into a little water.

Pineapple Cream Pie

One cup sugar and 4 tablespoons cornstarch are mixed together then 1-3 cup hot water and 1 cup pineapple juice (drained from canned pineapple) are stirred into them until thick. Cook over boiling water 15 minutes. Pour a little of this over 3 beaten egg yolks, then return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer, stirring. Remove from heat and add 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 1-4 teaspoons grated lemon rind and 1 1-4 cups well-drained canned crushed pineapple. Pour into baked pie shell. When cold top with whipped cream or cover with meringue made from leftover 3 egg whites beaten stiff with 6 tablespoons sugar. Bake meringue at 400 deg. Fahr. for 8 or 10 min.

Variation

If you prefer Banana Cream use milk instead of water and pineapple juice, leave out lemon and rind, and reduce sugar to 3-3 cup. Add 3 sliced bananas instead of crushed pineapple.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Letter from Jerry to Terry

Most of the letters written to this column, of course, are from people in trouble. People who are heartbroken because their confidence in husband or wife has been destroyed. People who are distraught because a son or a daughter has failed them in some way. People who live in homes where there is constant quarrelling and bitterness, and who see the future as nothing but a dead end. People who are lonely and despairing because they don't know how to make friends.

This is to name only a few of the reasons why people write to me, and why it sometimes seems as though the world were inhabited almost exclusively by men, women and children who have been made hopeless by suffering.

What keeps me from believing this, however, is that every so often I hear from someone who is making such a brave fight to overcome an obstacle, or solve some complicated problem, that one takes new heart from the thought of how many there are who face their difficulties with the highest courage and the most incredible cheerfulness.

Today I want to share with you a letter written by a young woman who tells me that she has only one arm. The reason she has written, is because a few weeks ago she read a letter here from a young woman who signed herself "Terry," and who was unspeakably depressed because, she said, she had few friends, and no dates, and thought it was because she had one crossed eye. Now along comes this letter from the one-armed girl wanting to comfort Terry and make some suggestions to her. How many of us, I wonder would be able to write a letter like the following if we suffered from some comparable handicap?

Dear Be Depressed

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Reading the letter in your column on May 14th, from Terry, impressed me so much that I want to write a letter that may help her out, as I have a handicap of my own. That is, some people think it is a handicap, but I don't.

"I have an arm off, so no boys want to go with me, but I don't let that get me down. I just grab a girl friend and go out dancing, swimming or some other place and have a good time. I don't say that I am any different because I have just one hand instead of two. One must not let anything depress them, or lead a miserable life because of a small handicap.

"I wish you would send my name and address to Terry so I could write directly to her, and she could write directly to me, because I would like to tell her about the club I have formed in my town especially for girls with handicaps, and perhaps I could get her to form a similar club in her town that would help her meet lots of people. I wish you would send her this letter and see if she cares to do this, so that she can have clean decent fun in a real club with others."

Terry, where are you?

When you wrote to me, you didn't give me your full name or your address, so I can't send you this letter that is intended for you. Incidentally, you'll be interested to know that the girl who wrote it has a name that rhymeswith yours. Her name is Jerry. Sounds like a good name, don't you think, for two ought to get together through the mails? Jerry sounds to me like a girl whose friendship would be decidedly worth having.

So let me hear from you, Terry and tell me where I can send Jerry's letter so that you will have her full name and address. This is a chance for you to get out of that "Slough of Despond," where, as you wrote me in your letter, you "just sit and cry, thinking about the miserable life I lead and wondering why I had to be put into the world." I have a feeling that it's Jerry who can show you the way out if you will give her the opportunity to do it.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

When Relatives Make "Give" Gestures Only

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Most of my business's relatives are delightful and friendly people, and he and I see them quite frequently and thoroughly enjoy the get-togethers. But there is one family of close relatives who never seem to see us, never invite us to come to see them, nor indeed ever pay any attention to us except when there is a "gimme" slant in the invitation or contact. For example, when there is to be a shower given for one of the several daughters in the family, or a wedding reception for a son or daughter, or the buying of tickets for some group or organization in which they are interested, Mr. husband and I don't want to do anything we'll regret, but we would like your advice as to what is proper.

Grateful Readers

In the lives of most of us there are, alas, such families, very often our relatives, very often in-laws, occasionally persistent acquaintances. The only response to these blatant and continuing gestures-for-handouts is common sense. It is for you and your husband to do as you feel inclined to do. However, even if you prefer not to give gifts, you should respond courteously to the invitation; you shouldn't just disregard any invitation or ignore those who issue it. You owe some to a formal invitation. write a formal regret for an informal invitation write a note of regret. This will imply that you aren't sending a present, say a shower present or a wedding present. And if you don't want to subscribe to tickets they send, just courteously return the tickets, politely thanking the sender and explaining that your budget is assigned to the service of the organizations in which you have responsibilities.

Excellent Idea. . . For Groom's Cards To Use Rehearsal Dinner

Dear Mrs.Beeckman:

My cousin is a groom-to-be, to be married next month in this city where I live.' I know his fiancee and her parents quite well, although we are not intimate friends.I had been thinking about giving a bridal shower for his fiancee. But since I am his only relative living in his city, do you think it would be better to give the rehearsal dinner

(2) If you approve of my giving the rehearsal dinner, whom should I invite?

C.

(1) A perfect plan for you to give the rehearsal dinner. I am sure your cousin would be delighted and also proud of your kind and generous suggestion. . and I am sure too that his fiancee and her family would also be extremely pleased. For you, relative of the prospective groom, to give a bridal shower would not be in good taste. . . but it is in excellent taste for a relative of the groom to give the rehearsal dinner.

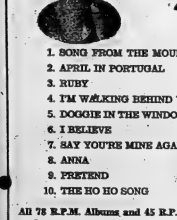
(2) Consult first, of course, with your cousin, then with his fiancee's family, your invitations must include not only the wedding attendants, but also, of course, the fiancee's mother and father, hosts of the wedding, you and your husband, hosts of the party, and the groom's mother and father, if they are to be at the wedding. Then you may invite, if you wish,any others who are closely concerned with the wedding. (And remember, if a dinner before the rehearsal is not convenient for most, you may, with propriety, give a supper, seated or buffet, before or after the rehearsal.)

Fashion Flashes

The little furs this season are most attractive in every price,category, and serve to remind women that there are other furs than mink. There's a versatility and theatrical verve, for instance, in a shawl of black Alaska sealskin with a thick, tasseled edge, especially when worn off bare shoulders with evening clothes or over a silk daytime dress or suit.

Attractive hats are coming into the shops for Summer. One such is a small hat of white shantung in the form with a flare in the side front, where, it is weighted down with one pink and one red rose.

The applause at a recent fashion show of Italian dresses went to a strapless full-length evening dress of tiered white silk organdie, the spreading skirt appliqued with pink velvet roses with black, velvet stems and leaves. The smart woman, a good dressmaker, is going to copy this beauty.



The success of the season is the silk coat done on tailored rather than fussy lines. A full-length, matchbox coat is of silk tweed in black and white, has a black velvet collar and Thibetan lambskin and is as smart and attractive as can be.

Wellington on the Lake

THE LILAC

Beside the farm-house, old and grey,
The lilac waves its purple plume,
And blossoms bright with dewy spray
Shed all around a sweet perfume;
And as the purple banners toss
Amid the breezes of the day,
The heart turns back with sense of loss
To find an old-time garden gay.

There lilacs bloomed beside the door,
An enchanted spot it seemed to me,
And one whose voice is heard no more
Was there to share its joys with me;
And ever now when Spring returns
And lilacs bloom beside the gates,
For her loved voice my spirit yearns
While I can only trust and wait.

— Helen B. Anderson.

Wellington — "What's as rare as a day in June?" With the lilacs in bloom and the tulips still in array, and the scarlet poppies making a bright splash of color, the garden is very beautiful. But amid all the natural splendor we seem to have been living in the heart of old London, for with reading of the Coronation and listening over radio, we have been living in our imagination in the heart of England.

So on Tuesday morning, June 2, we rose early to view television at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater, Oak Street, where we found several neighbors assembled to enjoy a view of the coronation of Elizabeth II. Then later in the afternoon we viewed the parade and enjoyed the service in the park where a large crowd had assembled. The Picton Oddfellows Band accompanied the parade and played in the park, accompanying the singing of several hymns and the National Anthem. Reeve Clemmon was in charge and speakers included Rev. A. Poulter, Rev. C. P. Heaven, and Mr. Solder, principal of the public school. The school pupils and their teachers joined in the parade. A memorial wreath was placed at the entrance of the park gates.

Coronation Church Service

At the Sunday morning Coronation service in the United Church there was a capacity congregation, when the printed program was followed, with the pastor, Rev. Poulter, in charge. The presentation of two flags, by Billie Pettingill, representing the Scouts, and Miss Carley Cleave (representing the Girl Guides, and the unveiling of the roll of honor in War II by Master Taylor, whose father made the supreme sacrifice, formed an important part of the service which closed with the singing of God Save the Queen.

In these celebrations one could feel not only a sense of renewed loyalty to the crown and the commonwealth, but also a feeling of reverence and devotion to the God of our fathers.

The Coronation Tea in the town hall on Wednesday afternoon, sponsored by the W.A. of the United Church was very enjoyable and successful. The hall was nicely decorated and the tables attractive. A nice table of home cooking was in charge of Mrs. Will Adams. We hear that $901 was realized.

Miss Nellie Arthur and Miss Clara Anderson, Belleville, were among those who enjoyed the coronation tea.

Rev. C. P. Heaven and Mrs. Heaven, with Mrs. Craig Platt and with D. Good Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McFaul were among those who motored to Kingston recently to attend the Anglican Coronation service there.

Mr. and Mrs. McAllister, of Bowmanville, were week-end guests of Miss M. Lumb and Gladys.

Mourn Death of Friend

The sudden passing of Mrs. Elsie Humphrey at the home of her sister, Mrs. Arthur Good Murphy has cast a gloom over the neighborhood. The funeral service was held in the Ainsworth Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. (Rev.) Ted Poulter and children, of Toronto, spent a few days at the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, of Belleville, spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater.

Mrs. Lettie Fox, Belleville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Blakely, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warden Sanders, Toronto, were called to Wellington owing to the death of his aunt, Mrs. Humphreys.

The June meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Effie Phillips and opened the meeting with repeating the pledge. With the president at the piano all joined in singing "Some Glad Day." The devotional was taken by Mrs. Frank Harris, who after reading a Psalm gave an inspiring address on "Broadcasting for God," dwelling on the influence of our daily life on others. Following some interesting plans and discussions the meeting closed, after which a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Eldon Walt.

The home of Mrs. Burlingham, East Main Street, has been purchased by Mr. Wannamaker, Wharf St.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cochrane and son, Peterborough, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton.

A New Journal

A new journal, "The Mapleden Freedom," devoted to poetry and philosophy, has been received from Toronto, from which I quote the following poem by the editor:

FANTASY

I am dreaming of the maples,
The maples tall and green,
That shade the old concession road
In lovely Mapledene.
They make the simple countryside
A rare idyllic scene.

I dream of waving meadows
And fields of golden grain,
Oh, would I could go wandering
About those fields again;
But ill'd rather see the maples
That fills my heart with pain.

For I would go a-wandering
Far from the city's stir,
Where life runs the road to Bryanston
And it's up the road to Birr,
And over yonder hilltop
The Medway valley lies.

Oh, I would go a-wandering
'Neath the maples tall and green,
Where flashing in the Medway
A lonely heron cries.

News Items from Rawdon

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

Rawdon — On Sunday evening, June 14th, a special preaching mission will convene at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, in connection with their centennial observances.

Rev. Gordon Crosley Hunter will spend one week in Stirling and it is expected that visitors from Rawdon, Sidney and other nearby townships will plan to attend in great numbers.

During the winter of 1916-17 special services were conducted as St. Paul's by Evangelists Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Metcalfe and large numbers from Rawdon circuit assisted the Stirling choir.

The service on Sunday evening will be on the theme "The Revival That Is Never Finished" and begins at 7.30 p.m.

The week-night services, Monday to Friday, begin at 8 p.m. and there is a special service on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. for women only.

The closing service will be held on Sunday, June 21st., in the form of a Masonic service in the morning. In the evening there will be a union service of the South Hastings Young People, when the evangelist will address the gathering on the subject, "The Adventure That Never Dims."

Everyone is welcome to attend these services and hear a new message suited to the old, old story of God's redeeming love.

Sermon Topics

The weekly topics beginning Monday, June 15, are: "The Love That Never Lets Go"; "Christ That Never Fails"; The Church That Never Falters"; "Grace That Never Ceases"; and "The Roads That Never Close."

There will be a service of prayer and fellowship preceding the various services.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mulheron and Margaret, Mrs. Walter Warren, Dorothy and Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and daughter, Miss Verna Brown, Mrs. Russell Hubel, Russell and Ronald; attended Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Miss Ruth Dafoe, Forest Pleasant, were among those who attended the recital of Mrs. A. E. Baker, at St. Paul's United Church Monday evening.

Born—On Saturday, June 6, 1953, at Belleville General Hospital, to Rawdon, to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tucker, Stirling, a daughter, Ronan Diana, a sister for Donna and Wayne.

Last Sunday evening, Hoards' Young Adult group sponsored a very special service at St. Stephen's Church. Members and representatives were in attendance from various other organizations in the district.

Attend Dedication

Immediate Past Grand Master Fred Bateman, Stirling, and Mrs. Bateman, attended a special dedication ceremony at Oshawa on Thursday, when the new Orange Hall in that city was officially opened. Grand Master Gordon Keys presided over service and Mr. Bateman brought greetings from Ontario East and spoke briefly.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe, Carol and Jeffrey, Forest Pleasant, attended Eggleton United Church anniversary on Sunday and spent the day with relatives.

Centennial Year Book

The Centennial Year Book of St. Paul's United Church is a masterpiece of historic information from "The Cradle of St. Paul's down through the century to the present day affairs". This book contains a "who's who" of St. Paul's, Stirling, that is well worth the price of the book. There are many pictures of those entered throughout its pages together with a very interesting history, which we have served in Stirling, formerly known as Rawdon.

The book is dedicated to the loyal pioneers who established homes, families, churches and their altars and meeting houses, built schools and carried on the Lord's work in the wilderness.

The book gives a graphic picture of "Circuit Preachers," The Vandervoorts of Sidney, The Baptists of Rawdon, the Rivers Valley district, the various church organizations, and the many an inaccuracy from early days when tuning forks were used to the very efficient work of Mrs. A. E. Baker, who is an exceptional and experienced leader of Sunday School choirs and who is the organist and director.

The clerk of the session, George Carlisle, in his paper on the parsonage family, says in part. "The congregation of St. Paul's is grateful for the loyalty and leadership of Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker. They are dreamers with the initiative to make dreams come true. These faithful servants of our Lord have sustained the best traditions of the past century and replenished our lamps with the oil of Christian endeavor as we move to meet the challenge of the next hundred years."

The printers released 300 copies of this centennial year book last Saturday and the other 400 copies should arrive this week.

The book was compiled by Rev. A. E. Baker with Rev. George Brockwell, Mrs. Baker and the late Mrs. John Mulheron, president of Bethel W.A., Mrs. Will Heath, secretary, Mrs. Edgar McKeown, Mrs. Stewart Brown, Mrs. James Barron and Mrs. Harold Elliott attended the W.A. convention in Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clare recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy and Floyd of Madoc on Sunday.

Carmel United Church held a Mother and Daughter banquet with a large attendance. The junior choir occupied the choir loft and contributed to the program.

A large number of folk attended the Anniversary Tea at Batawa conducted Church on Wednesday afternoon.

Mission Band

Wallman's Daisy Mission Band held their second meeting at the church on Sunday morning, with over forty in attendance. This included the two leaders and eleven visitors.

Mrs. Clancy Chumbley presided and the theme of the worship was "As Christians, tells others of Christ" The president told the story, "Jesus and an African girl. Miss Yvonne King read the Bible lesson and Miss Arnie Drake sang her sister's prayer. The offering was gathered by a Baby Band consisting of Graham.

The leader, Mrs. Burton Moore, then told the story, "A Trip to Grandfather's Farm."

The assistant leader closed the meeting after which Joy Graham repeated "The Mission Band Prayer."

At the sixth Mission Band meeting held recently the children sang "Christ That Never Fails"; the Church That Never Falters"; "Grace That Never Ceases" and "The Roads That Never Close."

There will be a service of prayer and fellowship preceding the various services.

The missions and committees are now busy making plans for the boys' and girls' camps at Quin-Mo-Lac.

Ball games are the order of each day with competitions among the various schools. Last week Forest Pleasant School pupils won the score over S.S. No. 7 Sunny School when they defeated Rawdon School with a score of 11-4.

The play-offs take place this week and the winners in the league are very interested. The ball games will be broken up each noon hour in order to have time for ball after recess.

Prayer Services

Mr. and Mrs. Claire West opened their home for the Wednesday cottage prayer service last week in connection with St. Paul's Centennial services.

Mrs. Clifford Lansing gave an interesting message on the theme "Building." She pointed out that Christians should work with construction gangs and help to build a perfect world. She urged that God's work is the only lasting investment, and a life of service to His Kingdom is the only life that will be remembered by future generations. The speaker urged every one to use their talents for God and to carry their problem to Him for help and guidance.

Elder Cecil Macklin presided and Elder William West read the Bible lesson. Miss Sandra West presided at the piano for the gospel hymns.

Misses Jean Anne Mayhew, Joan Fraser and Sandra West sang "Footprints of Jesus" with Mrs. Francis Jeffery as accompanist.

Miss Susie Dees sang a solo and Susie and Billy West sang "Holy Spirit Hear Us."

Others who assisted in the service were Mr. George Carlisle and Mrs. Cecil Macklin.

Refreshments were served and a delightful social hour enjoyed.

About 40 people attended the last of the cottage prayer services held in connection with the coming of the Mission Mission at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood of Bethel Line. The presiding officers were Elders Volney Richardson and Edwin Warren.

Mrs. Ed. Bateman gave a special address on the theme "The Crown That Endures." She told of the resplendent jewels in Queen Elizabeth's crown and explained that the cross, centred with a sapphire, was symbolic of loyalty, almost 3,000 diamonds for purity; the ruby which signifies sacrifice and the emerald for a resurgence of youth and pearls for humility. Mrs. Elliott read a delightful poem, "The Light of the World," which she had composed with the theme for the Bible quotation: "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."

Mrs. Harold Richardson contributed a vocal selection. Mrs. E. Warren read the Bible lesson and Mr. Phillip Carey, West Huntingdon, offered prayer. Rev. W. E. Smith pronounced the benediction.

The hostess and assistants served light refreshments.

The Hunter mission will open at 7.30 p.m. on June 14th. In St. Paul's church and everyone is welcome to attend any or all of the services.

Mr. Ray Sharp, teacher at Rush Point Public School, returned to his home at Mount Pleasant, last week and Ray is entertaining the "mumps."

Mr. Bey and Mrs. R. R. Bonsted attended a wedding in Odessa, on Saturday, June 6.

Liberals Fight Among Selves Over Candidates

VANLEEK HILL (CP)—One of two Liberal associations in the contested riding of Stormont prepared Tuesday night nominated Raymond Bruneau as its "official candidate" in the by-election scheduled federal election.

Mr. Bruneau, Liberal member for Prescott in the present Parliament, received unanimous support at a nomination meeting.

The other Liberal association in the riding of Stormont nominated a candidate for Thursday night. It is expected to nominate L. C. Jamieson, former Liberal member for Glengarry, as its "official" candidate in the federal election.

Prescott and Glengarry were merged last year into one riding for the federal election. Members of the two separate Liberal organizations have refused to confederate and so far central party headquarters in Ottawa have not given official stamp to either one.

MANY RESIDENTS ANSWER APPEAL

As a result of an appeal on Tuesday for the rare type O, Rh negative blood, which was needed in addition and opened his prepaid envelope to find a cheque for $5 from Mrs. Walter Ash and Mrs. Ethel Ash, of Foxboro.

Spokesmen there stated phones in the institution were crowded with calls from persons offering their services as donors all evening. It was the second time that calls were from persons unaware of their blood type had rolled in to some in the hospital and be typed.

The patient's physician described the man's condition as "improved this morning.

Anyone in the city and district having relatives in the Belleville disaster area in the United States may phone Mrs. A. W. Ketcheson, number 879, for information.

The service is supplied by the Red Cross through the Toronto headquarters as communication by private efforts is uncertain following the storm. It is also used by getting in touch with Mrs. Ketcheson.

SWISS WON'T ACT

Two other members of the five-country commission indicated they would not be affected by the Swiss decision.

Sweden, India Accept

Sweden announced the Swedish foreign ministry said in Stockholm that Sweden's acceptance of membership on the commission carried no condition of South Korean approval. India's Premier Jawaharlal Dehli the Indian foreign office indicated it has been understood there would put no such conditions on its service.

Poland and Czechoslovakia, nonloses of the Communist side, also are expected to take part.

President Syngman Rhee of South Korea has contended he and his people could not accept any armistice arrangement which would leave Korea divided and has threatened to fight on alone.

The Swiss rejection was described by chairman Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.) of the senate foreign relations committee as threatening the whole prospective armistice.

Senator Walter George of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the committee, said Rhee and the others clung to the belief that U.S. bombing time can be persuaded President Rhee to accept the terms as they stand.

ABBOTT URGES

"Any government would be failing in its duty," said Mr. Abbott. "If it did not protect itself over threats of artificial restrictions on the U. S. markets for some of our export products, such as cheese or oats, lead or zinc."

Spread to Europe

"We feel ound to protest against tariff increases which they have a direct effect on our standard of living."

Behind the barrier of import controls, production costs tended to rise, he said, because "featherbedding" tended to pervade the economy. Import controls set the stage for inflation, he added.

The Canadian government believes that multilateral trade and free flow of goods undermines the Communist threat to the western world. It worked against Canada's policy of lowering barriers against imports from the United States and similar concessions from other countries.

"Personally, whenever I hear of a demand for a high tariff or any form of protection," said Mr. Abbott, "I suspect there has been some failure of marketing ability."

MICHIGAN-OHIO

The Flint twister swept through a tightly packed area of modest factory-owned homes in the border metropolitan district levelling everything but a few trees in a business four-block area.

The nightmarish visitation was called the worst the worst disaster in Michigan history.

Brig.-Gen. Leroy J. Maitland, Michigan civil defence director, estimated the total property damage in Flint would exceed $10,000,000.

He said this figure included 130 homes destroyed, 30 per cent or more damaged, 176 automobiles destroyed, 200 damaged and school 40 per cent destroyed and the destruction of two churches.

Start Clearing Roads

Maitland said that workers late Tuesday began to turn their attention from finding dead and injured to clearing the streets to permit the beginning of rebuilding.

Most of the men were given Tuesday and Wednesday off. Some continued through the night, however, under the glare of flood lights powered by portable generators and trucks. Night operations were curtailed by the lack of adequate lighting facilities and other equipment into tanks of liquefied petroleum gas to prevent explosion of the residents for cooking.

Contributions for relief poured in, including $50,000 from General Motors, which operates several of major plants in Flint.

Gardeners Called Out

More than 500 Michigan national guardsmen, 150 state police and unestimated hundreds of police from all over the state, patrolled the area to prevent looting and kept it tightly blocked off.

Hospital personnel in four Flint hospitals and a Red Cross fatigue fought through the second night to save the lives of the most seriously injured.

KINSEY REPORTS AGAIN

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)— Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey will disclose his findings about the sex life of women Aug. 20. Newspaper and magazine writers here this week are reading proofs of his long-awaited book, "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female." They are under pledge not to reveal their and their editors what the book says until that date.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

WORCESTER

Early casualty lists showed a sprinkling of Canadian and French names. Many of Worcester's 264,000 residents have relatives in Canada or are of French-Canadian descent.

Red Shell Shock Victims

A National Guard officer described the scene at the college as like "just after the last bomb has labelled." He added that a number of clergymen were in a dazed condition "like shell shock victims."

State police said it will be hours, and possibly days, before rescue workers go through all the piles of debris to determine the full number of dead and injured.

The crushing wind ripped whole families in their homes as they prepared for their night meal.

The tornado struck the heavily-populated Worcester area less than 24 hours after a similar storm had possible assistance to those who can't help themselves.

New Zealand's Welfare Head Criticizes State Assistance

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — After four years in office, New Zealand's prime minister of social welfare, Mrs. Hilda Ross, has formed some decided views on the welfare state. New Zealand was a pioneer of this conception and built up one of the most complete social security structures in the world. 14 years of Labor rule before the present National party government came in office.

Too Much Help

The present government has maintained and even extended the system, but Mrs. Ross thinks some aspects of it are open to criticism. Here are some points she made in a luncheon address to women:

"Too many people will able to help themselves are getting help from the welfare state. The government should not be father and mother to the community. It should concentrate on giving the utmost

Teachers' War Service To Count for Certificates

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of education announced Monday that qualifications for teachers' certificates have been revised to allow compensation for time spent by teachers in the armed forces.

The department said that under the new scheme teachers can subtract 30 months of service in the armed forces or 15 years teaching experience for the five grade 13 certificate.

Christmas Reading

"I'll probably get my neck chopped off for this, but I wish we had never heard of state houses 'government houses erected in Samoa in New Zealand. At present people are not saving and building, but are applying for state houses, then sitting back and waiting."

Here are some other conclusions reached by New Zealand's only woman minister during her time in office:

"The more you say, the more you're heard—and the bigger assistance you make of yourself, the more one might get.

Coal Industry In Nova Scotia In Poor Shape

HALIFAX (CP)—The ailing coalfields of Nova Scotia's coal industry has again been brought into the public eye. Impending closure of Dominion Coal Company's once-thriving 1-B colliery at Glace Bay.

Union and provincial government officials have made tentative approaches to petition Ottawa for the second time in four months for assistance to the industry.

The company claims that 1-B lost $1,500,000 last year. 92,180 tons of coal produced. Daily production per man in the onetime underground shortage has dropped from 3¾ tons in 1929 to 1½ tons today.

In talks with provincial cabinet ministers, the company offered to keep the mine running if production reached 3,000 tons daily this week, but output has fallen short of that.

The union termed the proposal "inadequate," but was reported to have submitted that the colliery could be put on a paying basis if production methods were improved.

Announcement of the closure came at a time of deadlocked contract negotiations between management and the 10,000-member union. A conciliation board studying the

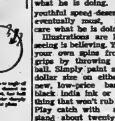
How to Play Winning Baseball

By ARTHUR MANN

PITCHING—PART 2

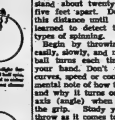
All baseball players learn sooner or, later that pitching is the art of deception. "Blowing" a ball past the batter is for strong young backs. The greatest of fast ball pitchers—Lefty Grove, Bob Feller, Dizzy Dean, and many others—were forced into the art of deceiving by declining speed as their later, and greater years.

Ordinary and equal conditions, which baseball rules are intended to maintain, help make the pitcher the most important factor in the sport. The game, the inning, the action cannot start until the pitcher throws, and he is the only player on the team who comes in contact with every member of the opposition.



In the old days (until 1887) the batter could call for any pitch he wanted, and the pitcher, restricted to an underhand delivery, had to oblige. Today the batter must swing at or be penalized by called strikes for each pitch that passes through or even touches an area of about five cubic feet.

Yes, cubic feet, because the home plate, strike zone isn't merely a flat rectangle 17 inches wide and extending from the batters knees to his armpits, but about 612 square inches.



The strike zone also has depth. A pitcher throws at a column having three dimensions. This area is 612 square inches at the best, or knee-height. It extends upward from the knees, forming a solid five-faced column of 8596 cubic inches. Into every cubic inch belongs to the pitcher as his target.

To make the most of his ability, a pitcher must understand the principle and meaning of a ball's rotation (spin) in each delivery. The spin of a thrown ball is one of the two basic and vital fundamentals in pitching. Spin affects direction. Since every thrown ball spins, the pitcher should not only know how the ball is rotating, but why. He should understand the degree (angle) of the spin, and whether the ball is turning fast or slowly.

The spinning ball is the very foundation of deception in pitching. Understanding and mastering spin is the one and only weapon that makes the small pitcher equal to or better than the big brute who gets by temporarily on natural power and speed. And if the big fellow fails to understand and master spin technique, he will never know what he is doing. When his youthful speed deserts him, as it eventually must, nobody will care what he is doing.

Illustrations are helpful, but seeing is believing. You can study your own spins from natural spins by observing the spotted ball. Simply paint spots of half-dollar size on either side of a new, low-priced baseball. Use black india ink or paint—anything that won't rub or sweat off. Play catch with a friend and stand about twenty or twenty-five feet apart. Do not widen this distance until you have learned to detect the various types of spinning.

Begin by throwing the ball easily, slowly, and note how the ball turns each time it leaves your hand. Don't worry about curves, speed or control. Make a mental note of how the ball turns and why it turns on a different axis (angle) when you change the grip. Study your friend's throw as it comes to your glove.

Only after thousands of throws and catches, and by memorizing the meaning of each spin, and the angle of each spin, can a pitcher visualize what his delivery does at the plate.

"And he should know what a ball will do, if gripped a certain way," says Clyde King, star of the Brooklyn Dodgers when only eighteen. "Because a pitcher can only guess what the ball is doing at the plate. His eye is, or should be, on the target— the catcher's mitt. He can't observe the ball, knows he is throwing a curve or fast ball, but he cannot watch the ball as it leaves his hand and still hit his target. For that reason, mainly, he cannot see his own stuff."

The practicing pitcher should associate the spin on his natural delivery with his knowledge of how each spin acts. Does it spin backwards, toward you from top to bottom? Can you throw in spin it in the opposite direction? Can you grip and throw it to produce any type of spin you wish? Can you lift your two finger tips and reduce the speed of the spin? Can you flip your hand forward with palm up, and let the ball roll off the finger tips with a forward spin?

By means of this simple pitch-and-catch method, anyone can learn all the twists and turns a thrown ball will take. Every player who wants to be a pitcher should learn and never forget what he has learned.

There will be disappointments and failures. There will be cross-winds, dampness, a finger slip and countless other unavoidables. But a pitcher who knows what he is doing will have the edge on his opponent and, more important, he will have confidence.

To obtain maximum backspin, use resin only on the tips of the first two fingers. Leave the thumb alone. Don't even wipe it. Use of resin in any way is legal. Touching finger tips to resin will create maximum friction. Lack of resin on the thumb will minimize resistance at that point.

THANKSGIVING OCT. 12

Glen Roy Jrs. Tame Bobcats With 10-5 Win

Glen Roy Juniors won their second game is as many nights last evening as they tamed the Bobcats 10-5 in an hour and ten minutes at the CNRAA Recreation Field.

The Bobcats jumped into a 3-run lead in the top of the first frame with Temple, Gord Donovan and McBride scoring on three Glen Roy errors after two men were out.

The Glens came back strongly in their half of the first, pushing across nine runs on nine singles as a dozen men came to the plate.

A walk to Peters, a single by "Bunk" Young, an error by the second baseman covering Nolan's bunt and a fielder's choice on Ed. Donovan's infield roller scored Peters.

The Glens picked up three more tallies in the fifth on a single by Kellett, a two-base throwing error on Radner's bunt to first, a single by Barclay, a fielder's choice play on Carr's drag bunt to first, and a sacrifice by Batchelor bringing in the runs.

The Bobcats scored their final run in the ninth on a single by Peters, an error by Jones on Massey's grounder, and Bill Nolan's single to right field.

The Glens wound up the game in great style with Day taking Ed. Donovan's fly near the right field foul line; and throwing out Merle Massey, who tried to score from third after the catch.

Big guns for the Glens were Barclay with three for four, Goyer and Kellett each with two hits in four trips, and Carr with two singles in five trips. Peters, with a single and double in three trips and Temple with two for four, led the Bobcats.

Randy Turpin Decisions Chas. Humez For British 'Half' of Middle Title

LONDON (AP) — Randy Turpin, Britain's former world middleweight champion, Tuesday night hammered game but bloody Charles Humez of France to win back a piece of the world title on a 15-round decision.

Turpin weighed 160, Humez, 159 ½.

The 25-year-old Turpin was unable to drop the rugged Frenchman although he drew blood from cuts around his nose and both eyes throughout the contest.

At the final bell, referee Andrew Smythe quickly raised Turpin's hand in victory. Under British rules no official card is announced.

Although Britons now recognize Turpin as successor to Sugar Ray Robinson as world 160-pound champion, the European boxing union and United States boxing commissions insist this bout was only the semi-final of an elimination series. Paddy Young and Bobo Olson fight in New York June 19 for the American crown in the other semi-final.

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club was at ringside with an offer for Turpin to meet the Young-Olson winner in September at Yankee Stadium in New York to setup an undisputed world champion.

Turpin held the world title for 64 days from the time he upset Robinson in London, July 10, 1951, until he lost on a 10th-round technical knockout in a return bout at New York's Polo Grounds, Sept. 12, 1951. Robinson retired Dec. 14, 1952 leaving the title up for grabs.

Time after time Turpin caught Humez with some left-right flurries but the Frenchman, grinning back, pressed inside trying to get to his opponent's body.

Turpin threw the book at Humez, opening a cut over his nose as early as the third round. There was a slit over the Frenchman's right eye in the sixth and he bled from the nose in the last half of the contest.

In the 14th round, a solid Turpin right to the chin made Humez clinch and hold. In the 13th he had been shaken by a right under the heart.

CENTENARY

Bermuda Travelogue Highlights Pie Social

Centenary — The Centenary Church choir held a pie social in the church on Friday evening last. The minister, Rev. W. T. Middleton, was chairman for the evening, and introduced "Margie, the Magician." Margaret Slavin delighted her audience with marvelous feats of magic, then Mr. Middleton introduced Mary Ann Hall, who spoke of the trip to Bermuda which she and the school teachers took during the recent Easter holidays.

Six Hours to Bermuda

Six hours flying time took them from Malton Airport, Toronto, to Bermuda. They went by T.C.A. to New York City, then by Pan American Airlines to their destination. The sky was overcast and it was very windy as the plane landed in Bermuda.

They boarded a bus, and discovered that the buses are vastly different from the Canadian buses, as it took two hours to travel a distance of eight miles to the place where they were to stay. They had planned upon hiring bicycles but found the roads were too hilly and bag too many curves. Motor cycling was another they saw three persons who had been seriously injured while motor cycling.

Good Friday in Bermuda is "nice" day. Bermuda is 750 miles from New York City, and can only be reached by plane or boat. The foghorn of the cruise ship "Queen of Bermuda" let them Monday morning as she sailed majestically past their cabin by her dock, where she lands every Monday from New York.

No Lakes

The girls did not see many cows, and there are no lakes, rivers or mountains. Pappas are grown extensively but the climate is not mature enough to grow cocoanuts. Bermuda is divided into seven parishes, and the building are all made of coral limestone. The houses have rain-shaped roofs so the rain collects in the eaves and travels to the septic tanks. There were only two days of sunshine out of the nine spent there.

St. George's is the oldest town, founded in 1612, and the streets are narrow, just wide enough for English cars. St. Peter's Church is really beautiful with its eighteenth century chandelier, and seventeenth century three-decker pulpit. The font was brought over 300 years before from England, and there was a Charles I chalice in the vestry. Also a William of Orange complete communion set made in 1697.

The cemetery was comparatively small with Canadian cemeteries, and five to six persons are buried in each grave, and the grave cannot be opened for one year and on day from day of burial. Easter Lily Grows

There was a large cross made of Easter Lilies at the rear of a Methodist church on Easter Sunday. A riotous profusion of flowers bloomed everywhere, including the beautiful Passion flower. The girls had their Passion flowers waxed in order to bring them home, and Miss Hillis kept the flowers for two months.

The sand is pale pink owing to the coral. Part of the inhabitants are a group of natives from Africa call Zombi's who were beating their drums and doing native dances.

"Fairyland" is a section of Bermuda where the wealthy reside and the name is derived from the extremely beautiful gardens. The Easter parade is similar to the Santa Claus parade in Canada. The sun water is invigorating and just right for swimming.

Miss Hillis then showed a colored film of the Easter parade which was truly magnificent, and an equally beautiful colored film of the island.

Mr. Middleton extended gracious thanks to the guest of the evening, and the Misses Donna and Lorna Ray deRgited their audience with a piano duet, which was followed by a humorous reading given by Dawn Woods.

Delicious pie and coffee were then served by the choir girls, bringing to conclusion, a most enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Bernard May has returned home accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. Dyck, of Laird, Sask., who will spend a few months visiting her daughter, and sons, Eddie Dyck of Roasmore, and John Dyck of Whitby.

A few ladies of the community attended the W. A. presbyterial annual meeting at Tweed recently.

Surveying is being done for the new dual highway which will be close to the local school.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Mac Holton, Port Hope, on the birth of a daughter, Janice Faith. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Holton, Mr. Bruce, and Mr. Charle: Holton were last Sunday guests of the proud parents.

Says Prince Edward County Gets Best of Health Deal

The opinion that Prince Edward County is getting "many, many times more benefit" out of the agreement to share medical health services with Belleville than was the city of Belleville, was expressed in council yesterday.

The observation was made by Ald. William Argue during a brief discussion of the agreement between the Belleville health department and the Prince Edward County Health Unit to share the service of medical health officer Dr. A. M. Brush. Ald. G. B. Hyde, as council member on the board of health, said the agreement was now ready for approval by the provincial health department and by the municipalities concerned.

Council approval for the services of the Belleville medical officer of health to be shared with Prince Edward was granted several weeks ago.

Ald. Hyde noted the agreement called for the medical health officer to spend approximately one half of his time in each area with his salary of $6,400 to be shared equally by the two municipalities. Travelling expenses in Prince Edward would be paid by that county.

He said the agreement would be for one year.

Question of Time

A mild discussion followed in which the question was asked whether the medical health officer could spare the time from his Belleville duties. It was stated the M.O.H. would have the time to look after both municipalities.

"Then all this agitation before setting up our health department that we needed a full time medical officer of health was but a lot of money," noted Ald. H. J. Clarke.

It was here that Ald. Argue claimed Prince Edward was getting the best part of the deal.

He said, however, that the idea behind it all was that some day Belleville and Prince Edward may have a joint health unit. If this did not come about, then the agreement could be withdrawn.

Again claiming that Prince Edward was getting the better part of the deal, Ald. Argue noted that Prince Edward with a health unit could not operate without an M.O.H. and it received a large government grant towards his salary. He said the arrangement was not getting Belleville anything by way of grants.

Ald. Thomas also noted the idea was to get Prince Edward to join with Belleville as a health unit. He observed the agreement was for one year with six months' notice to be given if the agreement was to terminate. The agreement would be renewed annually.

SLAY 24 TERRORISTS

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Government forces killed 24 Mau Mau terrorists during the last 24 hours, bringing the total killed so far this month to 154, authorities disclosed today.

The Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

TCP, a Shell-discovered additive, now blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, puts an end to the greatest cause of power loss. Acts so rapidly engine power is increased up to 15% after using two tankfuls or less.*

A new day in fuel for the Canadian motorist is here—a day which, for the first time, allows him to get the full power built into his engine.

Prior to Shell's discovery of TCP, the natural by-products of fuel combustion accumulating on spark plugs and in combustion chambers caused spark plugs to misfire and the fuel mixture to pre-ignite—especially when accelerating, hill climbing or touring on the open highway.

To overcome this power-wasting, fuel-wasting condition—prevalent in the majority of cars—Shell Research discovered and developed a gasoline additive, TCP. Blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, TCP prevents these deposits from causing misfiring of the spark plugs and, at the same time, controls pre-ignition. For the average motorist, this means a power boost of up to 15%, an increase in spark plug life of up to 150%, plus an increase in miles per gallon! These facts have been established by over a million miles of standard model road testing.

Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP is the most significant motor fuel advance since the introduction of tetraethyl lead in 1922.

New and old engines benefit

If you have a new car, particularly one with a high-compression engine, Shell Premium with TCP is essential if you want it to keep on delivering its original power for the normal life of the spark plugs. But high-compression or not, Shell Premium with TCP keeps your engine working like new.

Owners of older cars also benefit. Even if your car has gone 30,000 miles or more, your engine can get back much of its original power by the use of Shell Premium with TCP.

Shell Premium with TCP acts fast

So rapidly does Shell Premium with TCP counteract the deposits on spark plugs and in combustion chambers, you'll feel your engine's had a tune up before you've finished the second tankful. You'll enjoy that new car pep again!

NOW IN CANADA
But only at your Shell Dealer's

TCP was originally developed by Shell Research for aviation fuels and until now has been largely restricted to military aircraft.

Today, Shell Premium with TCP is available in this area, but only from your Shell Dealer.

Nova Scotia and N.B. Miners Will Honor 1,500 Workers

HALIFAX (CP)—Coal miners in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Thursday will commemorate more than 1,500 workers who have died in and around the pits since 1900.

Parades, religious services and the laying of wreaths will mark miners' memorial day observances in Minto, N.B., mining communities of Nova Scotia's Pictou and Cumberland counties and the vast coalfields of Cape Breton Island.

Thirty-eight Nova Scotians and one New Brunswick worker died in coal mining accidents last year. Nineteen died in an explosion in the McGregor shaft at Stellarton, N.S.—since sealed off — and six perished deep under the Atlantic when a blast rocked No. 20 colliery in Glace Bay, N.S.

Unpaid Holiday

Memorial Day, an unpaid holiday for district 26, United Mine Workers (CLC), originally was known as Davis Day in memory of William Davis, who died following a shooting incident during a strike at Thorburn, N.S., in 1925. Later the name was changed to commemorate all miners who perished while working in mines.

UMW district president Freeman Jenkins says the occasion is significant in that it "provides thought of how great sacrifices were made to bring the union into being . . . so that the best interests and welfare of the mine employees be served."

Many problems face the industry today which could have an important bearing on miners and their jobs.

Mine operators fear that proposed Canadian National Railways dieselization in the Maritimes will mean a sharp decrease in coal purchases.

Dominion Coal Company's ailing I-B colliery in Glace Bay will close for mechanization June 13, throwing about 1,100 men out of work for at least three or four months.

Wage Dispute

Wage negotiations between the 10,000-member union and Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation are deadlocked. A conciliation board recommended that both parties waive their several demands in the interests of the industry, "whose very existence . . . is in the balance."

The main services will be held at the miners' memorial in New Waterford, N.S., with members of all UMW locals in Cape Breton in attendance.

They will remember especially 65 men killed in an explosion at New Waterford's Number No. 12 colliery in 1917 and 21 killed by a runaway riding rake at Princess colliery in Sydney Mines in 1938.

Stellarton miners will parade from Union Hall to the miners' memorial where a wreath will be laid. They will recall the Allan shaft, where an explosion in 1918 killed 88. Seventeen years later seven were killed in a blast at the same pit. Miscellaneous mishaps brought the mine's toll of victims to more than 109 before it was sealed off.

Some Stellarton men will also remember taking part in the most celebrated of all Maritime mining incidents, the rescue of two Toronto men from the depths of Moose River gold mine in 1936. Trapped in an Easter Sunday cave-in, the two survived for 11 days until help reached them. A companion was found dead.

Parades and services will also be held at Springhill, N.S., and Minto, N.B. At Springhill is the site of the worst explosions in the Maritimes killed 125 men.

Officers Resign

The officers were suspended last week after an inquiry into the disappearance of liquor seized by police.

The hearing was held by the Pickering police commission which heard one witness say he had seen White drinking some of the seized liquor. Trimnell testified he had not kept a record of liquor seized in raids.

Prime Minister Expected to Launch Campaign at Windsor

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent is expected to launch his election campaigning at Windsor, Ont., June 22.

Tentative arrangements have been made it was reported Tuesday to have the prime minister make the campaign keynote speech in the southwestern Ontario ambassador city, in somewhat the same way as he began his 1949 vote-getting drive.

It was believed, however, that this arrangement is not final and will not be confirmed definitely until Mr. St. Laurent returns Thursday from his London Commonwealth trip.

The proposed Windsor trip was regarded here as marking a summer election definite, and it was understood campaigning arrangements of the government party are being mapped on the basis of an Aug. 10 election.

Political quarters here have been predicting this date for some time. It is expected to be announced about Friday after the first cabinet meeting on Mr. St. Laurent's return.

Starting off the campaign tour at Windsor would be something of a duplication of the opening phase of the Liberals' successful 1949 campaign.

Then a year Mr. St. Laurent travelled from Ottawa to southwest Ontario-ending in Windsor — and back to the capital, addressing meetings and, when plan form groups. It was not billed as a campaign trip, but it served as an informal kick-off for the later and longer touring.

First president of the Canadian Press Association in 1911 was Mary Agnes Snively, nursing teacher who died in 1933.

Church to Drop Word 'Foreign' From Missions

TORONTO (CP)—The Presbyterian Church in Canada will drop the word "foreign" from its mission vocabulary and substitute "overseas."

The 79th general assembly of the Church Monday approved the change, proposed by Very Rev. N. D. Kennedy of Regina, a former moderator.

James Dixon of Peterborough, chairman of the board of administration, said:

"We are making a distinction that does not exist in the mind of God . . . We should drop foreign from our vocabulary altogether."

Rev. Edward Johnson of Montreal was named associate secretary of the general board of missions. He succeeds Rt. Rev. W. A. Cameron, the new moderator, who resigned the post.

$100,000 Fire

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed a three-storey building occupied by Metalumium Specialties Ltd., on Southwick street.

All off-duty firemen were called in to fight the blaze which traveled speedily through the all-wood interior of the building.

While total loss due to the blaze could not be accurately estimated immediately, it was expected the loss of building and contents might reach between $80,000 and $100,000.

FOLLOWS FATHER

CALGARY (CP)—For the first time here a Supreme Court judge admitted his son to the bar. William G. N. Egbert of Calgary was called to the bar before his father, Mr. Justice W. G. Egbert. The young lawyer was graduated from the University of Alberta law school last year.

Squadron Leader Develops New Swimming Course

June 25

EDMONTON (CP) — Sqdn.-Ldr. Scott Alexander, officer in command of the RCAF's survival training school here, has developed what is thought to be the shortest swimming course in Canada.

Although a full month is usually needed to teach a non-swimmer, Sqdn.' Ldr. Alexander, a former swimming instructor, was allowed only three hours in a packed schedule to teach his survival students to swim.

He studied his problem c[illegible]ly and developed a method [illegible]struction which would be [illegible]advantage of the short [illegible] time allotted. He decide[illegible]ners should be taught stro[illegible] instead of being overburde[illegible] several points at one time.

Since classes started in [illegible]ber, 1952, a total of 347 no[illegible]mers have learned to swim [illegible] three-hour period. Not one c[illegible] has failed.

Sqdn. Ldr. Alexander first makes his students overcome the fear of water. He says it is natural for people to swim. Once this is done, the rest follows easily.

Three hours seems like a short time for a beginner to learn to swim, but few of his students need more than two.

LONG WAY FROM HOME

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bronx zoo has a new boarder today, but no one knows how the bird, a penguin from the southern tip of South America, made his way north. The penguin, a Humboldt breed, was turned over to the bronx zoo Monday after Joseph Marano found it in his front yard.

WANDERLUST!

Baseball players, who these days mimic racehorses to some extent in that you're liable to find them on any track or any circuit apparently travel quite a piece before finding their own level.

Reading a sports yarn in a Sudbury newspaper last night, we noticed three familiar names in the box scores of a baseball game. They are Bill Kasepchuk, Joe Stolmach and Jack Fortin. And if the names don't ring in your memory, recall two years ago when the Brockville Monnos copped the Central Ontario Baseball League championship.

Big Bill, as they called Kasepchuk, along with Stolmach and Fortin were with the Monnos then under the management of Andy Herschock. Last year Philadelphia Andy took over the management of the St. Thomas Elgins and he promptly took Kasepchuk, Stolmach and one or two more of the Monnos with him, probably figuring the Intercounty loop was on a par with the CODL.

That was one of the few mistakes Andy made. Another was the fact that he used Kasepchuk as the starting hurler in the opening game against the London Majors. The terrible realization that the Intercounty League was a few steps higher in the baseball bracket than the lads lamented CODL name swiftly. Kasepchuk was bolted out of the park in the second or third innings and a few weeks later Big Bill was also on his way with the majority of his Monno pals.

And in due course of time Andy followed. The Philadelphian discovered that the western Ontario "amateur" ballsters were a lot tougher to get along with than those down in this neck of the woods, and points east. What lessons of this he beyond our knowledge but a friend Jack Devine tells us Andy was in touch with him regarding a managerial post here this season.

At the moment Kasepchuk is managing the Creighton Tigers in the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League. Stolmach and Fortin are with him and are reportedly going great guns. Last season, we believe, Big Bill was with the Val D'Or team in the Northern Quebec League.

Kasepchuk was one of the leading sluggers in the Central Ontario Loop and his booming bludgeon pounded out many run-getting hits for the Brockville team. He was a pitcher, too, but his hooks and curves held no fears for the Redmen of this city. Jack Carson's crew pounded him all over the lot, especially on his Belleville appearances. In one game they got to him for eight hits and as many runs in a single inning, whereupon Big Bill promptly lost his temper and engaged in a verbal battle with Billie Andy. All to no avail.

But Kasepchuk was a good all round baseball player and we'd pick him for our side any time. He would be a nice guy to have around. As for his managerial ability, that is yet to be tested. But he appears to be making good in the Nickel Belt League.

Incidentally, if any of you fans are hiking up north and contemplate taking in a baseball game in the Nickel Belt region, take the advice of the Sudbury Star sports editor and bring along a generous supply of mosquito lotion.

Writes he: "As soon as you sit down, it's a race between the mosquitoes and the black flies for your blood. One thing about it, though, they keep the players hustling."

ALL CATCH ON!

Failure of senior baseball to become successfully organized in the district this year, has not meant that members of the Redmen have hung up their gear. The boys, it seems, are pretty well distributed among lower bracket teams in the area with Colborne Merchants getting the lion's share.

Al Kelleher is the boss man of the Merchants, in a player-manager capacity. With him are: Art Wright, pitcher; Earl "Moose" Bush, second baseman; Don Semark, centre fielder and Russ Soules, catcher. The Merchants play the Oshawa Transporters at home this Friday night starting at 7.30.

Vern Geyer, Bobby Buzzeo, Jack Wardhaugh and Johnny Mowatt are doing their baseballing with the Bloomfield Silver Ribbons, while Buck Reeves, "Cuffer" Noakes and Sam Malhelland are said to be wearing Prince Edward Combines uniforms. Tony Petitti, brilliant young catcher of a year ago, is playing with a Kingston City League team.

DOTS 'N FLASHES

The Regents baseball juniors trek to Picton tonight where they take on the Prince Edward Combines in a scheduled fixture. Seeing the Glen Roy softball youngsters have no engagement tonight the Regents should field their strongest team. . . . Tomorrow night the Northern Electrics and Bobcats tangle at the Alemite Field, while Friday the Frankford team visit Glen Roys at the CNR Recreation Park.

HIGH EXPLOSIVE!

One of those explosive, four-man tag team clashes will feature Friday night's wrestling program at the Memorial Arena. The team of Texas tornadoes, "Dirty Dick" Raines and Larrupin' Lou Plummer will defend their Canadian Open tag team title against the spectacular combinates of Bo-Bo Brazil and Don Leo Jonathan.

Raines and Plummer, who rejoice in the label of being the meanest wrestlers in the game, are bound to have plenty of trouble with the ko-ko boxing Bo-Bo Brazil of Toronto, will invite Pipe Stymiuk, he with the handlebar moustache, of Poland, in the first match.

Win Seven Out of Eight Games In Readying for Yank Series; Braves, 'Bums' Maintain Pace

By Ben Fhlegas

Associated Press Sports Writer

Overshadowed by the first-place Yankees, the hopeful Cleveland Indians are brewing their own private little winning streak. If they can nurse it to the boiling point by the week-end there may yet be some excitement in the American League pennant race.

The second-place Indians, 5½ games back of New York, have won seven out of eight and six in a row on their current home stand against the eastern clubs. Two contests remain against Washington before the Yanks come in Friday night for a four-game series.

While New York has been blowing down most of its opponents with amazing ease in winning a dozen straight, the Indians have had to struggle to overcome a host of their victories, including Tuesday night's 3-1 squeaker over Washington, have been by one-run margins.

Majeski Here

Against Washington Bob Lemon gave up only two hits but trailed 1-0 after 7⅓ innings. The Indians loaded the bases with two on in the eighth and got their two runs when pinch-hitter Hank Majeski singled off the glove of pitcher Johnny Schmitz.

Detroit Tigers tried to expand their one-game winning streak at the expense of the Yankees, but failed by when they could not stop-ped them after they had chased starter Vic Raschi.

Chicago climbed back into a third-place tie with Washington by defeating Philadelphia 5-1 on a three-hit effort by Billy Pierce and Boston Red Sox outlasted the Browns in 10-degree St. Louis heat 6-5.

Milwaukee protected its one game National League lead, whipping New York Giants 4-2 after second-place Brooklyn had snapped Cincinnati's five-game winning streak 10-4.

A three-run pinch-hit homer by Eddie Pellagrini helped Pittsburgh Pirates end their five-game losing spell at the expense of St. Louis Cardinals 7-4. Philadelphia edged Chicago 10-9 on Del Ennis' ninth-inning home run.

After spotting the Yankees two runs in the first inning the Tigers squared matters in the fourth. But Gorman took over with two runs home, one out and a man on base and held the cellar-dwellers hitless and helpless until the ninth. They managed a pair of singles in the ninth but couldn't move the tying run past second base.

Home runs came wholesale at Ebbets Field with Brooklyn getting four and Cincinnati two. One of the Cincinnati blows was by Ted Kluszewski, his 17th of the year, tying him for the League lead with Brooklyn's Roy Campanella and Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews.

Ken Raffensberger played his first game of the season for Minnico. Bill Kelly, Don Mendez, Joe Mahilliou, Pop Chard and McNeil each scored twice for the Mountaineers. Thistle' Joe Landedi rapped three six and was the only Fergus player to top Minico's Tomtischen more than once.

Syracuse Chiefs On War Path, Win 9 in 12

By the Canadian Press

The Chiefs are on the war path. The Syracuse club Tuesday night posted its ninth win in the last 12 starts, coming at the International Baseball League leadership. The sixth-place Cubs are only a half-game behind fifth spot, 3½ games from third and three from second place—held by Rochester Red Wings, who are 3½ games behind the pace-setting Montreal Royals.

Lefty Marv Williams, although walking seven and yielding seven hits, went the route Tuesday night to give Syracuse a 7-3 decision over the Red Wings. Outfielder Johnny Rizzuick whacked a two-run, sixth inning homer, his fifth this season.

Montreal fell 10-2 to Ottawa Athletics, under a 13-hit barrage. Bill Harrington limited the Royals to 10 hits for his fourth win in seven starts. Hamp Coleman, who started for the league-leaders, took the loss—his third against a pair of victories.

Buffalo Bisons rallied from a five-run deficit to down the tail-end Springfield Cubs 16-6. The victory moved the Bisons into a third-place, three percentage points ahead of Toronto, who lost 5-2 to Baltimore Orioles.

The victory was the fifth bright for the Bisons and the fourth straight over the Cubs. The winners sent 21 batsmen to the plate in the fifth and sixth innings to harvest 13 runs on 10 hits. Frank Carswell hit a grand slam homer and Jack Wallaesa hit for the circuit with one aboard.

Ex-Leaf Joko Thompson, Baltimore southpaw, held Toronto to only five safeties, struck out six and passed only one for his second win in as many starts.

Hoe Rossi's homer in the third accounted for the Leafs' runs.

British Golfer Wins Tourney; Marlene Second

By Dave McIntosh

Canadian Press Staff Writer

ASCOT, England (CP)—Jeanne Bisgood of Bournemouth, England, won the Lady Astor silver tournament Tuesday for the third year in a row, staving off a spirited challenge by a group of touring Canadian women golfers.

Marlene Stewart of Foothill, Ont., plagued by putting troubles, finished two strokes behind the English golfer to take second place in the 36-hole open tournament at the swank Berkshire Golf Club. The six other Canadians finished in the first dozen in the field of 62.

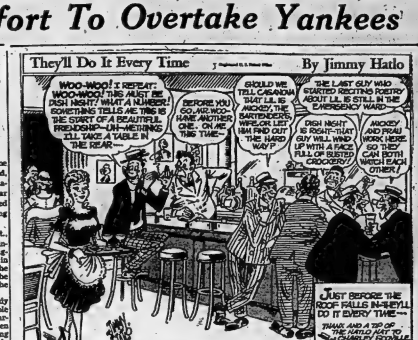
Miss Bisgood put together stroke rounds of 73 and 74 for a 36-hole score of 147. Miss Stewart, 19-year-old former Canadian women's open champion, had a wobbly morning round of 77 but came back strongly in the afternoon with a 72. This clipped Miss Bisgood's lead by half.

The young Canadian girl threatened three times on the outgoing nine in the morning round. She again had putter trouble on the 18th hole in the afternoon round.

Needing a four-footer for a 71—her first in medal play—Marlene tapped the ball to the lip of the cup.

"I've never had a 71 before, so that's why I was trying so hard," she said. "It just wouldn't go down."

Mrs. Bromley Davenport of London was third with 152. Then came Mrs. Margaret Todd of Victoria. Her score was 81-74—155.



Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., had 82-79—161.

Title-Seeking Johnny Bratton Wins Unanimous Decision Over Womber

The right drew only 3,573 fans and so the paid gate was $10,326.

Bratton, who weighed in at 148 ½, was master of the situation all the way and had Womber in distress in the fifth and sixth rounds. Womber weighed 150½.

In the fifth, Bratton caught Womber with sharp rights and lefts and the New Yorker swished backwards against the ropes. He came out bobbing and weaving and kept out of further trouble for the remainder of the round. In the sixth Womber made an attempt to come back and peppered Bratton with short right body and head punches but mid-way through the round Bratton caught him with two hard lefts and a right which banged Womber into the ropes.

The Chicagoan held a wide margin in the scoring. Judges Johnny Cow scored it 8-3-2 for Bratton, Judge Rene Ouimet 7-3-1 and judge Leon Germain 8-2-1.

After the sixth, Bratton confident he was ahead on points, fought carefully and took no chances.

POULTON BEATS EDWARDS

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The leading Canadian middleweight contender, Harry (Kid) Poulton, came off the canvas Tuesday night to pound out a unanimous decision over Gil Edwards, New York better.

Poulton, a classy boxer who meets Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., in Stellarton, N.S., Saturday for the Canadian middleweight championship, showed too much style for the hard-punching New Yorker after taking a slow count in the fourth.

Both weighed 158 pounds for the 10-round bout.

LOSES FANT OF TOE

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A half inch of Curt Simmons' big toe has been amputated but the surgeon said Tuesday that no "normal function of the foot would be impaired after the healing."

Simmons fojured his left foot last week when he caught it in a power lawnmower. The southpaw pitcher of Philadelphia Phillies returned to his home from hospital Monday. He'll be out at least three weeks.

Braves' Mathews Leading Slugger

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee Braves and Al Rosen of Cleveland Indians, a pair of long-distance swingers, are getting the most mileage out of their bats.

Statistics calculated by The Associated Press reveal that Mathews leads the National League slugging leader with a resounding .707 slugging average, while Rosen ranks at the head of the American League with an impressive .598 total in the summer pastime.

Slugging averages are computed by dividing a batter's number of times at bat into his total bases, on all hits.

Mathews has found the range for 118 total bases in 167 at bats. His 55 hits include eight doubles, two triples and 17 home runs.

Rosen has accumulated 101 total bases in 169 at bats. His 55 hits include eight doubles, one triple and 13 homers.

Mimico Shades Fergus Thistles

MIMICO (CP) — Mimico Mounties Tuesday night won their first Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association game in five starts this season, shading Fergus Thistles 11-10.

Mounties gained an early lead, then stayed off a desperate fourth quarter rally by the Thistles, who scored four goals in the final three minutes.

Mimico led 3-0, 5-3 and 8-5 by periods. Mimico appeared to have things well in hand when the visitors came close.

Sports Feature Starts Today

Starting today, the Ontario Intelligencer is running a special sports feature. "How to Play Winning Baseball." It is written by Arthur Mann, well-known baseball expert and author of "New York City, when baseball was king," and baseball sports columnist.

The series consists of 25 short-to-the-point accompanied by explanatory diagrams. It is hoped the series will prove interesting to not only young players, coaches and managers, but to all baseball fans in the summer pastime.

Big Stakes At Fort Erie Track

FORT ERIE (CP)—The biggest stakes program in the history of the Fort Erie race track is being offered at the five-week summer meeting which opens Friday, July 3, and continues through Aug. 12. The program was announced Tuesday.

Three $5,000 stakes and five additional stakes of $3,000 each are carded.

The Dominion Handicap, a feature of Fort Erie racing 30 years ago, is being revived this summer under the auspices of the Ontario Jockey Club. The 1 1-16-mile race will carry a purse of $5,000.

The two other $5,000 stakes are the Achievement Handicap for three-year-old Canadian-breds, at 1 1-16 miles, and the Auspicious Handicap, an open race at 1¼ miles.

An interesting feature of the meeting will be the yearling sales stakes for two-year-olds. This race is open to all horses which were sold at last autumn's yearling sales of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society.

London Majors Cling to Top, Trim Galt 10-7

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Majors held on to first place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League Tuesday night with a 10-7 victory over Galt Terriers.

Waterloo Tigers managed to break a six-game losing streak by defeating Stitchcer Panthers 9-3.

Jim Halkard paced the Majors with a three-run homer in the fourth inning and had two other hits. Jerry Wilson had four hits and on his other trip contributed a sacrifice. Russ Even had three hits.

For the Terriers, Ed Steel, the new rightfielder, showed himself as a long-distance threat. He homer over the rightfield fence and a triple and a single for three times at bat.

Galt pitcher Jerry Jeup was the loser. He was followed by Earl Hannel and Ted Szymanski.

Waterloo's top players were third-baseman Bobby Fisher and playing manager Hank Biasatti, who scored three-run homers in the fifth and seventh respectively.

Sensational Ed Mathews Proving Threat to Mickey Mantle's Title

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—From what has been seen of him around here the last few days, Ed Mathews of Milwaukee Braves now is ready to step up and challenge Mickey Mantle's right to be called the most sensational young player in baseball today.

The kid third-baseman is in the midst of a terrific hitting streak that has carried him to the top or near the top, in almost every slugging department in the National League. The power in his bat has done more than anything else to convince the eastern half of the circuit that the Braves are a genuine pennant threat.

There's a popular belief that Mantle will finish the season leading the American League in practically everything. That would be a world series worth seeing if the two glamorous sophomores should wind up battling one another for individual honors in the play-off while Milwaukee goes completely demented.

There is a parallel between these two most exciting youngsters to hit the big top in recent years. For one thing, their birth dates are only a week apart, Mickey the Yank being that much younger than his rival. Mathews was born Oct. 13, 1931, at Texarkana, Tex. Mickey came into the world seven days later at Commerce, Okla.

Each entered organized ball in 1949 and had enjoyed approximately the same minor league training before they became big league regulars last season.

Each led his league in striking out last season, Mathews whiffing 115 times and mantle 111. Playing with a lifeless club in Boston, Mathews hit only in streaks and closed with an unimpressive .342 average. Mickey, surrounded by champions, posted a .311 mark.

Mathews is somewhat larger than Mantle, standing 6-1 and weighing 185 to Mickey's 5-10 and 175. It is for this reason that he has swatted a ball as far as seven times. Mantle's well publicized clouts travelled, but he hits them far enough.

Unlike Mantle, who hits with about equal power from either side of the plate, Mathews is sticky from the left side.

Jack Guest Jr. Out of Sculling

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Guest, Jr., will not do any competitive sculling this summer.

The six-foot, six-inch son of Jack, Sr., former Diamond Sculls winner, was x-rayed Monday, but it was found that his back had not healed sufficiently to bear the strain of racing. An operation was performed last year to correct a malformation in his back which has kept him out of rowing since May 1952.

Attending the University of Pennsylvania on a rowing scholarship, the 20-year-old sculler last raced at the Henley regatta at Philadelphia, May 30, 1952, winning the college singles. He hung up his shorts a few days later.

Young Guest represented Canada in the 1951 Diamond Sculls at Henley-on-Thames, but bowed out to Erik Larsen of Denmark in his first heat. He was scheduled to carry Canada's colors at the 1952 Olympics, but the back ailment prevented him from even competing at the trials.

Wins Ladies Title

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. J. H. Carter Tuesday won the city and district ladies' golf championship for the first time with a score of 161, finishing one stroke ahead of Mrs. T. M. Lockwood.

Five non-Toronto players played the two rounds at the York Downs course for test or practice purposes. Rose Barry of Lookout Point topped the field with 158, picking up nine more points and practically clinching a berth on the Ontario interprovincial team with a total of 36.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

It is a mistake to say that a married couple starts to quarrel at the bridge table. To them it is merely a change of location. Or a new subject. As when a wife had the south hand shown here:

♠ A 7 3
♥ A K J 7 5 4
♣ 6 4

She opened this hand with one heart. The husband was one of those no-trump hounds. You know the kind. If she bids a suit, he bids no-trump at once to make sure he will play the hand.

Or course he feels perfectly justified. He considers himself a superior card player. He figures he is two tricks better than she in the play of the cards. Especially if he is married to her.

So, when she bids a suit, he sticks in a no-trump bid. If she happens to bid no-trump first, he starts showing suits. He jockeys it so that, if they get the contract, he becomes the declarer.

His response to her one heart was one no-trump. She then bid two hearts and he had support for her rebiddable suit. But he had three no-trump and they went down two tricks.

Let it be said that they would have gone down one at a bid of four hearts. So, it was not the final result that caused all the argument. It was her opening and rebid.

She was willing to syrup on a stack of books that her opening was sound. The books in the stack were all by the same author, each year or two a little different than the two years before.

Instead of learning from somebody who could give them reasons they carried the argument long into the night. As usual in cases of this kind they came to no final conclusion.

A bid is either right or wrong. There is a correct rule that is the determiner of every bid. Proof of which it is does not depend on opinion. It is decided by mathematics based on logic.

We do not have to be married to carry on this argument.

Act Proclaimed

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario has proclaimed its controversial Edible Oils Act.

An order in council dated June 3 was made public Tuesday bringing the act into effect as of June 1 on the recommendation of acting Agriculture Minister Doucett.

The act gives the government power to regulate the quality of such products as peanut butter and mayonnaise and to ban manufacture of products that combine edible oils and milk products in an "imitation" of real milk products. The only food now being sold which could be banned is believed to be a synthetic whipped cream.

INDIANS GATHER

VICTORIA (CP)—Indians from all over British Columbia will attend the opening this autumn of an authentic Coast Indian house built by chief Mungo Martin, 74-year-old totem carver, in Thunderbird park here. Indian braves will chant ceremonial songs to the beat of tom-toms.

LIBERAL WINS RECOUNT

WINDSOR, N.S. (CP)—Premier A. L. Macdonald's Liberals won another seat Tuesday when a recount gave Alfred Reid a one-vote edge over Ernest Ettinger, a Progressive Conservative in the East Hants riding. Mr. Ettinger, the sitting member, had a one-vote majority on the night of the May 26 provincial general election with 2,993 votes. The House standing now is 23 Liberals, 12 Progressive Conservatives and two CCF.

Court of Appeal Acquits Man Given 15 Years

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Tuesday acquitted Norman Quinlan, 46, of Windsor, who was sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary last February for attempted bank robbery in Windsor last November.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel the trial judge, described Quinlan as the "mastermind" of a gang that handcuffed 22 bank employees, then fled when two Brinks Express Company messengers approached.

At the appeal court hearing, Crown counsel C. P. Hope said there is no cause against Quinlan.

The court reserved decision on an appeal by Arthur McKay, 24, of Windsor, who was sentenced to 12 years on the same charge.

Robert Woods, 27, of Toronto was also convicted and is serving a total of 23 years for a series of robberies.

MARMORA

Many Attend Musical Program, Band Concert

Marmora — A variety musical program and band concert was held in the Plaza Theatre on Sunday evening with a large attendance. Proceeds were in aid of the Artificial Ice Fund.

Percy Gray, Jr., was again master of ceremonies. While the gathering was assembling, Barbara Micklejohn played preliminary pianoforte selections.

The program opened with the National Anthem. Madoc Citizens' Band then furnished two selections, the second containing a cornet solo, which was played by Tom Brooks, of Deloro. Miss Joan Brown, of Deloro, sang "Stormy Weather." Selections by the Harmonica Rascals (Donald Shannon, Dennis Tyrrell and Marvin Nicholson) followed. Allan Grant assisted with the band. Next came novelty numbers by the band. The march number was played by Doug and Myrt Jones and Charles and Edna Campion. The Aces Accordion was the next number, featuring Jack Sunday and Bill Smith of "All the World." Community singing followed and after that two band selections.

John Wilson and John Izzard, with Mrs. Doug Jones, as pianist, played some old time music, to be followed by the Belleville Quinones (barbershop quartet) with three selections.

After an intermission, Marmora Company Girl Guides marched in singing a medley on "There's a Long, Long Trail," and two camp songs. Mrs. Ivan Brown sang "You're Driving Me Crazy."

A band selection, "Salutation," was conducted by Bruce Brooks, after which Bandmaster Bill Sunday played the cornet solo in "Alleluia." George Mercer, Jr., sang "Rock-a-Bye-Baby" and "April Showers."

Prize Draws

The draw for prizes ensued with prizes going to Wallace McDonald, Mrs. Alex Grant, Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Ogilvie.

A further period of old time music was held with Mrs. Doug. Jones at the piano and Jack Grant providing the fiddles on the bones.

John Wilson, Doug Jones and Orville McCarvey took part in some step dancing, followed by a final number by the band. A saxophone solo was contributed by Ray Tuck of the Aces Orchestra and the program concluded with three numbers by the Quintones.

The closing numbers, accompanied by the band, were "Abide With Me" and "O Canada." The Grand Intermission Waltz by Allan.

The chairman thanked the taking part and Mr. Gray gave a final talk on the progress of the Artificial Ice Fund to date.

Mrs. Harry Horton, of Roslin, and Mrs. Alex Grant, of Trenton, called on Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horton on Sunday.

Mrs. Ivan McCormick, of Napanee, and son, Adrian McCormick, of Kingston, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Flynn.

Mrs. W. J. Cooney is visiting friends in Madoc.

Mrs. and Mrs. Kenneth Cooney and family, of Peterborough, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Horton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Logan spent the week-end in Toronto.

Formation was announced Tuesday night of Cayuga Steamship Co. Ltd., a stock venture to finance purchase of the Cayuga from Canada steamship Lines, refit her and place her back in service. President of the company is Roland Michener, former provincial secretary.

The CSL ended its Toronto-Niagara service in the summer of 1952.

Province to Help

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will contribute $2,025,000 towards the cost of building the Cavelogg dam. It was learned Tuesday that the cabinet passed an order-in-council June 3 approving the contribution. It was announced 10 days earlier that there will be an early start on the $5,000,000 dam at Glen Allan. TV Educators Are Rejoicing

BY HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The educational television people are a happy lot these days. They figure they've passed the "peasants with a petition" stage.

That's the essence of a report completed here by the National Citizens Committee for Educational Television.

The report was prepared for the committee's co-chairmen, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College, and Marion Folsom, under - secretary of the treasury. It's a progress report in the world of educational TV. Here's what the committee reported:

Forty seven applications for educational TV permits have been filed with the federal communications commission.

The commission has issued 37 grants for educational TV channels.

One station is on the air, in Houston, Tex., another, in Los Angeles, expects to begin operations within the next two weeks.

The educational TV people, once fearful of ever getting their program under way, now are convinced they're in the business to stay. It had been feared that the commercial people would go all out to wreck the movement.

John L. Kask New Chairman Research Board

WASHINGTON (CP) — John L. Kask, 45-year-old Canadian - born fisheries scientist, has resigned from the United States fish and wild-life service to become permanent chairman of Canada's fisheries research board.

Kask, a native of Red Deer, Alta., and a veteran of more than 25 years in the field of fisheries research and management, confirmed his new appointment Wednesday.

He became an American citizen some 13 years ago.

Appointed vice-chairman of the Canadian board is Dr. Oliver Young of Ottawe, who has been the board's scientific adviser.

The former chairman and vice-chairman, Dr. G. B. Reed of Queen's University, Kingston, and Dr. J. R. Dymond, University of Toronto, will continue as board members.

Queen Rides To Take Salute From Guards

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen rode sidesaddle for 90 minutes today to take the salute while Grenadier Guards paraded their standard before the traditional trooping of the color.

The Queen rode on horseback from Buckingham Palace to Horse Guards parade, through thousands of people lined the Mall as she rode down followed by the Duke of Edinburgh, her husband, and the Duke of Gloucester, her uncle, also on horseback.

Cheers followed her progress as she rode, a striking figure in scarlet tunic trimmed with the vivid kingfisher blue ribbon of the order of the Garter. Her Garter star glittered silver against the scarlet and a row of medals shone on her breast. Her long riding skirt was dark blue.

The trooping the color parade is held on the Queen's "official" birthday, a date designated in the summer and distinct from the Queen's real birthday April 21.

Reject Bidault By Single Vote

PARIS (AP) — The French government crisis entered its fourth day today as President Vincent Auriol looked again for a premier following the National Assembly's rejection of a third candidate, George Bidault.

In the assembly balloting earlier today, the 627-member lower house failed by one vote to give Bidault the 314-vote absolute majority he required for confidence.

The count was 313 to 228.

As Auriol began talks with the heads of France's many parties, one name mentioned unofficially as a possible contender was Louis Jacquinot, an Independent. He was minister of overseas territories in the Rene Mayer cabinet, whose defeat May 21 started the crisis.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synoptic: A high pressure area is lying almost stationary over Ontario providing fine sunny weather across most of the province. Cloud spread into northwestern Ontario early this morning and showers are expected north of Lake Superior later today. They will spread eastward into the north country Friday. Temperatures will range in the 50s across Ontario today and Friday.

IMPOSE CURFEW AFTER LOOTING IN TORNADO AREA

If Order Disobeyed Troops Will Shoot

WORCESTER, Mass. (CP)—The military commander of the Worcester national guard today imposed a strict curfew after reports of looting in this city's devastated area where New England's worst tornado struck Tuesday night. The death toll for central Massachusetts stood at 82.

Col. William F. Bigelow, the commander, ordered a 6 p. m. curfew after reporting "there's been looting. Just how much we don't know."

All but pass-holders, police and firefighters have been ordered to keep away from the patrolled area after the curfew.

Col. Bigelow told his troops: "Keep everyone else out, even if you have to shoot to do it."

In all, some 2,000 national guardsmen patrolled the area through one of the views he expressed after Senator Robert A. Taft's recent speech suggesting that the U. S. "forget the United Nations" if current efforts to settle the Korea war fail to stop the fighting.

Taft later said he didn't mean the U.S. should "go it alone" but rather should form an alliance with British Commonwealth nations willing to fight communism in Asia anywhere.

Outlining what he called "our whole concept" of the conduct of world affairs, Eisenhower commented on the theme that unity with allies of the free world is necessary the globe over.

He said:

"A total struggle—let us never forget it—calls for a total defence. As there is no secret war, so must no area too remote—to be ignored, as there is no weapon too humble to be forgotten. All of us have learned—first from the colossal folly of Munich and then from Communist aggression—that all free nations must stand together, or they—shall fall separately."

Essence Is Compromise

The essence of the democratic process is compromise. Without it, clearly defined, clearly understood framework of principle," the president said.

Eisenhower set out this concept of indispensable unity as his reply to those who lean to what he called "the fortress theory" of defence.

This, he said, is the theory that says "let the rest of the nation of the world cannot stand by itself—why, particularly in this age, where so many of our sons have died in freedom's name, cannot we make our own decisions, fight and stand as we ourselves may choose?"

Declaring there can be no "partial unity," Eisenhower demanded: "How—where—can there be refreat from this unity? Surrender to Asia? That would mean leaving a vast portion of the population of the entire world to be mobilized by force of aggression. Surrender Europe? That would mean less than double the industrial power of those same (Communist) forces.

"Who is there who thinks—that the strength of America is so great that we can say, in the future so secure—that it could make no generous a gift to those challenging our very lives?"

Unhappy Memberships

Eisenhower's theme had been "a good deal of unhappy murmuring about the United Nations" and unhappiness since the Korean war is above irritation and frustration over the continuing list of tedious processes of political discourse in times of great crisis."

He said there is both truth and falsehood in the charge that each nation has a different concept of it.

The president commented:

"The truth is that even if the United Nations were to conform to the concept held by the free nations, it would still be bound to show limited variety of qualities, sharp clashes of debate, slow movement to decision. For all this is little more than a reflection of the state image—the false creations of many minds which could be ignored.

"And perhaps the greatest worth of the United Nations is precisely this: it holds up a mirror in which we can see (in the form of votes) And what should we want to see in such a mirror but the whole truth—at such a time of total struggle?"

In the defence program, now under considerable fire in Congress, Eisenhower said it is designed not for any sudden emergency but for "an age of peril" and on a "realistic assessment of the country's long-term economic capacity."

Two Top Jobs Shuffled In Infantry Corps

OTTAWA (CP) — The army shuffled the two top jobs in its infantry corps Wednesday in moves that affected two distinguished officers just back from Korea.

Brig. Donald C. Cameron, DSO and bar, 42, of Cornwall is being appointed director of infantry at headquarters.

Lt.-Col. Peter R. Bingham, DSO, of Hamsterley Mansion, Royal Canadian Regiment, back from a year in Korea in which he won the DSO and bar.

Col. Cameron, a native of Alexandria, Ont., has been in the Second World War when he was appointed to the staff of units commanding the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

He succeeds Col. Donald Forbes DSO, of Sydney, N.S., who is going to Germany as military attache.

CABLE CARDINAL

PARIS (Reuters)—An organization of French Roman Catholics campaigning for revision of diplomatic relations with Spain Wednesday cabled Cardinal Spellman of New York, asking him to intervene to save the condemned atom spies. Among the signatories was Nobel-prize novelist Francois Mauriac.

Ships of Many Lands Fly Flags In Honor of Queen's Birthday

PORTSMOUTH, England (CP)—Warships of many nations—including Canada's seven-ship flotilla—broke out their flags today to mark the official birthday of the Queen.

Scores of war vessels, large and small, assembled at this British naval port for the Coronation naval review next Monday. They include the first Soviet warship to enter British waters since the war, the 12,900-ton cruiser Sverdlov.

She arrived Wednesday under command of Capt. O. I. Rozhdestvensky, who received the honors of the aircraft carrier Magnificent and including the cruisers Ontario and Quebec, the destroyer Sioux, the frigates Swansea and La Hulloise and the icebreaker D'Iberville, arrived off Spithead Tuesday.

Today's program included a message from the Russian cruiser went ashore on a sight-seeing trip. They included exchanges of visits and greetings from British officers and officials of London in buses provided by the Soviet embassy here. The embassy also provided interpreters and guides.

The Russian sailors had little contact with British officers but one officer said the men were particularly anxious to see the Tower of London.

U.S. Cannot Go Own Way And Decide and Stand Alone Eisenhower Tells Jaycees

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday all free nations of the world must stand together in "total defence" against communism. He declared the United States, even though the strongest nation on earth, cannot make its own decisions, fight and stand as only we ourselves may choose."

"There is no such thing as partial unity. That is a contradiction in terms," Eisenhower said in a speech prepared for the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The president took occasion to defend his controversial cut in the Truman administration's air force budget, declaring his program will mean "fewer planes but better planes in fact—more swiftly and less expensively."

In polished words, Eisenhower described the fatalism of his critics on "magic missiles"—as central Massachusetts where the tornado cut a swath of death and destruction.

The stricken area counted this toll:

Dead—82, with two still unidentified.

Missing—13.

Injured—about 800.

Homeless—about 2,000.

Damage—estimated by Governor Christian A. Herter at $75,000,000.

At least three Canadians including two Roman Catholic nuns were killed.

Coronation Choir To Visit Canada

LONDON (CP) — The famous choir of London's St. Paul's Cathedral which sang at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth Abbey will visit Canada and the United States next fall.

The choir, composed of 30 boys and 18 men, will sail for New York next September and will appear at Montreal, Sherbrooke, Que., Ottawa, Hamilton, Port Arthur and Galt in October.

Later it will go to various U. S. centres for some 40 engagements.

On its tour the choir will sing the music it sang on June 2 at the Coronation. It will also render other programs, including a group of secular selections, including Elizabethan madrigals.

Crippled Korean Vets Stage Sitdown Strike

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Three hundred crippled and disabled South Korean Army veterans staged a sitdown strike in front of the National Assembly today in protest against a bill to transfer them from the U. S. embassy.

Some on crutches, some on canes, and some in wheel chairs—said they planned to sit outside the U. S. embassy all night "to show our determination against an armistice that would mean that we were wounded in vain."

HINT ROK ARMY WON'T DRAW BACK IF TRUCE SIGNED

May Refuse to Create Required Buffer Zone

By MILO FARNETI

SEOUL (AP)—Pyun Yung Tai, South Korea's acting Prime minister, said flatly today that his country will not accept the impending armistice and hinted that RoK troops may refuse to pull back when a truce is signed.

His statement came as chanting thousands swarmed through Seoul and other cities in the third straight day of a wave of demonstrations against a truce which would leave Korea divided.

The Korean National Assembly has been whipped into frenzied support of the government-sponsored demonstrations to avoid "unnecessary violence" between South Korean people and Allied troops.

"We cannot and will not accept any part of the armistice terms."

Pyun's blast followed a report troops who man two-thirds of the 155-mile front might not pull back 2½ miles to create a buffer zone after an armistice is signed.

Pyun Yung Tai said:

South Korea's assemblymen proposed an alliance with Nationalist China, Britain, Australia and New Zealand to "continue the struggle" if the Korean armistice talks fail. They did not specify the nature of the pact, some emphasis talked privately of a military alliance.

Delegation Will Visit Doucett On County Road

A strong delegation from Madoc including Warden Jack Kincaid and members of his village council, was scheduled to have an interview with Hon. George Doucett, Ontario Highway Minister, with a request for the department to take over the Madoc-Foxboro county road.

The delegation will have a petition signed by several hundred of people in Madoc and district to present to the highways minister.

County council for many years has been wanting to have the Madoc road taken over by the highways department but so far without success. In recent years Reeve Kincaid, of Madoc, has been spearheading the requests and has brought the matter up at nearly every county meeting.

The Madoc delegation going to Toronto today will ask for a definite statement from the highways minister with respect to the Madoc road.

Moira River Conservation Authority Tour Is Staged; Project Sites Are Viewed

Members of the Moira River Conservation Authority, together with invited guests, were taken on a tour of the watershed Wednesday visiting points of interest along the route, and concluding with a dinner and meeting at Deloro in the afternoon.

In charge of the tour were Authority Chairman T. C. Graham, Vice Chairman Alderman Bruce Smith and Secretary Mr. Rocco Vandervoort. Mr. A. H. Richardson, chief conservation officer with the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, also took part in the tour.

Points of interest visited on the tour included the Trent River College street control dam project, the reconstruction of the Moira River north of College street and immediately outside the city. There the bridge being considered by engineers of the Kilhourne Engineering Company who have been retained to make a survey and provide cost estimates for the control dam.

The same engineering company is making a survey for the control channel from the C.P.R. railway bridge to College street, with the view of narrowing and deepening the channel. The two projects are being considered as flood control measure for the city of Belleville. The control dam would hold up spring ice, while deepening of the river channel would cause a faster current to carry frazil ice out into the bay and prevent the river freezing to the bottom.

See Actionville Forest

Second stop by the party was north of Tweed at the Actionville forest where visitors saw the growth made by young pines set out seven years ago when the property was owned by the county of Hastings.

Since then the Moira Authority has purchased the county forest and will continue to carry out reforestation planting. In all the Authority owns 1,800 acres of land in the area, all of which will eventually be planted. Advice relating to tree planning is provided by the Authority.

North of Deloro the party visited the recently completed dam and artificial lake which provide a summer flow of water for use in connection with the operation of the Deloro Refining Company. As the benefiting municipality, the village of Deloro paid the Authority's share of the cost of the project.

Mr. Boyd Taylor as representative of the Hilbourn Engineering Company, which did the engineering for the dam project, stated the lake created by the dam contained 90 acre-feet of water, or approximately 24,000,000 gallons, that would be enough to provide a flow of 200,000 gallons per day for the 120 day dry summer period.

Visit Old Mill

In contrast to the new dam, the first major project undertaken by the Authority, the visit to the century-old O'Hara's Mill northwest of Madoc, drew more than casual interest from members of the party.

The old mill, abandoned for many years, was a water-powered mechanical adaption of the old whip-saw method of handsawing lumber. All of the equipment of the old mill, except for the water wheel which has been possibly smashed and carried away by spring floods, is still in place at the mill.

At the meeting of the Authority held during the afternoon in the Madoc town hall, members voted to purchase the old mill as a tourist attraction.

In the report of the river survey made by the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, it was recommended that this site be preserved as a tourist attraction.

Should Be Preserved

Yesterday at the noon luncheon held at Hue's Hotel at Madoc, Mr. Richardson again referred to this "relic of the pioneer days" and expressed the hope that it could be preserved. He said it should be preserved as a historical site on the Moira for all time.

Mr. Richardson outlined the assistance the government which was organizing in 1946 in Ontario with the passing of the Conservation Authorities Act. Initiative was still left with the local municipalities as great as before, he said, however the farmers could be shown that through proper soil conservation methods crop cultivation production could be increased as much as 25 per cent. then their taxes reduced.

To Aid Fund-Building

At the afternoon meeting Authority members voted to provide grants of $1,000 each to persons contemplating construction of farm ponds after plans were approved by the department.

Other speakers at the noon luncheon included Authority Chairman Reeve T. C. Graham, of Tweed, who introduced the guests; Warden Jack Kincaid, who as reeve of Madoc village, welcomed members; Rocco Robson and W. E. Sanderock, M.L.A.'s for East and West Hastings, and Harold Olsen, manager of Bethlehem Steel at Marmora, and vice-chairman of the Authority. Alderman Bruce Smith of Belleville, Col. Vandervoort introduced Mr. Richardson to the meeting.

Mr. Olsen invited members of the Authority to visit Bethlehem Mines at Marmora, stating that he would be glad to show them around the mine property at a later date.

At the afternoon meeting of the Authority the invitation was accepted, the date for the visit to be set at the convenience of Mr. Olsen.

International Body Will Rule On Flood Damage

OTTAWA (CP)—Representatives of the Canadian government and a group of United States citizens have established a tribunal to rule towards a method of settling the Americans' claims against Canada for high-water damage along Lake Ontario, the external affairs department said.

After a day-long meeting, government officials indicated the U.S. representatives had accepted in general the government's proposal to set up a tribunal to rule on the $60,000,000 claims.

The group of about 5,000 Americans now has an action before the U.S. courts against the Canadian government, contending the lake's high water was caused by Canada's now-removed Gut dam in the St. Lawrence river just below Lake Ontario.

Canada contends no U.S. court can order this country to pay damages and has therefore asked an international judicial body to deal with the claims.

Plan Abandoned

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control announced Wednesday that a joint plan by the federal and Ontario governments to develop the Long Branch cliffs range property for housing development has been abandoned. About 1,000 homes had tentatively been planned for the site a few miles west of Toronto.

A. E. K. Bunnell, director of the housing branch, Ontario department of planning and development, said in a letter to the board that the failure to abandon the plan was primarily due to the inability of the defence department to give any undertaking as to when the land could be available.

Driver Jack-Knifes Trailer to Avert Crash With Car

BARRIE (CP)—A threatened crash between a four-ton transport trailer and a car was averted Wednesday when the truck driver jackknifed the trailer and plowed into a sand embankment.

Marvin Woods, 32, of Toronto backed the transport, carrying a 30-ton load, down a long hill north of here when the brakes failed.

Rolling backwards at about 30 miles an hour, the transport headed for a car which had stopped farther down the grade. The driver, an unidentified woman, froze at the wheel.

Woods jack-knifed the trailer to avoid a crash. The transport leaned towards the car after it hit the embankment, but remained upright.

Actors, Chorus Union Formed

TORONTO (CP) — Equity, the United States theatrical union, has established itself in Toronto.

The actors' and chorus union has won its place at Melody Fair which opens Monday night, Canadian Actional Exhibition grounds for a 14-week season.

All the principals, including some Canadians who worked in the U.S., are members of Equity who made a result that the choral and dancing ensembles, largely recruited from the Royal Conservatory of Music here, and the actors, must be members of the union.

The musicals employ 18 Canadian singers and dancers and a minimum of four Canadian actors.

Says Recession Could Rekindle Inflation's Fires

BIGWIN INN (CP) — H. S. Bachia, retiring president of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, said today that a general business recession could lead to renewed inflation.

In an address prepared for the 37th annual meeting of the association, he said that if a recession were followed by "policies of monetary expansion the fires of inflation, whose embers have been smouldering, could once again burst into flame."

For the last half of 1953 he suggested that the tide of prosperity "will relatively high, could possibly recede."

Employment and labor income were expected to continue at a "most satisfactory" level but "to assume that the present degree of prosperity and rate of growth will be continued without interruption can only be wishful thinking."

The long-term prospect for Canada was bright. "Our economy is still in high gear and its sheer momentum should make this year's trade and commerce statistics quite satisfactory."

EARLY START

COPENHAGEN (CP) — Preparations are already being made in Denmark for festivities in 1955 marking the 150th anniversary of the birth of Hans Christian Andersen, the famed writer of fairy tales who was born at Odense.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices steadied in most groups in forenoon stock market trading, following their decline of the last two days.

Western oils led the widespread rally with an almost solid list of plus signs. Industrials moved ahead for the first time in a week as they reflected Wall street's firmer tone. Golds mixed in slow trading and base metals edged higher.

Gunnar topped an upward thrust in uraniums, which started Wednesday, with a jump of 25 cents. Calmont, Rix and Nesbitt-Labine gained. A handful of New Brunswick base metals moved slowly at mixed prices.

Retail stores eased as National Drugs preferred dropped 75 cents to a new low for the year of $7.50.

Frobisher (1951) compromises and juniors to higher ground in a mixed guide group. Senior slipped back as Lake Shore fell 15 cents.

In base metals Waite Amulet, Noranda and International Nickel had gains of around 25 cents. In the lower-priced issues, Casular lost 10 cents of Wednesday's gains.

Scheme for Raising Summer Level of Lake Stoco Shelved

No scheme for the raising of the summer level of Lake Stoco will be entertained by the Moira River Conservation Authority at the present time because of its prohibitive cost, members of the Authority decided at a special meeting held Wednesday at Madoc.

Cost of a project which would raise the summer level of the lake to benefit recreation facilities, without exceeding previous high levels of the lake during the spring run-off period, would run to about $350,000 according to an engineer's report. Engineer James F. McLaren of James F. McLaren and Associates, Toronto, said a wide weir with a big area of stone gates would be necessary to accomplish the required purpose.

Such a dam in the opinion of the engineer would cost anywhere between $200,000 and $300,000 while widening and deepening of tailwaters above the dam to carry water during a spring period would cost another $50,000.

Cost Prohibitive

Authority Chairman T. C. Graham noted that such a project would be prohibitive and the matter was shelved indefinitely.

In making his report the engineer noted that a project such as raising the summer level of the lake by two feet without interfering with spring run-off would have no value as a control dam.

In other words it could not be used as a dam to hold back flood waters during a time, when a flood may be expected at Belleville.

City Engineer Charles Mott of Belleville was interested in the flood control possibilities of such a project, he said it would influence the type of dam required for the proposed flood control dam outside Belleville at College street.

The general opinion was there was no site for a flood control dam outside Bay of Lake and the river mouth of Belleville. Sites for such control dams would have to be found further upstream, it was suggested.

CRITICALLY BURNED

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ten tons of scalding asphalt poured over a young mother and her year-old baby Wednesday when an out-of-control truck overturned, spilling its steaming load into their convertible. Mrs. Leonora Kunz, 31, was fatally burned. Her son Andrew is in critical condition.

Two Workmen Rescued From Water Sewer

TRENTON. — Two workmen were rescued Wednesday from a nine-foot-deep water sewer at nearby Brighton after they became trapped to the waist under a heap of earth when the wall of the hole collapsed on them. Police Chief Elton Simpson and three other men pulled Reginald Chase and Roy Dunenberry from the hole. Chase suffered a fractured leg, while Dunenberry escaped with a shaking up.

Rumors Rife At Puck Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — Rumors of possible deals circulated in hotel corridors Wednesday when the National Hockey League moguls gathered for their annual meeting, but nobody was admitting anything.

One of the most startling reports was that Ted Lindsay, ace left winger of Detroit Red Wings, would wear a Chicago Black Hawks uniform next season. Another rumor immediately cropped up: It could be Gordie Howe. The rumors got no confirmation.

The guessing was that if either Detroit star changed clubs it would be Lindsay, for a flock of players, including farm youngsters, and a bundle of cash.

Minors to Admit Mexican League

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — The Mexican Baseball League Wednesday applied formally for an active membership in the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

President George M. Trautman indicated the organized minors would soon grant the request.

The Mexican League asked for a double-A classification, and Trautman suggested it apply for a class-A franchise and then work up.

The Quebec Provincial League now is the only circuit outside the United States holding membership in the association.

The Mexican League is made up of six teams, playing four games a week, with an 84-game schedule.

Growth of Residential Area in East Side May Extend Boundary of City

It hasn't been a spectacular building boom but a steady growth of new residential properties is threatening to extend the eastern boundaries of the city.

Less than five years ago the area east of MacDonald Avenue below Bridge street was the Hastings county home farm where garden produce and forage crops for use in connection with the operation of the county home were grown.

Today all is changed. Where a short time ago were open fields, now the area is almost filled with residential properties and new streets have come into being. As rapidly as they are built the new houses are being occupied by proud new home owners and fresh lawns put in an appearance.

Bridge Street East from MacDonald Ave. to Herchimer Ave., is now completely lined with new homes and of the 193 building lots in the sub-divided former county home property between Bridge and Dundas streets, all but 45 have been sold. And new sales are being made each week as prospective home owners prepare for building that new home.

South of the highway the area is almost completely taken up by tidy residential units erected by Central Mortgage and Housing and 22 additional city-owned lots at the south end have been sold today, five of which already have houses erected.

North of Bridge street in the annexed area formerly known as 42 Bert Dexter farm, the Parkwood Heights residential district now has macadamized roadways and concrete sidewalks. Well manicured lawns belie the fact that only a few years ago the area was a golf links.

To speed further development in the new residential area in the east end of the city, city council has given the green light for installation of storm sewers in the Bayview Heights area. A progressive program of storm sewer construction is expected to see sewers installed in the swamp area between Parkwood Heights and the Churchill Heights area further north.

To take care of the population increase in the east end of the city, already one new public school, Queen Elizabeth School, has been erected, and a second new school in the east end is planned by the public school board. Also a new separate school is now under construction near the corner of Bridge street East and Herchimer Ave.

And the population growth is expected to shove the city boundaries even further east.

The Hastings planning committee have plans for extension of Victoria Ave., and Pine streets through to Herchimer Ave. and city council has the matter under consideration.

Number of Polio Cases Higher Than Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Number of poliomyelitis cases in Canada to date this year is higher than usual, Dr. H. M. Pearse, chief of the contagious diseases division of the health department, reported Wednesday.

Up to June 1, 196 cases were reported.

"Polio has been on the increase during the last 10 years," he said "but we never can predict the areas in which it will strike." He recalled that last year it was particularly severe in Western Canada. There was also more polio throughout the country last winter than usual.

Peak polio month is usually August, but this could vary year by year.

Last year 4,695 polio cases were reported; in 1951 the number was 2,562 and in 1950 there were 911. Death rate from the disease varied during the last 10 years from 1.5 deaths per 100,000 population to .3.

Main reason for the increase in polio this year was the outbreak in the Yukon and Northwest Territories which now lists 42 cases among persons presumed in the Whitehorse area alone.

NEW FORESTS

COPENHAGEN (CP) — Forestry plans are being made for Greenland, big Danish island that is mostly covered by ice. The first shipment of about 16,000 pine trees is being sent to Julianehaab this summer.

Breaks Canadian Track Record

TORONTO (CP)—Shirley Eckel, Canadian Olympic track star, ran the women's 80-yard hurdles in 12.8 seconds Wednesday, breaking the Canadian record of 13.1. She took part in the Toronto Interclub championship series.

Another Canadian record was broken by Wes McLeod. His time in the two-mile was 4:39.8, compared with the old mark of 4:40.

NORTH POLE AMBASSADOR SHOULD BE WELCOMED

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is planning a plebiscite on Santa. This is not exactly the season of the year at which that jovial old gentleman's votes getting powers are at their zenith. Nevertheless, no older statesman with such a meritorious record of service to the world should ever have occasion to fear a test at the polls. Convinced that he is as wise as he is old, we feel sure that he will welcome the fact that this election will come at a time when the residents of Belleville can study the issues at stake from something approaching a dispassionate viewpoint.

While the propaganda machines have not yet begun to roll, Dame Rumor is already starting to roam. From her we gather that one of the main arguments against Belleville playing host to St. Nick this coming December is that entertaining this ambassador from the North Pole is a costly affair. That is true enough. But let not he who is without sin here at all unless we are prepared to accord him the honors due his rank.

But this business of cost should not worry us unduly if we are all prepared to join in the welcome. There is no sound reason why the merchants of the city should be expected to make all the preparations and pay all the bills, without any assistance from the rest of us. True, most of the merchants use his trade-mark in their Christmas advertising and they have never been sued by Santa for infringement of copyright. But to suggest that they are the main benefactors when Santa visits the city is to openly admit one lacks eyes in one's head or a heart in one's body.

Arranging for Santa's visit would be an appropriate task for some service club or similar organization. Time, willingly and cheerfully given, is frequently an excellent substitute for money when it comes to raising a public donation. In no no activity is this truer than in the organization of a reception for Santa, for the old man, down through the years, has shown a preference for those who prepare for his coming by mixing time and imagination with liberal quantities of love.

Of course, some money will be required and merchants will be expected to make their share, and we just because they are merchants but because they are citizens of Belleville, fathers, and mothers, of children whose delight when Santa arrives will literally repay them for every cent and hour and thought invested in preparation for the great day.

We shouldn't be a bit surprised if the fathers and mothers—and even the grandfathers and grandmothers and crusty old uncles and maiden aunts and forty-second cousins twice removed—enjoyed St. Nick's visit, too.

COMMERCIAL OVERTONES

The newest "big wind" to attract newspaper headlines is the trans-Atlantic furore stirred up by "vulgar advertising" accompanying the televising of the Coronation over T.V. networks in the United States. American critics were caustic in their denunciation of such advertising gimmicks as the use of a chimpanzee to promote sales, and the interjection of a deodorant ad just before the Queen received her Crown. Somewhere in B.B.C., who was responsible for providing the North American networks with films of the entire proceedings free of charge, is, understandably, fuming over the commercial overtones given an otherwise artistic presentation.

There is nothing to be said in favor of the commercials that punctuated the television presentation. They were inappropriate, tasteless, unbecoming, graceless and sometimes tawdry.

But they were also inevitable.

The British Broadcasting Company gave superlative service to the most publicized pageant of this generation. But, the British Broadcasting Company is a non-commercial, private corporation in monopoly form. It is justified itself to art for its own sake while its financial headaches are borne by the taxpayers. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation operates in the happy position of presenting artistic and cultural material on two language networks without worrying about the cost of transmission and the weekly payroll.

United States television networks, however, are independently owned and operated, and depend very directly on the sponsor's cheque to keep the lamp burning in the 21-inch picture tube. Consequently, boxing fights, popular songs, sporting events of all kinds, cooking schools, and even Coronations—if they are to be aired at all, must share the video window with beer, blades, automobiles, and deodorants.

This inelegant union, not easily stomached in the best of times, is the price we all pay to enjoy the flickering magic lantern. Even when the cost of production of the films is not borne by the sponsor, as was the case with the Coronation films, the cost of transmission, and the time which the presentation takes that could be sold profitably, are items which the networks and their affiliated stations find too expensive to bear.

Television coverage of the Democratic and Republican conventions last summer was sponsored by appliance manufacturers.

It is regrettable that chimpanzees and deodorants interrupted the Coronation films. While it is admitted that under present conditions sponsorship of any program is the only feasible means of providing coverage of interesting and worthwhile events, it is also true that there are many different kinds of sponsors. In future, great events might be less inappropriately sponsored without any loss of revenue and with a minimum of esthetic upheaval.

SCARS

"He jests at scars who never felt a wound."
Shakespeare. End quote.
A bit of truth the old bard glibly crooned
Now operations, major, minor, or, better—wrote.

But in his time men got their scars from blows
In angry strife
Not from the surgeon's knife,
Or accidents or brickbats hurled by foes,
And every one recovered of his wounds
Performed on hosts,
Instead of jesting—boasts.

Grass-Cutting Is Dangerous

(By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor)

The inventors of new-fangled lawn mowers had conferred. I thought a great boon, and they heard what happened over at the cemetery last Memorial Day when the town has been accepting bequests for perpetual care for a good many years, and the turf had evidently built up so somebody thought a self-propelling lawn mower would be a good investment. Shortly the putt-putt was echoing among the hundred headstones, and many words of approval were spoken by the boys who groom the yard.

Then the mowster struck back. One of the fellows trusted with spending the perpetual-care income sneezed himself and gave the straw-gleaning a hefty haul, whereupon the engine keeled into action. Since the throttle was open, the leap was forthright. First, the lawn mower cut the bowers of the neighboring hoods, leaving his socks aghast at the unseemliness of the mechanical world and making his toes feel that they had been surprised.

The accident and gave the unexpected nature, and the damage done by the machine, it paused for a moment to survey the scene. Then, spying a tree, it lurched over, or struck off across country, scaring the Smiths, Barkers, Babcocks and Partridges half out of their wits, to a crashing halt against the broken-column monument of Capt. Jeremiah K. Rising 1788-1872.

"I don't know any more about it than the man in the moon," said Joe's book. The story is that the superintendent of the Board of Trustees of the Cemetery Fund will show an unexpected pair of shoes, under Upkeep of Equipment.

The speed with which grass lifts its head and grows is a constant joy to me the best argument against changing it to a desert. Much energy of nature is expended in making the stuff grow, and man's attempts to improve upon it are few. Some say they putt-putt, are so feeble, in comparison with the power to put keeping ahead of the grass crop for esthetic purposes strikes me as one more folly for the human race, one more frustration for Tantalus.

Besides, mowing the lawn is a down-East farming have conditioned me against it. There is a stiff sticking with the old idea that grass is too valuable to cut, and grass-land too valuable to waste on frivolous greenery. Times have changed, of course, but I am inclined to defend that opinion if used in open court.

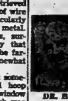
The old days we finished haying about the last of July, and if it happened to rain, "Just haying in the rain!" the answer would be "Just haying in the rain, getting bottles on the doors." Dooryard grass called for scythe work, and this was to be done in the early morning before the lawn is to the new home-owner. In spite of pastoral warnings to keep out of the grass until it was mowed, children spent a good space of time in spring retrieving this stuff from the vicinity.

Then there didn't get retrieved such as pickle jars, strands of wire and such, and particularly barrel hoops, both steel and hickory. So what with lodged grass, surrounded by hoops, and the hay in the grows best in a dooryard, the farmer left only few days of somewhat exacting work.

I remember one year that somebody had created a barrel hoop right under the front-room window where the Shining Light Club was tacking a quilt. The gentleman concerned addressed himself to the hoop, then to the world in general, and finally at everybody in particular. Then he cast the hoop from him and ran his thumb along the edge of the scythe. He thus discovered that there was a nick in the edge of husbandry, and he consulted the grindstone. On his way, he kicked the hoop again, and this time by inserting his foot in it and then trying to step ahead with the other.

I doubt if this world, so replete with surprises, is ever quite caught so fraught with conjecture as the state of a man who catches his foot in a barrel hoop and then kicks across a dooryard with a hand scythe. I am sure that the man having a patent lawn mower sheared off the second crop of your boots. Either way, I for one, am glad I am not involved.

The old reason for letting the dooryard grass grow was economic. We have to remember that we were land-meant to the pioneers, who needed their every hour to construct their small fields. They knew that grass was their only crop, and everything else encroached on it. A man had grass, he was prosperous. Weeds, hoe-cake, dogbane, wild mustard, milkweed, and other odds and ends that grew around the dwelling, or along the road, had a place.



You could winter another heifer if you had a dooryard to mow for lawn. I think tripping over a barrel hoop would be considered an expectable hazard of the harvest, whereas running your toes under a newly-born lawnmower would be viewed an absurd way to go looking for cause. In all depends, you see, on how you look at grass, which also is a matter of what you see, but of how you see it. To me, having, I keep telling myself that it's better for the dooryard grass with its hand scythe once or twice, than a close-crop it twice a week. It's grieving hands over my heart to convince people that I need the hay, but I'd rather try a while longer than become slave to a lawn mower.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

WELL, YOU ASKED FOR IT

From time to time you parry your correspondents' queries with the hackneyed suggestion "Consult your physician". May I ask why? I have been on a bland diet for years — and I vertically, nervous indigestion, spastic colon, and what-not. I have been consulting my physician or the best in the city year after year (the Clinic) and if they know anything about my case a couple dozen of them have done a good job of concealing it. About all they have prescribed aside from bland diet is phenobarbital and I refuse to take much of that. . . .(Mrs. W. L. P.)

DR. Brady

Perhaps I should be more specific. When I say physician I mean a doctor who practises under his own name, and not a clinic :-acketeer.

A congratulation upon your retention of sufficient self-control to keep clear of the phenobarbital habit. When a person begins to mumble about "nervous indigestion" and "spastic colon" I am with the barbiturates he isn't concealing what he knows; he is trying to conceal his ignorance.

There are many circumstances in which a good physician should administer one or more doses of morphine or other opiate or prescribe one or more doses of bella or that barbiturate. That is none of the patient's business and why the ill consequences the neighbors ascribe to "exposure." Some people have a fresh attack of fresh air. . . .(Mrs. N. E.)

Such a statement as this, coming from a physician, is a kind revelation of disease I cannot invigh too strongly against the practice of putting more than a single dose of a barbiturate in the hands of a mental patient. There have been far too many fatalities from overdose of a barbiturate taken unwittingly within the victim under the influence of a dose taken at bedtime, half awakened in the night, gropes for sleeping medicine and takes enough to insure a long, long sleep.

Certainly some persons are stronger than others, have more self-control or self-discipline or character. They think, my self among them, that we are at all about their "nerves."

Doctors who give or prescribe the barbiturates so freely not only string customers along without a diagnosis but encourage them to have delicate, sensitive, weak, strained, exhausted or shattered "nerves". Once you get them and their relatives and associates convinced of that idea, in lieu of a rational explanation, the illness will be what it always be plenty of change in the till."

Mrs. W.L.P., the correspondent who objected to this tirade, explains that she has lived under a strain from insufficient pensation. . . high blood pressure. . . and she can see now where the barbiturates have further natura to injure her health.

Similarly, here are again, right back where we started.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IT'S BLOWS THAT COUNT

Mr. Will Durant, the famous thinker and writer, has declared once gave a grand talk. Three words he uttered struck me with peculiar force. "Only blows educate," he said.

Civilization has a hard time surviving when it gets to the point where there is so much applause it doesn't know what to do with it. Then jealousy, competition and envy begin to undermine it subsequently.

During the pioneer days of any human development people are so busy thinking out ways of life, and how best to survive, that they have time to grow envious of their neighbor or to plan how to be the biggest figure than he. Their only thought is to establish something and then to pass it on for further development and improvement.

When wealth and ease arrive people grow soft and boastful and they begin to envy others who look the blows—and became edu cated.

There also isn't so much equality in the world as many would like to see. Some people will not be fought for—that is, if it is worth fighting for in the first place. Each of us must take blow after blow. Some of these blows wake us up, some stun us, some encourage us to think.

We often hear the question: "Can he take it?" Well, none of us know until how much punishment we can take until the punishment comes. The fighters in the ring go in confidently that they have the strength to win—the one who can take the most punishment.

The fit and the alert alone survive. They know how to handle the blows and to use them. Educated people are always well scared up!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Certain persons are temperamentally unqualified to drive motor cars. As the flood of cars continues to grow in proportion to the road now think up some way of cutting down the number of drivers. In our all but solidly congested cities and on our more and more hazardous highways. Perhaps temperament might be the next basis of selection. There is the reckless, the ultra-feminine woman, given to wearing small flowered hats and flouncy print dresses, who goes a little haywire whenever anything goes wrong with the machinery, such as another driver coming out of a side street or a pedestrian getting their horn at her, or when she has to parallel park a hill. She wants to drive a car with the light and happy grace with which she might ride a bicycle when she was younger in her garden.

On the other end of the temperament scale, there is the man who concedes himself to be a master of driving, who does whatever he pleases as he drives, window shops at 19 mile per hour in downtown traffic, stops to let a passenger cut in at a busy intersection, parks wherever he likes. Many, if not most tycoons are temperamentally unfitted to drive cars.

These Sons Expensive

(Vancouver Province)

Premier Bennett announced his six-point' formula for dealing with the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors and said, with magnificent optimism, "The days of fooling with the unlawful Doukhobors are numbered."

That might be got his answer. There were seven more fires in the Doukhobor country.

The Premier's Doukhobor reformation formula is all right in its way but it is very much like trying to stop an elephant with a peashooter.

How much real value will this formula have in stopping the burnings, dynamitings and nude parading in the Kootenays?

British Columbia men who do not live next door to these terrorists are exasperated at the "Sons" and thoroughly sympathetic with ors' Lootenay neighbors. And we do not feel happy about Attorney-General Bonner's disclosure that the cost to the province this year in dealing with the Doukhobors may exceed $500,000, which sum must be added to the several millions the Sons of Freedom have cost us over the last 20 years.

Big Bill Tilden Was Mr. Tennis

(New York Herald Tribune)

Like Babe Ruth in baseball and Bobby Jones in golf, Bill Tilden became stood for an entire sport. Long after he had retired from active play, Tilden was still the yardstick, the player against whom newcomers were measured for the strength of their service, the grace of their play, even the vigor of their personalities. Now that he is dead at sixty, it will be as the years go by, as the fame of the tall and husky competitor, the tennis boy who won where all others, that he will be remembered.

Bill Tilden dominated the court in an era that abounded in good players, and there was a theatricality that even in his later years, when he was an old man as athletics go, he could make his foe seem against the best professionals for a period of years. His fame, as such, he was not unbeatable, but like a Jack Dempsey or a Jesse Owens he was never his greatest play for the most crucial matches.

Probably it was his flair for the dramatic as much as his sheer ability that made him the great figure he was. Tilden always played to please the gallery rather than the official rules organized tennis. His first serious cannon-ball service had its effectiveness increased by deliberately as a Babe Ruth home run; the crowd roared its approbation whenever he exploded an ace past the desperate lunge of an opponent. Tilden always followed through his last years were and once, but sports in his own pantheon of immortals, and in it Bill Tilden holds a high place.

Letter to the Editor

Comparison Inaccurate

Editor,
Intelligencer,

I liked your artist's cartoon in the May 22 issue (Off the Record —By Ed Reed) showing the Belleville Y.M.C.A. saw as symbolic of the latter proceeds to feed the camp-fire with the former's foldingmoney!

In view of the official finding that, of last year's 5,300 forest fires in Canada "4,400 of them, at least, were started by human carelessness," I think the above quote is not its full, thousand words!

Moreover, the originating impulse for this brief letter is the recent Royal Visit to Australia, N.Z., in yesterday's issue: "To beat the housing shortage in New Zealand, the government is considering the equivalent of $3,000 in interest-free loans to help young couples reduce building costs. The government has decided that cheaper homes are the answer to the situation, rather than building more flats. . . . The government house-building. . . ."

Doubtless this latter competition is limited to folks within the British Commonwealth, but my idea 'entry' would be as follows: Given that the government authorities contact the Department of Forestry at Ottawa, for classical plans for a five-room cheap house. In 1952, according to the experts, forest fires in Canada destroyed wood sufficient for the construction of 85,000 five-room houses. The money cost of the (only 5,300) forest fires has been estimated (including fire-fighting costs) at over $6,000,000. This latter sum would seem to intimate lumber costs of $75 per house! Obviously the boys have something there, in the way of cheap five-room houses that we cheap!"

Either Canada's official messages to the forest fire centres is miles off the target, or the boys have a point. Why does the 1953 lumber bill in a five-room house?

BLESSED ARE THE MEEK

"Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth."

I thought of that verse from the Bible when I saw an automobile accident a few days ago. The driver ahead of me attempted to pass the car ahead of him. The latter was still in the left lane, a truck came toward her. For a moment she hesitated. Then she tried to crowd in front of the car ahead, leaving that driver over to the curb. As his wheels struck the curb, he lost control, turned sharply into the truck into the opposite curb, finally ended up on the sidewalk, off two steel poles before he could stop. Fortunately none of the vehicles struck a pedestrian, but all was hurt.

Recital Given By Pupils Of Mrs. A. E. Baker

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

Stirling — Over 200 parents, pupils and interested friends gathered in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Monday evening for the musical recital given by the pupils of Mrs. A. E. Baker A.R.C.T.

The church was a bower of beauty with silk flags and bunches of blooms. The children were arrayed in their finest for this gala event.

Despite a terrific electric storm, which came in hail-like torrents, the program with long crashes of thunder and streaks of lightning the children carried on valiantly even though the storm waves were very nervous of the storm.

Undimming

However, nothing daunted their enthusiasm and the pupils gave an excellent performance. Nearly all of the pupils sang or played from memory and this in itself will be a wonderful boon when they grow up and take their place in society.

The hall was packed to the audience and gave the title and composer of their selection. Even the little folk performed like veterans and the credit for this goes in double to Mrs. A. E. Baker.

Visitors came from Marysville, Belleville, Wooler, Madoc, Frankford Bethel, Carmel, Stockdale, Mount Pleasant, River Valley, Toronto and other points of Ontario.

Steps to Teach Rules of Safety To Children Will be Taken

Steps to teach the rules of safety to children between the ages of two and six years will be taken by the Middleton Park Council. Following a recommendation at the regular monthly meeting, recently, by Principal G. D. Dwyer, of the Air Marshal Breadner School that the council obtain a booklet, attractive to children, entitled "The A.B.C.'s of Traffic Safety, the council will take steps to procure the pamphlet from the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Department of Highways of Ontario.

S/L A. M. Sharp, chairman, opened the meeting with a reminder to ward representatives that the dog situation could be improved. Complaints have fallen considerably but something has been in effect, however, since complaints still have been received and where attention is not being paid to the new regulations offenders will have to be dealt with more strictly.

Building and grading of the Lawrence Drive playground is still unfinished but as soon as it is completed volunteers will be called for clean up and the removal of stones from the area. Following the removal of stones, the ground will be rolled and the equipment laid.

F/O E. L. Henesbohm reported that rats were being eradicated in the west end of Valley Town with a type of trap and bait that could be used successfully in Middleton Park. Since this had been seen, recently, Residents are asked to report rats in their area to their ward representatives.

Contract Let

The council recommended that the hazardous ditch, running through Middleton Park be filled in and a letter be sent to the commanding officer and further recommended that a sewer pipe be laid or suitable fencing be provided to block off the ditch.

A contract for paving Curtis Road has been let and work will start shortly.

The council will suggest to the proper authorities that the entire system of drainage in the park be reviewed and that large standing pools be eliminated.

F/O E. L. Henesbohm reported that a letter has been sent asking for a clarification of what the garbage service is required to pick up outside of the regular garbage.

It has been noted that several of the newly planted trees and shrubs have failed to survive. The council will request a policy in respect to replacement.

To assist the council with technical problems, it was recommended by the membership that the Engineering Officer at RCAF Station Trenton be appointed an ex-officio member of the council.

The council will bring to the attention of authorities the untidy park areas. Grading of the areas would give play space for the children and keep them off the roads.

It was moved by F/S J. P. Mascovy that: "inasmuch as there is a very strong need for a full-time recreational director for Middleton Park and all such activities therein, and as it is beyond the scope of the council to undertake that Air Force Headquarters be asked to consider this matter with a view to providing such a position."

Following a motion by F/O Henesbohm, the council agreed to allot the sum of $40.00 for equipment for playgrounds to provide a place where mothers may feel while supervising the children.

F/L J. P. Radcliffe, Ward 3 representative, reported that residents have complained of several boys playing golf there. The chairman requested that specific complaints be directed to him in order that appropriate action may be taken. Due to pressure of other commitments, F/L Radcliffe asked council to accept his resignation. The resignation was accepted with regret and F/L C. Parsons moved a vote of thanks to F/L Radcliffe for his good work during the past year.

F/C V. J. Berg, Ward 4 representative, reported that the woodlot on near Herman Rose Ward is in need of being cleaned up.

F/C R. J. Day, Ward 5 representative, reported that there was poison ivy on front lawns in their area. The chairman stated that the spray equipment was available for anyone who wished to use it.

In Ward 6, WOR R. C. Grant asked for a policy on the cutting down of trees in large corner lots. It was reported that the Air Force is responsible for the care of similar areas throughout the entire station.

F/S J. P. Maroney, Ward 7 representative, reported that complaints had been received of residents not using suitable garage containers.

The area between Chatham and St. Hubert is in need of being cleaned out, reported Cpl. J. K. Kathexley, Ward 9 representative.

It was suggested by Sgt. D. P. Bergle, Ward 10 representative, that additional trash cans be added to the present fence near the railroad tracks adjacent to Regina Crescent.

The council will meet Tuesday, July 14, in Air Marshal Breadner School.

Federal Grant Of $125 a Pupil Being Urged

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP)—Minimum federal grants of $125 a student were urged Wednesday by the National Conference of Canadian Universities at its closing session here.

The present grant scheme provides for 50 cents per person of provincial population.

Dr. W. P. Thompson, president of the University of Montreal, was elected NCCU president and Rt. Rev. Oliver Maurault, rector of the University of Montreal, vice-president.

Addressing a closing dinner, retiring NCCU president Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, principal of Queen's University, warned against lowering education to the propaganda level.

He said mass instruction might turn out large numbers of students well-informed but deficient in education and confused in motive.

Church Workers Asked to Bring More Into Fold

MONTREAL (CP)—Church workers were told Wednesday to penetrate professions and labor organizations in an effort to bring their members "into the fold" as the 20th annual meeting of the Montreal-Ottawa conference of the United Church of Canada went into its third day.

Rev. W. G. Berry, general council representative, said the church needs a "set of cells" within groups—both political and social—as "we must bore from within as done by political groups and get hold of teachers, lawyers, doctors, industrialists, labor leaders, journalists and actors."

"Vast areas of our culture are entirely pagan," he said. "The large part of our culture today is missionary area for the preaching and teaching evangelist."

TO FLY BODY HOME

METZ, France (CP)—The body of Flt. Lt. Guy Chevlier of Montreal, RCAF pilot killed Tuesday when his Sabre jet fighter crashed from a lake, will be flown home soon, it was reported Wednesday. Flt. Lt. Cloutier was attached to the RCAF fighter wing based at Gros Tesquin near the German border.

Contact Club Holds Adjournment Meeting

The Contact Club of Christ Church, Trenton, held adjournment for the summer months, recently enjoyed a pot-luck supper at the Parish Hall. A happy group of members gathered at the hall which was prettily decorated for this carefree evening as they had for the many worthy meetings preparing the Lenten season of Lenten.

After a delicious meal, which did not deserve the name "potluck" as the president, Florence Lennox, welcomed the rector, Canon J. B. Creegan and Mrs. Creegan, Mrs. Ethel Gamble, Mrs. Miss Helen Cook, Mrs. W. J. Burgoyne and Mrs. Stephen Inman.

Mrs. Lennox then thanked all the members for their co-operation during the past season and Mrs. Gamble and Mrs. Inman for their reports. It was generally agreed that the Kermis had been a successful venture to give well worth all the weeks of preparation.

The climax of the gay evening was the delightful Hobo Parade. Little Miss Judy McKnight, accompanied by Evelyn Wareham at the piano, danced a clever dancing talents, and won all hearts with her modest ways.

After a joyful sing-song, Miss Helen Inman showed wonderful versatility in assuming pantomimic monologues, "Vera Cheers", "The Lonely Goatherd" and "If I Could Have Her". Canon Creegan thanked her warmly for her imagination and encouragement to the club and his remarks were followed by a hearty cheer for her.

Then, as a final and delightful part of the program, Miss Hazel Cook, ably accompanied by Mrs. W. J. Burgoyne at the piano, sang two lovely songs, "My Love" and "Three Loves Have I".

The meeting, which had so gaily and fittingly concluded the spring activities of the club, ended with light refreshments.

Summer Cottage Meals

By Mary Moore

Eileen T. said in her letter: "... would appreciate your giving me a list of 'summer cottage' ...you know, easy to-prepare meals and recipes"—and I think I've a peach of an idea. So I've listed one-hot-dish and given menus to go with each, that I hope you will like. These may be prepared from provisions most of us can have on hand if you are hungry when you buy your groceries in town once per week.

Summer Cottage Menus No. 1

Spaghetti Meat
Shredded Cabbage and Pineapple Chunk Salad
Fresh Strawberries or Sliced Bananas or Canned Peaches
Almond Bars Iced Tea

No. 2

Cream of Tomato Soup or Canned Vegetable Beef Soup
All-in-one-Salad Bowl
Raisin Nut Bran Muffins
Old-Fashioned Custard Pie (see notes)
Coffee

No. 3

Corned Beef Hash
Salad Bowl of Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers, Radishes on Lettuce
Blueberry Crisp Coffee
Teatea

Spaghetti Meat (Serves 4 to 6)

One-half lb. ground beef, half of an onion, chopped, 1 pkg. spaghetti, broken in half, 1 28-oz. tin tomatoes, 1-3 cup water, 1 large onion chopped, 1-2 seeded green pepper or 1-3 cup chopped celery, about 2-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper (1-3 chopped clove garlic is optional), cheese if desired. Combine all ingredients in large saucepan. If you want to do this in the morning to get ready for an evening meal, cover it and cook overnight for 15 minutes until steam appears. Remove from heat, cool it, and store in refrigerator until 1 hour before meal time. Cook over low heat or bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. If baked, sprinkle cheese over top. If cooked on top of stove it must be stirred occasionally. For the top-of-stove version, grated cheese at table. Note—If you are baking this Almond Bars may be baked with it.

Almond Bars

Mix, together and put into ungreased 8x8x2-inch pan: 1 cup flour, 1-4 cup brown sugar, 1-4 cup butter or margarine. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 10 minutes. Remove from oven and cover with Topping: Beat 2 eggs until light, add 1-4 cup brown sugar and beat until fluffy. Fold in 1-4 cup flour sifted with 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, then add 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3-4 cup each moist shredded coconut and rolled oat-meal, and 1 cup chopped blanched almonds (or walnuts). (All coconut may be used instead of coconut and oatmeal if desired.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes or until crisp and lightly browned.

All-in-One-Salad Bowl

(To serve six)

One medium head lettuce, 2 30-ounce tin string beans, drained, 3 peeled tomatoes, 2 cups diced cooked potatoes, 2 ounce tin canned fish such as crab, lobster, shrimp or red salmon, 1 peeled mild onion, 2 shelled hard-cooked eggs, sliced, 1-3 cup sweet pickle, 1 peppercorn, garlic clove, 3-4 (or can) salad oil, 1-4 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 cup vinegar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper. Break up the washed and dried lettuce and arrange in salad bowl. Arrange alternate layers of the string beans, tomatoes cut in eighths, the potatoes, fish and eggs. Beat together all of the remaining ingredients with a fork, and thoroughly toss this into the salad. This salad is not harmed by being made ahead of time or if you could assemble it as far as putting it in the bowl and toss it with the dressing at the last minute.

As far as the Custard Pie is concerned buy ready-made pastry and keep it very cold. I chose custard pie because it contains eggs and milk and this meal is a little short on protein content, otherwise,

Corned Beef Hash

Two cups or 1-lb. can chopped corned beef or roast beef, 3 cups chopped cold cooked potatoes, 1-3 cup minced onion, salt, pepper, 1-3 to 1-2 cup light cream or rich milk, 2 tablespoons fat. Heat fat in frying-pan. Spread all ingredients but cream over it. Cook over low heat until crust begins to form on bottom. Pour cream over. Continue cooking until golden crust forms on bottom. Fold over its omelette to serve. All ingredients but cream may be mixed in morning, and then cooked about 30 minutes before serving time.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Two years ago, when I was 16, I was married to a boy three years older. While I loved him very much we were married, things are different now, and it's mostly because he has never let me have any "fun" or freedom. He never wants to go anywhere himself, and he will not let me go anywhere without him, and we quarrel about this all the time.

Not long ago, I met a very nice unmarried young man just my husband's age, and I think I have really fallen in love with him. Although I have been out with him a few times, I don't think he is interested in me at all because he is a lot of fun to be out, but I am sure I will never be able to put him out of my mind.

Do you think I should leave my husband and try to win this man's love or stay with my husband and always be thinking of this other man?

B.H.

While I sympathize very much with your unhappy situation, I am afraid that to leave your husband and pursue a man who, by your description, shows no interest in you, is certainly not the answer to your problem. Out of all the reasons I might mention why such a step would be extremely foolish, I will pick out just one. That is, who is going to take care of you if you left your husband and then found yourself quite unable to interest this other man in making you his wife. Or are you fully prepared to support yourself?

The very best thing for you to do right now, is to stop quarreling with your husband and make it your business to be as nice to him that when you ask him to take you out for a good time, he will not have the heart to refuse you. But first of all, you should stop seeing this other man, or anybody else, or you are certainly going to get into worse trouble than you are now.

You should, of course, have waited for marriage until you were older. Since you didn't the only right thing to do is to try and grow up now, so that you can handle your marriage with more maturity.

Her Parents Object to Her Romance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in love with a boy 20 years old. I am 17. He is all that a girl could ever want, courteous, clean-cut and liked by everyone.

The trouble is that we are of different nationalities, and for this reason my parents have forbidding me to go with him. We are of the same faith, so I cannot see why they object.

I have tried to talk to them very reasonably, but they just won't listen. Every time we discuss it, they get the last word because I don't want to keep up an argument. I have never done anything behind my parents' back, but I am afraid I will have to start doing it if I can't go out with this boy any other way.

J.A.H.

Dear J.A.H.:

While I think you are entirely right and your parents quite wrong, I can't see that it is going to help matters if you go out with this boy behind their backs. It seems to me that you would only run into double trouble eventually if you were to do this, because they are bound to certain to find out about it sooner or later.

What would be much better than defying them, would be to see if there might not be some way of changing their attitude than trying to talk them into it. For example, suppose your boy friend were to get his mother to invite your parents to dinner some time, or telephone and ask if they might not come to call. It might be that if his parents were to get acquainted, it would solve the problem. See what you can do along this line. Surely if the young man's parents were to issue an invitation to yours, they would not be so ungracious as to refuse it.

On the other hand, if you do try this, and it doesn't work, and you can think of no other way the parents might be brought together, then I think you and this boy had better see each other only at parties or other places where you will be in a group, so that your parents cannot accuse you of seeing him alone. Hard as it is, if you and the young man really care about each other, you can afford to wait a year or so until you are old enough to make and carry out your own decisions, something for which you are a bit too young yet. If your feeling does not survive obstacles, then it is not so serious as you think it is, and your problem will dissolve of itself.

Fashion Flashes

Not many deep, uncovered necklines this Summer, but, instead we find built-up and open necklines and sleevelessness. All of which is much prettier, especially for street wear. Smart separates include a black cotton jersey blouse with a draped front, cowl neckline and very brief sleeves. The full skirt, done in a bold green and brown leaf design on white, is corded at the waist.

It's still gray all the way, despite all the emphasis on beige. The latter hue is expected to register more strongly, come late Summer. Gray flannel makes a wonderfully effective coat—the line straight, and the banding on the collarless neckline extending to the hip line, where it curves up on either side. Lined with violet silk taffeta to match the bunch of violets worn at the shoulder.

High Fashion marks a group of coats in black-dyed Southwest African Persian lamb, a fur that is light and supple. Matchbox lines for a jacket that has horizontal inserts of ribbon faille to break the straight lines. Mandarin necklike and turnback cuffs are other details of this smart coat.

A major fashion this Summer will be the cotton print dress with matching stole, a nice, cool, fresh and useful fashion. While wrinkle cotton, the no-iron kind, with a blue star print, makes up into a nice dress with a, wide, scooped bayhole neckline and a slim sheath skirt. The matching stole is reversible, the other side being of solid blue.

Cookery Terms

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture are constantly receiving letters from housewives in need help with cooking problems. Many young housemakers want to know what the various meat cooking terms mean. One rather bewildered bride wrote that she was having great difficulty trying to figure out what was meant when the terms "simmer," "boil" or "pot roast" were used in recipes. The home economists quite understood her predicament because some such terms are misleading.

Take for instance the expression "boiled beef". Beef is not "boiled" by good cooks today, neither are eggs "boiled". Instead, these foods are "simmered" that is, they are cooked in water just below the boiling point. The reason for the lower heat is that protein foods are toughened by the high heat of boiling. Whenever you see the word "boiling" referring to meat cookery, really means to "simmer", the meat or to cook it in water just below the boiling point.

Braising and Pot Roasting

"Braising" and "pot roasting" are two terms used when speaking of cooking meat by moist heat. Generally the word "braise" is used in referring to cooking small cuts of meat and pot roasting to larger cuts. When meat is braised or pot roasted, it is usually browned first in a small amount of fat, then liquid is added and the meat is cooked covered until tender, either on the top of the stove or in the oven.

The liquid from meat which has been braised or pot roasted should always be served with the meat. It may be thickened and served as a gravy in some cases where the liquid is tomatoes or tomato juice, it is served as a sauce with the meat. The word "dredge" often appears in meat recipes. To "dredge" means to coat, usually with flour and the easiest way to do this is to put a small amount of flour in a paper bag. Then add the meat and shake well. The dredging helps to brown the meat and to thicken the gravy.

Sautéing Meat

One interesting letter that the home economists received recently came from a young girl who planned to practise housekeeping for her summer holidays. She had never taken home economics in school and so she had to start from the beginning. The home economists sent her a complete set of their consumer bulletins and then explained in her what the many terms used in recipes meant. One word explained to her what the many terms used in recipes meant. One they explained was "sauté". To "sauté" meant for example, first brown it quickly on both sides, in a small amount of fat, in a frying pan. Then reduce the heat to a moderate temperature and cook the meat uncovered, turning occasionally, until it is tender. Actually many of us use the term "fry" instead of "sauté" —either is correct but the word "sauté" is the more modern term.

Deep-fat frying" is another type of frying but it refers to cooking food in a large amount of fat which has been heated to a definite temperature. With this method meant, for example, is cooking completely at the one temperature. There can hardly be a discussion on meat cookery without explaining what "roasting" is. "Roasting" is a method of cooking in dry heat. The meat is cooked in an oven in an open shallow pan with no liquid added at a specified temperature. This differs from pot roasting when roasts are cooked covered and water is added.

Broiling

Broiling is another type of cooking by dry heat where the food is placed on a rack in a broiling pan and is cooking under the direct heat of the broiling unit. Broiled foods are becoming more and more popular and there are certainly many suggestions for using this method of cooking in cook books today. Most electric or gas stoves have broiling units but home economists say that many housemakers are not too sure how to broil. Thick cuts of meat which take quite a long time to broil usually placed further away from the broiling unit than thinner cuts.

Russian Heavy Cruiser Arrives For Naval Review

PORTSMOUTH, England (CP)— The Russian heavy cruiser Sverdlov, first Soviet warship to enter British waters since the war, steamed to anchorage today for the Coronation naval review next Monday.

The 13,950-ton Russian vessel was sighted off Spithead, the narrow strip of water between here and the Isle of Wight, just after dawn. Her guns then saluted Admiral Sir George Creasy, commanding the British home fleet, in the battleship Vanguard.

Shore batteries at Portsmouth, Britain's top-secret naval base, joined in the answering salute.

The Sverdlov, here five days early, will be one of the first ships the Queen will pass when she reviews a huge combined fleet Monday, the biggest assemblage of naval power in British waters since the last coronation 16 years ago.

The review will include British and Commonwealth vessels as well as warships from the United States and many other countries.

Canada has sent seven ships—the aircraft carrier Magnificent, the cruisers Quebec and Ontario, the Korean-veteran destroyer Sioux, the frigates Swansea and La Hulloise and the icebreaker D'Iberville.

The Canadian ships took up their positions off Spithead Tuesday.

KILLED AT GAS STATION

HAMILTON (CP) — Robert Crowder, 45, of Hamilton was instantly killed Wednesday at the Texaco service station, Main and Queen streets, when a hoist fell on him.

In electric stoves, the broiling unit is usually the top element of the oven. In gas stoves the broiler may be a separate set of jets under the oven or it may be a unit level with the top of the stove. Before starting to broil, be sure to read the manufacturer's directions for broiling in the booklet supplied with your stove.

Dr. F. G. Robertson Speaks to Rotary Club On Political Controls

Campbellford — Guest speaker at the Monday noon luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club was Dr. Fred G. Robertson, M.P., of Cobourg. Dr. Robertson stressed the importance of the development of political controls and the extension of government functions in the dynamic progressive society.

The British North America Act as a basis of Confederation, envisaged a strong central government having power over the "peace, order and good government of people scattered over a relatively thin strip of land adjacent to the U.S. border."

The Act provided for a House of Commons and a Senate, the latter serving as a curb to the preponderant representation of the larger provinces and protecting the minority representation from any infringement on their rights. The Senate is appointed on a geographical basis.

"Our government is responsible for almost 13 billion dollars. The past few years has seen the greatest development in the exploitation of resources ever seen in the history of the world," he said. The development of the western oil fields, the great iron and uranium finds, have brought the problem of conservation.

"From the Anglo-Saxon interpretation of democracy, our political heritage is patterned. It has been modified to our needs which have, of course, changed through the centuries. It is a far cry from the original concept of democracy, where the individual was comparatively self-sustaining; to the complexity of business as it is today. Likewise has the function of democratic government been changed. Democracy is designed to give freedom to the people and, responsibility to their representatives. It is not necessarily suited to all races and peoples, but group-power on enlightened people.

The Federal government recently announced that to the Crown, the first Canadian Governor-General. He is the Queen's representative in Canada and about the only political tie left with the Mother Country. The Queen, and she is the Queen of Canada, exerts a tremendous influence on the Dominion. It is an influence which some can either mention or deny."

Dr. Robertson was introduced by Dr. Art Bright and thanked by president Frank DeCarrol.

R.A.F. Captain Escorts Princess

With the Coronation now a matter of history, Londoners have turned to the subject of Princess Margaret's romance with RAF Captain Peter Wooldridge Townsend, who is not only a commoner but a divorced man. Reports say that despite the royal family's well-known attitude to divorcees, Queen Elizabeth is sympathetically inclined toward her sister's romance. This photo, made at the recent Badminton horse trials, shows Captain Townsend standing at left with members of the royal family. Seated are the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, at left; Queen Elizabeth, right foreground, with Princess Margaret immediately behind her. Beyond Margaret are Princess Mary and the Duke of Beaufort. — Central Press Canadian.

RAWDON

Graphic Picture of Coronation Given at River Valley W.I.

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — The home of Mrs. Fred McDonell was nicely decorated with flags, pictures of royalty and seasonable blooms for the special Coronation program held on Thursday. The day was ideal and about 40 members, ten visitors and several children were in attendance.

The visitors included Mr. Paul Mercier, Belleville jeweller, who displayed his replica of the royal crown of England; Mrs. Walter Warren, 1851 festival gold medalist of Bethel; Mrs. S. J. Elliott, Stirling, and the hostess's daughter, Mrs. W. Shortt, of Sidney, and others.

The president, Mrs. Edward Heasman, presided over the opening exercises, Mrs. J. L. Donohoe gave a full report of the recent expenditures and there is a bank balance of almost $131.

Thanks were received from members for kindnesses received.

Letters re the June holiday at Kemptville and the July holiday at Guelph were discussed. The roll call was well responded to with names of former sovereigns beginning with Alfred the Great.

Mrs. Roy Bush gave a brief synopsis of the Coronation service at Scott's Valley school when the Institute presented each pupil with a cup and saucer and the teacher, Mrs. R. Coombes, with a plate, all depicting the Coronation of Elizabeth II. The school was also presented with a nylon flag for inside use.

Concise reports of the district annual for West Hastings held at Scott's Valley Church, were given by Mrs. Will Ashby and Mrs. Don Donohoe, who were thanked for their effort.

The press secretary read a letter from the link Institute at Abbot's Leigh, Bristol, England, and she plans to forward a bundle of clippings and magazines to that group in the near future.

Coronation

The program on Coronation was arranged by Mrs. Harry Morrow and Mrs. Jack Sager.

Mrs. Morrow introduced Mrs. Percy MacMullen, who gave a synopsis of that wonderful event. The speaker displayed a souvenir replica of the Coronation chair, the gold coach and grey horses which were the property of Mrs. John Mullence of Bethel, which had been sent by her parents in England.

She also displayed a portfolio of pictures of royalty and souvenir books which Mrs. MacMullen had received from her friend in the old land.

She chose as her theme, "Our Queen is crowned," and spoke of the ceremony of great historical significance. This was more unique because hours later folks were seeing the Coronation on television and cinema screens. She said 400 Canadians were privileged to occupy seats in the Abbey, there were four working Canadians who were paid staff members; nine sang in the choir, and two Canadian bandsmen were among the trumpeters who sounded the fan fare.

London Street Scenes

She described the scene of London's streets when thousands huddled here and there for hours in the rain. She said, "when these people sat down on the street curbs and stacked their thermos bottles and layers of bread and rubber rainsheets beside them, they were enforcing an Englishman's right to stop where he liked."

Several poems on "The Coronation" were released on Tuesday, June 2nd, and she read one of them and told of the others.

The speaker gave a graphic picture of Westminster Abbey, and the orchestra, music. She reviewed the nine separate processions and gave a synopsis of the Queen's gown, made like her wedding dress and the most beautiful dress in the world.

The speaker also gave word pictures of the other dresses, worn by the Queen Mother, princess Margaret, and the six maids of honor.

Coronation Gift

Reference was made to the Queen's special coronation gift when she was awakened and told of the British victory when the Union Jack had been planted on Mount Everest, the roof-top of the world.

Mrs. MacMullen took the audience with her as the great procession entered the Abbey and told of the color and pageantry which provided a spectacle which is probably without equal on earth, and step by step she outlined this mystic and solemn service as Queen Elizabeth II took the oath, accepted the gifts, was anointed and crowned, then went to St. Edward's Chapel for light refreshments and an hour's rest before again riding in the golden coach through the streets of London and on to Buckingham Palace which was climaxed with the cheering crowd and the magnificent "fly past".

In closing she read a part of the Queen's speech on the radio when she called on her 600 million subjects everywhere to guard freedom and practise tolerance.

Mrs. Walter Warren sang acceptably that patriotic selection "They All Call It Canada, but I Call It Home."

Twenty-two pupils of River Valley Public school with their teacher, Mrs. R. Coombes arrived at this time and with Ann Sager as accompanist, they sang four selections: "Our Flag", "The Red, White and Blue", "Canada" and "Coronation Bells".

Highlight of Afternoon

Mr. Paul Mercier, jeweller at Belleville, kindly visited the W.I. meeting and displayed his gorgeous replica of the royal crown of England, on a satin cushion. After being introduced by Mrs. Morrow to the large group of over 80 people, he gave a splendid address and explained where he got his ideas for patterning this replica.

He carefully outlined the painstaking effort and precision planning in order that the crown would be exact and he with other assistants spent some 250 hours on this imitation make-up of what is really a masterpiece.

The school children were thrilled as Mr. Mercier gave the step by step story of the construction of the crown and explained how it was arranged in order that it can be taken apart and cleaned and polished. He told of some of the searches to find exact articles especially the ball at top of crown.

The speaker's son, Bobby, is the 12th generation of Merciers in Canada as they first came in 1638 and he admonished his audience to be ever mindful of the great unity between Canada and the Motherland. He said, "We folk here do not realize the value of unity."

This replica of the crown has been written up in many newspapers and magazines and has been displayed in various places, including, Trenton, Peterborough, Kingston, St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, for their centennial and coronation services and at several institute gatherings.

Tributes and Thanks

Mrs. Jack Sager, co-convener of the program, voiced a tribute special thanks to Mr. Mercier for his most interesting address and display. She also thanked all others individually for their assistance on the program.

The July meeting will be held at River Valley school house with Mrs. J. R. Donohoe as hostess and Seymour East W.I. of Mendie, will be guests that afternoon.

The hostess and a number of assistants served refreshments to the large group of adults and children.

Mrs. Ross Bush voiced thanks for hospitality, program and refreshments and expressed thanks to the conveners for providing such an interesting meeting on "The Coronation".

Reds Announce Sweeping Reductions in East Germany Communization, Aid Churches

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Red rulers announced sweeping reductions Wednesday night in the communization of the Soviet-occupied territory and signed a peace treaty giving the Protestant Church big concessions.

Both startling developments in Western quarters figured the Kremlin ordered them—apparently were aimed at making the east zone a more attractive candidate for unification with the more populerous and free West Germany.

They appeared also designed to quiet the widespread fear and discontent among East Germany's 18,000,000 residents which have sent thousands fleeing each week to the West.

Announcing the communization reductions directed by the ruling politburo of the East German Communist party, President Otto Grotewohl said the group "is aiming at the re-establishment of the unity of Germany which requires from both sides concrete measures to bring about."

The concessions to the Germans from their Red rulers also gave new ammunition to West German opponents of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's campaign to bring Germany's western half into military alliance with the United States.

Only A Prelude

Some Western officials here expressed belief that the moves were only a prelude to some other important step. They said either the Kremlin call for a four-powers meeting each other.

The politburo directives provided in part:

1. No further extension of the collective farm system.

2. Making private bank credits available to private business men. Those who have been forced out of business will be granted permission to set up shop again.

3. Returning confiscated property and full civil rights to persons who come back to East Germany after fleeing to the West.

4. A general amnesty for all prisoners serving up to three years on charges of having damaged the state-owned economy.

5. Issuance of ration cards to all persons. The state recently withheld cards from 250,000 East Germans, regarded as outside the favored Red circle.

The pact to end the bitter church-state battle was announced jointly by Grotewohl and Bishop Otto G. Dibelius, head of the Protestant Church of all Germany. Its nine points, covering most of the main issues, sharply reversed the government's hostile attitude of the last few months.

Agreement Welcome

The Protestants are the most powerful religious group in East Germany. Bishop Dibelius' flock includes 16,000,000 of the East's 18,000,000 and 20,000,000 of the 68,000,000 in the West.

German Catholic officials welcomed the agreement and said they hoped to obtain a similar promise of relief from Communist persecution.

The church-state pact provided:

1. Recognition of the church's right of assembly.

2. "No further actions"—against the Youth Communities and other church groups.

3. Review of court sentences against more than 15 pastors now in jail on charges of opposing the state. Confiscated church property will be returned.

4. All state subsidies to the church—long customary in Germany—to be paid promptly.

5. The ministry of education to work out a plan restoring religious lessons to Soviet zone classrooms.

6. Elimination of discrimination against advanced students loyal to the church or to church groups.

R. L. Beattie, General Manager Of INCO, Dies

TORONTO (CP) — R. Leslie Beattie, vice-president and general manager in charge of Canadian Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., died in his office here Wednesday.

Mr. Beattie, 63, had just returned to work from a business trip to the United States.

Born on a farm near Caledonia, Ont., he played a large part in International Nickel's war - time expansion program during the Second World War, assuring vital nickel supplies to the Allies.

Mr. Beattie joined the company in 1911, became works auditor of mine operations in the Sudbury district and was appointed assistant general manager of Canadian operations in 1935. He became assistant vice-president five years later and vice-president and general manager in 1942.

Forecasts Drop In Defence Firms' Need for Tools

TORONTO (CP) — The British machine tool industry expects a lessening demand for its products, a United Kingdom representative to the Canadian International Trade Fair said Wednesday.

Col. C. W. Clarke said at a joint press conference of British, United States and Canadian exhibitors that the decrease will be "nothing if so could call a slump or a recession."

The conference was held on the fair's third and last public day.

The expected fall in demand for machine tools, Col. Clarke said, is due to a slackening of the defence pace. Defence factories in Britain and the U. S. were almost fully equipped.

"Those factories are not likely to want much more," he said.

Civilian buyers of heavy machinery will benefit and they can expect faster deliveries.

Col. Clarke said that as a result of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, British firms are trading successfully in the highly-industrialized U. S. and selling machinery and machine tools.

Drew Says Party Ready to Fight Election Anytime

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said today he is ready to fight an election at any time but repeated his earlier assertion that a forecast Aug. 19 polling day would disfranchise "several hundred thousand" voters.

He added, however, that any person favoring lunches might think an August election would benefit his party — he led the Progressive Conservatives to victory in an October general election Aug. 4, 1949, ending nine years of Liberal government in the province.

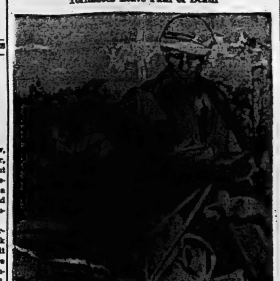
"It might be a nice 10th anniversary," Mr. Drew told a press conference on his return from a three-week visit to Britain as one of Canada's delegates to the coronation.

The Opposition leader stressed that he has had no official word on the election date, and he declined to deal at this time with campaign issues.

But he said that alternative plans for his campaign trip have been prepared, depending on the date and he would make a statement of his party's plans on the opening speech of his campaign.

Ready For Any Date

Mr. Drew said an August election "can mean only one thing—the government is in a panic over the frequency with which the evidence of extravagance and folly of one kind and another are coming to light."



It would also mean, he said, that the government was prepared to disfranchise "several hundred thousand" voters who would be away from home on holidays "in pursuit of salvaging something in the voting".

However, he added, "I'm ready for any date."

The party organization was in "considerably better shape than it been in a great many years." There were still a number of constituency organizations still to choose party candidates, but he was sure the party would run candidates "in nearly every riding."

Commenting on the recent provincial elections in Nova Scotia and Manitoba, Mr. Drew said the increase in his party's share of the vote was "very encouraging."

He declined to comment, however, on Tuesday's British Columbia election, where the Progressive Conservatives apparently won the four seats they held in the last legislature.

Tornadoes Leave Path of Death

Forces behind the tornadoes that left paths of death throughout the mid-western and New England states is shown by this plank, driven through the tire of a farm tractor, at Arcadia, Nebraska, in Nebraska. Nebraska, where the tornado was the worst on record, 233 persons lost their lives. In Nebraska a family of ten was wiped out in a few minutes. — Central Press Canadian.

'Policeman's Hand on Shoulder' Only Way to Make Roads Safe

KINGSTON (CP) — Ontario highway patrols are going to be stepped up and regulations enforced more strictly than in the past, Highways Minister Doucett said Wednesday.

Addressing the fourth annual Ontario traffic conference, he said consistently delinquent motorists "will be educated the hard way" as provincial authorities move to check the rising toll of death and injury on the highways.

He told the delegates that "a policeman's hand on the shoulder" is the only thing that will persuade some drivers to respect the rules of the road.

Mr. Doucett said he is gravely concerned over the mounting traffic toll in Ontario—1,610 persons killed, more than 23,000 injured and $20,000,000 property damage last year—but he said he cannot endorse a proposal that drivers be re-examined at regular intervals.

He said the ultimate answer to the traffic problem is co-operation and good citizenship.

Good progress has been made since the Ontario traffic conference, comprising traffic enforcement and municipal officials, was organized four years ago in Kitchener, he said. But Ontario's population is increasing at the rate of about 10,000 a month, and the task to be is growing in proportion.

He said his department will not take over the ferry Wolfe Islander, which plies between Kingston and nearby Wolfe Island, as part of the provincial highway system. While the ferry was built for the province, the department gave it to the island residents on condition they operate it themselves.

Prof. J. L. McDougall, professor of economics at Queen's University, speaking at a city-sponsored banquet for the delegates, said too much is being given for too little in street and road services.

He said the real reason for traffic jamming is that public bodies are making a great effort to provide impressive facilities without apportioning the charges with regard to the amount of use made of those facilities.

He said the railways can move freight much more cheaply than highway transports and still earn huge profits for themselves. Yet trucking was used extensively, resulting in tremendous wear on roads and highways which were broken down almost before they were built, and truckers were not charged in proportion to the costs they placed on these avenues of transportation.

Socreds Leading But C.C.F. in B.C. Is Still Hopeful

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia settled back today to await the official outcome of the provincial election — already heralded as a triumph for Social Credit.

Except for the CCF, which still figures it has a fighting chance, the other parties are waiting for the final tabulation in gloomy resignation.

The second count under B. C.'s alternative voting system won't be started until June 30, the delay between first and subsequent counts permitting the return of absentee ballots to their proper constituencies.

But first counts tabulated Tuesday night and Wednesday indicated the re-election of Social Credit with increased strength, possibly even with a working majority. It appeared Liberal Opposition leader and the official Opposition.

Definitely, the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives took terrific punishment and it appeared almost certain the CCF would fail to squeeze a single member into the 48-seat house.

Final returns took the lead in two ridings, but lost it Wednesday as returns continued to trickle in. Neither was leading anywhere in the latest standing, which showed:

	Elected	Leading
SC	26
CCF	2	15
Labor		1
Total	28	48

Premier Election

Premier Bennett and three of his cabinet ministers already in the winners' circle. Leader Harold Winch and veteran Labor Member are the CCF candidates declared elected on the first count.

Some of the other cabinet ministers found the road to re-election more difficult. Vancouver-South Grey, Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston had an indecisive lead over Liberal leader Arthur Laing and in Oak Bay Finance Minister Gaglardi was being pressed by Liberal P.A. Gibbs.

Expect All Five Countries Proposed for POW Board Will Serve Says Washington

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—All five countries proposed for membership on a "neutral" prisoner-of-war commission in Korea now are expected to serve—thereby eliminating one of the last barriers to a truce.

United States officials still privately expressed concern today over the big and probably final hurdle—what South Korea will do. But there was increasing confidence here that at some point before, or about the time, the fighting ends, President Syngman Rhee will agree to go along with a cease-fire.

There is no league any doubt here that by technical details yet to be settled with the Communist command by United Nations negotiators at Panmunjom will be resolved in a relatively short time. These details are concerned chiefly with laying out the zone which will divide the armies after an armistice.

Meanwhile, the Korean embassy released Wednesday night in a message sent 10 days ago by Rhee to President Eisenhower asking for a defence treaty with the U.S. and including a provision for keeping U.S. air and naval forces in the Korean area indefinitely as protection against new aggression.

Rhee's other requests, including withdrawal of Communist and UN forces, had previously been made known.

Responds to Appeal

Last Saturday Eisenhower, responding to Rhee's appeal, offered a defence treaty, but at the same time indicated that such a pact would not constitute a blank cheque for South Korea in the future to seek to take over Communist North Korea by force. The U.S. position is that the country must be unified by peaceful means.

The South Korean attacks on the impending armistice—a development of critical importance in setting up the post-armistice political conference, commission when Switzerland announced Thursday a refusal to serve unless South Korea approved. Wednesday, however, the government in Bern began reconsidering its position and today the situation was this:

Decides to Accept

Sweden—Ambassador Erik Boheman delivered to the state department late Wednesday a note stating that Sweden "has decided to accept" the post.

India—Prime Minister Nehru was quoted in news dispatches as saying India was ready to serve but would have to reconsider if South Korean troops pulled out of the UN command. U.S. officials considered that India, which is scheduled to head the commission, will serve.

Switzerland — Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre said at Bern his country "could be induced" to take part in order to avoid delaying an armistice. This seemed to cancel the previous announcement that Switzerland must be counted out unless the South Koreans fell in line.

Poland and Czechoslovakia—these two Communist countries are likely to accept. It is assumed here that if there had been any question about their willingness to do so the facts would never have nominated them.

NAMED PRESIDENT

CHICAGO (AP) — H. Earle Muxry, 63, Wednesday was named president of the Quaker Oats Company to succeed R. Douglas Stuart, recently appointed ambassador to Canada. Muxry has been with the company 40 years.

Million Pennies For Hospital Aim of Campaign

TRENTON (Special) — A million pennies are a lot of pennies but just enough to buy the needed equipment for the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

V. P. Carswell, one of the leading figures in the town, heads the campaign to raise $10,000 by means of collecting pennies. Already more than 2,000 tin cans have been put in the hands of householders, who have also become keenly interested in the project.

Some residents prefer to make a game out of the idea. One family combined their ages and dropped the same number of pennies in the container. One elderly woman donated 65 pennies with the comment: "I would have dropped a hundred pieces in the can but then people might figure that I was a centenarian."

Right now the campaigners are not interested in who will count the pennies. They feel that problem will be taken care of when the time comes. All they want to see now is more enthusiasm and pennies and more pennies rolling into the cans.

Incidentally, a million weigh approximately three and a half tons.

Mr. Carswell assures the public that sufficient space be provided for displaying the coins in a spot where they can be viewed by the public and added to in the hope that the pile will continue to grow.

NEW LIBRARY PROPOSED

A new library for Trenton is under consideration by the library board according to the chairman, J. F. Cox and Mayor R. E. Whitley.

Site for the proposed new building is also being considered in the park area behind the post office. At the present time a Belleville firm is drawing up plans for tenders to be called in the near future.

The present library building on the east side of the town will be taken over by the town enlarging the municipal office.

Believes Britain Could Sell More Goods to Canada

By FORREST RHODE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain and the Commonwealth countries could sell more goods to Canada if they tried harder, Quintin J. Hyman of Montreal, past president of the Canadian Exporters' Association said yesterday, addressing the Rotary Club of London.

Canadians, he said, recognize that trade is a two-way street and that they cannot hope to increase their sales abroad unless they find ways of buying more from abroad.

"All Canadians realize that opportunities must be found for steadily increasing sales of trade goods in Canada."

Canadian Soel, Sco, Gwyn said, that there is some danger of Canada becoming dependent on trade with the United States and exporters and importers are exploring many "by methods and for ways may be placed in other markets."

"At the same time it is perhaps fair to say that Britain and Commonwealth countries as a whole have not as yet made the fullest use of the Canadian market. More could be done by British exporters.

"Canada is looked upon as being a tough market. Some exporters have proved that with keener prices and more accessible markets within the sterling area rather than Canada's possibilities of developing trade in Canada.

British Can Learn

"It is true that Canada is a highly competitive market, but I have seen many instances to show that British manufacturers cannot compete against certain imports into Canada, if the exporting firms make up their minds to win the Canadian market.

"There is a wealth of goodwill towards British goods based on a long tradition of quality and service. Canada is a market well worth fighting for.

Gwyn said Canada's No. 1 need is population.

"I can think of no export from Britain that would be more valuable to Canada than people. At the same time this would help solve one of Britain's own problems."

He said Canada's identity of interests with other members of Commonwealth tends to increase rather than diminish.

Canada's Trade With U.S. Rises To High Figure

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's trade with the United States swelled to a peak in the first quarter of 1953, the busiest of statistics reported today.

But a sharp jump in imports increased Canada's unfavorable deficit to the highest first-quarter record in six years.

Total trade with the U. S.—both imports and exports—rose to $1,-[illegible] 000,000 in the first quarter from $1,585,000,000 in 1952.

Exports increased to $574,900,000 compared to $762,100,000 from 3694,-[illegible] 000.

The heavier concentration on imports boosted Canada's adverse balance in American trade to $187,-200,000 in the first quarter, up from $147,900,000 in the similar period last year and the biggest since the $203,300,000 deficit in the first three months of 1947.

The big deficit in U. S. trade was the main factor in an overall $84,100,000 adverse balance in trade with all countries, a reversal of the $67,700,000 surplus in the first quarter of 1952.

It was reported that the club's share of several bingoes was $312 and this is being used to send boys and girls to the Salvation Army camp at Roblin's Lake, where a new building is to be officially opened on June 24.

The Kinsmen Club is bringing the Marsh midway to Picton on June 15-16-17.

Another club project is the safety campaign. Next Saturday club members will be in attendance at Prince Edward Motors' used car lot to apply reflector tape to bicycles of boys and girls living in Picton, Bloomfield and Picton Heights. At a later date similar taping for those residing in other parts of Prince Edward County will be done.

On the eighth line, a television set was installed in the Orange hall, due to the efforts of Mr. Arnold Dills and an appliance and television store of Belleville. Reception in the evening was excellent here. Officers Installed

On Sunday evening the Installation service for the newly elected officers of the A.Y.P.A. was held in Christ Church, Thomasburg, and was conducted by the rector, Rev. R. F. Gardam.

The Psalms were led by the past president, Miss Norma Bates, and the lesson by the retiring president, Miss Joan Vance.

The retiring secretary, Mr. Norman Coulter, read the names of the newly elected officers and each was invested with his badge of office.

The rector based his sermon on the four-fold program of the A.Y.P.A.: worship, work, fellowship and edification, and stressed the importance of keeping the program for the year well balanced to include all the aims.

Three Russian Moves Give Evidence Of Softer Policy Toward West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three Russian moves Wednesday gave further evidence of a new and softer Moscow policy toward the western powers.

In Moscow it was announced the Soviet government will grant permission to leave Russia to the Russian wives of two U. S. citizens and two Russian-born labor daughters of a second embassy employee.

At the same time it was made known in Vienna that Russia has decided to appoint an ambassador to Austria and re-establish full diplomatic relations with that occupied country. This followed Russian relaxation in the last few days of a number of military and economic controls maintained by Soviet occupation forces since the end of the war.

The third move was in Russian occupied Eastern Germany. There the Russians abruptly halted major work on construction of a giant naval base on the Baltic island of Rugen. The Rugen Island plan called for dockyards bigger than those at Hamburg, for submarine pens, sanitized bases and a special harbor to handle ships of battleship size.

The Moscow decision to permit certain Russian-born persons to leave the country after representations by U. S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen a month ago. It said the Soviet government also is considering the cases of other Soviet wives of U. S. citizens who want exit visas.

Those given the okay to leave are the wives of Eddie Gilmore, Associated Press bureau chief in Moscow and Robert Tucker of Kansas City, Mo., an embassy employee in Moscow, and the two children of Mrs. Ethel Belakovsky of Los Angeles, Calif., who was divorced from a Soviet citizen and granted the custody of her children by a Russian court.

Soviet Russia Plans to Name Envoy to Austria

VIENNA (AP)—Russia has decided to appoint an ambassador to Austria and re-establish full diplomatic relations with this occupied country, it was announced here today.

This new Soviet step toward ending the burdens of Russian occupation was disclosed by the Austrian government.

The government said it also would appoint a full ambassador to Moscow.

The announcement followed Russian relaxation in the last few days of a number of military and economic controls which had been maintained by Soviet occupation forces in eastern Austria since the end of the war.

The Russian action is no more, however, than was taken by the western occupying powers some time ago.

Robin Roberts 1st Pitcher In Major Leagues To Chalk Up Ten Victories

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CANYER, Sports Editor

REGRETTABLE!

The incident at Frankford Tuesday evening when a scheduled softball game was ordered forfeited by the home team to the Point Anne nine due to altercations between club officials and umpires, did not do softball any good in this district and especially in the Frankford area.

According to reports, there has been something akin to hard feeling between these teams since last season when a "rhubarb" broke out in Point Anne that resulted in an unsatisfactory ending.

Be that as it may. Stories from the various centres differ in meanings, but there is a marked similarity in detail. The Belleville District Softball Associations should clamp down on this unsportsmanlike by-play attitude and the sooner it is done the better it will be for the game.

Officiating in either baseball or softball is a thankless job at the most. The monetary reward scarcely offsets the abuse and ridicule sometimes poured by irate fans, players and officials on the luckless arbiters and yet executives wonder at preseason meetings why there is a dearth of umpires.

The umpire-in-chief at any diamond game is the man in charge of everything concerned. He is in charge of the play, players and has authority over coaches and managers as far as behavior is concerned. He can order a player or officials out of the game and out of the park. If he feels the situation warrants such action. And league executives should stand behind these people when the occasion demands.

This department was not present at the Frankford-Point Anne game, but reports from both sides differ. Frankford charged the Point Anne catcher was "tipping the batter's bat." Point Anne charges the Frankford batters were deliberately stepping back on their bats would strike the catcher and the batter would be awarded a base for "interference."

From here it would seem that the only official to judge correctly what was going on, is the "man behind the plate." It is stated that the Frankford coach, whom, we presume, was operating in the third base coaching box, complained twice to the umpire about "bat-tipping" and was ultimately banished for various his epithets.

It was further stated that after the Frankford coach was banished from the game he returned to renew the argument accompanied by a player. This action, it is said, resulted in the forfeiture of the two-innings-old game to the Ox Pointers.

This department cannot, and will not, believe that the Point Anne players were so naive as to attempt with the plate umpire. It seems he carried on the verbal battle long after the official "watch was pulled on him." It seems a lot of officials forgot that the umpire, like the traditional cashier, is always right. And it would appear he was in this case. In any event he ordered the game forfeited and there wasn't much anybody could do about that.

The Belleville District Softball League will likely probe the circumstances surrounding the forfeiture, and in all probability a protest will be lodged by the Frankford team. That, however, is not definite at time of writing.

DIAMOND DUST!!

On the softball front Northern Electrics meet the Bobcats tonight at the Alemite Field starting 6.30, while tomorrow night the league-leading undefeated Giles play Hillcrest's 49's on Frankford at the CNE Park. Wooler goes to Point Anne tomorrow night and on Saturday night the Bobcats are guests of the Diesels.

In baseball circles the RCAF Flyers visit Bloomfield tomorrow night. The Regent Juniors have quite a layoff, their next game being against Bloomfield on June 18, according to the schedule. In the South Hastings League tomorrow night Canniton visits Melrose while Latta goes to Shannonville.

ON THE WATERFRONT!

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club gives up its regular Sunday date to the speedboat regatta being held off Victoria Park in the afternoon starting at two o'clock. Incidentally Bob Boyce's "Fraaze" was the last club race with Jack Sills' "Thrift II" finishing next. In other races "Thrift I", "Halcyon", "Viking" and "Cygnet." More about that speedboat regatta tomorrow.

STORY OF RATS!

The story goes of a rat which ran out into centrefield during a Southern Association baseball game, "lifted" the centrefielder's glove and after playing with it for a while returned it to the identical spot.

We have rats down here, too. Only they're different. They find wallets, extract what money is in them and then toss the wallet with valuable papers, etc., into the nearest river, sewer or furnace.

Helps Phils Win Four in Row In Current Threat for Lead; Tribe, Yanks Roll Merrily On

By BEN FELDIAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia Phillies have the day off today but their pitchers have been working so often they may show up at the ball park and begin throwing just from force of habit.

At the start of the season manager Steve O'Neill's biggest problem was finding one more starter to go with his big three. Now he's trying to locate three more starters to go with his big one.

Despite his troubles O'Neill still has a winning ball club. The Phillies have taken eight out of 12 and four straight since their current home stand opened a week ago Tuesday. They won a double-header from Chicago Wednesday night, 9-1 and 9-5, and moved within four games of the league-leading Milwaukee Braves.

In the doom contests O'Neill got a route-going performance three times—three victories, by Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Bubba Church, the latter from two to five pitchers have seen action in each of the other games.

O'Neill opened the year with a pitching rotation of Roberts, Curt Simmons and then either Karl Drews or Jim Konstanty or two. Now Simmons is out indefinitely with an injured left arm and either Drews nor Konstanty has been able to go without help.

Braves Edge Giants

Roberts became the first major league hurler to 10 games as he picked up the decision in the first game Wednesday night. Konstanty started and won the nightcap, although Dave Rizk and Drews were in action before it ended.

The Braves kept a game in front of Brooklyn Dodgers by edging New York 6-5. The Dodgers hammered 13 hits off Chuck Stobbs only to whip the Hedgers 13-3. St. Louis won 5-1 over Pittsburgh.

The big winner in the American League kept on winning. New York Yankees breezed to their 11-4 for their 12th straight and Cleveland edged Washington Senators 3-1 for their seventh in a row.

Boston moved into third place with a pair of victories over St. Louis Browns 11-2, and 3-2 with Jimmy Piersall equalling a major league record with six straight hits in the former. Philadelphia edged Chicago 2-.

The big blows in Milwaukee's success were home runs by Eddie Mathews and Sid Gordon. Mathews' poke was his 8th of the season and put him out in front in the league's home run race. Gordon's came with two men on in the eighth and provided the winning runs.

Score Seven in Eighth

Brooklyn broke a 3-3 tie with three runs in the sixth and poured home seven more in the eighth. Wayne Belardi's pinch-hit triple which snapped the tie was the big hit in the sixth.

Manager Eddie Stanky sent his Cardinals through a long day workout and got dividends in the night game with the heavy hitting combing from Red Schoendienst, four for four, and Stan Musial, a double and single in three trips.

Like old times over the Yankees just kept rolling along. In the Detroit contest plate-blockers Johnny Mize and Yogi Berra singled to spark a seven-hit seven-run rally in the sixth inning.

ROYAL VALE WINS

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Ethel du Vale shaved off a terrific late bid by Mrs. J. M. Lingle's Larry Ellis Wednesday to score a half-length triumph in the 19th running of the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs. Larry Ellis was second and J. J. Amiel's Count Turf, the 1951 Kentucky Derby winner, third.

Buffalo Bisons Win Streak Halted by Cubs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Gene Tarabilda of Springfield stemmed the slumping Buffalo Bisons Wednesday night with a six-hitter and four-bagger. The big right-hander's 8-4 win ended the Bisons' winning streak at five games.

This gave the win-hungry Cubs their first victory in seven games. Springfield is in the International Baseball League cellar, 15 games back of the league-leading Buffalo is third one percentage point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Tarabilda had a one-hitter going into the ninth, then the Bisons made a bid on homers by Buddy Hicks and Jack Wallaesa, but it fell short.

The league - leading Montreal Royals and the second-place Rochester Red Wings each registered wins to remain 3½ games apart in the standings. Montreal downed the Leafs 10-6 while the ringed Syracuse Chiefs 8-7.

Bob Ludwick, relieved for pinch-hitter Dick Williams in the eighth, won his fourth game in decisions for the Royals. Williams smacked a bases-loaded homer with one on.

Montreal reached three Toronto hurlers for 15 safeties—eight for extra bases. The Leafs mustered only four hits off two Royal moundsmen.

A four-run, seventh-inning rally gave Rochester the edge over Syracuse. A three-run homer by Don Burgess capped the rally. Five errors played against the losers. Reliefer Jack Crimian, who fanned five and gave up only one hit in three innings, got his second victory.

Springfield Cubs' Manager Resigns

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Bruce Edwards has resigned as manager of the last-place Springfield Cubs of the International League.

The former Brooklyn and Chicago Cubs catcher announced his resignation Wednesday night, adding that he'll remain with the team as a player.

Sheehan said he does not hold Edwards to blame for the team's troubles. Edwards was in his first season as skipper, having succeeded Billy Kelly.

Kid Gavilan Whips Italian

DETROIT (AP) — Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, firing his pet hop punch at will, won a unanimous 10-round decision over rugged but outclassed Italo Scarichini of Milan, Italy, Wednesday night at Olympic Stadium. Gavilan weighed 153½ pounds to his Scarichini in the non-title bout.

Although Gavilan won easily, he found his younger opponent a tough customer.

The flashy champion pressed the attack from the very bell couldn't put across a knockout blow. Scarichini refused to give ground to the swift-punching Cuban but he had the offense that is often even close to matching Gavilan's.

National Hockey League Owners Vote To End Agreement With Amateurs

Pro Plans for Jr. Proteges May End Memorial Cup Series; Reprisals by CAHA Hinted

By W. B. WINEARLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Sweeping changes in the entire hockey picture range into focus today with prospects of a complete rupture between the professional and amateur organizations.

The break likely would not become final until June 30, 1955. What might happen in the interval is conjectural, but it is a certainty there will be a different set-up in operations of the big winter game.

Club owners at the annual meeting of the National Hockey League voted 9 to 1 to terminate the present agreement between the professional bodies and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Unless there is mutual agreement, new pacts between the terminated bodies are necessary.

The National also was reported to have been made "with a view to possible new negotiations." Whether there is a chance for a new agreement materializing was not indicated.

Not Getting Release

There was reason to believe that any negotiations would be contingent at least upon a new financial deal for the professional operators. Other factors are reported also to have centered with the pros. But from a financial standpoint it is known they feel their sponsored clubs are getting an worthwhile financial return from playoffs in the national competitions, which the CAHA operates.

The club owners' decision brought from CAHA president W. B. (Baldy) George at his Kemptville (Ont.) home, his opinion that professional clubs won't last three years beyond midnight of the agreement.

George said termination of the agreement also would mean no forty-game, knockout schedule for amateurs with pro clubs.

Hinting at some reprisals George said he wouldn't be surprised if the CAHA suspended for life any player who signed a pro professional team.

The club owners appointed a committee made up of Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs, Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens and Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings.

As another means of looking after financial interests of sponsored clubs, an authoritative informant said the pros are considering a plan whereby their sponsored junior clubs would meet in sectional and national playoffs.

Observers saw in this possibility a move that would curtail or virtually eliminate the present Memorial Cup series.

Draft Is Held

At a draft meeting Wednesday, 18 players from the Western Hockey League—now the new pro Quebec Hockey League — were picked by clubs in the NHL, the American Hockey League and the Western Hockey League. One was picked from Halifax of the Maritime Major League.

In its intra-league draft, the NHL governors decided the number of "protected players" will be 18 and three goalies instead of the present 20 and three. The draft price was raised from $10,000 to $15,000 and the draft date fixed for the time of the annual meeting—the second week of September—instead of the period immediately preceding the season opening.

The NHL and AHL got together on their first working agreement covering player transactions. The new lists of both leagues and provides for exchange of four players between Clubs of each league before Dec. 1 and two of the same four up to Feb. 1. It also provides for unrestricted draft, at $15,000 a player.

The only important rule change was one calling for an automatic icing-the-puck decision in cases where linesmen previously have had to decide whether a play was intended for a player and therefore was legal.

The all-star game will be played between Montreal Canadiens —Stanley Cup champions — and players from the rest of the league Oct. 3. Coach Lynn Patrick of Boston Bruins will select and coach the opposition against coach Dick Irvin's Canadiens.

Brantford Sox Edge Terriers In 15 Innings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Terriers can't seem to make any yards in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League. But Wednesday night the Terriers came close to making a move out of the league cellar.

The Terriers lost 3-1 to Brantford Red Sox, but it took the new 15 innings to win. Galt had a good chance for victory in the 13th when their first man up got a hit on an error, then two more men made the bases. However, the next three players to up never left home plate and Galt's hopes faded.

Elsewhere in the league London Majors defeated Guelph Maple Leafs 5-0; Waterloo Tigers nipped Oshawa Merchants 5-4; and Kitchener Panthers dropped St. Thomas Elgins 6-1.

Al Garvey helped the Sox to victory by allowing only eight hits in going the route. Big Jeep Jessup started for Galt and did well, making way for a runner in the eighth while Ted Szymanski took over the relief role.

Catcher Shanty Clifford scored both Brantford runs, the first in the fifth and the second in the 15th. Galt's lone counter came in the 13th when Ken Harwood's double and Tex Kaiser's two-bagger.

The first-place Majors made a clean sweep on home grounds by hammering out 13 safe blows. Jack Brumm made his first start with the Majors and gave Guelph only five hits. Lew Feuth was the loser.

London started with one run in the first, added two in the second and two more in the fourth to new up the game. Gordon McEachon, Ross Yves and Jerry Jack each got two hits in four trips to the plate for Majors, Gerry Wilson hit in four trips for the plate for Majors. Gerry Wilson hit the only homer of the game, a smash into the right-field bleachers in the sixth.

At Waterloo, each side used three pitchers. Newcomer Dick Sposato, a right-hander, got off to a good start by gaining the win. He limited the Merchants to six hits and three runs in 7 3-3 innings. Ted Stone was charged with the loss.

Hitchhiker Mel Duncan was behind Kitchener now at St. Thomas. He allowed only two hits, the first in the seventh when Jim Trew singled to centre field and the other in the ninth. The one Elgin run was unearned.

Kitchener scored an unearned run in the fifth inning on three walks and one hit, added another in the sixth on two walks and a hit. Two more unearned runs were scored in the fourth on a walk, and two doubles by Dick Weiler and Irv Ler. Kitchener's two runs in the ninth were unearned.

Bobo Brazil, the "koko-bonking" Senegalese and Don Jonathan, handsome young wrestler from Utah, will tangle holds with that villainous duo from the Panhandle country, Dirty Dick Raines and Larruping Lou Plummer come Friday evening in Memorial Arena. The "villains" who held the Canadian tag-team championship have yet to meet defeat, and 'tis said, they use everything that is not in the book of rules in their efforts to cop the nod. They are big, strong and nasty, and there'll be fireworks for sure when the battle is joined. Timmy Geohagen and Jan Golch and Firpo Zbyzka, the "handle-bar" Pole and Pat Flanagan provide the rest of the entertainment.

Name Players Lose in Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—Ted Holmes of Brantford, who plays golf although part of his right arm requires his once-broken back, Wednesday defeated Jim Dunn of Toronto in the second annual Scarboro amateur invitation tournament. He shot a two-under-par 35 one stroke better than Phil Farley of the host club. Holmes went out in par 36 and came back in a two-over-par 37. With a two handicap, he wound up with a net of 71.

Gerry Kesserling of Kitchener, Ontario opened and amateur champion last season, finished with a gross 77. Nick Weiland of Windsor Essex carded 78.

Hamilton Scores First Victory

HAMILTON (CP)—Tigers Wednesday night scored their first win of the current Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association season, defeating Brampton Excelsiors 15-10.

At the end of the first quarter it was 3-2 for Brampton, and it was tied eight-all at half time. Hamilton had a 13-8 edge at the third.

Barney Welsh, Doug Davidson, Chub Brown and Tony Capela scored two apiece for Hamilton, and singles were registered by Wally Mackie, Jack Dorney, Bill Rankin, Red McLean, Butch Guthro, Ron Powell and Playing Coach Arnold (Onion) Smith.

Five men shared the Brampton scoring: Jack Blonde with three, Chuck Simpson, Nick Ferri and Jack Sibble with two and Fred Bradkin got the other.

'Cuffer' Versus 'Muscles' Friday

Two former baseball buddies, now coaches will pit their ability against each other here tomorrow night when "Cuffer" Noakes' Bat' ville Jyrvelles meets Johnny "Muscles" Mowatt's Wellington nine at the Fair Grounds starting 8.30. Rivalry is keen between the squads and the respective coaches have been driving their teams hard preparing for the event.

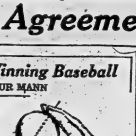
How to Play Winning Baseball

By ARTHUR MANN

PITCHING—PART II

With spin of the ball understood, the pitcher must next understand and learn the second of the two fundamental principles: velocity (speed), and the cause of it. Greater speed is obtained by greater power.

Natural throwing speed is something you were born with. Nature, not you, is responsible for your size and your throwing arm. You cannot materially affect physical size or throwing speed by plan or design, by you can do things that get the most out of what you have.



To comprehend velocity or speed, you must understand that the speed of any object to be propelled or thrown will be greater when resistance is built up against the propelling force. This sounds technical, and is, but it also happens to be quite simple and important.

To picture an example of force and resistance, clasp hands with another person and pull or push as in Indian wrestling. The pull is the propelling force. The handclasp is resistance. The old game of snap the whip is another example. One stands at the head of a line of boys held by handclasps. They run and the best man suddenly stops to "snap the whip." The movement has built up force. The handclasps create resistance. But those on the end of the "whip" have to hold on tightest because, like the pitching arm, force is greatest at the moving end.

Take a merry-go-round. There is very little force from movement in the centre. But at the outside there is a tendency to fall away from centre in the merry-go-round moves. That is called centrifugal force, which is used to create throwing speed with a baseball.

A fire-cracker or cartridge is an example of force and resistance. The burning power is the force. The paper wrapping on the firecracker and the metal jacket of the cartridge hold the burning power in, harmlessly through lack of resistance. Force cannot exist without resistance. Resistance cannot exist without force. Each happens because of the other.

Force in pitching comes from the long, whip-like action of the arm. It is increased by the spring of the elbow and the snap of the loose wrist. The longer the arm, reach back and delivery, greater the force.

Control speed is obtained by greater finger pressure. Hence, the tight grip of the pitcher at the right. Position of all good pitching.

Resistance comes from the finger pressure against the baseball. The pressure not only affects velocity, but controls the spin and the direction of the spin.

"My biggest trouble," said Pitcher Ron, left-handed mainstay of the Brooklyn Dodger pitching staff "comes from my fingers tiring. I don't have too much speed, but I must spin a good ball to make the spin just right. Sometimes my fingers actually get numb in the late innings, but I can still put the pressure on. Then the ache begins in my forearm muscle, like a cramp. It's all from finger pressure, and comes long before my elbow or shoulder get tired.

Learning and understanding the spin of the ball and finger pressure of the grip, and making both an unconscious part of baseball playing is the keystone of pitching careers. All great pitchers use it, but many cannot explain it, because it has been part of their natural equipment. Some can explain it, and won't, because it is their secret, and they don't wish to let others, chiefly competitors, in on the reason for their success.

No matter how well a player learns and adapts the spinning ball and finger pressure to his pitching, it will be wasted, and even harmful, if he doesn't throw naturally. Nature made you what you are—tall, short, stocky, skinny, light, dark, or redhead. A coat, no matter how young, lies down kind and first and gets up front and first. The youngest call does just the opposite. It lies down front and first and rises kind and first. No one has explained why. More important he wants it that way. Mankind hasn't yet tried to make a cow lie down kind and first, but he often does something just as silly when he tries to make natural side-arm throwers pitch overhand. If a player learns spin and finger grip, he should practice and practice. He can produce enough variety of breaking ball to be a winner.

"They tried their best to make me throw overhand or three-quarter," said Ewell Blackwell, now of the Yankees, who has been calling pitchers on his good days. "But I never would and never will. It takes time to be a good pitcher, and what else is youth for, except to take advantage of time. We all have growth and muscles that are developing a certain way to conform with our natural physical make-up. We spend twenty years attaining maturity of growth and movement, and then somebody wants to change it all round overnight, and try to produce a better pitcher with the baddin hopes of winning a game quicker. A boy's health is worth more than any victory or baseball pennant."

Changing a pitcher from his natural delivery is a sure sign the instructor doesn't have the patience, or perhaps the knowledge, to coach the young thrower how to get on needed spin and enough of it. The fault, then, is not with the pupil, but with the "master" of instruction. Of course, it isn't always ruinous. The great right-hander, Cy Young, winner of 511 big-league victories in 22 years, told me he threw from all angles and had only one sore arm — in his last year. Left-handed Warren Spahn, of the Milwaukee Braves, also throws from all angles. However, to change without giving your natural delivery a good opportunity is an unnecessary risk. Nature has done pretty well.

'HIGHLIGHTS OF THE CORONATION'

Exciting IN THE NEWS

FLOWN DIRECT FROM LONDON

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

BY SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The source of most bad bidding can be traced to a wrong basis for an opening bid. How can a bid be proven wrong or right? By both mathematics and logic, a load of which you will get here.

The player who starts with an opening bid of one says he has a hand containing better than average in all essential items; tricks, high cards, sure tricks, the suit mentioned (if any).

Since there are 12 highest cards (aces and kings and queens) each of the four players is entitled to an average of three of them. An opener, therefore, says he has at least four.

At a no-trump contract, a player must depend mostly on these high cards for his tricks. Therefore, the 12 high cards are the truest counters of tricks when a player bids no-trump.

Although a player may open the bidding in a suit, the contract is likely to end in no-trump. For this reason the basis of opener is a foundation of sufficient high cards (no-trump tricks).

This is why four high cards (better than average in them) is promised by a player who opens with a suit bid. The opener assures his partner of enough high cards in case they end at no-trump.

Now you know why it is not sound to open with a bid of one heart if you hold the south hand shown here:

♠K 7 3
♥A K J 7 5 4
♦A J 8 5 4
♣5 4

It has tricks enough if the bid winds up in a suit. The heart suit is strong enough to bid twice with support from partner. But what if the pair must finally decide to play it in no-trump?

It has everything needed except a fourth high card. If it ends in no-trump there will be an important card missing; short a high.

Did I hear you say you would like to gamble with it by opening with a heart? Remember you said gamble. When bids step out on gambling bent, the rules must leave the argument.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ann Sheridan said today she is leaving a "tense" Hollywood to make her residence in Mexico.

"Yes, I plan to sell my home in the (Fernando) valley and live in Mexico City," she said. "I'll probably be there six months out of the year, returning to Hollywood for a couple of pictures a year. That's been my usual schedule."

There are several reasons for her switch. One of them is the state of the industry, she said.

"It used to be a lot of fun making pictures, but nowadays everybody is so tense. There's a completely difference feeling in the studios. And it's not caused by TV or anything like that."

I mentioned that it might be because so many film workers are out of jobs and those who are employed don't know how long it will last.

"That's probably it," she commented.

Ann added that she fell in love with Mexico long ago and has wanted to live in the easier pace below the border. She also plans to make some pictures with her own company in Mexico.

"I think the Mexican film industry is just hitting its stride. They're going to be doing great things down there. I'm sure it's going to rank next to Hollywood in importance as a film capital."

But she emphasized that her plans involved no tax dodge.

"When I work in this country, I'll pay taxes here; when I work in Mexico, I'll pay taxes there," she said.

Ann is selling her big valley home. When she bought it it was out in the wilds. Like the rest of southern California, the area has boomed and there are houses all around her. She now has to fight an hour of traffic to get to work.

Although she didn't mention it, friends believe that a large part of the reason for her change of locale is her grief over the death of publicist Steve Hanagan. His passing left a void in her life.

At a dinner meeting at the Royal Hotel, the aims and objects of Kiwanis were outlined. Speakers included Frank Cressman, president, and Ted Clark, secretary, of the Belleville club; Bob Stroud, Oshawa, Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor of Division 6; Al Savage, Toronto, secretary for Ontario - Quebec and Maritime districts; W. A. McDougall, Belleville, chairman of organization.

Mr. Savage said there are 122 Kiwanis Clubs in District 6 and pointed out that local clubs receive help from district, divisional and international Kiwanis organizations.

President-elect Reid felt the club will be a success if there is united effort.

Dunbarton Club will come to Picton next Monday for a dinner meeting when the officers will be installed.

Weed of the Week

Field Bindweed

TORONTO—In addition to choking out crops, Field Bindweed has, in a few cases, caused poisoning to swine which fed on the roots and rootstocks, according to the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

While under ordinary circumstances this situation is not likely to arise, the fact that animals can be harmed should direct more attention on this import from Europe.

First noted on this continent about 1739, over 200 years ago, it was aptly named field bindweed, cow bind, or creeping Jenny. The twining, choking plant is to be found under all conditions. Unless checked it rapidly spreads over an area smothering crop plants.

Spreading by seeds and creeping roots, it climbs over whatever plants it contacts to rob them of light and air. Blooms of white to pinkish color, resembling the morning glory appear from June throughout the remainder of the season. These ripen to seeds which will lie in the soil for years before germinating to continue an infestation. Eradication of an infestation is difficult. The best control method is to keep bindweed seed from getting into the ground. Use clean seed. Chemicals or summer fallow will control in small areas. Nearly 100 per cent control has been obtained by repeated applications of 2,4-D at the rate of 1 pound actual acid per acre. The few remaining plants must be killed by cultivation.

Larger areas have been successfully eradicated by heavy cultivation where tillage is carried out every twelve days for two growing seasons. The frequency of cultivation is important as all green leaves must be chopped off so they are not able to feed the roots.

Regardless of what method is used, persistence is necessary for complete eradication.

SET VOTING DATE FRIDAY

SASKATOON (CP)—The federal election date is all probability will be announced Friday night following a daylong cabinet meeting in Ottawa, Justice Minister Garson said Wednesday. Mr. Garson said voters will have only one alternative: "St. Laurent or Drew."

Blame Girl, 12, Mother For Shotgun Shooting

VILLE MARIE, Que. (CP) — Provincial police said today Mrs. Ernest Trudel 32, of Calumnore, Que., and her 12-year-old daughter will be arraigned Friday on charges of murder arising out of the shot-gun slaying of Joseph Caya June 4.

Mrs. Trudel and her daughter, Suzanne, were found criminally responsible during the week-end by the coroner's jury for the death of Caya, a 44-year-old garage-owner. He was described by police as an intimate friend of Mrs. Trudel.

At the inquest, Mrs. Trudel testified she planned the slaying of Caya. She said she arranged two chairs in front of a screen door at her home, then invited Caya to call while her husband, a miner, was absent.

She told the coroner's jury she then instructed her daughter to hide behind the door with a loaded .410 shotgun. She described how she fired a shot through one of the screen door to hide her daughter when was instructed to shoot Caya and "be sure not to miss."

"I got Suzanne to stand behind the screen door where she wouldn't be seen," Mrs. Trudel testified. "She was about three feet from the chairs. When Joseph arrived I sat him in the chair nearest the door and signalled Suzanne who fired into his back."

Got Relief From Weak, Nervous, Upset Stomach

"Am Surprised How Quickly Systena Helped Me," Says This Woman. Now Also Relieved of Headaches, and Dizzy Spells, "Backache Gone, Sleep Well, and Have More Energy."

"A few weeks ago when I was feeling very miserable a friend advised me to try Systena and I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am with the way it helped me," said Mrs. Mary Beal, 4 Oak Street, St. Thomas, Ontario in a recent interview.

Stomach Very Bad

"I was troubled so much with stomach disorders that I was afraid to eat for fear of the pain. In fact after taking even the lightest food I would suffer. I was so sick, give me a distressed, full, heavy feeling. Sometimes I would get so dizzy I would have to sit down. Spells and spells of headaches and dizzy spells would overcome me and my nerves were so on edge, that I couldn't sleep at night at times. I was also troubled with aches and pains in my limbs, joints and back.

Systena Acted Quickly

"After I started using Systena it wasn't very long until I noticed a difference and as I kept on taking it, all the misery in my stomach gradually cleared up. Now I enjoy my meals, have no distress afterwards and I am rid of that terrible headache, dizzy spells.

"My nerves are calmed down, too, and the aches and pains have let up, so you can imagine how pleased I am to feel so well again. I have already told several people about Systena and will continue to do so."

May Help You, Too

Systena has helped so many people in this way that sour stomach, gas from stomach trouble, weak nerves make it so hard to try it. Is pleasant to take, contains no harmful drugs or narcotics. Pedes Inc. Toronto.

PURGES WRONG SAYS RED PREMIER OF EAST GERMANY

Conformity by Decree Not Feasible, He Says

BERLIN (CP)—The Communist premier of East Germany admitted today that ideological purges in the Soviet zone had led to "hypocritical opportunism or to untrue confessions" and said Marxists cannot be forced into conformity by decree.

Announcing the latest Communist reform in East Germany—one of the most important from a political standpoint—Premier Otto Grotewohl said East German teachers will no longer be purged for ideological reasons.

Additionally, "Teachers' Day" meeting, he said:

"All coercive measures in this field lead to hypocritical opportunism or to untrue confessions. Marxists must be educated and developed by studies. Decrees do not help.

"One cannot improve the quality of teachers by intensive screening and by a certain dismissal of hundreds of them. Such a personnel policy is illogical. It must be changed quickly and radically.

"Such dismissals must be cancelled, and all teachers, who were forced to retire against their will, must be admitted to school service again."

Several Other Changes

The announcements follow a sweeping series of changes throughout East Germany, including relief of peasants, restoration of land to farmers who fled to the West, freer travel and an amnesty to people imprisoned for tax evasion. There has also been an agreement with the church and a slowing down of the hard collectivization program.

Communist Radio Berlin announced at noon the British film "White Cradle Inn" would be shown in East sector theatres in the English language.

Only one West German film, "Double Conscience," will be withheld any political tinge, has been shown in East Germany in the last two years. Six Allied films have been permitted and the Soviet zone has been the only target for films from Moscow.

The East German government also announced the lifting of the Soviet sector ban on sale of food to West Berliners. It was imposed last December and scores of West Berliners were arrested and jailed on short terms on charges of "damaging the state economy." Their declaration also said the prisoners can buy cigarets and coffee in the ration-free stores, get their hair cut and their shoes shined.

Adolf Mischief

Grotewohl's "explaining" department of the Communist regime pumped out long statements, repeating that "many mistakes have been made" but now is necessary to correct them.

21st Parliament Made History In Many Fields in Four Years

By JOHN LESLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 21st Parliament made history in many fields during almost exactly four years of life.

It thrust Canada along the last few steps to full nationhood. It enlarged the country's activities and influence in international affairs. And on the domestic front it broke new legislative ground in a variety of ways.

Within the forum of the Commons, it pitted Louis St. Laurent and George Drew against each other for their first full parliament as leaders of the two largest parties.

Constitutionally, the longest advance perhaps was in the designation of the Supreme Court of Canada as this country's final court of appeal. Removal of this power from the judicial committee of the British Privy Council set Canada completely on her own except for the intangible tie to the monarch.

Appointment of the first Canadian governor-general was another historic milestone. Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey succeeded Lord Alexander as the viceroy.

A Major Move

A major move on the constitutional side, too, was Parliament's assumption of the power to amend the British North America act in matters of exclusively-federal jurisdiction. Previously, this needed the sanction of the British Parliament.

Rounding out Canada's growth as a nation was the first appearance in Parliament of representatives from Newfoundland, brought into Confederation shortly before the 1949 general election.

Yet another "first" was the use of parliamentary powers in the summer of 1950 to order railway employees back to work during a rail strike crippling the nation's economy. Some 125,000 strikers obeyed legislation passed at an emergency session of the house.

On the international scene, Parliament approved the sending of forces to take part in the Korean police action of the United Nations, the first such move in Canada's non-war history.

The country also sent army, air and navy contingents to Europe as part of its North Atlantic Treaty Organization commitments. For the navy, a $200,000,000 program of new construction was launched.

Moves in connection with the St.

Had Implications

Lawrence seaway had international implications. Parliament set up a "seaway authority" to build and operate Canada's part of the $359,000,000 navigation-power project. It also ratified a federal-Ontario agreement giving Ontario the right to develop Canada's share of power on the river in cooperation with a United States agency.

Several international agreements were signed. They included the renegotiation of the tariff-lowering General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, ratification of a new international wheat agreement this year and ratification of Pacific fisheries treaties with the U. S. and Japan and with the U. S. sockeye salmon.

In federal-provincial relations, Ontario was signed up for a tax-rental agreement, bringing in $37,000,000 annually. Quebec, the $400,000,000 Measures were launched for the conservation of forest and water resources with a provincial co-operation.

Constitutional powers lapsing after the Second World War were revived in different form by the Canadian Constitution in Korea. The ministers were given permanent emergency powers to direct the economy and other aspects of Canadian life. A one-year extension brought strenuous opposition in the Commons this spring, but it carried.

TEST PILOT DIES, REFUSING TO LAND JET AMONG BOYS

Top-Secret Javelin Undamaged in Crash

BRISTOL, England (Reuters)—A young test pilot plunged to his death Friday because he refused to crash-land Britain's top secret twin-jet, the delta-winged Gloster Javelin, into a cricket field full of terrified schoolboys.

Peter Lawrence, 32, got into trouble in the Javelin at 20,000 feet above thickly-populated Bristol.

He could have parachuted safely but insisted he shut off the fighter's engines and set out for open countryside.

He nosed her in toward a golf course and set about 300 feet he skimmed over a field where boys were playing cricket. They flattened themselves out on the ground.

Avoid Boys

Lawrence passed up a chance to bale out a second time. He "chose" the Javelin's nose up to avoid the boys.

Then, only 250 feet 'above the golf course, he leaped out with his "chute—too late.

There was no time for the 'chute to open. He thudded to the ground and was killed.

Plane Undamaged

The powerful Javelin, set on its course by Lawrence, skidded into a neat crash-landing. Neither the delta wings nor the tail were damaged.

British aviation experts claim the Javelin is the most formidable and powerful fighter in the world. It is an all-purpose long range fighter that can combine attacking bombers by radar and hunt them ruthlessly by push-button control.

No Sign of Break In Steel Strike

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—The strike of 750 members of Local 2836, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), at the Horton Steel Company's Fort Erie plant entered its third day today with no sign of a company-union compromise.

The picket workers walked out Wednesday when the parties failed to reach an agreement before the old one expired May 31.

It is understood differences exist over hospital insurance and vacation clauses in the new contract.

AEC FUNDS SLASHED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The atomic energy commission today was slashed Thursday as the House of Representatives approved a military appropriations bill.

The committee approved an administration cut of $500,000,000 in AEC funds from the $1,400,000,000 it asked in its own. The commission, which now has $4,124,000,000 in progress this year, would get only $1,807,781,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1 under a bill sent to the House floor for debate next week.

S. Korean Charge Given Speedy U.S. Diplomatic Denial

Ambassador Refuses to Name Officials Making Oral Threat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A charge that the republic of Korea had been threatened with a United Nations economic embargo to force acceptance of the proposed truce terms cast its shadow all the way to Panmunjon today despite speedy diplomatic denials.

The charge was made Thursday by Dr. You Chan Yang, South Korea's ambassador to the United States, during a press conference following the dedication of a blood donor centre here.

The 56-year-old physician ambassador said "certain UN officials" he declined to give any names—had made an oral threat that the UN might force the U. S. to cut off economic and military aid to South Korea if the country refused to join in the truce expected at any moment.

That statement brought a brisk denial from the U. S. circles. A state department spokesman commented:

"The implication that the United States uses famine and human suffering for political purposes is false, and those who make such statements know that it is false."

The headquarters of Gen. Mark Clark in Tokyo pointed to a previous denial by Lt. Gen. Isaac Smith, a UN command spokesman in the Japanese capital declined comment.

Expresses Astonishment

Dr. Yang's fellow diplomat-South Korea's UN representative, Col. Ben C. Limb—expressed astonishment at the accusation and said he knew of no such attempt at international bullying.

Dr. Yang specifically denied that he meant any threat had been made by the U. S. However, Washington observers were inclined to consider his statement as a slap at U. S. officials acting in the name of the UN.

Speaks Bitterly

Dr. Yang said he felt other UN members were prejudiced against the U. S. in its present policy in Korea, but he hastened to add that he did believe most of them did so because the U. S. to order a cut off of food and other economic supplies to his homeland.

The U. S. state department spokesman's choice of words in issuing a denial was significant. The implication that the United States uses famine and human suffering for political purposes is a touch on the charge of a threatened military embargo.

Dr. Yang spoke bitterly of the five countries proposed for the UN truce commission—Poland, Czechoslovakia, India, Sweden and Switzerland. Those countries, he said, would automatically line up 3 to 2 in favor of Communist policy on any issue coming before them. Poland and Czechoslovakia are considered Soviet satellites and India's policy has been accused of pro-Russian sentiments in previous Korean statements, these three presumably are the nations Yang was referring to.

Then the South Korean ambassador asked why has the United Nations accepted all these communist demands?"

And he answered:

"They want peace—may I say parenthetically, peace at any cost

Husband Tells How Wife Slain By Immigrant

FORT FRANCES (CP)—Finnish immigrant Milo Karjalainen was identified in court here Thursday as the man who died with Mrs. Kauko Tuura in a double slaying north of Atikokan last April 7.

Karjalainen is charged with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Kauko Tuura and of Nestori Rautanen.

Kauko Tuura told the court the 33-year-old defendant stood outside his cabin in a Northern Ontario pulp and paper camp northeast of here and fired a rifle shot through the door, killing Tuura's wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Sulo Korpie were the only other witnesses called Thursday. They testified that Karjalainen had told them after the crime a will for him leaving everything to his wife.

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of Toronto adjourned the trial to today after Karjalainen, white faced and apparently in a dazed condition, failed to respond to questions asked by his lawyer. Psychiatrists had pronounced Karjalainen fit to stand trial, but when the defence attorney called him to the witness stand he answered at first in a halting whisper and then stopped speaking altogether.

Kent Hall, an RCMP ballistic expert testified the bullet which killed Mrs. Tuura came from a United States Army rifle found by police in the shed behind the defendant's cabin.

Madoc-Foxboro Road May be Taken Over As Highway

Citizens' Committee Waits On Minister of Highways

A provisional promise that the Madoc-Foxboro county road would be taken over by the Ontario Department of Highways was brought home yesterday by members of a strong citizens' committee, which Thursday waited on Hon. George Doucett, highways minister.

"We are pretty happy about the whole thing," Warden John A. Kincaid, reeve of Madoc village, said this morning. "Mr. Doucett told us if the government offer was accepted the highways department would build a highway second to none."

The Warden reported the offer would be put before county council and if it was accepted the province would pay the highways minister as saying the "dirt would be flying before fall."

As secretary of the citizens' committee which waited on Mr. Doucett, Rev. T. H. Good of Madoc quoted the highways minister as saying the department was prepared to go ahead and spend about a million dollars on the Madoc Road.

"It will be up to the county council to accept the offer and with a million dollars in sight it will in all probability be accepted," Mr. Good said.

Members of the citizens' committee which went to Toronto included Reeves Wesley Kincaid and Ira Good, Dr. S. R. Beatty, Madoc, William Davis, of Maple Leaf in North Hastings, Fred Mitchell of Thurlow township, and Arnold Gaebel of Madoc. The committee had with them requests from 11 townships and a petition bearing 1,600 names.

The committee was well received by Mr. Doucett and was met in Toronto by local M.L.A.'s, W. R. Sandercock and Roscoe Robson.

Illinois State Legislator Kidnapped As Wife Watches

CHICAGO (AP)—Clem Craver, Republican state legislator and ward committeeman from Chicago's so-called hoodlum-dominated south side loop, was abducted by three men near his home Thursday night and several hours later police had no trace of him.

Five persons, including Craver's wife, Amelia, 39, witnessed the abduction of the 53-year-old real estate and insurance man. Police said the witnesses gave varying details, but all agreed three men followed Craver's car as he was driven his auto into his garage about 11 p.m.

Craver was seized as he came from the garage—about a half block from his home—struggled with his abductors but they forced him into their car and sped away.

On his way to his garage, Craver had passed his home and waved to his wife, who was standing on the front porch with a friend.

Man's Brave But He's a Fool To Rebel Against Petticoat Rule

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The husbands of 42nd street north laid down their lawn mowers and paint brushes Thursday and staged a protest against petticoat rule.

J. L. Caldwell, 63-year-old retired conductor was the rebel leader. He had neighborhood grocer J. W. Hill paint a placard that said, "Our strike—Women unfair—Men want a new contract."

Then he marched up and down his tree-shaded block with the placard, giving a mounting harangue (verbal abuse of course) from indignant housewives.

And before the women could grab their ceiling mops and undaunted men signed a petition supporting his campaign.

"Look at them," Caldwell said, pointing to a group of jeering women, including Mrs. Caldwell, who threatened to sic their dog on her mate.

"They stay at home in comfort. If they want to talk to a friend, they talk. If they want to lie down for a rest, they rest."

"On the other hand, the man works all day or night. He come tired and hungry. What does he get to eat? Breakfast, lunch and dinner. If he comes home too late at night, he has to cook it himself."

"That's not true," interrupted the women. "We feed you well."

Triumphantly, Caldwell, encouraging other husbands who seemed cautiously into hearing range. "That isn't all. When you come to the table women prowl you at the door. 'Honey, the lawn needs mowing.' Who cares? Let the grass grow. Let somebody else worry about it."

Full Support Of Templeton Mission Asked

A large representation of the Belleville Presbytery including a number of out of town ministers, and leading laymen of the churches heard the Rev. J. R. Matchner, M.A., D.D., secretary of the board of evangelism and social service for the United Church of Canada, speak on plans for the forthcoming Templeton Preaching Mission to be conducted in the arena this autumn. The meeting which was held in the Bridge Street United Church, Thursday evening.

Enthusiastically optimistic over the mission, Dr. Matchner predicted Charles B. Templeton and his wife, Canadians, would pack the arena during the mission's 15-day run from September 27 to October 11. The speaker told his audience the Templeton's would never failed to have large attendances at their evangelism missions conducted in other cities. He felt sure that with the assistance of the present organizations, the same wholesale situation could apply locally when the mission opens.

Must Get Out And Work

"People will come to the mission," Dr. Matchmor stated, "but," he added, "we must now take it for granted, we must get out and work to bring them to the meetings."

"There is a certain lukewarmness in the church today, we seem to have lost our reckonings," the speaker said. "That is the reason why our evangelism missions—to bring those who are outside of the church back into church. A total or 2,800,000 persons told census takers last year they belonged to the United Church. Our records show only 1,000,000. Where are the 1,800,000 persons are we don't know, but we do know we would like to have them in church."

Dr. Matchmor praised the organization for its selection of a lay committee to head the Templeton Mission. In this connection he was pleased over the appointment of W. J. Dafoe, as chairman of the mission committee. "We are happy to have such outstanding citizens for the United Church," the minister commented. "Follow-up Necessary"

The speaker cautioned his audience that to insure the follow-up work, after the mission had left the city, is of equal importance as the mission itself, either in the actual evangelism services.

"Keep this in fellowship," he concluded, "and remember, we must find ways to the hearts and minds of the people."

Dr. Mutchmor was introduced by the Rev. Dr. Fowler Pfeiffer of Wellington United Church and Mrs. Mortimer expressed the committee's appreciation for the address.

Child Killed By Passing Train Near Colborne

Believed to have been drawn into the path of the train by the action of the speeding coaches, William Whaley, 14 months, of R.R. 1 Colborne, was killed early Thursday afternoon at a level crossing 400 yards from his home.

William, with his brother David aged 5, was believed to have been playing near the track at the crossing, when as the eastbound C.N.R. passenger train passed, the little lad was struck by the side of the train. David was uninjured.

The accident occurred at a rural crossing four miles east of Colborne. The crossing is protected by a bell but provincial police at Brighton, who investigated said this would have no meaning for the youngsters. The crossing is slightly sunken and the train was travelling at a low little opportunity of seeing the boys until the train was almost near the crossing. Engineer on the train was J. W. Dawson, of 21 Grove street, Belleville.

Lieut.-Col. E. H. Warwick, commanding officer 8th Anti-Tank Regiment RCA (AL)) and his officers honored Lieut.-Col. G. W. MacGregor, MC, ED, former commanding officer, at a regimental mess dinner at Golden Acres Inn Wednesday night.

Col. MacGregor was the recipient of a handsome silverplate, the gift of his former officers in appreciation of his services as commanding officer here in the past three years.

The presentation was made by Major Everett S. Fairman, regimental second-in-command, who acted as mess president in the absence of Major John Clark, Lieut. Fraser acted as vice.

Major Fairman in a presentation address paid tribute to the former commanding officer. He said his spark and initiative had resulted in the high status the regiment holds in reserve army circles of the district. He recalled the success of the regiment in winning the Governor-General's trophy at Petawawa a year ago.

Tribute to Regiment

Col. MacGregor, taken by surprise, recalled the early days of the regiment's activities while under his command. He said the success of the unit could not have been attained without the whole-hearted co-operation of the officers and other ranks of the regiment.

Major Ron. MacPherson, officer commanding the 47th Battery, then proposed the toast to the regiment, with Col. Warwick making the response.

Lieut.-Co. T. E. Sisson, A.M.C., Area Command, Kingston, one of the special guests present, spoke briefly. He said he knew Col. MacGregor for the past three years and had found he had done an excellent job while in command of the regiment. Col. Sisson commended the co-operation given the former commander and felt sure the same would be forthcoming for Col. Warwick.

Other guests included Brigadier John Genet, Lieut.-Col. R. A. Grant, Lieut.-Col. Vince Doyle, Lieut.-Col. Milt Davison, Lieut.-Col. A. Hood, commanding the RCASA, Picton, and Ontario Provincial Police Inspector A. Chesney, Belleville.

Big Three Renew Plea to Russia For Austria Pact

PARIS (AP)—The Big Three powers today sent another invitation to Russia for new conversations on an Austrian treaty, sensational government sources said.

These sources said that the Big Three note recommended that the talks be held on the abbreviated treaty submitted by the three Western powers in Paris May 9, 1953.

May 26 the Russians rejected a Western proposal to resume Deputy foreign ministers, who have held 280 meetings since 1947 on the treaty. Early this week, however, the Russians agreed to establish full diplomatic relations with Austria and exchange ambassadors with that occupied country. Previous to Western occupation powers took in 1950.

The Russian note accompanied their diplomatic step with a relaxation of certain restrictions under which the West abandoned some years ago.

LONDON (Reuters) — Bells rang and guns sheered today when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh drove in an open landau from Buckingham Palace to the Guildhall, heart of the City of London corporation.

Thousands packed the troop-lined roads to the Guildhall, where the Queen lunched with city dignitaries.

First the Queen wore a dress of bluegrey with a cloche feathered hat and carried a bouquet of red flowers rested on her lap. The Duke appeared as admiral of the fleet was swept by the blue sash of the Order of the Garter.

The procession was led by two formations of the Household Cavalry, wearing cuirasses, helmets and plumed helmets. Two more units rallied behind the Golden coach. Many people waited in drizzling rain for several hours to see the royal procession. Office workers left their desks to peer from windows overlooking the route.

The Queen's carriage halted at Temple Bar, historic boundary of the City, and passed into Fleet street, London's newspaper row.

The lord mayor of London, wearing his robes and chain of office, met the Queen with his aldermen and sheriffs. According to tradition the Queen asked to be allowed to enter the city.

Campbell to Have Same Number Of L-P Members

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Douglas L. Campbell of Manitoba will have the same number of Liberal Progressive members in the new Manitoba legislature as at dissolution, but fewer other supporters.

This picture emerged late Thursday when late ballot counting resulted in the election of members for the two undecided seats in Monday's general election.

They brought the House standing to Liberal-Progressive 30, Progressive Conservative 14, CCF 5, Social Credit 2, independent 4, Independent Liberal 1, Labor-Progressive 1, deferred 2. Total 57. Three independents have announced they will support the government.

At dissolution April 23, the standing was Liberal-Progressive 30, Progressive Conservative 9, CCF 7, Coalition 5, Labor-Progressive 1, independent Liberal 1, vacant 4. Total 57. The five coalition members supported the government.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The market eased gently in light business trading. Industrials rallied and slipped back after posting good gains yesterday. Uraniums were the heaviest losers as the whole group stepped back a bit. Papers had a dip with a drop of 20 cents. Also on the downside were Canada Bread, Dominion Tar and Canadian Bousquet. New Brunswick base metals mixed with Noranda up a point and Bathurst down the same amount.

In foods, Burns B dropped ahead smartly with a $1.50 rise.

Golds moved slowly with Preston East Dome up at 11 1-2 and Lamaque 20 cents. Seniors mixed but Inspiration chipped in a new-holding-companies group.

Calnorth Bay and Ivy Lonse as Pacific Petroleum and Triad produced a small index increase for Western oils but the group as a whole was down. Peruvian, North Canadian and Del Rio headed the mild

A JOYOUS TALE, THIS!

Many a Belleville citizen got a warm glow, on Wednesday, when he read how Wes Jamie Clark had been re-united in Scotland with a son he believed long dead.

We can imagine no reward more fitting than this, that the warm-hearted men and women who made it possible for the 84-year-old piper to revisit his native land should be able to sit in their Belleville homes and read the story of Jamie greeting James, father and son both feasting their eyes on the loved one they had thought dead.

Nor shall we ever again style Dame Fortune a fickle jade, for though she be this on occasion all her misdeeds, past and future, are forgiven her. For did she not lead Wes Jamie and his nephew, Thomas Clark, down the same street on the very day when the latter had read a paragraph in a Toronto paper about Wes Jamie's presence in the city. And did she not make the Clark face an easily recognized trademark?

The re-union reminds us something out of Thomas Hardy's longer novels—but how joyously different are the results of coincidence north of the Tweed from those among the Sassenachs of the South Downs!

A COURAGEOUS STATEMENT

Dwight D. Eisenhower is a brave man. No one doubted that when he was a general. Now no one can doubt it of Eisenhower, the President.

It took more courage, more than that, a depth of understanding not always possessed by U.S. leaders—to say that compromise, "within a clearly defined, clear-cut moral framework" is essential to the existence of the democratic process. The present temper of the people of the United States does not take kindly to compromise. Every effort to find areas within the great body of fundamental international tension is regarded in many influential circles in the United States as appeasement—in the new and ignoble sense that has attached itself to the word since Munich. Yet we doubt if history records even one instance of the peaceful settlement of any dispute unless both sides to the controversy were willing to give a little ground.

But more than courage, more even than understanding, was shown by Eisenhower when he undertook to outline "the truth" about the United States, its aims, its hopes, its inspirations in the broad sweep of the world.

Even if it conformed to the free world's concept of its functions, the U.N. would still display an infinite variety of aptitudes, still provoke sharp debate, still be slow to reach decisions, he said. But in those very indications of differing opinions the U.N. displays its greatest worth. For, said Eisenhower, "it holds up a mirror in which the world can see its true self."

How badly that needed to be said!

How infrequently it has it be said by the President of that nation which, perhaps more than any other, has on occasion exhibited difficulty in grasping the essential role of the U.N. as a sort of "court of compromise."

CONCILIATORY RED MOVES

The new Malenkov regime in Russia continues to act as if it wanted peace.

That is all one can safely say, for acts that appear conciliatory may conceal the clever and cunning deception.

But we ought to recognize the fact that, day by day, the Russians are taking steps which are exactly what a peace-seeking government would undertake.

There is no need to recount here all the changes in policy which have occurred—or have appeared to occur—since Stalin died. We shall merely note two of the latest evidences of apparent interest in ending the cold war. There is the relaxation of Russian military control in conquered Austria and the announced intention to restore full diplomatic relations with that country. There is a new tone on international affairs are on record as believing that an agreement between the East and West on the status of Austria is both practicable and acceptable to Europe. Then there is the Russian decision to permit the Russian wives of two United States citizens to leave the country with their husbands. Both are encouraging political acts, and while the number of persons directly affected is extremely small, the principle involved is of great importance and the previous Russian stand had provoked justified public opinion, particularly in the United States.

It may be objected that measures like these are small comfort, indeed, when Communist tyranny continues unabated in the many more important spheres. But surely it would not be reasonable to expect that any new Communist regime would abruptly and completely reverse the foreign policies of many years?

It seems reasonable to regard these Russian overtures to the West, if not as positive evidence of a desire for peace, at least as significant that such a desire may exist.

We should be wary—but we should not refuse to admit the possibility that Malenkov may be attempting to ease the cold war.

GREATER INTEREST

The education director of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada reported in a speech from Bigwin Inn that there was widespread interest in learning how to invest money.

There is an even greater interest in how to acquire money to invest.

JUST FOLKS

WORTH

Both "rich" and "poor" as words appear
To have for all a meaning clear.
"Rich" means worth, as all admit,
And "poor" implies the lack of it.
But is a man's worth fully told
By stocks and bonds that he may hold?

Are there not many ways on earth
For man to gain increasing worth?

Is there not fortune that depends
On pride of family and friends?
The money, that a cause may live,
The kind of gifts men have to give?

In service both to code and creed
The rich man may be poor, indeed.
In traits that all delight to see
The poor man may be richer be.
Thus "rich" and "poor" are terms of purse
Which gracious living can reverse.

That is a sneaky way of coping with the problem, luring pigeons to their death. Over in England, where there is a drive on to eliminate gray squirrels, there is no such partiality. The drive was halted temporarily during the mating season, so that squirrels would not be left to die in their dens to starve killed.

Love Makes Dead Pigeons

(Windsor Star)

Most people have an innate sense of sportsmanship. And also one of romance. They revel against anything which runs counter to these instinctive attitudes.

Hamilton City Council has defied these sentiments of fair play and of romance when it approved a plan to destroy 1,000 pigeons. That figure indicates too many

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Into the hotel elevator with our party crowded a man and woman who instantly took our eyes, because they were all newspapermen. The woman was perfectly beautiful: maybe forty something, many-lined, nearly fifty. She was small, smartly dressed, with a streak of grey in the hair while in her alongside the smart hat. But she was radiant. And the smile she turned up to her man was as lovely as a girl's. We looked at her man. He was all of fifty, a tall, iron grey headed fellow, with a deeply tanned face and fine humorous features. The smile that he returned to the woman was one of sheer adoration.

They got out. The elevator started. Every one of the five of us turned to look at one another.

"Bride and groom," we said, "autumn love affair."

"Maybe she's been his secretary," we speculated. "maybe he got a divorce, eh, and married her!"

"One thing is certain," we agreed. "That's a honeymoon."

And newspapermauswise, we wished we could find out about our glowing fellow passengers in the elevator. An hour later, we had our chance. We were around the table in the dining room when the man sauntered in. He recognized us as the elevator companions, the elevator, and smiled very friendly. One of us held up a hand as he paused.

"We figure," we said, "that we have to congratulate you, sir."

"Congratulate?" said the stranger, eyebrows up.

"Aren't you on your honeymoon?"

"Honeymoon?" he exclaimed. "We've figured . . . one of us be-gan.

"Aha!" cried the stranger, "I must go and tell her that! We've been married nearly twenty-eight years. We're in town to attend the graduation of two of our sons."

And with a grin for us all, he turned and walked somehow joyously back out of the lounge to go up and tell her what had happened.

And we five sat looking rather sheepishly at one another, newspapermen, all, and forgotten that there are happy people in the world, happy their life long.

Steel Splits Labor Party

(By T.W.L. in the Winnipeg Free Press)

London: The British Labor movement's divided mind about social ism has once again been sharply demonstrated. Three leading trade unionists—members of the Labor Council of Trade Union Congress — have agreed to serve on the Steel Board which has just been appointed by the Conservative Government.

The Board is set up under the authority of the new Steel Act, which has been accepted completely by Parliament, undoing the nationalization of the steel industry by Mr. Attlee's Government. The purpose of the Board is to supervise and to advise the Minister entrusted to private ownership.

Politically, the Labor party resists not only that this denationalization has had also that it is flamentary debates, Labor spokesmen have emphasized their determination to renationalize steel as soon as Labor returns to power, and this is the basis of the party's policy declaration that the party has just drawn up in preparation for the next General Election.

When the election comes, and steel is once again an issue, it will be valuable propaganda point that the Government has split the trade union representa-tives on the Steel Board. Labor will attack denationalization as a reactionary measure; the Conservatives will ask if it can be when trade union leaders have accepted it and served on the Board. This certainly undermines the militant-ism of Socialist Left-wing leaders of the Labor party, and it will be politically embarrassing to the party as a whole.

Sir Lincoln Evans, who becomes vice-chairman of the new Steel Board, has been since the war not only the head of the steel workers themselves but also one of the best-known and most influential members of the Labor Council. He is universally respected for his intelligence, abilities and his skill as a negotiator.

Former Labor Ministers owe a great deal to Sir Lincoln, and he still to a serious degree is the counsels of the Labor movement; his new post is a full-time one and involves leaving the Council and its work. He had already been bitterly attacked by Left-wingers for accepting a knighthood from the Churchill Government, and the attacks will no doubt be more and more personal.

Moreover, there is a further reason why Sir Lincoln's appointment to the Steel Board may not be unlised as a personal move, unrepresentative of union opinion. Two other leaders called to the Labor Council of the T.U.C. come from the engineering and shipbuilding industry. Both of them agreed to accept seats on the Steel Boards of the new Steel Board. One—Mr. Wilfred Beard—was forced to resign two days after the appointment, because his union's executive strongly disapproved. But the Government was able to replace him immediately by another member of the T.U.C. General Council.

This is Mr. Andrew Naesmith, who is not even known to the public as a secretary of a textile worker's union but is a prominent member of the Labor movement. His appointment, together with that of Sir Lincoln, and the absence of Mr. James Owen, makes it clear that a considerable effort is being made by union leaders is willing to accept denationalization and work co-operatively with private enterprise management in steel.

The left-wingers argue that this is disloyal to the Labor cause because it weakens party's case in the eyes of the public. Sir Lincoln Evans decisively rejects that the union work implies a belief that the Steel Board job will last, that Labor has not pledged to renationalizing steel in the moderately near future.

The Right-wing trade unionists do not dare openly to challenge the Left-wing's determination to stick to socialism in theory. They say that their close association with the legal fact it is their duty to co-operate—in making it a success—and much they would have preferred nationalization to continue. The Government's plan is a smoothly working steel industry has to be put before party considerations.

This is a valid argument in itself, but it is not the whole truth. That is not the whole truth. Sir Lincoln Evans and his colleagues are good trade union leaders and some of the more moderate members of the Labor Council are convinced that to dismantle the Labor cabinet from denationalization of the Steel plan.

This view was made as plain as possible without a public disagreement. Indeed, the General Council of the T.U.C. has had to stress the merits, as an alternative to nationalization, of the agreement that the Conservatives are in fact carrying out: a Government-controlled steel industry. Socialist would agree to serve on the board of the state corporation.

The Conservatives' ability to secure the co-operation of the Labor chiefs is therefore a considerable moral set-back to the doctrinaire Labor Left. It underlines the fact that many British Labor leaders have little faith in nationalization and would prefer to keep it, for a time at least, out of party programs.

The Labor reconciliation with this view so unpalatable to the Left is another cheery pickup for those within the party. It stands more and more as a party of responsible realistic policy; but its own extremists continue to make that impossible.

U.S. Ignorance Adds Province

Don't miss seeing Newfoundland's "Long Harbour Special," advised a U.S. magazine the other day. It's a train that elects to walk or swim across the 543 odd mi.'s of open Atlantic that separates the ports of Halifax and St. John's.

A few days later in Washington there was an incident which the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill called, in Historical Fog," Senator Paul Douglas, ex-college professor from Illinois, according to his critics, asked if it weren't true that Newfoundland was about to be compelled to give up her status as an independent Commonwealth dominion and become a province of Canada?

Senator Estes Kefauver, (of coon coat fame) was quick to reply, "That is correct, and I think the situation there is terrible. It is increasingly bad."

Both men then make Newfoundlanders boil and cause the bones of Sir Humphrey Gilbert to turn in their watery grave.

Newfoundland is not a province of Canada. Nor is it likely to be. The union was a matter of free choice, proof that the "Great Island" is part of Canada.

It must be. Because our American friends are treating it with the special interest, mystery and air of mystery which they ascribe to all things Canadian.

Depends on Angler

How fast does a fish grow? That is the question asked and answered seriously in a department of lands and forests bulletin. Dealing with the lighter side, we would say the answer depends on the angler. Every Fort William fishermen grow anywhere from two to four inches a day.

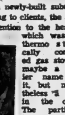
Caterpillars Dime a Quart

(Hamilton Spectator)

How many caterpillars make a quart? Ontario Hydro has asked this unusual question after reading a report by a Canadian entomologist in Granby, Quebec, is offering school children ten cents a quart for these pests that have been stripping trees bare in that municipality.



This price raises interesting, if somewhat gruesome, points of issue between caterpillar picking and cherry picking, in both of which other requirements than sheer plan an important part. The first is that cherry picking, of course, a variable, dependant used up any natural resource, the sooner would we get to the bottom of the pile. Now there are only storehouses are in series, and as we use up what is stored in the first room, we find that we can fashion a key to open a door into a larger room.

This is also true in the spiritual life. The Bible tells us to ask much of God, not little. It tells us that the more glory we have of the things we deem valuable, the more do we find ourselves in possession of a greater love of other things more valuable. The less we think about our own lives, the better we are able to put it another way, as Jesus did, the more we lose our lives the more certainly do we find them.

Skeptical, dubious readings believe that the barrel which holds life's blessings is shallow and that everybody gets only the bottom of it.And so he does if he is a worldling; but so if he is a Christian. Beneath our small, shallow barrel full of blessings, he finds a larger container which holds more blessings. He discovers in the dust of the day a golden key to a larger room.

HAVE YOU A LITTLE C O IN YOUR BLOOD?

DR. Brady

Showing a newly-built suburban office building to clients, the agent directed attention to the heating, which was by means of a vitally controlled gas stove — maybe a fancier name for it, but nevertheless "it stove to the office. The particular type of make of gas stove, the agent explained, was the most efficient ever devised.

Efficient in what respect, the client enquired. Well, it heats every part of the three connecting rooms evenly.

The client examined the stove more carefully. It had no stovepipe or vent to the chimney flue or the open air. No stove pipe or other vent was necessary with this gas heater, the agent explained.

The client was no efficient that all fumes of burnt gases were destroyed by combustion, thus doing away with the need of stove pipes.

Mortality statistics and coroner's reports indicate that a lot of people who ought to know better think the real estate agent's assurance makes sense.

It is true that carbon monoxide the colorless, odorless, tasteless gas given off by any fuel burning with closed damper or a low draft may burn into comparatively harmless carbon dioxide if damper is kept open or a free draft or some stricted supply of air to the burner is provided.

A good many persons have spent five, ten, fifteen minutes or more taking a bath in a small room heated with a portable gat, kerosene or oil stove and failed to tell about it. A good many persons have gone to sleep in a small bedroom heated by a gas, kerosene, or oil stove without stovepipe connection with the chimney or a door and escaped with their lives. Luckily in these poor geeks enough ventilation through cracks or crevices kept the CO concentration below the danger point.

While as little as one part of CO in a thousand of air may cause collapse and loss of consciousness of breathed quietly, by a sleeping person, for two or three hours, it takes only a few breaths of air containing more than ten parts in a thousand to "freeze" a man, that is, render him powerless to escape.

No matter how efficient a stove or burner may be, no one can guarantee its safety unless it has stovepipe connection with chimney flue or the open air.

It is foolish to assume that a heating stove or fuel burner of any kind is safe if it possesses no unpleasant odor. Odorous combustion products are unpleasant, perhaps, but seldom dangerous. The dangerous product of combustion, carbon monoxide, is odorless.

Breathing air polluted with only little CO (about one part in a thousand) for many hous in the room is the cause of headache or sickening offices or in a poorly ventilated kitchen, accounts for many of the general feeling of headache and ill temper. A frequent complaint is a sense of dizziness in forehead. Some persons with chronic CO assume to have vertigo and-or weakness and tremulousness in legs. They're not intoxicated, just slightly asphyxiated.

THE BEAUTY OF MEMORIES

When all else is gone, we have our memories. And that means a great deal remains.

A friend once asked me to write an article about the little town in which I lived as a boy. I was glad to comply. Perhaps I had neglected days date back to the small town days when everything in a small formative stage. The old town pump, the one p o l i e m a n — marshal we called him — and the village blacksmith, the three or four "preachers" of which I was one, the one drugstore that always had such a fascinating odor, the school house upon the hill, the grist mill, with its stream of water in which we used to swim.

The rain barrel that stood at the edge of the house to which we hurried at the little wiggling animals, the stream that ran through the town in which we used to fish, the one big store that carried hardware, dry goods, groceries, housed the postoffice in the bargain.

Then there were the many memories that I recalled about the church "socials," and the church. It distinctly remember the farmer whose shoes always squeaked as he walked down the church aisle. He had so strange to me in a white collar and his "Sunday clothes."

Memories! How unlucky the boy who has never had a store of memories of the small town!

Ordinarily the pulling of one's first tooth is painful at all. But it was in our little town. The dentist had an office over the street floor, near the sidewalk, and when I had my first tooth that my pals insisted on seeing that a good job was done—so they stood out in front that they might see the entire operation. It was accomplished with a string and dispatch! Did it hurt? No!

I remember the beauty of my mother's hands, her exquisite smile, her gentle manner. To me she was queen. To the greatest joy that belongs to me.

MORE AND GREATER REDEMPTION

In a report made by a large corporation, attention was called to the fact that, as we apparently use up our natural resources, we, in the very vigor of our efforts, open up other resources of value existing in a never suspected before. We used to think that the more we used up any natural resource, the sooner would we get to the bottom of the pile. Now we know that storehouses are in series, and as we use up what is stored in the first room, we find that we can fashion a key to open a door into a larger room.

24 RCAF Trenton Brownies Welcomed Into Guideland

"Sky, but that was an impressive ceremony!" was the general comment after a short and simple program in which twenty-four RCAF Trenton Brownies were welcomed into Guideland, recently, in the Air Chief Marshal Brendner School auditorium.

The "Flying Up" ceremony opened with Brownies from the 3rd, 6th, 7th and 8th Packs singing their Brownies song, while Dawn Susan Quinn and Catherine Daws ushered in to their fairy ring Mrs. T. Speer, Trenton District Girl Guide Commissioner, and Mrs. A. S. Oliver, Trenton Local Girl Guide Commissioner.

As the Brownies sang their "Going Away Song", the "Flyers", Brownies who have served two years, passed all their tests, and received their Golden Hands, danced around the Maypole. Seated at the base of the pole were several "Hoppers", Brownies whose shorter length of service kept them from "Flying Up" into Guides.

First to be escorted to Guideland by Pixie Pauline Hampson were the "Flyers." One by one the Pixie took them by the hand and led them to the two commissioners, where they received their Golden Hand badges and wings. A second Pixie, Susan Black, led the "Flyer" through an archway of flying petals dropped by Charline O'Brien, Catherine Killoran, Darlene Lalster and Colleen Mackley.

New Guides Introduced

Once across the realistic looking bridge, with its artificial stream "flowing" over rocks at the foot of the stage, the "Flyers" were met by Guide Gail Donahoe who asked: "Who is this who comes to Guideland?" in turn the girls replied by giving their names. When the welcoming Guide asked, "by what right do you enter Guideland?" the new Guide replied "by the right of my Brownie wings." The new Guide was then introduced to Mrs. W. Berg, captain of the 4th Trenton RCAF Girl Guide Company.

Flyers, leaving Brownies to go into Guides, were Frances MacLean, Merle Knoblasch, Carole Vail, Manon Guinard, Lorraine Dick, and Diane Cooper, 8th Trenton Brownies; Linda Thompson, Jo-Anne Serne, Barbara Black, and Patsy Clew, 3rd Trenton Brownies; Judith Ramey, 7th Trenton Brownies, and Catherine Stephens and Marilyn Ryder, 8th Trenton Brownies.

The procedure for the "Hoppers" followed a similar pattern. They were presented to the two commissioners, gave their Brownie salute, escorted out of the circle from where they travelled to Guideland by hopping across stones in the artificial stream. When they arrived they were met by Guide Joan Rhamey and Guide Karen Bowerman who then introduced them to their Girl Guide Captain Mrs. Berg.

Hopping into Guideland were Keitha Person, Irene Black, Irene Byers, and Mary Johnston, 6th Trenton Brownies; Pat Reny, 3rd Trenton Brownie; Allie Woodcock, Carol Gordon and Doris McNichol, 7th Trenton Brownies; and Marilyn Durant, Carline Dixon, Sharon Thomas and Lynn Russel, 8th Trenton Brownies.

The two Pixies then stepped forward and delivered Gold Linen Hand badges to the two commissioners who in turn presented Susan Quinn, Catherine Daws, Karen Schroeter, and Betsy-Ann Blair to step upon the golden ground while they received their new Golden Hand badges.

Presented With Gift

Brown Owl Mrs. D. A. McMurchy went to the stage and invited Guide Captain Mrs. Berg and the Guides to visit with the Brownies and Brown Owls in Recreation Hall in the centre of the large Fairy Ring. Commissioner Speer was presented with sterling silver coffee spoons set with the Girl Guide crest, in appreciation of her past work with the local packs. The presentation was made by packs with Gold Linen Resume of Africa Given at W.M.S.

The June meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. met in the school room on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. J. Craig in the chair.

Mrs. York was in charge of devotions with Mrs. G. Wallbridge reading the Scripture.

Mrs. Diamond gave a resume of Africa as a whole. It covers an area of 12,000,000 square miles. The coast line has no great harbors and the four large rivers are navigable only for carrying down great quantities of sand and deposit it at the mouth. She has the highest known peaks, the highest mountains and the largest lakes.

The deepest tin and copper mines are also found there. About 100 million people live south of the Sahara, while in the north the people more closely resemble Europeans. They inhabit mostly small mud houses with straw roofs and no windows, use grass mats on which they sleep.

The "Travelling Basket" of approval was held in the sunroom, where a fine assortment of aprons, in prints of various shapes and hues, as well as others in organdy, rosaire and white, with rose trim; some in heart-shape outlined in pink rick-rack and with matching frill; floral designs in bright hues and fancy, with dotted marquisette bended with matching green.

Children's Aprons

There also were children's aprons, novelty towels in red and white squares with green daisies scattered about; pot holders in crochet, some in fan design; mitts and duster combination; lodies clothespin belts, and lovely pillow cases, some embroidered, others lace-trimmed. Also displayed; children's Mother Hubbard aprons in navy and white check; washcloths; lovely ceramics in delightful pots of Africa design; cushions in white and ascending shades of purple. In charge of these were Mrs. H. R. Bride, Mrs. R. Irwin and Miss E. Moorman.

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. S. L. Jose.

Beautiful Pillowslips

The beautiful pair of pillow cases, which had been donated by a former Comrade Club member, Mrs. E. Roberts, were drawn for by Mrs. F. Davidson, with Mrs. H. R. Bride as the lucky winner. Mrs. E. Barlow convened the ticket.

Quiet music was rendered by recordings during the tea.

A charming hostess, and much credit to the convener, Mrs. G. L. Wannhoff and her assistants, Mrs. L. Andrews, Mrs. S. L. Jose and Mrs. R. R. Varcoe, and to all those helping in the kitchen and unstintingly of their talent and time.

Schools now are trying to teach better safety, agriculture, and under guidance, they can do almost anything the white man can do, and do it better. Besides these that David Livingstone spent his life and died, and Albert Slessor, the young Scotch Presbyterian missionary were noted.

The business of the month was then conducted and arrangements for the rally to be held at Picton later this month, were made.

Mrs. Craig read another Africa wisdom written by Miss Freda Mathewin in a previous "Glad Tiding" report.

Mrs. Lumsden also read a missionary letter from Jean Mathewin and Ellen McIntosh from Allahabad. In the summer months they go to the Landour Language School in the Himalayas. One cannot know how Indians live until one has lived in both countries and city. Few Indians would know how to use furniture, even bank tellers sit cross-legged on the counter behind the cage. Corruption and strife are rampant in higher circles and on progress is at a standstill.

Mrs. C. Bewsher closed the meeting all enjoyed the usual tea hour.

Tabernacle W.M.S., W.A. Hear Talk On 'Dreams-Faith'

The June meeting of Tabernacle W.M.S. was held in conjunction with the W.A., and met in the parlors of the church. There were 18 members of the W.M.S. present and a goodly number of the W.A.

The president of the W.A., Mrs. F. Davidson, opened the meeting by reading a poem showing Christ has no hands but ours, and no feet on earth but His followers to do His work.

The devotional was in charge of Miss E. Horton, the theme was "Worship". Psalm 122 was read responsively. "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the House of the Lord".

"Why do people go to church? Why do people worship? By attending church and worshipping it seems to do something for us, but nothing else does it is shutting out the world and thinking of God.

"There should be preparation for the service. Sacraments need to have everything in readiness the day before. Our hearts should be in a right spirit, ready to put on for Sunday morning worship, and in many homes Sunday is the starting out, the family prayer. Then entering the church in a prayerful attitude, and receiving a blessing and afterwards going out and doing something worthwhile."

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Grant from West Huntingdon, introduced by Mrs. Frost.

Mrs. Grant spoke on "Faith, Faith in ourselves, in our neighbors, and in God."

"We need love faith that we can do things. Dreaming is all right, but we must have action as well. When we think of musical compositions, books that are remembered, bridges and buildings that have been built, we realize they were dreams first and later realities.

Dreams and Faith

"We all have dreams of what we would like to be or do, but we lack confidence to do what others seem able to do, and we don't have the ability to finish well or maybe better and are afraid of failing. We are afraid to undertake the work we are asked to do.

"There seems to be so little done since Christ was here and so much that could be done if every Christian woman would do her part.

"We should have faith in our neighbors. Sometimes we are inclined to think we are a little bit better than they are; that the way they do things is not quite as good as our way. We should trust them and not look down at them.

"Then faith in God. We are inclined to leave God to the last. We have time for everything else and God seems to be left out. The promises all seem too wonderful to be true. Then we do put God, Him at His word. We are afraid of wars, sickness, depression, want, or bringing our troubles to Christ said "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed ye shall say unto this mountain remove hence to yonder place . . . Nothing shall be impossible to you." —Matthew 17:20."

Mrs. Grant closed her talk with a solo "Faith".

Mrs. Craig thanked the speaker for her fine talk.

Refreshments were served.

Mrs. F. Davidson's daughter, Beth, rendered some musical numbers.

Twins Feted By Dinner Party

A pre birthday dinner party was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander, 58 Church Street, in honor of their twin son and daughter, Miss Barbara and Mr. Bobby Alexander, when friends, both young and those not-so-young, were present to wish them many happy returns of the day to come and to wish for Bob, a typing landing as he leaves for R.C.A.F. Trenton in St. John, N.B., in the near future.

The evening was spent in a happy get-together, reviewing the days that are past, and looking forward to those to come.

Refreshments, later in the evening, consisted of a beautifully decorated birthday cake and ice cream, which rounded out a memorable evening.

On Tuesday, a lovely "At Home" was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Neal, 35 Cedar Street, in honor of their silver wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Neal, the former Harriett Hammersley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Hammersley, of Coventry, England, was united in marriage to Walter John Neal, son of Mr. John Neal, of Weston, Ontario, and the late Mrs. Neal, on Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, 25 years ago, by the Rev. A. H. Jones.

Active Church Workers

Mr. and Mrs. Neal have resided at their present home since that time. Mr. Neal is employed by the Canadian National Railways. Both are active in the work of their church, Victoria Avenue Baptist.

They have two sons, Mr. Bruce Neal, a B.A. graduate from McMaster University, who is now taking his B.D. degree, and is filling the capacity of student pastor at Victoria Avenue Baptist Community Church, Brantford, Ontario, while Mr. Ralph Neal, who is also a graduate, is residing in Toronto, where he is employed.

For the Anniversary

Mr. Bruce Neal received the guests during the afternoon and Mr. Ralph Neal during the evening.

Appreciately Decorated

The home was appropriately decorated with peonies, iris and lemon lilies. The many friends and neighbors, numbering over seventy, were received in the living room by the bride and, bridegroom of 25 years ago.

The tea table was tastefully arranged with an ivory lace cloth and tall, ivory tapers which flanked the white and silver anniversary cake, back-grounded by white Japanese iris and white daisy chrysanthemums. Tea was poured from silver service by Mrs. F. Cook and Mrs. A. Keith Daniel during the afternoon, while Mrs. J. Madill and Mrs. H. Hales served. Mrs. A. C. Fox assisted at the tables.

Those pouring during the evening were: Mrs. M. E. Gordon, Mrs. Vivian Vivian, Mrs. G. Watkin, and Mrs. A. G. Fox. Serving were, Mrs. T. Hetherington, Mrs. D. Bleecker, Mrs. A. Wells, Mrs. Clarence Campbell and Mrs. Jack Cook, with Mrs. W. Payne assisting.

Between five and seven o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Neal entertained relatives and a few close friends at a delightful dinner party in Laitiner's "Town Room".

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Hoxton, sister of Mr. Neal and Mr. and Mrs. E. Woods, both of Napanee.

Many lovely cards, gifts and telegrams were received from relatives and friends.

C.W. League Views Two Interesting Films

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held recently at the Knights of Columbus Hall with a large attendance, the president, Mrs. E. Logan, presiding.

The various conveners reported on the activities of their committees and the Very Reverend Dean Gallivan extended to the League members hearty thanks for their co-operation and efficient work on the occasion of the dinner tendered Reverend Father R. J. Fluery. He also reminded the members of the Holy Hour Rally to be held in Kingston on Sunday, and urged as many as possible to attend.

Plans were completed for the "League Tea" to be held on next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Black, 267 John Street.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Frank Fulwell, M.P., two very interesting films, "The St. Laurent Story" and "The Man in the Peace Tower", were shown after the meeting by Mr. Hiles.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Fulwell for this splendid entertainment and Mr. Hiles was graciously thanked by Mrs. Logan for his services.

Tea was then served by the committee in charge, Mrs. Carr-Brainl, assisted by Mrs. Haley, Mrs. C. Burley, and Mrs. Haley.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What's The Cure For A Broken Heart?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was engaged to a girl for a year, and she broke off our engagement. The only reason she gave was that she just didn't seem to care for me any more—she said thought she did. I am 24 and she is 20.

I have been trying to forget about her for going on with my fellows, but I don't seem to get anywhere, and I would like you to tell me if there is any cure for a fellow in my situation. J.M.

Dear J. M.: Certainly there is a cure for you, or anybody else in a similar situation.

The cure is instead of just "going out with the fellows," look around for a steady girl friend. Settle still, take a lot of girls out and have good times with them.

You probably won't believe it, but if you will make a serious resolve to start on such a program and stick with it, you will find yourself making more progress gradually loses its power to disturb you until it just doesn't bother you any more. You won't necessarily "forget" this girl, because none of us can totally forget the past experiences all thought of those who ever have been exclusively important to us. But the point is, we don't forever go on being emotionally upset about them.

In fact, it happens more often than not that after awhile, a jilted man or woman begins to wonder what in the world he or she ever saw in the one who jilted them, and in the end finds someone they like even better. It may be a little disillusioning, but somehow that's just the way life works! Why Can't These High School Girls Get Dates?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two juniors in high school, and are so bad to look at, but yet no boy will look at us and we have never had a date. Our boys don't dislike us; it's just that they don't invite us out. We both belong to several clubs, and neither of us is what you would call really shy, so what do you suppose is the matter? — M. B. and J. F.

Dear M.B. and J.F.: Perhaps you are among the many girls who just don't know what to talk about when you're with boys, or perhaps you don't feel sure of yourself with them and so they don't feel natural and easy with you.

If this is true, then I advise you to get busy and remedy the matter. Because you can, you know.

The first step is to make sure you look your best at all occasions. You say you are "not so bad to look at," but it's possible, isn't it, that you could make yourselves really good to look at? Experiment that might be more flattering. Suppose you now have. Go over your clothes, and make sure everything you wear is right for your figure, coloring and personality. Be meticulous about your grooming, so that you will always present a neat and fresh appearance. If you check yourself on these things, you'll not only be more attractive to others, but you'll find it easier to be yourself with people, because you won't be self-consciously worrying all the time about whether or not you "look right."

The next thing is to be sure you can do well all the things other young people your age like to do, such as dancing, swimming, roller skating and so forth. A girl who is a good dancer never lacks partners, and if she's expert at a variety of teen-age activities, there will always be someone asking her to "go along." Boys like girls, too, who know something about sports, since practically everyone likes all these and likes to talk about them. If a boy can't talk to a girl about the things in which he's interested, she can't hold him long.

Start with these suggestions and if think you'll soon find things looking up for you. If you'd like additional suggestions, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope for my pamphlet on how to be popular.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

Question:

Would you have any recipes for rhubarb? and how it can be served, puddings, beverages, wine. My husband and I have such an abundance growing this year we want to use it up as soon as it matures.—Mrs. Robert W. E.

Answer:

I hope you saw the recipe for Rhubarb Sauce in last Monday's column.

Rhubarb Conserve

Gather young, tender rhubarb and after washing, trimming and cutting, weigh it. To each 1 lb. rhubarb allow 2 lbs. sugar, 1 orange, 3 lemons, 1-3 to 1 cup blanched almonds, and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Cut rhubarb into 1-inch pieces but do not peel it. Peel the oranges and lemons and boil the skin in 1 cup water for 20 minutes. Discard the water and seeds and chop the skin and pulp. Chop the almonds. Combine rhubarb, orange and lemon pulp and skin, and sugar and salt. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves, then boil rapidly until it becomes somewhat thickened. Add almonds, boil 1-2 minute, then pour into sterile jam jars or sealers and seal.

Strawberry and Rhubarb Jam

Wash, drain and hull berries. Wash and trim young tender rhubarb and cut in 1-inch pieces. Use 1 lb. rhubarb to each lb. berries. To each 2 lbs. combined fruit allow 1 1-2 to 2 lbs. sugar. Cover the rhubarb with half of the sugar and allow it to stand for an hour or so to extract some of the juices. Crush berries and mix with the remaining sugar, then mix with rhubarb. Heat slowly until sugar dissolves, stirring. Stir while it boils 15 minutes or until somewhat thickened, pour into sterile jars or sealers and seal.

Rhubarb Punch (Serves 10)

Cut clean rhubarb in small pieces. Measure 4 cups and add 4 cups water. Cook until very soft and strain through cloth. Add 2 cups sugar to juice and grated rind of 2 oranges and 1 lemon. Bring to boil . . . Remove from heat and add 1-3 cup orange juice, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1-3 teaspoon salt. Chill. When ready to serve add an equal quantity of ginger ale and 1 or 2 ice cubes to each glass.

Rhubarb Crunch

Crumb Mixture— Mix together 1 cup sifted flour, 3-4 cup raw oatmeal, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and into them blend 1-2 cup soft or melted butter until crumbly. Press half of this into a buttered 9-inch baking dish. Cover with 4 cups diced rhubarb. The Syrup Mixture — Mix together 1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch and stir in 1 cup boiling water until thick. Add 2 teaspoons vanilla. Pour this over the raw rhubarb in dish. Cover with remaining half of crumb mixture. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour.

Letter:

I have been interested in your recent recipes for fig bars. . . I was surprised to see no mention of lemon in the filling. My dough is much the same as yours for my filling is: 1 cup chopped figs (Sunsweet ones are best), 1-2 cup brown sugar, grated rind 1 lemon, 1 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons flour; (Mix the flour with the sugar, stir in the water and add rind and figs and cook until jam-like.) I add a little lemon juice but until it tastes or smells right.—Mrs. L. M. G.

Answer:

Thank you for this variation of fig bar filling.

Question:

Please give me recipe for chili sauce made from bought canned tomatoes. We have eaten all the fresh ones, I made last fall from tomatoes picked in our garden. Now the whole family are yelling for more. We do not like the bought kinds. Too hot.—Margaret B.

Answer:

Chili Sauce

(From canned tomatoes)

Four and 1-2 28-oz. tins tomatoes, 6 peeled medium onions, 3 seeded green peppers, 2 cups sugar (brown or white sugar may be included), 1 1-2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 cups vinegar, 1 teaspoons each whole cloves and whole allspice, 4 3-inch stick cinnamon. The spices loosely in cheesecloth bag and add to all remaining ingredients. Cook slowly uncovered for 2 hours or until thick. Remove spice bag and pour into sterile jars and seal.

Note to "Hot" Chili Sauce Lovers:

If desired, vinegar may be increased to 4 cups and whole clover and allspice to 2 teaspoons each.

GOOD MANNERS

Minister's Wife Doesn't Go To Weddings Unless She Is Invited

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

I am a minister's wife, and I have been criticized for not attending the weddings which my husband performs. But if I do not receive an invitation, am I supposed to attend? —R.G.M.

It would not be appropriate, or proper, for you to attend a wedding to which you are not invited. You would have no right to assume that just because your husband is performing the ceremony you are expected to attend the wedding. As a matter of fact, there are, as you know, many very small weddings to which only the members of the family and the attendants are present, or are expected to be present. Those who criticize you surely would not think that you should attend a wedding where the intention is to have only families and attendants. There are other weddings to which a few very intimate friends may be invited, as well as families and attendants and the minister's wife would not expect to be invited unless she is a particularly intimate friend of the family.

The same is true of wedding receptions. . .if the minister and his wife happen to be invited, they are sent, or given, a definite invitation. So you, dear lady, are entirely right in what you do about this, and I think your gracious reply, "But I was not invited," is the adequate and right one.

When A Young Lady Chooses Her Bridesmaids

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

I am a girl of seventeen, and I am planning to have some "informals" printed. What form of name should I use? For example, "Miss Mary J. Smith"? Should I omit my middle name entirely, or use the initial, as I do on this note-paper on which I am writing to you?

2. Would it be proper to have my name plus my address on the flap of the envelope? — M.J.S.

A. Yes, you should use "Miss" before your name on your Informals. Apparently, by your question concerning your middle initial, and by the fact that you don't include it, but only the initial standing for it, I judge that you have no enthusiasm for it. If you do like it, and wish to include it in your name on your Informals, use it spelled in full. It's appropriate to use an initial in a formal name; Institutions has formed a committee but it is not proper to use a title before it. But if you don't like your middle name and think your name would be more attractive without it, why not drop it?

Talk this over with your family and see what they think.I see no

RAWDON

Coronation Banquet Held At Rawdon to Honor Queen

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — Wednesday evening June 10th., was a gala evening for the St. Paul's Carmel circuit, when they honored the new monarch and centennial year with a Coronation turkey banquet, with 200 in attendance.

St. Paul's dining hall platform was tastefully decorated with a large photograph of the Queen and royal gold emblems, flanked with the two white pedestal baskets filled with red peonies and a galaxy of silk flags adorned the piano.

Vases of peonies were set here and there about the room and larger flags were displayed along the walls.

Reception Dinner

Guests at the banquet were from Marmora, Trenton, Belleville, and points in Rawdon and Sidney townships. A former Rawdon resident, Mrs. M. Faulkner, formerly of Vancouver and Toronto, was also present.

Rev. A. E. Baker introduced the guests at the head table. They were the local ministers from St. John's Church of England; St. Andrew's Presbyterian and Rawdon circuit, with their wives.

The National anthem was sung and the Queen toasted.

Mrs. Ralph Hill, Trenton, gave three elocution selections. Mr. W. Grant, West Huntingdon, delighted with two violin selections with Mrs. A. E. Baker as piano accompanist.

Opera Star Sings

Mrs. M. Hendriks, Belleville, Dutch radio and opera star, contributed four selections.

Lt. Col. W. Effer, District Commander of The Salvation Army, was guest speaker. He has travelled around the world and recently came to Canada from Australia and felt it was a signal honor to be invited to speak on this auspicious occasion.

He gave a graphic picture of his association with peoples who have no particular affection for the Commonwealth and said these folk know nothing of the deep urges that move Canadians in this crisis because we are so vitally connected with royalty.

The speaker referred to Winston Churchill who recently said, he should have no hesitancy in using the word empire in our vocabulary.

In Search of America

Col. Effer spent 25 years in South America where the Latin peoples are not punctual with their duties, but they honor British justice, and all their virtues and if they want particularity to have an event start on time they advertise it, "English Time."

The speaker based a part of his address on the theme "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation", and stressed "There'll Always be an England." He was proud to be a Britisher as his home was at "Sussex by the Sea."

He gave various authentic stories of royalty, all portraying that the late King, his brother and his daughter "our new Queen" all have shown that they were firm believers in God.

Col. Effer pictured the beautiful symbolism of the Coronation ceremony and stressed that individuals must ever remember that the sword stood for "Defender of the Faith". The daily life of each person is what counts as those that are faithful unto the end shall receive a crown of everlasting life.

He said that monstrous celebrations which took place last week should really be a rededication of each one to live an upright and honest life. The British Empire has been built by things of lasting worth and character in order that the citizens of this great empire might be confirmed with true loyalty and later they might gather round "The Royal Throne in Heaven."

Mr. Harold Hagerman recording steward of St. Paul's, Carmel voiced thanks to all the guests and the ladies.

Mrs. C. A. Wells president St. Paul's W.J., and Mrs. Joe Grills, president Carmel W. A. each spoke briefly.

Rev. A. E. Baker told of the centennial year book and of "The Hunter Mission" which begins next Sunday. He asked for the prayers of the group that the services next week might be rewarding.

IVANHOE

IVANHOE. — A small number of W.M.S. members met at the home of Mrs. Sam Twiddy on Wednesday. After a delicious pot luc kdinner was served, a quilt was quilted. St. Andrew's Club

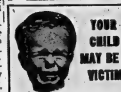
The June meeting of St. Andrew's Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson on Friday evening.

The president, Mrs. John McIlroy opened the meeting. The Scripture lesson, found in Psalm 47, was read by David Fargey. The roll call was answered by twelve members and eight visitors. A piano solo was given by Grant Thompson.

"The Story of the Coronation" prepared by Mrs. Lindsey Silk was read by Mrs. Jim Gray.

A solo, "Jesus Took My Burden", was given by Mrs. Bill Donnan.



The guest speaker Jean McGeorge spoke on "Our Queen", telling of her childhood days; her training and duties as a princess; the help she gave her father, the King in the discharging of his many duties and finally the most important day, her Coronation Day.

"God Save The Queen" was sung by Bernice McCurdy and Beverly McIlroy. A Coronation prayer was offered by Mrs. John McIlroy.

The minutes of last meeting were read and business arising from them was discussed.

Two contests — "Scrambled Words" and "Noted Men of Stirling" were conducted by the president.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

SECOND SECTION — BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, JUNE 13 — PAGES 13 to 24

Six Trade Fair Ending After Stirring Trade Flow Here and In Distant Lands

TORONTO (CP)—The sixth Canadian International Trade Fair ends today after a successful two-week run.

It brought together the buyers of about 60 countries and the sellers of 27 countries. It provided a show window for the products of five continents. On the three public days, it gave the man in the street a glimpse of the wares of distant lands in what was billed as "a trip around the world in miniature."

As the largest of the trade fairs held here by the Canadian government since they began in 1948 — many thousands of square feet of exhibiting space were already booked for next year.

Stirs Up Trade

The international gathering in three big buildings on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds on Toronto's western waterfront stirred criss-crossing currents of trade.

A German at the fair found some Belgian pots and pans on hand never seen in Europe, inquired about them, and planned to send some when he returns home. A man from the Dominican Republic came and became Belgian display, bought 48 dozen.

A United States manufacturer of a $3,000 grinding machine came to Toronto with the idea of selling a couple in Canada. By mid-week he had written out his 37th order.

To Build Factory

A new Canadian plant will go up soon near Montreal because a Dutch manufacturer of prefabricated building parts found enough interest at the trade fair to convince him there is a market for him in Canada.

M. J. Doody, representing a Canadian subsidiary of a U. S. firm with a new process of welding, said he signed 362 orders ranging from $50 to $5,000 and obtained 1,000 business leads in both Canada and the U. S.

Besides opening up new sales fields in North America, the fair also aimed at some remote countries to acquaint manufacturers what to avoid in catering to the wants of Canada and the U. S.

A representative of an Irish firm said he found Canadians "refreshingly unsophisticated" to take to his handmade goods.

The Japanese found no market for their textiles although there was interest in their toys. Almost everyone found Canada, in the midst of industrial expansion, an ideal place to sell machine tools and heavy equipment.

3-D Goggles Mean More Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—The lure of the uranium and nickel mining fields in Ontario's far north drew the gold mines of Northern Ontario.

In the opinion of the provincial police, radio and television factories and plants making plastic goggles for three-dimension movies are engaged in a hunt for staff.

This was pointed out Thursday by the national employment service in a report on the Ontario labor situation.

It said an upsurge in house building in Toronto is a spurt of activity for sawmills.

On the other hand, the farm implements industry has laid off workers in Brantford, Hamilton and Welland. Textile mills in Guelph, Woodstock, London, Toronto, Hamilton, Georgetown, Cornwall and Carleton Place also report layoffs.

Boxes With Nephew On His 103rd Birthday

CALADOGIE, Ont. (CP)—Spencer Church celebrated his 103rd birthday Wednesday by being the life of the party. He put on boxing gloves for a sparring match with a nephew and cooked a huge pot of sand-baked beans for 60 people. Including some of his own eight children, 52 grandchildren, 99 great-grandchildren and four great-great grandchildren.

Spry, alert and in excellent health, Mr. Church credited active living for his longevity and said he has never weighed more than 114 pounds.

TALKED TO FRIENDLY

MADRID (AP) — Informed sources said Soviet Navy Minister Salvador Moreno, who arrived home Thursday from the Coronation, had important talks in London on the future of the Spanish monarchy. He is said to have been directed by Generalissimo Franco to call on Prince Juan Carlos de Don Juan, in an attempt to persuade him to renounce his claim to the throne in favor of his 15-year-old son, Juan Carlos.

Dapper Ottawa Man Is Hanged For Slaying Wife

The dapper, 37-year-old Bertrand had been convicted of murdering his well-to-do 55-year-old bride of five months in a lonely hunting cabin at Lac St. Marie, Que., about 60 miles north of Hull. He protested his innocence to the end.

He mounted the scaffold at Montreal's Bordeaux Jail at 1:15 a.m. EDT.; the trap was sprung under the prison's ancient hanging and he was declared dead at 1:23 a. m. Sheriff Paul Hurteau said Bertrand did not falter the usual custom of shaking hands with the jail priest and guards. He was quiet and silent. Shortly before being led to the scaffold mails and received holy communion.

A telegram from the secretary of state's department Thursday put an end to all hope he may have harbored. It was a reprieve for the sheriff to carry out the execution.

Bertrand was convicted of the murder May 22, 1952 and appeals for clemency and pardon were rejected by the courts.

U.S. Cancels $100,000,000 Aircraft Contract

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States Air Force, enmeshed in a budget cut, has cancelled a $100,000,000 aircraft contract in Canada, it was disclosed Thursday.

T. D. Pattinson, deputy head of production department's aircraft division, said there is no reason to believe that other American aircraft orders in Canada are in jeopardy.

First word of the cancellation came from Canadair Ltd., the Montreal aircraft plant that had received the U.S. order to produce 227 4-36 American bomber-trainer planes for the USAF.

Still untouched is the USAF order for T-34 trainer planes placed with Canadian Car and Foundry Co., at Fort William.

Three Pilots Complete Race From Welland

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Three pilots completed the 1,150-mile — 24 hours and 7 minutes — air race from Welland, Ont., to New Smyrna Beach in one day Wednesday, but none of them seemed to spend the night along the route.

Pilots were Jim Gray of Port Charlotte, N. C. She and her copilot, Mrs. Helen McBride of Welland, Ont., flew in a twin-engine Beech and two minutes.

Virgina Rapp of Springfield, O., and her co-pilot, Joan Hruber of Cleveland, came in next followed by Cecil Leagner of Chicago, flying Ecko.

The actual winner of the sixth annual race, a handicap event, will be determined after Saturday's noon, the deadline for finishing, on basis of speed and equipment of the planes and other factors. Non-stop over time does not count.

The winner gets a share of a $2,000 purse and the Eddie Rickenbacker Trophy.

Several fliers spent the night in North and South Carolina. These included Mrs. Jane Page Hopkins of Howey in The Hills, Fla., who was forced down in a hayfield near Wake Forest, N. C., when her fuel ran low.

Harrington King of Houston, Tex., was forced down at Elmira, N. Y., by mechanical trouble and resumed the flight in time to reach Selma, N. C., at sundown.

Merged Riding Having Hard Time To Get Candidate

VANKLEEK HILL (CP) — The second of the two Liberal Associations in the consolidated Glengarry - Prescott riding Thursday night nominated W. J. Major as its candidate in the forth-coming federal election.

Mr. Major, of nearby Green Valley, now is Liberal MP for Glengarry riding. The ridings of Prescott and Glengarry were merged last year for the federal election.

Mr. Major's nomination follows the nomination Tuesday of Raymond Bruneau of nearby Hawkesbury as the other of the consolidated riding's official candidates.

Mr. Bruneau, now Liberal MP for Prescott, drew unanimous support from the other Liberal Association in the consolidated riding.

The speaker at Thursday night's nomination meeting was George J. McIlraith, Liberal MP for Ottawa West and parliamentary assistant to Defence Production Minister Howe.

The two Liberal Associations so far have refused to combine.

Ontario-Michigan Hydro Power Pool Is Being Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of Detroit Edison Company, says an "unnecessary" position taken by the federal power commission is holding up the proposed power pool between Michigan and Canadian power.

Brown, a former Democratic senator, urged the Senate commerce committee to pass a bill that would knock down the FPC contention.

The bill, by Senator Charles Potter (Rep., Mich.), would exempt foreign sales of power by a company, such as Detroit Edison, from commerce from regulation by the FPC.

Brown said such legislation is necessary for a planned hookup of the Canadian Niagara power system and the hydro-electric system of Ontario.

He said the hookup is being held up by an FPC claim that it has jurisdiction to regulate foreign power sales, even by companies not engaged in interstate business and, therefore, not subject to federal regulation. Detroit Edison operates entirely within Michigan.

Expect Aug. 10 Voting Date To Become Official Today

OTTAWA (CP)—The country will be told officially late today—barring a last-minute change of intent views—that a federal general election is to be held Aug. 10.

A cabinet meeting has been called for this morning and informed sources said the main item of business will be to dissolve the 21st Parliament and name the Aug. 10 date.

Informed Liberal quarters said Thursday night the election appointment was the day of polling agreed on informally among the ministers. It remained only to have this nailed down officially by the cabinet.

To Welcome Holiday

On arrival here from overseas early Thursday, Prime Minister St. Laurent said he had not decided finally on a date. But several hours later party sources said Aug. 10 was definitely set.

The announcement was expected to be made after a day-long meeting of cabinet, possibly around 6 p.m. EDT. Several other matters are to be dealt with by cabinet.

One, it was reported, will be the nomination Aug. 19 by Conservatives of a new minister: John W. (Jack) Pickersgill, MP for Bonavista-Twillingate, to succeed Paul Martin, MP for Windsor West and parliamentary assistant to Defence Production Minister Howe.

The two Liberal Associations so far have refused to combine.

East German Cabinet Adopts Communist Politburo's Program

BERLIN (AP)—The East German cabinet Thursday night adopted the Communist party's program to "decommunize" much of the Soviet zone regime. At the same time Soviet reports that Russians may make a powerful bid for German unity at the next German elections.

Premier Grotewohl inside the Soviet zone hinted that a Russian bid aimed at setting up elections to give Germany a neutral government more than a fifth of its gross national product, a rate few countries duplicate.

Increased capital investment was promised to Canada's growth to provide new equipment for more efficient production.

Will Appeal Fine

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—A Coronation Day proclamation believed to date back to King Charles II will be the basis of an appeal here.

Fred St. Crepeau, Prince Albert lawyer, said Thursday he will appeal two convictions made June 2 in police court here by Magistrate Kelsey at Lac La Ronge, Sask. Kelsey was fined $100 for illegal sale of liquor and for supplying liquor to an Indian.

Mr. Crepeau said the appeal will be on grounds that "Coronation Day is a day on which no judicial act can be performed and that the powers of the police magistrate-ship of justice are limited to purely administrative acts."

Paper Industry Must Cut Costs Or Lose Exports

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian pulp and paper industry, which accounts for one-sixth of every seven dollars earned by Canadians, faces serious competition in world markets, the president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association said today.

H. M. Fowler told the 57th annual meeting of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada that the industry must concentrate on cutting costs or lose out in the export market.

In a speech prepared for delivery at this Muskoka area summer resort, he said:

"I am convinced that nothing can stop the advance of this industry over the long run, but action taken now can profoundly improve the rate of progress and the ease with which it is made.

"Over the next years, pulp and paper exports accounted for 25 per cent of all Canadian exports. Canada newsprint now finds 81 per cent of all newsprint moving in world trade.

But costs, including government levies and wage rates, have risen. He suggested that it would be "the part of wisdom for labor in its bargaining to take into full account the gains and refrain from pressing for increases which are already too high."

Management should press for economy and efficiency, salesmen should polish up their arts of selling, engineers should put more emphasis on quality, government should reduce the weakening effect on an export industry of a heavy burden of taxation and should weigh the advantage of current dividends with long-term financial strength.

Mount Everest's Conquerors Trek Home Through Leeches With Monsoon on Their Heels

By PETER JACKSON

NAMCHER BAZAR, (Nepal) (Reuters)—The greatest horror facing the Everest climbers on their homeward trek is an onslaught of leeches.

Monsoon weather has brought a myriad of the blood-sucking worms into the open. They hang from the trees and bush, waiting for the blades of grass.

This is threads, they wriggle into your shoes, crawl along your legs and fasten onto your flesh until they swell to the size of bloated caterpillars.

Usually you do not know they are there until you feel the blood in your shoe or see a bloodstain spreading down your leg.

It is even worse to pull them off, for they leave the flesh and leave a sore.

Apart from an insect repellent which is supposed to keep them at bay, the climbers are carrying out a desperate counter-offensive.

But costs, including government levies and wage rates, have risen. He suggested that it would be "the part of wisdom for labor in its bargaining to take into full account the gains and refrain from pressing for increases which are already too high."

Czech Workers Raid Town Hall, Raise U.S. Flag

VIENNA (AP)—Reports of fierce rioting Wednesday and Thursday that rioting Czechoslovak workers stormed and pillaged the town hall in Pilsen, raised the U.S. flag and sang the American flag.

The reports reached Vienna from Prague and were in part confirmed by the Pilsen newspaper Pravda. The newspaper said rioting workers tore down pictures of Stalin and former Czech Communist Clement Gottwald and trampled them underfoot.

It also said demonstrators had taken place "with the intention of overthrowing the democratic system of government."

Two riots, halted only by police action, took place in Pilsen in the days following a drastic currency reform which has impoverished Czechs of their savings. For many days there has been reports of disturbances, demonstrations and even bloodshed in Czech cities. Still none, however, on the scale of Wednesday.

The reports said that the trouble began in Pilsen, liberated in the last days of the war by U. S. Gen. George Patton's flying tank column. The riots were touched off following the week-end announcement of the Czech currency reform.

Workers in the vicinity of the great Skoda armament plant, now called the Lenin works, marched on the town square. Their march was joined by the town hall, tearing down pictures of Communist leaders Klement Gott-wald and the Stripes, the reports said. The rioters also burned the city hall archives.

Similar disturbances lasted until June 5 and were halted only when extra troops and police set up machine guns at all strategic areas around the city.

Part of Bonus To be Put In Basic Rate Pay

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — An across - the - board, two - cents-an-hour pay increase for Ford of Canada employees, who are members of local 200, United Automobile Workers (CIO), is included in a new agreement announced Thursday.

The increase, along with several other important benefits for employees, is part of the three-year contract in line with the pattern recently set between the company and union in the United States.

Thomas MacLean, assistant director of the UAW-CIO, and president Charles McDonald of local 200, the largest Ford plant local in Canada, said a statement the company also has agreed to "merge the present an hour cost-of-living bonus decrease scheduled to take effect this month."

Their statement following 19 days of meetings between union and Ford officials.

Ford employs some 11,000 manufacturing workers in its sprawling Windsor here.

The company also agreed to incorporate 11 cents of the 13 cents-an-hour bonus into the basic pay rate and to allow pensioners to retain their hospital and surgical benefits in the local 200 contract and group plan which are said by union spokesmen. Those already on pension will be permitted to recover the benefits.

Contractor Pays Workers For Back Wages

OTTAWA (CP)—In a grumbling mood, a contractor appeared before the staid old library of Parliament, a committee Thursday said his workers for back wages that nearly provoked them into attacking him and wrecking the building.

Thirty or 40 men engaged by Joseph Lewkowicz, Mick, Ont., to move tens of thousands of books from the library had threatened him in a group, the lawyer said, until unless he paid them wages for the last two weeks.

Members of the Commons probe heard Thursday that Lewkowicz and assistant Mr. Mick from violence and a member of the RCMP persuaded the workers to restrain the keys they had taken from the Mick and continue the building.

From a truck parked outside the library, Mr. and Mrs. Mick Thursday government and civil servants not without arguments, as the workers filed in and out for lunch and went away.

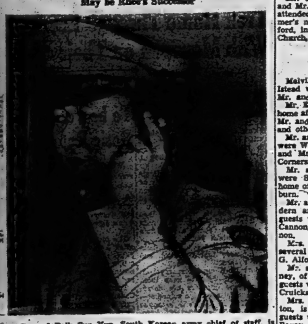
Most of them were still grumbling when they looked in their envelopes. They said they had been paid only $1 an hour instead of three.

After removal of the books was made necessary by last summer's fire, the workers began the removal inside and won't be back in general use for a year or two.

Mick told reporters he was short of money because there was more work than he had bid on the library works department on a previous contract.

Lewkowicz official said an adjustment is being made on an earlier transfer contract with Mr. Mick.

U.S. Labor Unions Sign 'No Raiding' Pact



DETROIT (AP)—Two large labor unions—the AFL and the CIO—Thursday signed a "solidarity pact Thursday pledging to refrain from each other's membership, and close cooperation in collective bargaining.

The accord was reached between the CIO-United Auto Workers and the AFL International Association of Machinists. They claim a combined membership of more than 2,000,000 workers.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO and UAW, called the agreement "virtually unprecedented" in labor history.

Announcement of the signing was made jointly by Reuther and IAM president Al J. Hayes. It has been approved by the governing bodies of both.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — Frankford will again be entering two teams in the Sidney Softball League, the Juveniles and the Legion, Harry Wickson piloting the young lads, and Don Couture in charge of the Legion's entry. If teams have entered the league, and an application from the "Bata Pirates" was regretfully rejected, in order that the league could be kept at six teams. It is planned, however, that the teams of the league will be exhibition games with the Bata team, and another year it might be possible to expand into an eight team league.

Stockdale replaces Wallbridge this year, but outside of that, the teams are the same as last year. 1953 Schedule

Tuesday, June 16: Stockdale at Glen Miller; Johnstown at Centenary; Frankford Legion at Frankford Juveniles.

Friday, June 19: Glen Miller at Frankford Legion.

Tuesday, June 23: Johnstown at Glen Miller; Centenary at Frankford Juveniles; Frankford Legion at Stockdale.

Thursday, July 9: Johnstown at Stockdale; Centenary at Frankford Legion.

Friday, July 10: Glen Miller at Frankford Juveniles.

Frankford — The Sidney Softball League swung into action Tuesday night, with all six teams seeing action. The opening night was delayed almost two weeks from the usual starting time, due to the lateness in organization.

In Centenary, Frankford Legion lost a 7-4 heartbreaker, and once again it was the Legion's old nemesis, Ross Marshall, who did the damage, with a sixth-inning triple, with two on.

Fred Edmundson and Howie Waite shared the pitching for Centenary, with Waite gaining credit for the win, Marshall catching. Don "Hooker" Coulter, who pitched good ball in losing, Bernie Reanns caught for the Legion.

Frankford Juveniles piloted this game by Harry Wickson, blasted eleven hits, including home runs by Roy Bennett and Wayne Whitney, as well as capitalizing on efficient Glen Miller miscues, to rack up a 16-0 win over the Miller boys. Bob Lott pitched one-hit ball for Frankford for five innings, that, a scratch bunt single. Whitney took over for the balance of the game, and gave up two hits. Only one Glen Miller runner got as far as second base. Jack O'Brien caught for the Juveniles. Lott struck out six, Whitney two. Mealey went the route for Glen Miller, striking out six.

Frankford
Juveniles .. 163 300 3—16 11 1
Glen Miller
Thomas .. 000 000 0— 3 3 3

It is noteworthy that Glen Miller has year in driving the young lads a chance, and with a few more games under their belts, they have the nucleus of a good team. The kids appeared a little shaky at the start, but settled down and played good steady ball.

Most of the Royals' errors came in Frankford's big second inning.

Over in Johnstown, Stockdale, the league's newest entry handed Johnstown a 6-4 defeat, Johnstown's first home opener loss in six years. One of the largest crowds in the history of the Johnstown field gathered to witness the game and the home towners were out in full force, and Stockdale brought along practically the whole village. Allan Forga was the hero for the winners, banging out a base-loaded double to bring in the winning run, with one for insurance. Wannamaker and Brooks were the batteries for Stockdale, with Bob Hartt and Frank Harry sharing the pitching for Johnstown. Doug Harry catching. Frank Harry was tagged for the defeat.

Canners and Growers Plan To Seek Tariff Protection

PICTON — Canning crop growers and processors will join in making representations to the Federal Tariff Board in an effort to secure greater protection from imported canned goods. This was revealed by W. J. Walker, Deseronto, immediate past president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board, which concluded its two-day session here with a banquet at the Royal Hotel on Tuesday night.

Referring to the fact that Ontario has lost the western market for canned goods, chiefly due to importation of California products, which can be sold at a lower price due to the lower freight rates, Mr. Walker felt that a little more protection through tariffs will aid in recovering this market.

Stressing the importance of the canning industry, Mr. Walker said that last year processors paid more than ten million dollars to growers, a vital factor in the country's economy.

First Meeting Outside

It was the first time the marketing Board had ever met outside of Hamilton or Toronto, and Prince Edward county was honored by virtue of the fact that Dwight O. Reynolds, RR 8 Picton, recently succeeded Mr. Walker as chairman of this organization, which represents Ontario canning crop growers.

During the visit of the directors, and their wives, the first visit to Prince Edward for most of them, business sessions were held at the agricultural office. Speaking at the banquet, they expressed amazement at seeing 24 factories in Prince Edward. They visited a number of these plants as well as the Metcalfe plant at Deseronto. The visitors were also impressed with the scenic beauty of the county and district following a motor tour and boat trips down the bay. A social evening at the Yacht Club and the banquet were other highlights.

One hundred attended the banquet, with D. O. Reynolds presiding. He welcomed members of the board a number of guests and members of County Canning Crop Growers' Board and others, including several canning factory operators. By co-operation, growers and processors can solve mutual problems, he said. A committee has been set up to deal with the matter of a field man, who would study the varieties of tomatoes best suited to the locality. Ottawa will be approached and the needs of the industry presented in an effort to have action taken which will assist in solving some of the present problems, he said.

County Board president, Roy Shortt, said: "No problem is so great that some solution cannot be found if canners and growers all down together and discuss it."

First Visit to County

Frank Perry, vice-president of the Ontario board, from Chatham, said it was his first visit to the county and much benefit had been derived.

S. McKenna, vice-president, Ontario Canned Foods Association; George Tustin, M.P.; Norris Whitney, M.P.P.; Elmer Pillsey, board representative for Oxford county; James Moore of Norfolk county; C. Nicholas, Essex county; Earl Mighton, BSA, manager of agricultural department of Campbell Soup Co., New Toronto; Howard Fowler, Grimsby, assistant supervisor fruit and vegetable inspection service, department of agriculture and Dr. Van Vleck, Hapanee, board representative for Hastings and Lennox counties, spoke in appreciation of the co-operation between canners and growers which was in evidence, and echoed the need for mutual understanding of the problems faced by both.

Extends Welcome

Representing County Warden Clinton Green, who was ill Reeve James Clemenson of Wellington, extended a welcome to Prince Edward. We must realize that canners and growers are perpetual mutual beneficiaries of each other, he reminded.

Speaking on behalf of the canners, J. Donald Baxter joined with other speakers in congratulating Mr. Reynolds on being appointed chairman of the Marketing Board, following several years' service as county representative. Processors are willing to co-operate and joint meetings such as this are a step in the right direction, he said. At present the market is flooded and prices are falling. Unless there is prosperity on the farm front there cannot be general prosperity, he declared.

"We feel hopeful of the future with Mr. Reynolds as chairman of the Board and I trust the paths of growers and processors will be paths together and lead to eventual solution of problems now being faced," he concluded.

Public Relations Need

Former Agricultural Representative F. J. Webster stressed the need for better public relations to build up improved understanding between rural and urban sections. In earlier years, he reminded, most city people had lived on farms or had relatives who were farmers, and thus appreciated the problems of agriculture Today, such a situation does not exist and a public relations job is essential. The consumer must be impressed with the fact that the producer actually receives only a small portion of the dollar the consumer pays for agricultural products, he stressed.

Agricultural Representative D. A. Taylor introduced the guests at the head table. A sing-song was led by Phil Dodds. A program of comic, songs and playlets was given by Walt Taylor and the Rhythm Ranch Riders.

"WHERE PARKING IS NO PROBLEM"

Sponsored Church Services Opposed By Presbyterians

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates to the 79th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church yesterday Wednesday night expressed their alarms that the CBC may permit sponsored church services on television.

They decided unanimously that any departure from present CBC radio policy of non-sponsored services would be a corruption of policies at "its very roots."

Professor David W. Hay of Knox College put forward the policy resolution in behalf of the committee on radio and television.

It was stated that the CBC recommends available an hour a month of free television time for church services. Presbyterians were asked to give full support to this and urged to make better use of local radio facilities.

Professor Hay said no sponsorship of church programs should be accepted except where the money is provided with no strings attached. It would be against church principle for the CBC to censor the sponsor or be mentioned.

As a result of a Calgary presbytery request, the assembly decided to set up a committee to consider ways in which ministers can take a greater part in church affairs.

Meet In Toronto

The next general assembly will be held in Toronto in June next year.

The assembly was told that total membership last year climbed by 1,838 to 379,284.

The assembly voted to give $18,000 to the United Nations technical assistance program for underdeveloped areas. The gift was urged by Rev. Eoin Mackay of Saskatoon.

The reason "not one girl in all of Toronto has offered herself for service in the Presbyterian Church missionary and deaconess school here" was the high pay in city businesses and low remuneration for the school's graduates, James Dutton of Peterborough told the assembly.

Dr. Joseph Wasson said some graduates of the school were getting less than the set minimum of $1,400, a year plus $400 cost-of-living bonus.

Gallant Hogan Battles Way To US Open Lead

By WILL GRIMSLEY

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — The Texas hawk, Ben Hogan, got his claws into the 53rd United States open golf championship Thursday with a grimly-executed five-under-par 67 which pushed him into an imposing three-stroke first-round lead.

Playing with a cost of ointment and a heavy gray sweater to combat his aching back, the relentless little three-timer didn't stray from par once as he stroked around the 6,918-yard Oakmont course in 33-34.

Par is 34-36—72, and it was too much for all but six players.

Tied for second at 70 were a 38-year-old Pittsburgh amateur, Frank Souchak, and a pair of professionals — Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., and George Fazio from Clearwater, Fla.

Dapper Jimmy Demaret, the triple winners' champion who barely was beaten out by Hogan in 1946 at Santa Monica, Calif., put-ted brilliantly to post a 71, a score also matched by Bill Ogden of Glencoe, Ill.

Four players, including broken-handed Sam Snead, were able to hold old Oakmont to a draw by shooting even—par 72s.

Snead finished with three greens and went two-over on the 11th but he sank a 40-foot putt on the 17 to come home all square with par.

Tied with him were Jerry Barber of La Canada, Calif., Louis Barbero of Los Angeles, and Jay Hebert of Erie, Pa.

The Ingersoll champion, Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., was one-under-par through the 13th but went over on four of the last five holes to take a 75. Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the 1949 champion, registered 76.

Jimmy Clark, record — setting medalist from Laguna Beach, Calif., slided to 77, 11 strokes over his qualifying effort.

Glittering Lure of Television Gold Thrust Champion Into Araujo Fight

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The great unseen audience which runs the fight game behind the scenes between hasty shaves and sips of beer has come up with what should be a real good number tonight—the 15-round lightweight championship between Jimmy Carter, the debonair titleholder, and George Araujo, a fast-stepping 23-year-old from Providence, R.I.

The parlor promoters may take full credit for a fast bit of match-making, since Carter was notably unenthusiastic about taking on the unbeaten young challenger and was more or less coerced into risking his crown by the adroit use of large piles of television money. It was just like this:

In nearly two years as champion, since he had stopped worn-out Ike Williams in the 14th round May 25, 1951, Carter hadn't made much money out of the title to be even get a call from an income tax beagle. He was not stupid but he didn't have a covetable physique. And then, out of a heavily fully clear sky, he was offered something like $50,000 to fight a soft touch named Tommy Collins on a national hook-up.

Why Waste Time?

It was such a payday as to make Carter's mouth water, such a windfall as could not have been conceived in the old pre-television days. But the sitting room customers demanded it, believing as they did that Collins was but stuff and the sponsors heeded their clear call. Carter said yes in a hurry and went on a shopping spree in anticipation, but then a slight hitch set in.

Neither the National Boxing Association nor the New York state commission liked the idea of the Boston boot. They realized it was a mismatch, and felt that if anybody should be getting a shot at Carter, it was young Araujo. They said they would refuse to sanction the money unless Carter signed to meet Araujo here in his next title defence.

So Carter was mousetrapped, and that is how you happened to be the unwilling host to the act of 23 knocking Collins down 10 times on that memorable night.

Carter does not knock a man down every time he hits him. Actually, the champion is not a great one as hitters go. He is just a good, workmanlike 28 - year - old fighter who is tough to beat in the big ones.

As for Araujo, he's a fast, flashy kid with a kick in either glove, too. He has been knocked down only once in his 52 fights, and on that occasion he got up and stopped his man. In all he has won 30 fights by knockouts, 22 of them coming within the first four rounds.

Those who like Carter's chances rely somewhat on the champion's health record. He's never dropped tonight's 15 rounds. He has gone the distance four times since he defeated Ike, and, on the other hand, never has gone beyond the limit more than three times. The Carter people concede that their man's stamina is behind for about half tonight's bout, but from there on they expect him to take command. That's something for the armchair scorer to watch for.

Bobcats Pull Switch On North. Electric

In one of the more interesting games played in the Belleville and District Softball League this season, the Bobcats last night defeated their way to a 5-3 victory over Northern Electric in an hour and 13 minutes, at the Alemite Field.

The Electrics shortcircuited their own cause in the second frame as they committed four errors, which, with Bailey's single to left, a stolen base, and long fly to the outfield, accounted for four runs.

Gord Donovan's single down the right field line, an error at short on McBride's grounder, Ray Burley's sacrifice bunt, and Charley Peters' long fly to centre field scored Donovan with the Bobcats fifth run.

The Electrics picked up their first tally in the fourth on a walk to DeRushie, a stolen base, and Vic Halsey's single to left.

Don Locke went all the way round the bases on a two base error at first, and a one base error in right field to lead off the fourth for the Electrics. DeRushie scored Northern's final run in the eighth when Locke walked with the bases loaded to force him home.

Great Throw

The finest play of the night was a great throw from Bill Nolan in right field to nail Bone at the plate trying to score from second on Mulvihill's single.

The Electrics made a good double play in the eighth and ninth innings as they tightened up to loose defence.

Frank Baldwin went all the way on the hill for the winners, walking three, striking out two, and giving up seven safeties for three runs. Locklin toiled the distance for Northern, walking none, striking out one, and giving up seven scattered hits and five runs for the loss.

Shorty Miller led all batters with three singles in five trips, Mulvihill and Temple each had two for four.

Lineup:

Northern Electric: Miller, ss; H. Wardaugh, 3b; Pukanchik, lf; DeRushie, cf; Bone, c; Mulvihill, 2b; Halsey, rf; Locke, 1b; Lucielo, p.

Bobcats: Nolan, rf; E. Donovan, lf; Temple, c; G. Donovan, cf; McBride, 1b; Burley, ss; Peters, 2b; Rollins, 2b; F. Baldwin, p.

Draft Board Puts Squeeze On Grid Star

TORONTO (CP)—All-American Lowell Perry will be unable to play for the Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four during the coming football season.

The young Michigan University end, rated as the finest defensive back in U.S. college football in 1951, sent word Thursday to coach Frank Clair that he will be unable to fulfil a contract he signed with Argos in April.

He said he learned from his draft board that, if he left to play football in Canada, he would be drafted within 30 days.

London Majors Handed Setback By Oshawa 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The leading London Majors of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League had one of those nights Thursday night when things just couldn't seem to go right. They were handed a 3-1 defeat by the fifth-place Oshawa Merchants.

Buck Lawing's two-run homer in the eighth supplied the Merchants with the victory. Lawing led for Oshawa all the way. Also banging out a pair of doubles.

In the only other game of the night Waterloo Tigers blanked Kitchener Panthers 3-0 behind the eight-hit pitching of Rolly Laroche.

At London, Lawing's four-bagger broke up a tight mound duel between London starter Bill Bigat and Bud Ripplemeyer of the Merchants. Ripplemeyer was relieved by Bob Dorish in the eighth, followed by Reg Hamilton. Tommy White.

The Waterloo win, their third straight, put them into a fourth-place tie with Guelph Maple Leafs. The winning Laroche, who only came to the Tigers last week in a straight player trade with Kitchener for pitcher Bateman Jim Judson, made his first start this season and struck out 10 Kitchener batters.

Southpaw Wally Beggs started for the Panthers and kept in the running until the seventh when he was relieved by a pinch-hitter. He gave up all the Waterloo runs on six hits.

Tonight Kitchener is at Brantford; Galt at Waterloo; St. Thomas at at Guelph; and London at Oshawa.

ST. THOMAS (CP)—St. Thomas Team of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League reported Thursday that pitcher Walter Wilson has jumped the team, the second player to do so in four days.

F. Preskett, secretary-manager of the Elgins said Wilson was reported to be working to his home in Bloomfield, Pa. Late last week outfielder Wally Berger left the club to go to Quebec.

It was called at 2:05 of the second, with Mohner outclassed and groggy.

In a four-rounder, Frank O'Neal, 134½, Detroit, decisioned Ronnie MacGilvery, 141½, Niagara Falls, Ont.

May Increase Yankee Imports To Big Four

OTTAWA (CP)—An attempt may be made this week-end to increase the number of United States imports allowed to play on Big Four football teams.

The subject may be aired in Toronto Saturday at the semi-annual meeting of the interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

Some teams—their names were not known late—want to add another American for league games. There also is a move afoot to increase the number of players a team may dress.

Last season American imports were limited to eight. Since then this has been extended to nine for Montreal Alouettes who finished last in the league. The new provision, it was understood, is that the number be extended to nine for other clubs which presumably would mean that Montreal would be allowed 1.

British Bowler 'Ducks' World's Best 'Batsman'

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Alec Bedser bowled Neil Harvey rated the world's best batsman, out for a duck Thursday in the first international cricket test between Australia and England.

Bedser did a repeat performance with Graeme Hole in the game, played at Nottingham, but Lindsay Hassett and Arthur Morris dug in and by close-of-play Australia stood at 137 runs for three wickets.

Rain and light delays played hob with the Test. About 90 minutes were lost by rain, though the wicket held up well.

England is looking to Bedser to knock out some quick wickets today to save the game. Harvey claimed Bedser's ball straight half the waiting hands of Denis Compton.

Final scores in Thursday's first class cricket:

Week-End Series Should Establish Something For Major League Leaders

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

TAKE YOUR PICK!

When Jimmy Carter, the lightweight champion, downed Tom Collins ten times in their last boxing bingo (our think is three) it gave the dusky king of his class a television reputation that had the "I Love Lucy" show, Jack Benny and Milton Berle, running to their sponsors warbling "Say It Isn't So."

But Carter, who made Collins the longest cold drink ever spilled, has a different job on his hands tonight when he meets George Araujo, his challenger, in Madison Square Gardens.

And it could be that when the sound and fury is over Mr. Carter's television rating may be down to where it belongs or even a par with Kukla, Fran and Ollie.

But in fairness to Carter, who will be 30 next month, and is not, by far, the greatest lightweight the world has ever seen, he has done something Georgie has yet to do and that is to go the fifteen round route. If that has anything to do with it.

Carter's supporters would not drill a hole in three thicknesses of wet paper and he meets Araujo, a hard hitter, whose left hook is a very dangerous weapon together with the fact that he is an uncommonly skilful fighter. On the other hand, apart from Cobey Lewis, who knocked Carter out in the seventh round back in 1947 nobody has done much damage to the durable champion, although he has been beaten 15 times in points.

Before knocking off Tom Collins more times in three minutes than a toper can drink frothed nods, Carter has been decisioned by Eddie Chavez and Armand Savoie in non-title bouts.

Araujo, on the other hand, has lost only two decisions, one to Dec Stanchard in 1949 and the other to Joe Gonsalez last September. He has scored 36 knockouts in 52 professional contests and has beaten Sandy Sadler, Del Flanagan, Charley Riley, Orlando Zuleta (twice), Arthur King and Paddy De Marco, among others.

The boys that dabble in hotsox across the border figure that Araujo, being the younger and the fresher of the two, should dominate the first eight rounds or so with Carter coming on later on the route in which he is accustomed through having travelled it four times in the last year and a half.

If Araujo displays the same spirit and "go-giftemess" that have characterized some of his fights he could win the brawl, on his merits and even rub the suspicions of their pet alibi that he took to the tanks.

HOLD THOSE TEARS!

You needn't pity the poor Yankees any more. Strung out in front of the American League pack like Man O' War leading the field in a Kaintucky Derby, Ole Casey's hard luck crew, who for the past two seasons hadn't learned where their next twenty-five game winner was coming from, are now breathing easier.

The Bronx Bombers have more pride of achievement than Sitting Bull (not a member of the Cleveland Tribe.) They're even pressuring Mickey Mantle for the shortstop position, just in case. If they had any worries at all about the hurling staff, say or all, being around come World Series time, they've dispelled 'er ward has reached the Sleepy Hollow Stanspoders that on their Binghampton farm team in a chap who is the answer to a manager's prayer. And Casey hasn't had to pray very much for the past four years.

He is southpaw Steve Kraly, who during two years in the armed service pitched 28 consecutive victories. At Binghampton he has extended the streak ten more games, six of them shutouts.

And Ole Case is a firm believer in the judging abilities of the Binghampton fannery. For they picked Whitey Ford after seeing him for a year, as a topnotcher and they say Kraly is destined to be even greater.

OPS AND APS!

The Ops and Aps went at it again last night,and the Ops turned the tables on the Aps. The Ops, by the way, are Alton McLeod Ontario Provincial Police softball chasers while the Aps are "Mouse" Bush's grocery pushers from the A and P. Store.

The Ops 'opped around the bases 16 times while the Men o' Mouse, they say they had grocery wagons in front of 'em, lapped the course just twelve times. The "Mouse" had a birdie on the third base and had his pals plaged a cheaka cheeker on home plate he would have scored a hole in one.

"Mouse" trapped "Mickey Mantle" McLeod between third and the 19th. hole but the Clanman in a beautiful swan dive got his size 25 pinkies on the platter two toes ahead of the Mouse's paw.

THRILLS!

Lots of enthusiasm in stox car circles over this new clubship race bloo. Tomorrow night at Dick Burrowes' Shannonville Speedway, some dozen jalopies will enter the "thrills" and there should be lots of fun, not to mention the thrills available in the regular heats. Added attraction is a special motorbike race with at least six steel steeds vying for the honors.

TORNADOES TONIGHT!

Dick Raines and Lou Plummer, the twosome of terrible Texans, won the Canadian Open Tag Team title and have held it to date largely through their unbalanced use of rough and ragged tactics. They'll be opposed by a pair of hard-hitters tonight in the Memorial Arena when the combination Bo-Bo Brazil and Don Lee Jonathan charge at them.

While neither Brazil nor Jonathan is a rough wrestler, each one of them has so much shattering power that the Raines-Plummer outfit appears to be in for trouble. Brazil's ko-ko bumps are enough in themselves. Add the block-buster attacks of the 225-pound young giant named Jonathan and things don't look too rosy for the Texas tornadoes.

Yankees, Tribe at Cleveland While Bucs Entertain Braves; Dodgers Six Points from Top

By BEN PELLGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee Braves open the season's first six-game series tonight in Pittsburgh with a good chance of putting a little daylight between themselves and the onrushing Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League standings.

The Braves, nearing the end of a profitable road trip on which they have won 11 out of 16 games, hold a 3-0 season's edge over the seventh-place Pirates.

Only six percentage points separate Charley Grimm's men from the pesky Dodgers whose weekend opposition isn't exactly terrifying either. Brooklyn plays last-place Chicago four times. The Dodgers split a previous pair with the Cubs.

The percentage, however, should be working for the Braves. At the moment they have played two less games than Brooklyn. The Dodgers have won one more and lost one Ivy Noren settled all doubts at the more.

The big American League series starting tonight is at Cleveland where New York Yankees face the Indians in the first of four games.

The Yankees won their 14th in a row Thursday at Detroit, 6-3. Cleveland lost for the first time in eight games, 3-1, to Washington. Philadelphia edged Chicago Browns' losing streak to 10 with a 7-0 decision.

In the National League Brooklyn made it three straight over Cincinnati, 9-4. New York snapped a five-game losing streak 3-1 on three home runs. St. Louis got only four hits but beat Pittsburgh 5-3. Philadelphia and Chicago had an open date.

The high-flying Yankees now lead Cleveland by 6½ games—their greatest first-place margin in the five years Casey Stengel has managed them. Home runs by Gene Woodling, Mickey Mantle and Bobby Hofman accounted for all the Yankee runs.

Ed Lopat, who has won seven games, Rookie Frank Lary shut the Browns on five hits and fanned only one walk to rack up his sixth victory against three defeats.

game in Detroit.

Walt Masterson stopped the Indians in three singles. Ed Fitzgerald drove in the winning runs with a bases-loaded single in the seventh.

Gus Zernial of the A's, the leading home run slugger in the American League, hit a pair at Chicago, raising his total to 11. But it took a bases-empty blast by Eddie Robinson in the ninth inning to give Philadelphia the victory.

Willard Nixon of the Red Sox pitched perfect ball against the Browns until Virgil Trucks doubled with two out in the sixth. St. Louis got only three other hits, all single.

Behind 6-3 after seven innings, the Dodgers finally caught up with Red Ted Tredwell in the eighth. Brooklyn, pounding home six runs in the inning, knocked him out of him. Podbielan allowed 17 hits. The big blows in the rally were home runs by Gil Hodges, with nobody on, and Junior Gilliam, with two on.

Jim Wilson of the Braves threw three home runs at the Pole Ground—one each to Monte Irvin, Whitey Lockman and Hank Thompson. They accounted for all of the Giant scoring as the New Yorkers broke a five-game losing streak.

The Cardinals got a lot of mileage out of four hits at Pittsburgh They scored three runs on just one safety—a single by Ray Jablonski followed by four walks. The defeat was the sixth straight for knuckleballer Johnny Lindell. He's won twice.

Leafs Flutter To 3-2 Victory Over Montreal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals remain atop the Little International baseball League despite a 3-2 loss to Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night.

In other games, Syracuse Chiefs shaded Baltimore Orioles 7-6, Rochester Red Wings scored three runs in the first inning to defeat Springfield Cubs 5-2 and Buffalo Bisons turned back Ottawa Athletics 3-0.

At Toronto, the Maple Leafs broke a five-game losing streak as Jim Post went one-third of an inning short of a route game to gain his fifth win against one loss. Both runs off him were homered. catcher Ernie Yelen and third baseman Dave Noak getting the round-trippers.

At Baltimore,'s 14-bit attack by Montreal enabled the Chiefs to take the victory although three of Baltimore's runs came in the ninth when the Birds chased starter Duke Markell who rang up his seventh loss.

At Springfield, the Wings spotted the Cubs a three-run lead as Jack Sheehan, president of the Cubs.

Sheehan took over for Bruce Edwards who resigned Wednesday but is remaining as a player. Edwards batted in the ninth inning in the seventh, and singled but Nels Burbrink was thrown out at the plate trying for the tying tally. Hochexter clinched the game in the eighth with two RBI's.

At Buffalo, the Bisons made it six consecutive wins over Ottawa games, Rookie Frank Lary shut the Browns on five hits and fanned only one walk to rack up his sixth victory against three defeats.

CNE Sports Executive Finds Track-Meet Dearth in Canada; Will Sponsor Training Plan

MONTREAL (CP) —George Dubbie, Toronto, completing a cross-country swing on behalf of the new Canadian Olympic training plan, said Thursday night he found general agreement that there are not enough track meets in Canada.

Dubbie is manager of the sports department of the Canadian National Exhibition, which is sponsoring the plan. It will come into full being at the exhibition in Toronto in September, preceded by provincial meets.

Dubbie arrived in Montreal from the Maritime provinces and met with track and field officials who will look after the Quebec end of the new competition, aimed at improving Canada's showing in Olympic Games, British Empire Games and other international competitions.

Stars of Future

Dubbie said clue back in Toronto today following a three-week tour touching all provinces.

He said there was realization that school athletes of today will be Canada's Olympic performers in 1956 and development of this potential talent is one of the main objectives of the plan. It is no way prevented future establishment of a coaching school, envisioned by sports enthusiasts until it received a setback because of lack of federal government financial support.

The plan has been underwritten for four years. The CNE will make an annual allotment, augmented by donation from interested citizens and organizations.

The CNE guarantees transportation costs for up to 10 athletes and one coach from all provinces except Ontario and Quebec, who will send a greater number of competitors because of smaller transportation costs. The number for these two provinces will be determined definitely later, but each province may send more than the guaranteed-cost quota provided the expenses are looked after.

Dubbie said it is felt the competitive spirit will be enhanced if provincial bodies—whether through themselves, clubs, schools and even competitors—look after meals and accommodation costs as a matter of principle instead of having athletes merely look forward to a joy ride.

No standards are needed under the plan and it is up to each provincial group to make selections and run their own show. It was suggested that only those school athletes be sent along, for experience and development, as well as stars.

The meet is open to both men and women and there are no age classes. For the week preceding the meet, athletes and coaches will have the benefit of an instructional clinic, supervised by recognized coaches from Britain and the United States.

Dubbie said that so far representation from the provinces appears to be: British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba; Ontario and Nova Scotia; New Brunswick, 4; Prince Edward Island, 3. Although Ontario and Quebec representation will be higher, "there is no intention of moneying the other provinces under."

Dubbie said that in Newfoundland he found "the most enthusiastic group of any branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada." Interest in track and field is high and the plan warmly approved by sports leaders of Canada's newest province.

Sport in Brief

ARAUJO SLIGHT FAVORITE

NEW YORK (AP) — George Araujo, youthful, two-dancing challenger from Providence, R.I., will try to win the world lightweight title from 29-year-old Jimmy Carter, the lightweight champion champion, tonight in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden.

Normally a champion who floored a man 16 times in his last defence, as Carter did Tommy Collins at Boston April 24, would go into his next fight as a heavy favorite. That is not the case.

The betting odds, bounding back and forth for 10 days, probably will be dead even when they climb into the ring at 10 p.m. EDT. The pick here is Araujo by a slim decision.

The fight will be televised (NBC) and broadcast ABC).

In fact, the $30,000 radio-TV kitty will be more than they will draw at the door. The International Boxing Club will be happy with 9,000 and $25,000.

One reason for the lack of strong support for Carter is his spotty record, almost careless performances in non-title bouts. There was a draw with Freddie (Babe) Herman last winter and defeats by Eddie Chavez and Armand Savoie of Montreal earlier this year.

Carter has 22 knockouts among his wins in 52 fights. He has lost 15 and drawn seven.

Araujo, only 22, is faster than Carter and he can punch. His 36-2-1 record shows 30 knockouts. He never was stopped and claims he was floored only once.

His age of 22 makes him youngest champion. He has beaten Arthur King of Toronto, Paddy DeMarco, Joey Brown and Red Top Davis.

RIDERS DROP BALDWIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Alton Baldwin, 28-year-old star end with Ottawa Rough Riders the last two Big Four seasons, will be dropped from the football club this year, Jim nounced Thursday.

Baldwin, an import from Hot Tiger-Cats for the $250 waiver price, McCaffrey said. Four other imports have also been put on the waiver list.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Senators Thursday bought pitcher Tommy Byrne from Chicago White Sox for an undisclosed amount. Byrne, who was started in six games this season, has won two and lost none. He is 31 and throws and bats lefthanded.

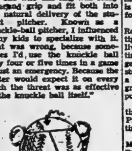
How to Play Winning Baseball

By ARTHUR MANN



PITCHING—PART III

With importance of the spin and meaning of finger-tip pressure emphasized, the various grips become "merely tools for creating the desired rotation (spin) and velocity (speed)," says my secretary, because the much stress has been placed upon holding a ball a certain way to get a desired effect. All pitching grips are meaningless to the player, unless he understands how each grip fits into his own physique and method of throwing to produce a specific spin and angle of spin.

No one can grip and throw a four ball "like Bob Feller's" unless he has a motion and delivery exactly like that used by Cleveland's immortal right-hander. That means finger grip, reach-back, stride, shoulder, arm and even wrist-action, and whip-like follow through. And no one can have all those things his physical assets are somehow like Feller's. It might help also to be born in Van Meter, Ia.

It's all right for a young pitcher to copy a successful big leaguer, but only when the young pitcher's natural delivery is somewhat like his hero's. It's unwise and harmful to throw unnaturally for any reason. That's the advice of Fred Fitzsimmons, pitching hero of the Dodgers and Giants, and now a Giant coach.

"The smart boy or teacher," Fitzsimmons once declared, "is the one who can size up every splitfinger and grip and fit both into the natural delivery of the student pitcher. Take Newsom as a knuckle-ball pitcher, I influenced many kids to specialize with it. That was wrong, because sometimes I'd use the knuckle ball only four or five times in a game —just an emergency. Because the batter would expect it on every pitch the threat was as effective as the knuckle ball itself."

Jimmy Wilson, Cubs' star throw-thrower, demonstrates.

The basic of the fast ball is back spin. To illustrate, hold the ball on the palm of the glove hand. Pull the first two fingers out of the pitching hand across the top of the ball, rolling it toward you. Fingers should be together, almost touching. Note that the ball goes off the end of the two fingers, creating the direct back-spin.

Because of this backspin and the velocity (speed) with which the ball will try to rise in its horizontal flight toward the plate, it cannot drop—the force of gravity pulls it toward the earth. However, it will struggle to rise, due to the heavy backspin, builds up as it approaches the plate. This increase becomes great enough to overcome the gravity pull for a ball; second and the spinning ball jumps or hops, relieves the force built up by the spin, and then continues on until it is caught, hit, or falls to earth from loss of momentum. That is the explanation of the so-called "hop" on a fast ball. All great overhand pitchers have or had such an "alive" fast ball, which accounts for their greatness.

However, the direct backspin —a motion at right angles to the ground like an auto wheel—produces only one type of fast ball.

"His fast ball rises . . . His fast ball sails . . . His fast ball sinks . . . His fast ball breaks out (or in) . . . His fast ball straight as a string . . ."

These are common descriptions of newly discovered phenoms in the big leagues. The outcries mean that the natural delivery of one pitcher imparts a spin with a different angle from another, or doesn't have enough spin (straight as a string). Any young pitcher who learns what type of spin his natural delivery imparts can tell what his fast ball will do. And, as Clyde King says, he should know, because he can't see it.

The break of any fast ball at the plate depends upon the angle of the back spin. If the angle is perpendicular, the ball should hop. If the angle is tilted to the right, it should sail to the right. If tilted to the left, it should sail to the left. And now, here is the most important word to all pitchers, young and old:

The angle of the spin can be tilted by either side by shifting a finger-tip backward or forward on top of the ball.

Pulling back the tip of the first finger slightly produces an angle to that side. Pushing back the tip of the second finger produces an angle to that side. Finger-tip pressure, hand position and control at the plate calls for long hours of practice, patience, courage and determination.

But it produces a Carl Erskine, a Brooklyn Dodger star, who is average size and weight—small for a pitcher—but who makes a fast ball break or rail away from either right or left-handed batter at will, or comes up by shifting his finger tips. It has made him one of the great pitchers, author of a no-hit game, and hero of a classic World Series victory.

Understanding, remembering and practicing the tilted finger spin is a new but vital factor in pitching. Once it is mastered, the student-pitcher can experiment in tilting the backspin over toward the side until he has almost a sidespin. Lower than that makes it a curve ball. At the angle of the spin dips below the line parallel with the ground, it is no longer a backspin, but a forward spin!

But it requires, as Preacher Roe explained, unceasing fingertip practice, and practice, to deliver it the same way each time. It calls for hand-and-finger-exercise, perhaps by constantly squeezing a handball or a tennis ball, or a soft ball. Any grips especially made for the purpose.

"I'm more afraid of getting tired fingers in a ball game," Preacher Roe sighed, "than a tired arm."

NHL President Defines Notice 'Of Termination'

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Thursday that before termination of the agreement between professional hockey and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association can be obtained, mutual re-negotiation of the contract, not its elimination.

The required two-year notice of termination will be given before June 30; otherwise an extra year would elapse—three years in all—before termin became final. Club owners voted at the annual meeting of the NHL Wednesday to authorize the termination notice.

"Where changes in a deal are wanted, the normal procedure would be to ask for the changes and negotiate toward that end," said Campbell. "But because of the shortage of time between now and June 30, this was the only way in which a one-year period could be had."

Asked about a statement of W. B. (Baldy) Cromwell, president of the CAHA, Campbell said he "doesn't know" and added publicly the merits of the decision which the owners made."

Cromwell was quoted as saying that without the agreement the professional clubs won't last three years.

Canadian Brigade Getting Ready For Softball, Track and Field

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Pre - rainy season sports activities are in full swing here.

Exactly in May Brig. Jean Allard, 25th brigade commander, called in his welfare and sports officers and ordered a policy of greater emphasis on sports.

Summer talks, due in July and August, meant that regular schedules could be arranged only up to June 30; otherwise an extra year would elapse—three years in all—before termin became final. Club owners voted at the annual meeting of the NHL Wednesday to authorize the termination notice.

"Where changes in a deal are wanted, the normal procedure would be to ask for the changes and negotiate toward that end," said Campbell. "But because of the shortage of time between now and June 30, this was the only way in which a one-year period could be had."

Asked about a statement of W. B. (Baldy) Cromwell, president of the CAHA, Campbell said he "doesn't know" and added publicly the merits of the decision which the owners made."

Cromwell was quoted as saying that without the agreement the professional clubs won't last three years.

Day for the Canadian Far Eastern championships. Allard is determined to celebrate Canada's national holiday in style here, and a major attraction will be the Patricia band, which will be playing to all divisional units during the day here.

Canadian teams also have been entered in a Commonwealth division sports day, scheduled for June 18.

Swimmers are getting attention, too.

The broad, swift-flowing Imjin river has been checked for both medical and safety factors, and a site chosen for a Canadian Rdo.

Armed Lifeguards

Lifeguards will be on duty throughout permitted swimming hours and units will be allocated space at which to send their swim parades.

Additionally some units have streams running through their areas. If correlation of dangerous bacteria Allard has said they may be dammed and "swimming holes" built.

One unit, the 81st Field Regiment, RCA, has a stream running through its regimental headquarters. It is being dammed and two pools created—one for swimming, another lower down for preliminary washing and cleaning.

A swimming pool, bowling alley and tennis courts, for officers only, are available in Seoul at the Commonwealth Officers' Club, for the officers of base units in that area.

Softball Schedules

Lieut. Doug Scott of Toronto, senior sports officer, divided the brigade into southern and northern softball conferences. He drew up schedules for each. He will produce two teams from the south and three from the north to compete for the brigade title.

Softball diamonds in the brigade area were increased from five to 14, and bulldozers were allocated to speed the job of levelling them. Volleyball courts, with specially trimmed camouflage nets, were increased from six to 19. One unit is even building a tennis court. Most units of any size have at least one diamond and one volleyball court and use them for intra-unit games as well as for the house-and-away scheduled league games.

Allard also authorized construction of a brigade sports centre near the rear headquarters of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Almost completed, it comprises a softball diamond, two volleyball courts, two horse-shoe pitches, a 440-yard track, suitable areas for field events, a boxing ring and an outdoor theatre.

Name Competition

The brigade is conducting a competition for a name, the winning suggestion and its nominator to be announced at the Dominion Day festivities now scheduled for the centre.

Teams from the Canadian base units in Japan are to be flown to Korea to compete on Dominion

By DON THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can the old two-a-day vaudeville come back?

"I'm afraid not," says its leading practitioner of modern times, Danny Kaye. The comic has played to sell-out audiences at New York's Palace, the London Palladium, the Curran in San Francisco and other noted theatres.

His example has stirred hopes that bigtime vaudeville might again rise to the glory which it held in the first three decades this century. Every sizeable city had at least one vaude house and sometimes more. Those days will not return, says Kaye.

"There aren't enough situations for an actor to appear 20 weeks out of the year, as in the old days," he remarked. "You can only play a vaudeville show in certain big cities.

"Besides, there aren't enough acts to go around. The only ones who have tried to do vaudeville on the old scale are myself, Judy Garland, Jack Benny and Betty Hutton. That isn't enough to keep a circuit going."

Despite his pessimistic outlook, he was enthusiastic about vaudeville for those who can do it.

"It's the greatest business in the world. It's ever' better than the old two-a-day. You don't have to do two shows a day—only matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Otherwise you only do one show a night."

His "one show" is a rigorous workout, however. Kaye stays on stage for an hour and 40 minutes of dancing, singing, telling jokes and generally cutting up.

But, as anyone who has caught his act will testify, he certainly enjoys his work.

It's not only fun, but profitable. Amazingly so, as Kaye admits.

"Take a show like 'Oklahoma!' he concluded. "It represents an investment of perhaps $250,000 to $300,000. It has a cast of perhaps 40 to 50 people and carloads of scenery and costumes. It can play a theatre in San Francisco and make only one week, which is good business.

"Then I play the same house. I carry the whole show in one small suitcase. I take along five vaudeville acts and no scenery. This show can draw $50,000 for the week."

Kaye has earned such fantastic figures wherever he plays. In his 14th and last week during his recent stand at the Palace in New York, he drew $55,000. His share of the receipts has been reported in excess of $25,000.

AT THE CAPITOL—Displaying to Robert Mitchum and Susan Hayward his initial winnings as a rodeo headliner, Arthur Kennedy is reluctant to share any part of his sudden wealth to his trainer. Unique careers are dramatized in "The Lusty Men," showing today and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program the comedy "Hurricane at Pilgrim Hill" starring Virginia Grey and David Bruce. Both hits are first Belleville showings.

AT THE McCARTHY—Romantic stars of "Salome" Rita Hayworth and Stewart Granger top a cast of thousands now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, in Columbia Pictures' new Technicolor production. Charles Laughton co-stars, as Herod.

AT THE BELLE — Romantic triangle of "Young Bess," Deborah Kerr, Stewart Granger and Jean Simmons form the romantic triangle of "Young Bess," M-G-M's spectacular Coronation Year love story, starting today at the Belle Theatre. Charles Laughton also stars in one of the year's most impressive casts. Highlights of the Coronation may be seen in the Belle newsreel.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Your natural aggressiveness could react adversely today if you aren't on guard. Yet your courage, combined with astute handling of affairs could attain much.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Our native stars on inactive list today. Laziness on your part would surely be unwise. A.M. likely brightest period; avail yourself of those precious hours.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Outlook at times complex. Be your own nature. Turn to your clever and reasoning side and you'll make much progress. Control emotions, especially in domestic affairs.

June 23 to July 23 (Cancer)—Day can prevail as much of this by fighting back hard. Assert your natural ability, tenacity.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—May advance through unexpected sources, friends long forgotten. Exercise proper manners and intelligence and you can achieve more than you think.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Accept philosophically adverse conditions, the fault of yours. Some old things still annoying. Watch expenditures most carefully.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Continue to make preparations for better days in your business, profession or personal affairs. Keep a steady pace.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—May run into difficulty handling money and personal affairs, but keep a stiff upper lip. You know the right ways; don't overforce or forget your standing.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your initial success will largely depend upon how you analyze immediate problems. Do not participate in word or deed; that could cause real damage.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Maintain a shrewd concern in all personal interests and much more can be accomplished. Follow closely issues involving property, investments.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Won't find things too easy today, especially in A.M. Mild improvement in aspects after 2 p.m. No dallying or taking things for granted. Be urged.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Stars stress a direct attitude to achieve your goals. Everyone generally is trying to make the grade; be prepared for competition keen and hard.

YOU BORN TODAY: Generally active, quick to perceive advantages. Sensitive imaginative. At times restless, impatient, and dislike to be held back because of others' slow ways. Don't waste energy, time, money and on unessentials. Use your real and attributes well, and you certainly can make a mark in life. Control hampering agencies. Birthdate: Wm. Butler Yeats, Irish author. Thos. Arnold, classic headmaster Rugby school, Eng.

FIND DEATH ACCIDENTAL

CALGARY (CP)—A verdict of accident death was returned by a coroner's jury Wednesday at an inquest into the death of Ralph Metcalfe, 37, transient worker from Windham, Ont., who died three days after being run over May 9 by an engine and a passenger train near a CPR crossing.

Sunday School Lesson:

Self-Appointed Judges

By ROY L. SMITH

The bane of good religion in every generation has been those self-appointed judges who have taken upon themselves to decide who shall, and who shall not, be entitled to the name orthodox. In every community there are those who, ignoring that scriptural advice to "judge not that ye be not judged," make it their business to drew up their own loyalty lists, and hound to earth those whom they have judged to be heretics.

Paul In Trouble

The Apostle Paul, preaching to the Gentiles, believed he was accurately reporting the message of Jesus. It is a fact that he had never seen the Prophet of Galilee, and had never heard Him speak. But he had inquired diligently of those who had, and he had satisfied himself that his sermons to the Gentiles were such as Jesus would have approved.

Moreover, there were those living who had known Jesus intimately, who had traveled with Him, talked with Him, and who had heard Him preach. As far as it was humanly possible to understand the great profundities of which He talked, these intimate friends were qualified to speak. Paul had checked with them, and they were agreed that the apostle was on the right track.

Moreover—and this was of the utmost importance—Paul had undergone a very great transforming experience. On the basis of that he was convinced that any Gentile, putting on His faith as Paul had, would come through to a thrilling experience.

And for all that a little group of self-appointed judges were leading war on the veteran missionary.

Imposing Our Consciences

The world is full of well-meaning individuals who insist upon saying, "Let my conscience be your guide."

They find it impossible to believe that any man can come to a satisfactory answer of religious problems and questions, unless he accepts their answers. In the fallacious belief that all of life can be crowded down into a single mold, they demand that all other men fit into theirs.

Goes to Supreme Court

Determined to shake himself free from this kind of carping criticism for all time, and also determined to save the Christian movement from the tyranny of the self-appointed judges of orthodoxy, Paul carried his case to the supreme court of the church. He went directly to the Council of the church in Jerusalem, and told his case before them completely and unafraid.

In doing so, he did two very adroit and effective things. He took with him a "sample" Gentile Christian in the person of a young man named Titus. In the second place, he met privately with such members of the original band of disciples as could be brought together. Their approval having been won, he was ready to face any council the church might assemble.

Sample Christian

Let's forget, for the moment, the difficult position into which the young man Titus was thrust, and his embarrassment. He must have suffered from being asked to serve as Exhibit A. It is enough to say that after they had examined him, the whole Gentile movement was accredited.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for June 14: "Paul to a satisfactory answer of religious problems and questions, unless he accepts their answers. In the fallacious belief that all of life can be crowded down into a single mold, they demand that all other men fit into theirs. Goes to Supreme Court" is based on Acts 15: 1-29; Galatians 1—2.

One young man's life vindicated the entire missionary movement among the Gentiles. That, in the last analysis, is the test of any religion. What kind of people does it produce? This world will never be taken captive by theology, but if any religion can produce a Schweitzer, or a Kagawa, it will bear investigation.

STIRLING

STIRLING — In the presence of pupils, teachers, members of the school board and clergy, an impressive ceremony to mark the formation of the Queen Elizabeth II. was held in the public school auditorium last Friday morning.

A flag-draped altar bearing candles and bouquets of seasonal flowers and the presence of a color party, representing the Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies, added to the impressiveness of the occasion. Members of the color party were Barry Gerrow, Fred Palmer, Joan and Patsy Fraser.

Principal R. Stewart, led in the pledge allegiance to the flag, Queen and Country, after which H. A. Patterson led in the singing of "O Canada," with Mrs. C. Rodgers at the piano.

Devotional exercises were in charge of Rev. R. C. Secker, rector of St. John's, after which the Coronation choir rendered a selection.

Introduced by R. A. Patterson, reeve R. K. West gave a brief, but most appropriate address on "The Significance of the Coronation."

The presentation of the Coronation medals to the pupils was made by Reeve West and R. A. Patterson, chairman of the school board.

Principal Stewart led in the Oath of Allegiance.

FLINT TOLL 113

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The death toll in the tornado that devastated the northern outskirts of Flint Monday night stood at 113 today. Of the 700 persons injured in the storm, 36 still are on the critical list in hospital.

Education Helps One Aspect Of Traffic Problem

KINGSTON (CP) — Teaching some motorists how to drive safely has reduced automobile accidents by 50 per cent, C. W. Gilchrist of Ottawa, managing director of the Canadian Good Roads Association, said Thursday.

Addressing a meeting of the Ontario traffic conference, he said how education helped one aspect of the traffic problem. It was logical to expect education to be of benefit in other ways.

Privately - operated driving schools may be found in most large Canadian cities. A few communities, including Kitchener, give driving courses in the secondary schools.

Top Ukrainian Red Ousted From Post For 'Russification'

See Shift in Soviet Policy As Favoring Non-Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press disclosed today that the top man in the Ukrainian Communist party has been dismissed from his post. He is Leonid Melnikov, first secretary of the Ukrainian organization since 1949 and an alternate member of the Soviet Communist party's presidium.

Melnikov's ouster was announced in a communique on a meeting of the Ukrainian party's central committee in Kiev. It said the committee had named A. L. Kildichenko, formerly second secretary, to succeed Melnikov.

The communique said the ousted chief was charged with failing to provide leadership, with mistakes in selection of personnel and errors in carrying out the party's policy toward non-Russian nationalities.

It said big mistakes in the republic's collective farm policy had been discovered. But the root of Melnikov's trouble appeared to be the nationality question.

Nationality Issues

He was accused of a policy of Russification, particularly in the western districts of the Ukraine, and with suppressing the Ukrainian language in higher schools in these districts. Under his leadership, it was charged, persons from other regions of the republic were appointed to leading posts in the western areas.

Soviet newspaper editorials have been stressing the friendship of the various nationalities within the Soviet Union. The trend appears to be in the direction of Kremlin efforts to minimize any persons guilty of carrying out policies which might undermine this friendship.

The communique also made clear that Alexander Korotchkov, a well-known Ukrainian writer, has been stripped of considerable authority in the republic's government and party. It said that Korotchkov, identified as first deputy premier of the Ukraine, had been elected to the bureau of the party's central committee.

The ouster of Melnikov may indicate a shift in Moscow's policy toward the Ukraine and minority peoples in the Soviet Union.

There have been recent reports of unrest in the Ukraine, the size of a strong separtist movement since the Nazi occupation of the Ukrainians collaborated with the Germans during the Second World War.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Mass may be served in the afternoon and evening instead of the hour according to a decree of the Vatican's supreme tribunal, the Holy Office, published today in L'Osservatore Romano. Permission for such service must be obtained from the bishop in the ship's home port.

Drew, Coldwell Critical of Govt's Election Date

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, Friday criticized the government for calling an election Aug. 10.

Both leaders said that harvesting and vacationing will make it difficult for many Canadians to vote or give proper study to the election issues.

Mr. Drew said the government chose "the very worst date in the whole year," adding that with "millions of the nation in blankets," and announced he will open his campaign in Guelph, next Friday night, June 19.

Mr. Coldwell said the election results may not be as representative of the will of the people as they should be, but that, were it not for the inconvenience of the date to many Canadians, the CCF would welcome an election at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Drew's statement said:

"One date will suit the candidates of our party as well as another. . . . That does not dispose of the fact, however, that for Canadian voters generally, the government has chosen the very worst date in the whole year.

Farmers Too Busy

"July and August . . . are the warm, growing months when the farmers are busier than at any other time in the whole year. They are months of great heat when those living in cities and towns are urged by the government itself to go to the lakes, the oceans, the rivers and the great countryside for needed health and recreation.

"This date will make it extremely difficult for many people to vote. . . .

"Having trusted parliament with continuity, their Canadian citizens now treat the people with even greater contempt, by having hidden the truth from Parliament, they now seek to hide the truth from the people."

Mr. Coldwell's statement said:

"The calling of the general election on Aug. 10 will disfranchise many thousands of Canadians.

"In the big industrial centres, I understand, many plants will be closed during the first two or three weeks in August to give employees an opportunity for relaxation at various holiday spots. Teachers and others will be on vacation at distant points. They will not be able to return to vote.

"Then, too, a great deal of farmers will be harvesting hay, fruit and other early crops."

CHINESE REDS AGAIN ASSAULT CENTRAL FRONT

Attack Dozen Points Along 50-Mile Line

SEOUL (AP)—More than 5,000 Chinese Reds attacked at a dozen points along a 50-mile front in central Korea today, but Allied troops from main-line positions in one sector.

United States and South Korean infantry battled hand-to-hand with Reds who stormed into United Nations trenches and buried back in bitter fighting.

But AP correspondent Milo Farneti reported today, in front that one sector of the main Allied line was hastily shifted southward after the Communist Wednesday offensive.

Farneti said Allied tanks, flame throwers and artillery mowed hundreds of the charging Reds, but the momentum of the attack carried some Communist troops into Allied trenches.

Third Day of Drive

This was the third straight day of heavy pre-armistice attacks by the Reds. The latest assaults centered on 12th Nation Chorwon, the former Red stronghold called "Iron Triangle."

The day's biggest Red blow was hurled at U. S. 3rd Division troops who have beaten back two days of attacks against Outpost Harry, 19 miles northeast of Chorwon.

A full regiment—about 3,000 men—slammed into Outpost today, but withering fire from the U. S. forces stopped the assault cold, the 8th army said.

The army estimated that more than 7,000 Chinese were killed or wounded in attacks on Outpost Harry Thursday and Friday.

Farneti reported that savagely fought battles also erupted on northern slopes of Outpost Harry at one time during the pre-dawn struggle. The Chinese Reds stormed into American trenches.

But the Yanks swarmed rearred to the side of South Korean soldiers battling the Reds on the east-central front. The bombers used their load to unload high explosives on the Communists.

Northwest of Kumhwa, about 1,000 Chinese hit South Korean fortifications about midnight.

The South Koreans mounted a counter-attack and drove Reds about three hours later. The vicious fighting continued until dawn but last report was received before 5 a. m.

Savage fighting also raged near the Punchbowl where Chinese attackers grabbed an Allied outpost.

LOSS $2,000,000

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—State and city officials estimated the property loss in Tuesday's tornado-spawned twister at the $58,000,000 today as the known death toll rose to 96. The latest death was that of an infant born prematurely at the twister's height.

Violent Anti-Armistice Demonstrations Continue

BY ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL (AP)—Violent anti-armistice demonstrations surged through devastated South Korea today and a senior government official told the Allies they could pull out of the Korean war if they wish.

South Korean opposition hit a furious pitch in these rapid-fire developments:

1. The Republic of Korea defence ministry cancelled all military leaves "in view of the grave emergency" and ordered all service personnel to their bases.

2. President Syngman Rhee rejected his Nation's opposition to an armistice—which may come within a few days—to uphold the principles of self-determination." At the same time, however, he called for "utmost efforts to prevent injustices from being inflicted on our allies."

2. President Syngman Rhee reached South Korea for the fifth straight day.

Whittle at Details

Meanwhile, at Panmunjom, two sides of Allied and Communist staff officers whittled at remaining details in the armistice terms.

Observers indicated full truce agreement could be reached tomorrow or Monday and a truce could follow shortly, barring unexpected developments.

Acting Prime Minister Pyun Yung Tai, the senior civilian spokesman for South Korean leader in the anti-truce campaign, declared in a statement:

"Foreign forces can . . . If they wish, withdraw from Korea immediately and disengage themselves from Korean affairs.

"We Koreans cannot disengage ourselves from Korea."

South Korea, Pyun said, "cannot and does not accept" the impending truce.

Flynn said of Allied forces:

"We let them go without any grudge against them, rather with thanks for what they have done as the fact of the matter is we let them have an armistice we ourselves cannot accept. It is only fair that they should not force it upon us.

"If we part at all, let us part friends."

Pyun warned South Koreans against violence. He cautioned that ships either in action or in speech might lead to serious consequences in this time of crisis and tension."

Chant Slogans

In Seoul, 14 different groups totalling more than 10,000, smoke-throwing through the streets chanting slogans and distributing leaflets.

In the southeastern port city of Pusan, an estimated 10,000 Koreans — many of them students — mobbed main thoroughfares.

An authoritative source at Pusan said anti-Communist North Korean prisoners in Allied camps have been demonstrating the last week at the urging of fellow prisoners. He said the demonstrations were orderly and followed along the line of the South Korean government's anti-armistice line.

President Eisenhower said in a letter to Prime Minister Nehru of India that he earnestly hopes the prisoner agreement "will speedily lead to an armistice and thus to peace in Korea and to a relaxing of world tensions."

Eisteaser Congratulated

Eisenhower made the statement in a Nehru congratulating him on his "wise and generous" part in bringing about the prisoner exchange agreement which wiped out the last major barrier to a truce.

Nehru is the chairman of the five-country repatriation commission which supervised the machinery to return home after an armistice is signed.

Nehru named Sven Grafstrom, the country's former UN delegate and now ambassador to Mexico, as its chief representative on the four-country commission.

It also ordered the defence staff to organize a 50-man delegation to serve on the prisoner repatriation commission.

Russians Blame Themselves For Errors in East Germany

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians did the unprecedented today and blamed themselves for "errors" in overwhelming East Germany.

The Red army's official newspaper Tsegliche Rundschau said editorially that the former Soviet control commission, now replaced by civilian rule, "must also share blame for failures."

Until now, East German Communists have been forced to do all the breast beating in the Moscow drive to win the West with its peaceful intentions.

The self-criticism by the Russians was not explained in detail. It had the odd, peculiar however of implying that High Commissar Vladimir Semyenov, directing the peace drive, was fooling himself, what Vladimir Semyenov, ex-political adviser, did in the past. Before he took the top job, he said only two weeks ago, Semyenov functioned for seven years in the hard-spring of policy behind the Soviet occupation.

West Berlin heard, meanwhile, that the Soviet zone's frantic efforts to overcome anti-Soviet demand German unity had spread to the "People's Army" and also had taken the form of purges of the party ranks.

German sources reported that the 125,000-man army had been ordered to disband three equipped four of its divisions, about 40,000 men. All officers are to be retained, they said.

Socialist circles were informed also that a Communist cadre had cracked down on upwards of a hundred party officials singled out to take the blame for being too enthusiastic about collective farming and other unpopular measures which East Berlin now says are being abandoned. Neither Russian nor 14 leaders of the collective farm system have been arrested in the last two days, along with other government employees.

As the Red bosses swung their "get together with the West" campaign into high gear, workmen in East Berlin tore down signs and posters that once proudly proclaimed the building of socialism." Everything, Communist once came under this heading.

OTTAWA GIRL, 18, TELLS COURT ABOUT SLAYING

Found Her Boy Friend With Knife in Hand

L'ORIGNAL, Ont. (CP)—A 23-year-old Ottawa man Friday was committed for trial for murder in connection with the slaying last month of Anthony Lalande, 33, a trucker of nearby Bourget.

Anthony George Lebale, who, police said, walked into headquarters in Ottawa May 16 and told police he had killed Lalande, committed for trial at the October assizes.

An 18-year-old Ottawa girl who termed Lebale her "boy friend" told the preliminary hearing she saw Lebale standing near Lalande's body as she entered the room at 5:15 a. m. May 8 and had rushed into Lalande's room and found Lebale standing near the bed with a knife in his hand.

Took Money

She had taken money from his hand and put it in her pocket.

"Then . . . I looked at the man on the bed and his eyes seemed to be looking at me. He was covered with blood and there was blood all over the bed and on the walls."

Miss Capello was asked what happened as she entered the room.

She shrugged her shoulders, glanced at Lebale and said she tried to stop him but it was too late. The damage was done.

She said that she and Lebale had been friendly for two years. The two had gone to Lake St. John as Ottawa restaurant in April and had agreed to live with him at his home at Bourget. An arrangement was made whereby Lebale would work in the fields and give Lalande $15 monthly for room and board.

She said Lebale and Lalande went away in Lalande's truck on the weekend of May 8 to pick up scrap metal. They had returned at 9:30 p. m. and the three drank for half an hour until she and Lebale went up to the bedroom they shared together. Later she had been awakened by the scream.

Fled to Ottawa

Miss Capello told this story on cross-examination by May 8:

Lebale changed his blood-stained clothing for clean ones from Lalande's cupboard. Then the two drove to Lalande's truck 25 miles away where Lebale removed a shotgun, sleeping under bridges and arrived Monday at May 11 when they saw a newspaper report of a slaying.

The two then went to confession at Ottawa's Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

Then "we talked for a while, and he asked me to go home because he was going to give himself up. He left me and I went to my home."

Police said May 16 Lebale told them he killed Lalande. They quoted him as saying "we had an argument and I stuck a knife into him."

Ladies Will Have Last Word, To Run Rebel for Dog-Catcher

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The ladies of 63rd street north struck back at their husbands' complaints and contrasted demands of their own Friday.

The husbands led by J. L. Caldwell, 63-year-old railroad conductor, signed a petition charging they wanted better terms at home.

Their plaint added up to less lawn mowing and more fishing.

Mrs. Caldwell said the wives were asking their husbands to be nicer around the house. "We ladies would have the last word, though.

"We're going to run Mr. Caldwell for dog catcher," she asserted grimly.

Start Right Away To Seek Support At Polls on Aug. 10

Coldwell Speaks on Monday, Drew June 19, PM June 22

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal general election campaign officially opens Aug. 10. The campaigning starts right away.

Cabinet set the date Friday, confirming advance speculation on the first August voting day since Confederation. Most party leaders at once announced plans for a fast start on vote-collecting tours of the country. Nomination day will be July 27 in 244 of the 265 seats; July 13 in 21 remote areas.

Prime Minister St. Laurent whose cabinet brought about dissolution of the 21st Parliament Monday, will go to the hustings with his keynote speech June 23 at Windsor, Ont.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, announced he will open in his home town of Guelph, Ont., June 19.

Getting the jump on the chiefs of both the major parties, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, headed west by train Friday night to launch his campaign Monday in the Saskatchewan riding of Maple Creek.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, has been campaigning provincially—and successfully—in British Columbia and is expected to open up in the West shortly.

Two Cabinet Changes

In announcing the election date at a press conference Friday after a long cabinet meeting, Mr. St. Laurent made known two provincially-forecast changes in his cabinet and seven appointments to the Senate.

The grey-haired head of the government, 71, also said he expects to stay in office for "quite some time" after the election.

This was an evident reply to some reports that Mr. St. Laurent is expected to go along with Finance Minister Abbott's last budget tax changes.

The prime minister, speaking to about 40 members of the parliamentary press gallery at a reception, said he expects to stay in office for the long cabinet meeting, announced these changes in his ministry:

Leaves Politics With Feelings Of Sorrow, Regret

OTTAWA (CP) — Alphonse Fournier, 60-year-old cabinet minister who handled millions of dollars in government contracts, says he leave a lifetime of politics with feelings of "sorrow and regret."

"I am most sorry," he said in an interview Friday. "But it has been a long stretch and I do not feel so young. It was time to go."

That was the mood in which the amiable and dapper public works minister, who has spent 27 of his 60 years in the political arena, tendered his resignation and accepted the appointment of a $16,000-a-year Exchequer Court judgeship. The cabinet minister he got $18,000.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told a press conference that a new works minister will not be appointed before the election. Immigration Minister Harris will also be responsible for the works portfolio.

Mr. Fournier, an American-born, Hull, Que., lawyer, was a popular figure in parliament Hill. In addition to his duties as works minister, he also was latterly given appointments to the Senate.

Holdup Believed Staged by Two Teen-age Girls

GALT (CP)—Mrs. Wilhelmina Mallison of nearby Preston was held up Friday at knife-point by two teen-aged girls who claim to have escaped Thursday night from Mercer reformatory for girls in Toronto.

The girls forced their way into Mrs. Mallison's home, threatened her with a butcher knife, and proceeded to make themselves comfortable. But when they saw a car in the driveway were before escaping.

Four girls escaped from the Toronto reformatory and police said they believed two of them, Mary Hickey and Shirley Rose, were among those from the estate world of Long Island to the simple realm of east 12th street.

There, in the neighborhood Thursday the 23-year-old bridegroom had grown up while his father ran a grocery store. Friday morning he entered the Roman Catholic Church of Mary Help of Christians—with her were Whitney, who has adopted her, and her mother, the former Betsy Cushing. Mrs. Whitney was divorced from the bride's father, James Roosevelt, a son of the late president. Neither Roosevelt, who is in California, nor Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the president's widow and Miss Roosevelt's grandmother, were present. Mrs. Franklin died in April, 1952.

Moments before the arrival of the couple and their guests there had been the influx of the guests—from the bride's world uptown, from the bridegroom's world downtown, and from the music world that spans both worlds.

Roars of jubilation echoed in the canyon-like streets, with some of the guests virtually wafted up from tenement windows, fire escapes and roof tops. Tears paper fluttered to the pavement.

Inside the small-church the two, who had met about a year ago while they were students were married in virtually solitude.

The couple said their vows before the altar rail, rather than at the altar, since the bride is not a Roman Catholic.

Granddaughter of Roosevelt Weds Son of Italian Immigrant

NEW YORK (AP)—For a granddaughter of the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt, the pianist son of an immigrant Italian barber it was the biggest day of their lives.

It was the day that they—Sara Delano Roosevelt and Anthony di Bonaventura—became man and wife.

But for the humble east side Manhattan neighborhood their marriage Friday had the glitter of the promise, and the hope of which dreams are made.

Train Demolishes Tractor Trailer, Load of Autos

Edward J. Wall, of Verdun, Quebec, driver of a loaded auto transport, escaped unhurt yesterday afternoon when a fast passenger train demolished his tractor trailer unit, smashed its load of five new autos.

The accident occurred at the C.N.R. crossing on the old Belleville Road just west of Napanee. The train struck just back of the cab, ripped the tractor and trailer apart and scattered the load of new autos down the track.

Wall, who said his birthday was June 13th, and that he was married on June 14, said it must be his lucky day. He was assisted out of the twisted cab of his truck.

A work train, said to have been summoned from the crossing, was believed have been partially responsible for the accident. Wall said he failed to see the flyer until it was too late.

Has Hiccoughed for Five Years But Retains His Will to Live

By GRAHAM BERRY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Five years of hiccoughing at the rate of at least once a second have robbed Jack O'Leary of his vitality but not of his will to live.

The emaciated former market manager can even muster a wan grin as he quips, "if I ever woke up without hiccoughing something was wrong with me."

It was June 5, 1948—five years ago today—that Jack, now 37, began what undoubtedly is the longest siege of hiccoughs on record. Shortly before, his appendix had ruptured and he wasn't expected to live. From time to time since, as his weight dropped from 138 to a mere 77 pounds, many persons believed his days were numbered.

But not his mother, Mrs. Margaret O'Leary remains steadfast in her faith that "somehow, somewhere, some day he will recover."

The doctor says I shouldn't build my hopes too high," she says. But I build them real high."

Keeps Praying

As the spasms continue like hammer blows on his nervous system, Jack says, "I keep praying." The young man, who before the becoming ill had planned to become a Roman Catholic priest, attends 6 a.m. mass every Sunday.

"Prayer has done a great deal for him," says Mrs. O'Leary.

In the last few months Jack has improved slightly. Although his chest and neck muscles still ache from the monotonous, jarring spasms, he has gained a pound. He weighs 78.

He is able to retain food for an hour, instead of only 20 minutes. He still can't keep food down, but his diet has expanded to include beets, ground beef, chicken, turkey and hot tea.

For a long time, he could only eat peas, carrots, warm water and toast.

He doesn't know how to feel himself.

More than 200 doctors have used medicines, electricity and even hypnotism on Jack without results.

Unable to sleep longer than an hour, he spends much of his time reading.

All Pilots Except One Complete 1,150-Mile Race

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—All the pilots who started the 1,150-mile all-women's international air race—except one who crash-landed in South Carolina—have reached the goal here.

Seventeen completed the flight to Welland, Ont.

Catherine Benner, Phillipsburg, N.J., smashed up her Piper Pacer at Kingstree, S.C., when she hit a ditch upon landing to escape a storm. She was not hurt.

Four others were forced down Friday by a thunderstorm near Lake City, S.C., but were able to take off again when the weather cleared.

The last plane to reach New Smyrna Beach, at 7:20 p.m. EDT Friday, was an Ercoupe flown by Ada R. Mitchell, Falls Church, Va. Winner of the race which began at 7 a.m., Thursday is to be determined today on the basis of speed, equipment of the planes and actual flying time. Stopover time does not count.

The winner will receive $6000 of the $12,000 prize and the Edith Isbenbacker Trophy. The race was sponsored by the 99 organization of American and Canadian women fliers.

The Canadians were Beverly Beitty of St. Catharines and her co-pilot, Jean Ann Hutchinson, Welford, Ont., Phyllis Noble of Guelph, and Mary Co-pilot, Betty Smithan of London, Ont.

Freak Electrical, Hail Storms Cut Power in Area

LONDON, Ont., (CP)—Freak hail and electrical storms struck a sig-zag path through Western Ontario Friday night, disrupting hydro services in some centres, while other communities enjoyed uninterrupted sunshine.

Hail as large as bird's eggs rounding the main street area of Newstadt for 15 minutes, ruining many flower gardens and stripping trees of their leaves. The hail was piled up in places between 18 and 24 inches deep.

Six transformers were struck by lightning in Paris, cutting power in some sections between two and three hours. Lightning ignited the Wallaceburg high tension station, blowing fuses and throwing out circuit breakers.

Wallaceburg also was blacked by while hydro users in Southern and Chatham township were in darkness for three hours.

Steel Workers In United States Get Wage Boost

PITTSBURGH (AP)—More than 250,000 employees of U. S. Steel Corp. and four other big steel companies will receive making 8½ cents more an hour today.

Within a short time it is expected all but about 12 Unified steel workers members in basic steel will have similarly fattened pay envelopes.

Big steel, pace setter of the industry, granted the increase Friday in matter-of-fact fashion.

There was no fanfare. The increase was made effective at once. The employees of U. S. Steel and the four other companies had been promised the $8.96 to $2.16 an hour.

Within hours after U. S. Steel had signed the pact affecting 170,- 000 of its employees, the others fell into line.

Bethlehem Steel Corp., second biggest producer, announced the raise for its 80,000 workers. Then came Republic Steel which has about 45,000 USW members. Youngstown Sheet and Tube, 39,- 000, and Jones and Laughlin, about 40,000, followed suit.

The quick settlement came well in advance of the day when USW members could start laying down their tools in a walk out July 1 if their demands were not met.

Most observers believe the basic price of steel will rise about $3.50 to $4 a ton. No longer bound by government controls, steel producers can increase prices at will.

The contract with U. S. Steel also calls for elimination by July, 1954, of a five-cent hourly pay differential between the company's higher paid workers in northern states and those in the south. Next Jan. 1 the differential will be cut by 2½ cents and July 1, 1954, the remaining 2½ cents will be eliminated.

Of the four other firms which signed with the USW, only Republic has southern operations and will be affected by the differential agreement. Those estimated it has some 50,000 members in the south, centered in Birmingham and Gadsden, Ala., area.

FAILED TO SEE CAR SLOW DOWN

That it never pays to take your eyes off the car in front even for a fleeting second, was learned Friday night by Thomas Hill of Shannonville who will have a $300 repair bill to pay following a rear end collision on Dundas street, East.

Hill was following a car driven by Maurice Brant, also of Shannonville, when Brant was forced to slow down because of a truck which was making a turn into a driveway. Hill failed to notice the car slowing down and the two entire front end of his car was caved in.

From Clay to Royal Crown Derby

By Lavonia Stockelbach

One marvels that clay dug from the earth's surface could eventually become such an exquisite thing as a choice piece of porcelain, but the brain of man seems capable of achieving everything from a swift flying "Comet" to a dainty tea-cup.

Originally mixed with a little water the clay was beaten with the hands or feet. From a handful of this, clumsy vases were scooped out and shaped by hand, and then set aside to dry in the sun. Later a heavy stone disk was pivoted in a central point and the clay molded into shape.

There was a long way to travel from drying in the sun to the modern device of drying in a kiln, from the primitive method to the modern factory industry. But the factory, with its mixture of handwork and efficient machinery is making it more and more possible for beautiful china dishes to be made economically and so into the homes of people in quite moderate circumstances.

Until the time when Canadian clays can be utilized and boys and girls trained in the numerous techniques, we must continue, and are glad to continue to import. We have the advantage of the experience of all those who have gone before.

* * *

The history of the development of the craft is full of romance. Coming to fairly modern times we find that the Mohammedans, along with the introduction of their religion into Europe and North Africa, long held in fury of their desire to convert all others, religious to their faith, also brought potters who by their superior artistry taught how to beautify ordinary ware, bella artifacts of luxury.

A few centuries after the arrival of the Mohammedans, the Chinese influence began to be felt in Europe and greatly influenced the further development of the making of porcelain.

It was my good fortune during a month's stay in Derby, to visit the factory of the Royal Crown Derby china and spend a few hours of observation, asking questions and being answered, in all the compartments, from the first churning of the clay to remove its air bubbles, to the final dish or ordinary use and the supreme article of luxury.

The factory, right in the town, the present one having been built in 1877, though one cannot help but be interested in the forty different processes of the manufacture, to me the most impressive of all, was the fine type of people, men and women, boys and girls employed. They were more than usually good-looking, with the lovely English hair that would enhance the looks of anyone, clean and happy at their work in the way to and from work, neatly and attractively dressed.

Most of them had end their seven years' apprenticeship, though when some of the work becomes more specialized, each person is required to have had training to do his special work, in some cases requiring only six or seven months, a forewoman told me. But this specialization must lead to monotony whereas the full seven years of training gives one the ability to turn the hand to any branch of the work.

As one watched the workman skilfully and deftly doing his chore, one realized the need for all those years of training. The placing of the prepared clay over the mould, in this case, it was to become a beautiful vase plate, by getting it into even-ness with the help, of course, of a mechanical wheel, turning the plate around on the form.

Superfluous pieces were trimmed off and these were later collected, softened, and used again. The lifting of the finished plate to reveal a design that after firing and decorating would eventually grace some woman's table — all this made one hope and almost pray —that the soup served would be worthy of the dish.

One can be amazed at the symmetry with which the first receptacles were modelled by hand without the aid of the potter's wheel or of any measuring implements. It is to have been amazing to see the deftness of which human fingers are capable, as one potter's hand, with a certain movement to perfect each plate, each cup, every piece used in the serving of food.

Before going to the department where the designs were painted there was a visit to the kilns, where all the ware is fired for fifty-six hours at a temperature of 1200 degrees centigrade. Afterwards there is another firing of twenty-four hours for the first glazing. As we were taught at school, the difference between Centigrade and Fahrenheit measures of temperature one remembers because the first of this temperature as measured in Centigrade is 100 degrees, but that in Fahrenheit the difference between freezing at 32 degrees and boiling at 212 degrees is 180, whereas in Centigrade freezing is at 0 degrees and boiling at 100 degrees and so is much less difficult to remember.

Watching the men carrying the boxes containing the china on their heads as they walked down the aisles to the kiln made one shiver as one remembered that for only a moment as their case made one think of the risk that comes with long practice. It is a graceful and easy way to carry burdens.

Inside the kiln which had had the fire carefully spread out and tested the shiny black enamel of a three-foot, pointed up to the hole at the top, to the man climbing a ladder with a large bowlful of the glaze which is now to be placed on top of the many other boxes.

Some were opened to show me how glazing was piled on top of each other, how they were protected by an intervening oxide powder, and other boxes filled with tea pots and other bulky articles. Allowance had to be made for shrinkage as each article was placed carefully in order. At that one could not but marvel as one recalled a workman putting in the base of a handle, for all handles had to be fastened on after the part had been oxidized. One realized more and more the need for those seven years' apprenticeship.

In answer to a question one learned that the aluminum oxide came from Ireland, but I foolishly forgot to ask where the very good gold came from when I was informed that pure gold and not liquid gold was used to decorate the Royal Crown Derby. It sounded very important and later when one learned that quantities of liquid gold were exported to Japan and recalled one's own wedding ring, the Japanese gift were off, one realized the importance of the difference.

It was pleasant, as the month in Derby had been unusually cool, to stand in front of another cooling-off kiln and get thoroughly warmed.

We have often heard of bone china, a kind that has been brought to perfection in England, and it was interesting to hear that it was so named because the Cornish clay which is principally used is mixed with the powdered ash bones that come from the great cattle raising country of Argentina. Probably other bones could be used but the ash bones sound easiest to handle.

We found ourselves, a newsman and I, on our way to the artists' department for it was the kinds of decoration rather than technical details that interested most to me. The applying of some of the commonest designs as they were produced on rice paper and then pressed firmly to the plate was done with the greatest precision, no break in a line allowed. Deft use of the magnifying glass. Even this seemingly mechanical process required a trained skill but it was the actual hand-painting that appealed most to me.

One large room with many long tables, each with a girl worked in comfort under good lighting that was truly enchanting. All of those at whose work table one stopped seemed as pleased and interested to show and explain the mixing of the paints, the handling of the brushes, as I was to learn. No one was disturbed at being watched or watched as they painted a rose petal, a tiny forget-me-not bud, or any of the other flowers in the sprays or sets.

One had a great yearning to have some of our especially Canadian flowers used. What beautiful vases could be decorated with a pitcher plant, jack-in-the-pulpit or trillium. Beautiful compositions of them could be developed into designs suitable for china.

The design for the set presented by the Canadian people to the Queen was truly lovely. A wide gold border and band was developed. Her letter of thanks was a model of homey womanliness that must have appealed to every woman who takes joy in the beauty of serving good meals on worthy china.

* * *

There are many designs of interest that we do not associate with this name and so it was exciting to see the articles laid out in the room where they were being packed to send to London for the Coronation, and also to be also to admire the beautifully designed boxes for packing.

The letter all-purpose of early association—is the design that introduced Royal Crown Derby. Others one mentions Royal Crown Derby that with a background of gold, the centre of white with background and what design's the centre. Then some lights looks deep blue, the interesting return appeared and the perfection of the gold.

It is from these coffee-cups down here in Southern Rhodesia, Africa, (Ed. Note: where the author now resides), I drink my black coffee made in the Old Dutch fashion and served by the very black butler in his very white uniform with the red sash of honor over the right shoulder and tied on the left hip, the tassels ends adding to the decorative charm.

(Next Saturday, Mrs. Stockelbach writes of the flight she made to South Africa by a Canberra jet airliner.)

Stories of Famous Hymns

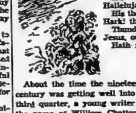
By HORACE B. POWELL

Hallelujah! Sing To Jesus!

Hallelujah! sing to Jesus!
His the scepter, His the throne;
Hallelujah! His the triumph,
His the victory alone;
Hark! the songs of peaceful Zion
Thunder like a mighty flood;
Jesus out of every nation
Hath redeemed us by His blood.

Hallelujah! not as orphans
Are we left in sorrow now;
Hallelujah! He is nigh us,
Faith believes, nor questions how.
Though the cloud from sight received Him
When the forty days were o'er,
Shall our heart forget His promise,
"I am with you evermore?"

Hallelujah! Bread of heaven,
Thou on earth our Food, our Stay!
Hallelujah! Here the sinful
Flee to Thee from day to day;
Intercessor, Friend of sinners,
Earth's Redeemer, plead for use,
Where the songs of all the sinless
Sweep across the crystal sea.



Hallelujah! sing to Jesus!
His the scepter, His the throne;
Hallelujah! His the triumph,
His the victory alone.
Hark! the songs of peaceful Zion
Thunder like a mighty flood;
Jesus, out of every nation,
Hath redeemed us by His blood.

About the time the nineteenth century was getting well into its third quarter, a young writer by the name of William Chatterton Dix was turning out some brilliant poems and bright hymns in England.

The songs which Dix wrote were good enough and popular enough to find place in many of the best English hymnals of his own day, and many of them are still in wide use in churches of England and America. "Hallelujah! Sing To Jesus!" is one of the most familiar in the list. It was written for occasion use in the 1860's and was given to the public in a collection of "Altar Songs" published by the author in 1867. That same year "The People's Hymnal" in London carried another of Dix's hymns, "Come Unto Me, Ye Weary," which was inspired by a Bible verse, the words of Jesus in Matthew 11:28: "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy-laden, and I will give you rest."

Mr. Dix was born in Bristol, England, in 1837. He lived for many years in Glasgow, Scotland where, in addition to writing, he carried on an insurance business.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

SWIMMERS

Human being may swim in various ways: breast stroke, the crawl, and so on. Water birds have various ways, too, but unlike people each species has its own method, and keeps to it. The truth is, each is properly equipped for a certain kind of swimming. Most of them have this in common — webbed feet, and legs placed well back on the body. The position of the legs is, of course, the reason why ducks waddle.

One of the very best swimmers and divers, the loon, has legs attached so very far back that the bird is unable to stand up on land. It cannot rise from the ground, but must shove itself along on its breast to water; and even then it cannot take flight without a long, splashing run over the top of the water.

Indeed most of the diving birds are unable to take off from the water unless they first patter along the surface. Grebes look particularly comical, for they take long strides, and their heads nod back and forth on their long necks. This beat action takes place even when swimming.

Instead of being webbed, grebes' feet are lobed — that is, the toes are provided with a scalloped edging of flat, lobe-like flaps. Each toe resembles the blade of a paddle, and a paddle may be turned sideways for the forward stroke, the flaps are folded, lessening resistance. Like loons, grebes are helpless on land, but they differ entirely from loons in that they ride high in the water and also carry their heads high, with necks curved.

Many of the expert divers, as grebes, cormorants, gannets, and occasionally loons, use their wings as well as their feet to propel themselves under water when pursuing their prey. Cormorants often pursue fish as far as 25 feet below the surface. These birds have a characteristic swimming posture: the long bill is uplifted, and the long, almost snakelike neck is moved about. They keep low in the water, like loons, yet their long tails lie out on top in full sight.

IMPARTIALITY THOU ART A JEWEL

Now is the time for all good newspapermen to forget they have a party — political party that is.

For a federal election is upon us and, of course, what is normally merely desirable in a reporter, objectivity, now becomes imperative.

The difficulty which faces most reporters when they strive to achieve impartiality is a devilish trick on the part of politicians of recognizing the fact that reporters are human.

Unaccustomed as they are to this type of treatment, reporters are apt to lose not only their votes but also their hearts—and sometimes even their jobs.

Fortunately, only smart politicians treat reporters in this manner. Not all politicians are smart. But some are very, very smart, indeed.

There was, for instance, the incomparable Mitch — Mitchell F. Hepburn if you insist on being formal.

We shall contrast Mitch's tactics with those of a contemporary.

It was 1934 and a very young reporter was covering his first political meeting. With care and precision, speakers, long slowly and unswerving each impressively at least twice, Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways in the Henry Government, dealt with the record of his department.

At the end of the meeting he approached the reporter. The conversation went something like this: "Do you think you have that right, sonny? "Yes, I think so, sir." "Let me go over it with you to make sure." "I don't think that will be necessary, sir." "Well, if you are quite sure, sonny?" "I'm sure." Very short and crisp, that last observation by the reporter.

Let us leave changes. Mitch had just made one of those addresses that only he could make. Packed with figures. Interlarded with wise-cracks. Spiced with spur-of-the-moment flights of rhetoric and fact. He was surrounded by a laughing, cheering mob. But he spotted the timid and scared reporter, pushing his way through the seething mob and beckoned to him. He had never been going to get all that speech on paper. So Mitch paused, turned from a local celebrity, grinned, waved a hand and engulfed, above the heads of half a hundred people, "Anything I can do for you, old man?"

Now who do you suppose had verbs put in his sentences when he wrote omitted them, had points of local importance brought up into the first few paragraphs of the story and unpopular policies buried at the bottom of the story?

Hmmm—yes, we wouldn't doubt but what you were right, at that.

A HELP — BUT NOT A SOLUTION

Establishment of a Central African University was recently suggested in the British House of Commons.

The Manchester Guardian compared the proposal to "lighting a candle." However, this candle alone will not illuminate Darkest Africa.

Fortunately, praise they though the suggestion is, it may not be without its drawbacks if many people react in the same manner as one Ontario editorial writer. Enthusiastically supporting the plan, he commented on "the lack of skills and training" of the natives and ascribed the preferred positions enjoyed by white men in Africa to the fact that they had had the training in technical skill."

This is one of those dangerous half-truths—for the cruel fact is that the mere possession of equal training and skills would not provide the African with equality.

Colliers, in a recent article on Washington's race problem, referred to the fact that there is only one hospital there which will provide Negro doctors with the facilities to practise their profession.

If a situation like this can prevail in the capital of the nation which married its birth with the pronouncement of its conviction that all men are created equal, how can we possibly suggest that the mere establishment of a university can guarantee equal opportunities for all in Africa, steeped as the white inhabitants are in the traditions of colonialism?

Training for the black man is necessary — but it is at best, no more than that. What is needed much more urgently is a change in the heart of the white man. And, lest we be too complacent, let's admit there are times when even well-behaved people seem as prejudiced as Malan, A Negro collegiate graduate refused admittance to a nurses' training school in her native city; a well-educated veteran of the World War collecting garbage because those responsible for job selections could never quite convince themselves that his war record offset his black skin — these are the facts of life, even in Ontario.

LOVE MAKES BUSES LATE

There are a number of elected office holders in Jersey City, N.J., who are risking their jobs as well as their sense of humor.

It seems that the efficiency-minded president of the Central Avenue Bus Line is distressed because his schedules have been disrupted because buses can't pull into their regular stops in the mornings because too many men in automobiles are kissing their wives goodbye as they part for the day.

The Hudson County Boulevard Commission, to whom this appeal for "kindness has drove" was taken, agreed that the situation was serious and ordered boulevard police to keep cars out of bus zones.

This loveless legislation is all very well for increasing bus line efficiency, but from here it would seem that the husband-wife 'buss' line has been operating longer than the Central Avenue circuit, and has a lot more to recommend it than a chilly city by-law.

WEDDING WISH

They reached the altar, youth and maid.
They left the altar, man and wife.
Bride beautiful and smiling proud
Both of the future unafraid.

United by the vow they'd made
To share the joys and griefs of life.
And some of us, with temples gray
Who'd had our share of hurt and tears

Friends thronged the large reception room.
Where merry was the music played,
Stood watching as they drove away
And wished them courage for the years.

THE CRUCIFIXION WAS REAL

A firm which specializes in religious motion pictures advertises a roll of film under the caption "The Crucifixion—A Hoax."

The Crucifixion is always a colour, and the color is red. There was no make-believe about the Crucifixion. A man was nailed to the cross. He suffered the excruciating agonies. His blood flowed from him until at last "he gave up the ghost."

Yet out of the very grewsomeness of all this there has blossomed humanity's greatest hope. It was through the death of Jesus Christ that life—spiritual and eternal—came to the earth.The establishing of this life among men is known as the kingdom of heaven; its citizenship is the designation, eternal life. This was because a Man died on the cross. The Crucifixion was a fact; it was the color was red.

If you or I had died on the cross it would not have produced those results. At best we would have been martyrs. But He who died upon the cross was a divine Being, begotten of God and born of a woman. The shedding of his blood and the suffering bearing of man's sin by this heroic Saviour broke the power of sin in the human heart and made salvation for all men possible.

The Crucifixion is always in color—both our Lord's crucifixion and ours, for "if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him."

More Butter On Sandwiches

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

There is a place where extra butter could be used to good advantage. A mere swipe of butter on the bread of every sandwich sold in this Country would decrease the surplus.

Rare is the restaurant or lunch counter which butters well its sandwich bread, unless ordered or begged to do so by the customer. Some settle for a thin swipe of butter which cannot be tasted and contributes almost nothing to nourishment.

Here in this country needs is a law requiring sandwich bread to be buttered, that the ultimate consumer is on a diet which includes no butter. Butter both slices and butter liberally. And then see what happens to the surplus.

Grandfather Losing Battle

(London Sunday Times)

An ancient merriment cannot be certain nowadays of being treated with the respect that it deserves and a grandfather shares, in this age of youth triumphant, the handicaps imposed on the aged by long barrows. Once upon a time, grandfathers used to be seen and not heard, grandfather would have given a short, sharp answer to any inquiries about his age and him if he agreed that geriatrics were more important than pacifism. But a professor explained yesterday why the fourteen-year-old boy ex should now take the place of the latter and why it behooves the middle-aged to learn the exact art of growing old gracefully. The adage that once you've passed 40 you are growing grey, but we are all growing older day by day, is no longer enough. We have to adjust ourselves to growing older and older and older in order to keep in step with the fashionable trend in vital statistics.

The world has evidently been taken to heart by a grandfather in Gothenburg, who, at the age of 104, lingers—and, indeed, his alacrity is proof that he is still on top of the world by acting as a baby sitter. He claims in this role what may be called a first-class record in sister status, and the conditions have given rise to evidence of his abiding vitality. He knows what he wants and if he can't get it he becomes necessary to "regulate" misbehaviour into "behaviour." He has a right hand full of labour of love without charge to the parents, and they are grateful to find that their son has been taught the manners of a little Southern gentleman.

The blow is truck gallantly and, first, it is emphasized the loftiness of the position in which grandfathers used to be held and which used to be said that each generation revolts against its fathers and their friends but not its grandfathers. That was in days when the old gentleman was spared with awe by their sons and daughters and by their friends and by their grandchildren. They could afford to smile through their beards at the "new-fangled" notions as they had exerted themselves to the top of their bent in developing the second which never forgot—even in adult life—what it had been taught in childhood, a grandfather whose children treated him as at once a friend and a fit subject for jokes. The rearguard action being fought in Mirrowhere will certainly not be the embryo little Southern Gentleman contemptuously explaining to his little brother to keep the baby-sitter set in focus.

But What Price A Diesel Horn?

(Edmonston Journal)

The alarm clock has never been a particularly fascinating article of furniture. Present day sleepers, however, can't help wondering if today's alarms are so mild and gentle compared with those of other times.

A New York exhibition of antique clocks and watches includes a device which was used to rouse people in 18th Century Utecht-Sleeping Gentlemen. Consisting of the clockmaker and the gunsmith, it consisted of a bow, fastened to a flintlock device, similar to that which fired the pistols of the period. Before re-tiring, the owner set it and put a charge of gunpowder in the pan. When the fatal hour arrived, the gunpowder exploded near the sleeper's ear. The blast was also supposed to light a candle, which showed him where there is was. The idea seems once doubly sure, a large bell then started to ring.

It must have taken an iron man to oversleep in those days.

Shades Of Sitting Bull

(New York Times)

They called him Tatanka Yotanka, Sitting Bull, a six-foot, chested Indian who walked with a slight limp. He had a prominent hooked nose, grey eyes and a deliberate manner. Today he is back in the news again, as the Canadian Mounted Police and the Canadian Government are at war on the issue of which of the two owns the horse attending his grave. But in the Seventies, when he was raiding and fighting against the whites, the territories would have been glad to get rid of him.

It is ironical that the quarrelling is being carried on by such Police as Sitting Bull always despised and mistrusted lawyer, Congressmen and Senators. For Sioux chief never pretended about his hatred of the "Long Knives," as he called them, because he knew the most powerful Indian tribe in the United States Army's biggest headache after the Civil War.

Northern Blast Strikes Toronto

(Sudbury Star)

"Only 11 Planes Here June 3, 136 at Ottawa" said a Toronto newspaper headline.

And some Torontonians wonder how their city gets tagged with the name of Hogtown.

It so happens that Ottawa is Canada's capital city, and as the seat of the Canadian government and the nation's capital, Ottawa naturally would be expected to put on the big, impressive display for the Coronation Day celebrations.

Ottawa actually saw 136 planes engage in the fly-past, as compared with 18 in London, Eng. where Canada's planes also participated. We have seen no figures from Toronto, so perhaps the powers-that-be considered 11 planes beneath their notice.

We don't blame Toronto for trying to climb into the limelight on every possible occasion, and the shining out-of-town celebrities as being "of Toronto." But we do object to the Toronto attitude that the over the city when it is on the losing side or gets the proper category of a collection of small villages surrounded by a common boundary.

Why Policemen Are Unhappy

(Vancouver Sun)

Gilbert and Sullivan's famous observation that "a policeman's lot is not a happy one" is borne out by a study of police morale made in the United States. Given to the Canadian Political Science Association by Prof. Bruce Smith, of Toronto, on Monday, Oct., the results of the U.S. study back up Gilbert and Sullivan's reasons for reaching the same conclusion.

The unhappy policeman was unhappy because he sympathized too much with the lawbreaker he had to take up. But the modern American policeman has a more subtle superiority complex. He feels every hand—or at least 49 in 75 of his friends—is against the police.

It might be said that the policeman in the daily routine sees the wrong sort of people — "the pedestrian, that is, when he precipitates his beat: "the complainant, the accused, the rapist and the raped" as Rudyard Kipling put it. "The politician, the city hark" in court; "the jockey and the Body" at the races on: "Mostly he meets them in their evil, their degation, and their shame."

He feels the inability of the underworld and ladies of the nation ally. But why should he worry if 75 per cent of his friends are in gaol? Prof. Wesley observes that the policeman does not feel he has any friends in the underworld.

Nowadays so many of us are lawbreakers, unconscious ones, a lot of these in his daily life. And, perhaps, many police officers are ready to break the law when it suits them or when they think they can get away with it. Most serious crimes—they are mostly merely misdemeanours—are the result of overparking, ignoring a stop sign or snatching the right of way. But the police are human so much of the average motorist's readiness to break petty traffic regulations makes for bad relations.

We've also been told police public relations aren't as bad as Prof. Wesley's American example indicates. But we do think our police must bear its share of any blame that is being apportioned. Is imaginary. We repeat that the policeman meets too many of the wrong people. Like most newspapermen — especially those who work nights — he sees too much of the seamy side and probably even enjoys being a cynic.

Drive-In Church Not Appealing

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

It may be the modern trend, but we can hardly become enthused about the idea of a drive-in church being held in an open-air theatre in New York.

Each Sunday morning from June to September drivers will be asked to bring their cars to the huge cross mounted in front of the theatre screen, banized by flowers and lighted by a spot-light. The out-door chapel service at the Hollywood Drive-In Theatre will be conducted rain or shine, and will present well-known ministers in the pulpit. The theatre can accommodate more than 5,00 people.

We will agree that any idea is a way to attract some people to hear the Word of God, but it is not to our opinion a fitting substitute for attending church. The drive-in theatre is a place of entertainment, and no matter how fine a program is presented each Sunday it will not provide the quiet feeling of reverence that is found in the small est of churches.

Christ taught, "Where two or three are gathered in My name, there will I be also. This end the Drive-In Theatre may achieve, but it could be much better served in a proper church.

LANGUOR AND LOW SPIRITS

DR. Brady

Mrs. R. H. W. who lives in the Great Lakes area formerly called the spitre belt but not since most of the people have been getting iodin in one form or another to supplement their iodin - poor diet. She writes her in the area, says she feels old at 46, crabbed, tired and down in the mouth regardless of her happy environment.

The poor girl has no ambition, energy or pep. She is never resolved. She is deadly accumulating iodine. She always has cold hands and feet, shivers with cold where other persons feel quite comfortable. She knows a lady of 94 who actually has more get up and ghack than she has.

Anyone with iodin deficiency is likely to have lower body temperature, than one with good nutrition.

Languor and low spirits are the charateristic manifestations of iodin deficiency. This does not mean that iodin deficiency is the only cause of langour and low spirits nor that these manifestations always occur when the body intake of iodin (in food, drinking of water or otherwise) is inadequate.

Iodin in medicinal form or strength should be taken only under the physician's direction. Iodin in food or nutritional form is as different from medicinal iodin as the carbon monoxide in a puff of cigaret smoke is from the carbon monoxide in the exhaust vapor of an automobile engine idling or warming up in a closed garage. The doctor who tells you the iodin ration is "dangerous" just shows his or her ignorance.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR BODY — AND HEALTH

Good health is often looked upon as a gift, not earned. That is a kind of error in life. Good health is the result of intelligence, a careful study of one's own body and a knowledge of what it is capable of enduring or benefiting from.

It takes a great deal of physical power to gain and hold good health. It's like owning an automobile. If you take the time to give it good care, it will run smoothly, give you pleasure and last a great many years. The finest machine wears away quickly and gets to be worthless if poor attention and hard usage.

William Muldoon, the great wrestler and physical trainer, used to say that it was surprising how the body responded to a little kindness.

Our bodies were given us to last for a long time. They will stand a great deal of abuse, but more often than not they are treated with intelligent care and kindness.

The efficient man or woman is the one who has an inward reverence for his body, who, by careful combinations of food, the excessive indulgence in stimulants, whipping the body to do more than it can stand, give nothing but trouble and distress in the end. On the other hand, an intelligent attention reforms gluttons, leads to success and happiness throughout the years.

The powerful man is the healthy man. He has motive power. He has reserve power. He possesses, to do man.

The healthiest people are those who have no nerves. Instantly nerves is manifold uses. My third authority agrees with me that here is another instance where we have to new and enlarged editions as fast as the longer the while it offers grows amongst us lovers of the wide.

Reds Did Not Bomb Ships

(London Spectator)

Though I have never heard it remarked upon, surely the oddest feature of the Korean War it mass production of the cheaper military point of view) is the complete absence of Soviet Russian warships from attack by hostile aircraft.

Since nearly three years now, major units of the United States and the Royal Navy have been operating in Korean waters, often close to enemy shores, and cannot be engaged by costal batteries; yet so serious attempt — indeed I think no attempt — has been made to bomb them.

I have occurred to the communists that this would be a good thing to do and it is hardly to be supposed that the whole of Russian patrons would be likely to restrain them.

No doubt in the early stages no thing was ready because the communists had no tirrews trailered for the job; but there has been plenty of time to train them since.

Marionettes Thrill Children With 'Beauty and The Beast'

In "Beauty and the Beast," the merchant's daughter Selma opens the story by asking: "What do you think of my new dress?"

Selma's sister, Tina or Beauty, replies, "I think it is lovely. It looks beautiful on you."

The well-dressed sisters and a third sister, Thelma, all looked beautiful in their hand-made gowns of white lace, pink sheer and yellow taffeta as they appeared on stage for Middleton Park's first marionette show.

The cast of seven marionettes, not more than eight inches in height, delighted and thrilled several audiences of Air Chief Marshal Breadner School children, this week, in the school's auditorium.

The little people, dangling from immovable strings, walked on stage with all the finesse of seasoned performers. Selma, whose voice was recorded by Mrs. W. G. Dever, and Thelma, recorded by Mrs. R. J. Mercer, set the pace for the play by censuring their sister Beauty, operated by Mrs. J. O. Sandbach. The disapproval was accompanied by a great deal of gesticulation — done to perfection with the aid of strings through the puppets' elbows and hands—and shaking of heads. Thelma's golden tresses, made of long strands of wool, swung from side to side while red-headed Selma's close-cropped hairdo added color to the lively scene.

The first of five scenes brought five marionettes on stage at one point. Cassanus, the merchant's Ethiopian servant appeared, bowed gracefully, delivered a message and disappeared at a run when ordered to do so by Thelma.

The colorful figure, whose voice was played by Maj. J. O. Sandbach, reappeared later to deliver a message to the beast also recorded by W/C E. J. MacLeod, who had previously entered the garden of his home, a back-drop painted in poster colors, to put a stop to his daughter's quarrelling.

The Beast Enters

At the beginning of Scene II, the audience met the beast. A slight figure of a man dressed in princely robes with a ferocious beast-like head. Green eyes above forth from his muddy yellow-colored head to which was attached a black, thick, woolly beard. His voice, played by S/L R. F. Murray, boomed forth in a growl and the starlish sounds echoed throughout the beautiful castle gardens as he reprimanded the merchant for taking a rose from his garden.

The peddler, Moses, whose voice was that of Major J. O. Sandbach, appears for the first time in Scene IV when he delivers a message to Beauty in the garden of the Prince's castle.

Painted backdrops formed the set more than eight inches in height, delighted and thrilled several audiences of Air Chief Marshal Breadner School children, this week, in the school's auditorium.

Backstage, under the direction of Mrs. R. J. MacLeod, a busy group of housewives can be found giving life to their wooden friends on a stage which stands ankle-height from the ground and has to elbow-height in front of them.

Mrs. P. D. Daoust, Mrs. E. J. MacLeod, Mrs. J. Frederick, Mrs. J. O. Smith and Mrs. A. M. Halbert manipulated their little creatures carefully and artfully as the series of half hour shows progressed. A flick of a finger and Beauty waved her hand in farewell to her father, a twist of the wrist and Cassanus bowed; a sweep of the arms and the merchant walked off stage; and a combination of many other movements added life to the wooden actors and actresses, who found a welcome audience at Middleton Park school children.

Behind the busy workers was a tape recorder where the different voices of the actors had been recorded previously. The recorder is a necessary piece of equipment in the presentation of the Middleton Park Marionette Show, since the size of the stage limits the audience to approximately fifty persons, thus necessitating repeated performances.

Mrs. R. F. Murray and Mrs. I. J. Hill are in Mistresses of Ceremony. Between acts, they explained the settings and gave a brief resume of the scenes.

The entire production was possible through the efforts of Mrs. E. J. MacLeod, who several months ago started making marionettes as a hobby. She assembled her "little people," as she calls them, and dressed them from odds and ends of materials given to her by friends in her neighborhood. Mrs. MacLeod stated: "This is only the beginning, there is still a great deal of work to be done in perfecting the entire production." If keeping fifty young children quiet and happy for one half hour is a criterion of success, then Mrs. MacLeod and her troop can rest assured that they have great future in the marionette field.

Story of Trenton's Birth Is Challenge on Centennial

Trenton (Special)—On Wednesday, July 1 when the town of Trenton celebrates its 100th anniversary, an account of it might read something like this:

"All day Wednesday the streets presented an animated and lively appearance, the finishing touches were being put to the arches, shop fronts and windows were being decorated with evergreens and flags and banners were being placed in position. All along the sidewalk were trees of spruce, of hemlock and cedar, and from roof and window streamed all kinds of sizes of the flag that for a thousand years has braved the battle and the breeze. It was like wall ing through a forest to procession through the principal streets of Trenton on Wednesday, as we have previously intimated the decorating spirit seemed to be infectious and spread from room to street, and way out in the suburbs, William and Mary, and Thomas and Sarah, might be seen making festoons of everygreens and hanging their banners on the outer walls. In fact the whole town had put on a holiday garb, and not merely from shops and business houses but from private and public buildings, from vessel and mill, were floating the red-cross flag of England."

Yes it may well read like this, for 75 years ago the Belleville intelligencer, reporting on the natal day of Trenton, carried the above description of that great event.

What a challenge it is to those townsfolk of Trenton of 1853 to match the spirit, enthusiasm and loyalty for their town to the pioneers long since departed.

If the people of Trenton today, can match the devotion and vision of their forebears of an early age, then truly the next 100 years will bring an even greater stature to the town at the mouth of the Trenton.

Incidentally another report from that time records Trenton council voting $400 for the celebration and public subscription brought to total to $1,000. That was back when a dollar bill went as far as a $10 note does now.

King St. Church W.A. Sponsors Tea Friday

TRENTON — Lovely Firiburst Manor, on the top of Dundas St. W., provided a picturesque setting for the Royal tea sponsored by the Senior Women's Association of King Street United Church Friday. The many guests were received by Mrs. J. A. Sutcliffe and Mrs. O. May, president of the W.A.

The tea table in charge of Mrs. W. H. Ireland was adorned by a beautiful crown loaned to the association by Paul Mercier of Belleville. Red, white and blue flowers and small union jacks were the decorations, in keeping with the occasion.

Mrs. L. Bond and Mrs. J. Cox took the tickets at the door.

Chas. York Buys General Store At Wooler

Trenton — When Charles E. York closes the door of his store tonight Trenton will be losing one of its best known proprietors. On the other hand the village of Wooler will be gaining a progressive and public spirited citizen.

Mr. York who served on the town council was assessor for 20 years and building inspector for another term started business in the Bonter Block 42 years ago. His present location is on King street in the market square. He sold his building to Den MacPherson in the process of expanding his premises next door.

Although Mr. York has disposed of his interests in Trenton he felt that he should continue in business so bought Douglas Brown's general store in Wooler which opens under new management on Monday.

Mr. York has been active in the local I.O.O.F. Lodge and is Past Grand Conductor of the Grand Lodge of Ontario.

In leaving Trenton Mr. York extends an invitation to all his friends and associates to visit him at Wooler.

TRENTON (Special)—A transport driver trying to avoid an accident here early Saturday morning wrecked his transport which jack-knifed on Dundas Street at the corner of Dufferin Ave. The driver, Williams G. The car pulled out into the intersection and when the truck driver applied the brakes and pulled to the left to avoid a crash the tractor and trailer went out of control. Damage to the transport was estimated at $800. In addition the boulevard was torn up and two highway signs were knocked down. The driver escaped injury.

Weddings

SHIELS—FURMSTON

Mixed summer flowers on the altar formed a lovely setting for the recent marriage in St. Margaret Mary's Catholic Church, Ottawa, of Barbara Ann Furmston, Reg.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Furmston, to Vincent Patrick Fleming Shiels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Shiels, Belleville.

Reverend Augustus Gorman, P.P., performed the ceremony and said the Nuptial Mass. During Mass the father of the groom sang Hosewig's "Ave Verum" and "Panis Angelicus", "O Lord I am Not Worthy", "Mother Beloved" and "Thanks Be To God". Miss Dorothy Dowdall presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of imported white Chantilly lace over slipper satin, the full skirt accented by a short chapel train. A coronet of pearls crowned her tulle illusion veil. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses and stephanotis.

The bride's attendant, Miss Marion Garrison, Reg.N., Ottawa, wore a floor-length gown of ecru-chid nylon net trimmed with Chantilly lace matching that worn by the bride, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mr. William Ross, of Belleville, was best man.

Ushers were Mr. Bernard Kehler, cousin of the bride, and Mr. George Gilchrist, uncle of the groom, both of Toronto.

The reception was held at the Ottawa Hotel. Reverend Orlando Dorion said grace and gave his blessing to the happy couple.

For a motor trip to Washington, D.C., and the southern United States, the bride wore a navy silk, corded dress with white accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Shiels will reside in Ottawa.

MACDONALD—BELL

Christ Church, Belleville, was the scene on Friday, June 5, at 7:00 p.m., of a lovely evening wedding ceremony, when Lorraine Alice and Donald adorned with white and mauve snapdragons, yellow iris, and ferns, the recto Canon J. R. Creeggan, united in marriage Mary Edna Bell, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bell, to John Harvey MacDonald, of Forester's Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. David MacDonald.

For the processional, Parry's "Bridal March", and during the signing of the register, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring", by Bach. For the recessional, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March".

The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. S. Francis, the bride was radiant in her lovely chapel length gown of Nylon chenney lace and nylon net over satin. The full sweeping skirt was trimmed with scalloped lace, outlined with mother of pearl brilliants. The matching lace bolero jacket had long sleeves, tapering to points over the wrists. She wore a fingertip veil of tulle illusion and carried a bouquet of matching lace trimmed with pearls and brilliants, and carried a shower bouquet of deep red roses intermingled with lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Georgina Bell, was bridesmaid, attired in daffodil yellow with strapless bodice of Chantilly lace, having a tapering long-orchid ruching located with stand-up collar. The nylon net skirt over taffeta was gracefully full and of ballerina length. Her headdress was a matching crown-like hat of nylon net and yellow buttercups, and her bouquet a cascade of yellow buttercups surrounded with lily-of-the-valley, mauve sweetpeas and tied with orchid ribbon.

Mr. Miller Bennett, of Cobden, Ontario, was groomsman.

Grand International Auxiliary Sponsors Delightful Silver Tea

Yesterday afternoon was most propitious for the charming "Silver Tea" held at the home of Mrs. L. E. Grey, 310 Chatham Street, under the auspices of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Lovely spring flowers, including colonial tulips, shades of pink, white and red, decorated the attractive rooms, from the arch posts and peeped from unexpected spots, while a colored red-tended Talisman rose deed its fragrance from praying hands upon a little side table.

Receiving the many guests were Mrs. H. Drury, president of the Auxiliary, and the hostess, Mrs. L. E. Grey, whose welcoming smile and firm handclasp was a harbinger of the pleasant afternoon.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. W.M.S.

On Tuesday afternoon the ladies of Holloway Street W.M.S. viewed the results of their efforts for months past. The articles for the bale were sorted and many, from complete layettes to quilts and clothing.

In this, the reading group was to be especially commended for the several handmade quilts.

Later, a collection which was taken to care for the reading of same, was dedicated by the president, Mrs. G. Coulter.

The business of the day was now resumed after which Mrs. F. Wilson and her group conducted the worship service, the theme of which was "The Holy Bible".

The scripture was read by Mrs. Wilson followed by prayer by Mrs. McMurray. The meditation was taken by Mrs. Johnson.

At this time Mrs. Daniels favored with a solo entitled "God's Hand is Everywhere", which was most fitting at this time of year when the bloom and growth are mute evidence of the unseen Hand at work.

Mrs. S. Westover gave a reading on "Temperance" quoting Dr. Wayne Wormer, secretary of the Temperance Federation and a Yale School of alcohol studies and who was guest speaker at the Temperance Federation's session in Ottawa, as saying: "The alcohol problem is neither single nor simple. It is personal, medical and moral. The church must be dynamic. It must be practical, and this analyses total obedience.

"The use of alcohol is not a private matter. My children's safety depends on my neighbors being sober.

"Our freedom ends when it infringes on the liberty of others.

"Our challenge is to arouse the community to action and our obligation is to see that the church is behind our endeavors."

In the absence of Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Wolters reported on Community Friendship.

Mrs. Westover brought the meeting up to date on the work being done in supplies and the bale being sent overseas at this time.

Mrs. Bird gave a report on the Baby Band party and suggested that every W.M.S. member get in touch with mothers with babies.

Mrs. Coulter, in closing, recognized the study book "Along African Trails" which was interesting and educational.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bird, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Ed Wynn, Mrs. Oscar Rannie and Mrs. Garland Irwin.

TABERNACLE E.A.

The June meeting of Tabernacle Evening Auxiliary was held in the Young People's Room, Grier Street.

The president, Dorcas Cowle, opened the meeting and welcomed the visitors, there being several ladies from the station at the meeting present.

Mrs. Humphreys, the subject was "Canada's Enemy", which dealt with the question of the menace of the liquor traffic and the effect on the moral and physical well-being of Canada's people, especially the young.

Leona Bailey thanked the speaker.

Gladys Shane was in charge of the devotional, using as the scripture reading, Psalm 119.

During the business period, it was decided to hold a picnic in July at Myrtle Lockyer's cottage.

Phyllis Lockyer's topic for Stewardship was "Small Opportunities", in which she brought out that failure is not in having only one talent but in failing to use that talent to the maximum. One's capacity to enjoy is one's ability to share with others.

The School for Leaders was discussed and it was decided to send a member from the group.

After the meeting closed the committee served refreshments and a social hall hour was spent.

Women Urged To Stop Buying Luxury Items

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario women were urged Thursday to look twice before spending the family pay cheque on a luxury item.

The advice came from Mrs. Clinton Graham of Ottawa at a meeting which re-elected her president of the Ontario provincial branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers.

She said women are largely responsible for luxury spending because they usually hold the family purse strings.

Mrs. Graham said federal statistics just released on luxury spending "alarm and stagger one." She said Canada's liquor bill last year was the largest in history, with Ontario the leading province at $226,000,000 for liquor consumption.

Other spending sprees for jewelry than for necessities.

The Association's membership has increased 75 per cent in Ontario last year, said Mrs. Graham.

Chosen vice-presidents were Mrs. U. Jones, Oshawa; Mrs. Alan Collard, Ridgeway; Mrs. W. R. Hannah and Mrs. E. G. Neva, London; and Mrs. Herbert Gordon and Mrs. F. W. M. Kennedy, Toronto.

Executive members at large include Mrs. R. J. Sirrett, Port Arthur, and Mrs. S. Wilson, Oshawa.

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

Attention Readers:

Because of lack of space I often have to mail readers the information they are requesting. This is impossible if they do not give me their names and addresses, especially as it may seem sometimes they do not. Please enclose a stamped envelope too.

Question:

. . . for some time I had a recipe for almond bars, but have lost it. I remember all the ingredients: brown sugar, margarine, rolled oats, blanched almonds, but have forgotten the exact amounts. There was no flour in them and they kept well. The recipe made 24 bars.—Mrs. Blanche L.

Answer:

I'll have to admit failure on this, for I do not have a recipe for bar cookies of any kind that does not call for eggs and a small amount of flour. I would be glad if readers would come to my rescue. If you have a bar cookie as Blanche describes please send it to me in care of this paper.

BETTER THAN ENGTHOLE

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—City parks board Thursday night heard the last word in modern methods of sneaking into ball game. Superintendent Art Dent found a loose board in the high board fence surrounding the ball field. The board is in the section separating a back yard from the field—it was on hinges.

Bolero Costume

Novelty wool with tiny black fringed motifs woven on a background of clear grey is combined by the Toronto designer (Golden Gate) with plain-black jersey in this two-part bolero costume for fall. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Young Couple Who Will Grow Old Before Their Time.

Something I always find it hard to understand is why people prefer to sit around complaining about a situation that makes them unhappy rather, than get up and do something to change it. In many instances the reason for this is because the person has set his heart on one particular kind of change, and seeing no hope of that, lacks the stamina to switch to something else. Too often, I'm afraid, it's just plain laziness and flabbiness of will.

There's something of both, I think, in the woman who writes to tell me how miserable she is because her husband's business has taken them to another town, and she can't think of anything except how much she wants to be back home. In fact, she says, her husband feels the same way about things, so apparently they spend most of their time groaning together over their misfortune.

I'm only a young housewife in my early twenties," the letter writer says, "and a good loving husband and two wonderful children. We've been married for four years and lived in our home town for the first year after our marriage, board in the high board fence surrounding the ball field. The board is in the section separating a back yard from the field—it was on hinges.

Lonely For Home Town

"We bought a new home and have been living there ever since, but the problem is that I am very unhappy, my only reason for this being homesickness. I get so very homesick for my home town and the relatives and friends I have there, that not a day goes by when I don't find myself trying to escape my lonesomeness by crying. My husband and I never go out, as we just don't know that many people to go out with or to ask to visit, so therefore nobody ever comes to see us. So we live a very dull life and can't do the same things week in and week out with never any change in our routine. Even if we did know more people, we couldn't do much with them because we have no one to baby-sit for us and besides, having bought the new home and new furniture, we haven't much money to entertain.

"What have got to the point now where I don't even have the desire to keep up my house and make things nice, because then there doesn't seem any use doing it since no one ever comes to see us. I've talked everything over with my husband and asked him if he couldn't get transferred back to our home town and he said he'd try. Do you think we would be doing the wise thing to make this change? I am sure we would both be much happier, and could make a better life for ourselves if we did. My husband is lonesome here, too, and has often go back home on visits, and when he's time to come back, both of us just hate the idea of returning."

Narrow Limits

Now this young woman and her husband have their minds made up that they will never be happy anywhere but in their own home town; their future prospects will be. But they certainly are going to set very narrow limits on their lives and cheat themselves out of a great deal of fun and may miss many interesting experiences. More than that, they are going to stifle their own powers of adjustment to life, so that any time a change is called for in their scheme of living—and life is constantly calling for changes as the years go by—they are in for another rebellious and miserable time. Does any of this make any real sense?

What is the matter with these two that they have been unable to make friends in several years residence in the city where they now live? Their reasons for not having built up a circle of acquaintances simply don't hold water, for there must be many young couples like themselves who have activities in which other young people engage? Why haven't they been able, through the church, the school, associates, to meet people with whom they could have some good times?

Attitude With Church

Why don't they affiliate themselves with some church, and get to know the young couples who go there? Why don't they look around for some lines of activities in which other young people engage? Why haven't they been able, through the church, the school, associates, to meet people with whom they could have some good times?

The impression I get from this young wife's letter is that these two are the type of people who sit and wait for others to come to them, instead of having the initiative to get up and go out and look for friends. Or else, as I have already suggested, they have wrapped themselves up so tightly in their resentment at being where they are, that they don't even want to try and find the good things about the new place.

Take New Attitude

It's not as though they were set down in some surroundings, new and only scattered homes and limited recreational opportunities either. On the contrary, it's a good-sized city to which they have come, where there must be a wide variety of interesting things to do if they only have the gumption to go out and find them.

Instead of fighting against being in their new surroundings, they have been doing for three or four years, as though the two young people is to take a new attitude toward their environment and look upon it as an opportunity to enlarge all their horizons; a chance to make new friends, to take part in new activities, to learn new things and to see what goes on outside the limits of their home town. So far from bemoaning the situation, they should be welcoming such an opportunity, for this is what keeps people young. For them to turn their backs on the new and the different will be for them to grow old before their time.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Bride's Mother Should Wear Her Corsage When It Is Most Becoming

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At my daughter's wedding, I'm wearing a cocktail dress, not a long gown. Would it be proper for me to wear a corsage at my waist, rather than on my shoulder? — A.

Entirely proper. . . the bride's mother should wear her corsage where she considers it most becoming, whether she's wearing a long dress or a shorter one. To many women it is definitely not becoming for them to wear their corsage on their shoulder. . . this sometimes looks top-heavy. . . sometimes looks so overemphasized that it detracts from the harmony of the costume. Some mothers prefer to wear the corsage at the waist; others wear it in their neckpiece, fur or stole; still others (and this is often done today) on their purse.

When Bride's Parents Receive With The Couple, In Rear Of Church

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married soon, and is planning to have a small church wedding. If they decide to receive their friends in the rear of the church after the ceremony, is it proper for my husband and me to stand with them while they are receiving congratulations? If so, what should I say to each guest that will sound cordial and friendly? I know I will be confused at the time, and at a loss as to what to say! — W.D.N.

Whether or not anyone. . . the bride's parents, or the groom's parents, or even the bridal attendants. . .stands with the bride and groom as they receive the best wishes of the couple and also most of the church, depends first on the wishes of the couple and also, most practically, on space available. Sometimes the bride and groom are scheduled to leave shortly either for a reception in the bride's home or elsewhere, or to start on their wedding trip; and so they assign a short time to the receiving in the church. But if there is time and space it is entirely proper for you and your husband to receive the guests also. . . sometimes the parents stand next to the bride and groom, and sometimes in the line opposite, so that the parents greet guests as they depart.

What you and your husband say to the guests will, in most cases, depend on what the guests say to you. Wedding guests are expected to say something pleasant and appropriate about the beauty and charm of the wedding, the loveliness of the bride, or something else naturally fitting to the happy occasion, and you might say, "How nice of you to come. . . and we were all delighted to have you here on this day!" Or just the day may be a warmly friendly, "Thank you for coming." Or, "It was a simple wedding, but lovely, I thought. . . and they are so happy!"

Widow's Name In Telephone Directory

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our telephone has always been listed in my husband's name. Two months ago my husband died, and now I am wondering how I should list my name in the telephone directory. Could I request the listing "Mrs. Mary Field" (for example) or "Mrs. John Henry Field"? — Widow.

You should request. . .demand, if necessary, that your name be listed in the telephone directory as Mrs. John Henry Field.

BEAUTY

Make the most of your good looks

Lucky is the girl who picked out beautiful ancestors. But that does not mean that the left-out must go through life without pulchritude radiance. Now it can be purchased with a little heavy lifting and good taste. Money helps, of course. Yet the cosmetic needs for twelve months will not exceed that of a dentist's bill balance in the cheque book; not if you know what to get for your special needs, how to apply them, how to conserve them.

Grace of movement and charm of voice can be cultivated, cost nothing but thought and a little time for making a self-survey. Most mothers mean more than lovely features. A girl who is friendly, who is responsive, who has a cheery word and a ready smile will never loose out for companionship or dates.

The trouble with many women who bewail their lack of good looks isn't lack of good-looks at all. It is lack of knowledge of ways of making themselves attractive. They are careless in the application of make-up, perhaps. They don't use the shade of powder that will give their complexion clear character and tone. They choose colors at random. If they have doubts on this subject, they should patronize a make-up bar where professional operators will advise them.

Certain shades of rouge and lipstick are suited for certain shades of complexions. Not every woman is cosmetic-wise. There is no charge for services at a make-up bar; practically all large department stores have them. All you have to do is to purchase whatever you may need in the way of toiletries.

Dowdy dressing is responsible for some of the Plain Janes. They have never developed an understanding of line and color, or they go in for fussy effects that are distinctly out of date.

Frumpiness may be due to slouchy carriage, not wearing one's clothes with flair and chic. Dowdiness may disappear as soon as a woman lifts up her chest, extends her backbone full-length, and flattens her tummy. . . correctly fitted foundation can do wonders in changing the figure.

Then there are the fatties who

Where is the fatty?

Lucky is the girl who has beautiful ancestors

Cormorants Not Considered Lucky Omen by Fishermen

By KINGSLEY BROWN Jr.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—When cormorants first came to lonely Duck Island in the late 1930s, fishermen looked upon them as a good omen. They soon changed their minds.

As catches decreased they vocalized their fishing shacks as the weirdest island, never to return.

Today, talk of eerie happenings on the island and the more superstitious blamed the wraithlike visitors of the sea.

Left to the cormorants, Duck Island's name is a misnomer and the birds, which Milton once likened to Satan, have created a virtual garden of Eden to a desolate isle ruled by nearly 2,500 glossy black fish-eaters.

Large Rookery

The island, about four acres in area, is two miles offshore and 40 miles from here on the eastern shore. Ornithologists say the rookery is probably one of the largest on Canada's Atlantic coast.

In previous years, the cormorants killed everything. As nests were built and removed, absorbed tons of excrement, lush undergrowth died and was blown into the sea. Gulls refused to build their needles and bark and now provender, grass and greenery above rapidly vanishing fopsail.

There is no fresh water. Only visitors are gulls, seals and the occasional hunter seeking some offseason practice. Save spectating the ugly, voracious birds are not enforced hazards on their visits, doubtful. Tests have proven, however, they will trout or salmon only when starving.

The nests, seven and eight to a tree, consist of a large mass of seaweed and sticks. The eggs, usually four to a nest, are normally laid in spring. They are bluish-white but chalk quickly. Cormorants are hatched naked and are a black skin and their first plumage is blackish - brown and a dirty greenish below.

In three years they become adults, with bodies two feet long, jet black plumage glossed above with bronze, a violent green hooded bill and orange-black web-bed feet. They live about 15 years.

There are two types of cormorant, commonly known as "shags" in the Atlantic region. The European says all year and the double-crested from April to three months.

A crack fisherman, the cormorant can stay under water for minutes. There was a time when fishing with cormorants was popular. The birds, taken from nests and tamed, were kept from swallowing the fish by a strap fastened about their necks.

In old England it was so much in vogue that one of the officers of the royal household was "master of cormorants."

Election to Come In Middle Of Grain Harvest

TORONTO (CP) — The federal election Aug. 10 will come in the middle of the grain harvest, but it is not expected many farmers will be kept from the polls, a farm spokesman said Friday night.

J. A. Ferguson of Port Stanley, vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said more urban voters will miss the holloting because of holidays then farmers because of the harvest.

"We've had elections in June and various other seasons when farmers were busy and it didn't keep them from voting," he said.

Main farm activity during the early part of August is harvesting of grain crops.

Bonds of Friendship Helped Infantry Fight More Efficient War

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH KOREA (CP)—Franco-Canadian bonds have acquired a new application here—they helped Canadian infantry fight a more efficient war.

When the Commonwealth division was in reserve during February and March a sector of its former front was held by the French battalion, then serving with the 2nd United States infantry division.

Some of the French lieutenants, named Poupard, was a keen patroller. He had a keen something of an artist. To a relief map he was building he persuasively transferred the information his hikes in no man's land produced about the enemy.

Valuable Chart

In time the French battalion had an accurate large-scale relief map of its sector, the no man's land ahead, and much of the enemy's territory ahead of that.

As the Commonwealth division prepared to resume operations, liaison visits were paid and during their course Brig. M. P. Bogert, then the Canadian Brigade Commander, and Lt.-Col. Louis Trudeau, commanding the 1st battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment, called on Lt.-Col. Francois de Germigny, the French commander.

Poupard's map was earmarked for the French archives but the Colonel liked the Canadians and felt they could find helpful. He sent it to Brig. Allard, Bogert's successor, to lend the map was accepted promptly.

Allard was so impressed with the relief map that he decided the Canadians should duplicate it, keeping the French one only long enough to make their own copy.

And then the two commanders, doubtless feeling the need for common Gallic feeling for such things, simultaneously had the same the gist.

"You'll keep ours," said de Germigny.

"And you'll take ours for your archives," said Allard.

'Unfortunate'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday it is "unfortunate" that two Liberals have been nominated in the same-seat riding of Prescott-Glengarry for the general election.

"I am sure they cannot agree on one," he said at a press conference. "It is unfortunate, but then that is the right."

The combined Ontario riding was created last year in a redistribution of seats.

1. Works Minister Alphonse Fournier, 60, of Hull, Que., Liberal floor leader in the Commons, moves to the Exchequer Court of Canada. As a justice, his salary will be $14,400, compared with the $12,000 of a cabinet minister. He was not replaced for the time being.

2. State Secretary F. Gordon Bradley, 55, one of the chief Newfoundland architects of the province's entry into Confederation in 1949, shifts to a $6,000-a-year Senate appointment.

3. John W. (Jack) Pickersgill, 47, former political strategist with Mr. Ilsley and Mr. St. Laurent and more recently the unpolitical RHA-650-a-year clerk of the Privy Council, becomes state secretary.

Mr. Pickersgill, a sometimes controversial figure because of opposition charges that he operated politically while clerk, was sworn in Friday.

Mr. St. Laurent, in making public an exchange of correspondence between himself and Mr. Bradley dated June 8, made it known he had invited Mr. Bradley then and Mr. Pickersgill's pending appointment, after receiving the minister's resignation on the ground of ill-health. All three were in London at the time.

The prime minister told Mr. Bradley certain arrangements will be made to lighten state department duties so he can call on Mr. Pickersgill "as a junior colleague to assist me."

Mr. St. Laurent did not elaborate on this except to say he thought some state department duties might be moved to other departments such as justice.

To Seek Assistant

The prime minister also said he will be looking for further help besides Mr. Pickersgill. He will ask W. G. Weir, of Renfrew, Man., chief Liberal whip, to become his parliamentary assistant—a job that has been vacant since Walter Harris of Grand Forks left it to become immigration minister a couple of years ago.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Weir has turned down the job once but will be asked again to take it after the election, if the Liberals are returned.

Among the other appointments he announced Friday, major interest was on that of Commons Speaker Rene Macdonald, 61, who represents Bradford, Ont., to go to the Senate. There is some possibility Mr. Macdonald may become the government leader in the Upper House and, automatically, a member of the cabinet.

In event of a Liberal win, Mr. Macdonald most likely would be succeeded by Rene Beaudoin, 41, of Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Que., deputy speaker, under the practice of alternating the speakership between English and French members.

Named to Senate

Besides Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Bradley, there were three Senate appointments, cutting the vacancies in the upper chamber to a dozen:

J. A. Bradette, 67, Liberal member of the Commons for Cochrane, Ont., and former deputy speaker; Leonard Tremblay, 57, deputy Liberal whip, from Dorchester, Que.; Serge Fournier, 48, member for Maisonneuve-Rosemont who has headed some major Commons committees; Annie Layng, 58, member for Kent, N.B., and Abe J. Cosman, 57, Liberal member for Kent, N.B., and John J. Connolly, 58, the only new senator who has never been a member of the Commons, though he is a former executive assistant to Hon. Angus L. Macdonald and Hon. Douglas Abbott when they were navy ministers. Mr. Macdonald now is premier of Nova Scotia.

Mr. St. Laurent indicated no more senators will be appointed before the election. While he expressed confidence of winning the election, he suggested that—should the Liberals be defeated—it would be a good idea for the new government in power to be able to name some of its own adherents to the Senate. In the 102-member House, there now are only eight Progressive Conservatives in the opposition.

At his press conference, Mr. St. Laurent said the Aug. 18 choice was made because it would enable the enumeration of voters—getting their names on the list of electors—to be done during June. A fall election would have had the enumeration in July.

Wants Fall Session

It was believed, too, that another argument against a fall date was the government's intention of holding a fall session of Parliament. It wanted the election well out of the way before summoning the members here, and it also wanted it as quickly as feasible after the Coronation.

In the last election of June 27, 1949, Mr. St. Laurent brought the Liberals home with the record-breaking total of 190 seats out of a House that then had 262 members. It now has 265.

At dissolution, he had a total of 181. Standing of the other parties: Progressive Conservative, 41; CCF, 13; Social Credit, 18; Independent Liberal, one; Independent, four.

REMANDED ONE WEEK

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leo Cahill of Smiths Falls were granted an adjournment of one week Friday when they appeared in court here in connection with the $6,000 hold-up May 25 of the Royal Bank of Canada branch at Portland, 26 miles to the northwest. Cahill, charged with armed robbery, was remanded in custody for Mrs. Cahill, charged as an accomplice, was remand at $10,000.

Five seats were vacant.

Mr. St. Laurent boiled down to two words his answer to one of the key press conference queries: What is his view is the chief issue of the election?

"Good government," Mr. St. Laurent answered.

Schwabs Win Third Straight

Schwab's bantam baseball squad extended its unbeaten string to three last night defeating the Napanee team by a 5-3 score on the latter's diamond.

Gordie St. Louis started for the winners, giving up three runs off four hits in four and one-third innings. Jack Elliott relieved him and struck out the remaining six men to face him. The extra strikeout was necessary when the Schwab's catcher let a third strike get away from him to allow the batter to reach first, and eventually score.

Vine went the route for Napanee and was touched for seven hits.

Chick led the winners at the plate with two singles. Coe, John Foster, St. Louis, Walters and O'Neill got the rest.

Vine, Mitchell, McMillan and Allenbrack hit singles for Napanee.

Mitchell, of Napanee, played an outstanding game in the field, coming up with a snappy double play.

The score:

Schwab's	103	001	—5 7 1
Napanee	001	020	—3 4 3

REGIMENTAL HISTORY

OTTAWA (CP)—Farley Mowat, author of the book "People of the Deer," is touring European battlefields in connection with preparation of a history of his old wartime unit, the reserve force Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the army said Friday. He served as battalion intelligence officer with that unit in the Second World War. Its headquarters are in Belleville.

Safety League Seeks Assistance From Government

KINGSTON (CP) — Appointment of a royal commission to "determine the responsibility of the federal government in the development, improvement and maintenance of Canada's highways," with specific recommendations as to financial aid was sought Friday by the fourth annual conference of the Ontario Traffic Safety League.

Delegates said they felt it was time Ottawa "kicked in" with substantial financial assistance both for the development and maintenance of Canada's roads.

Members said they would approach the Ontario Good Roads Association for support and it was also suggested members of Parliament from Ontario be notified of the league's stand.

In another resolution, the conference reiterated a previous stand that the Ontario government establish a system of speed zoning throughout the province.

STEAL FURS, JEWELRY

MONTREAL (CP) — Furs and jewelry valued at $17,000 were reported stolen Friday by thieves who struck at two locations.

Simon Welsberg, proprietor of the Star Fur Mfg. Co., told police that thieves apparently climbed 10 flights of stairs to reach his premises. There they broke through a door and made off with $10,000 worth of fur coats. Mink jacket valued at $4,000 and $3,000 worth of jewels were reported stolen from an apartment on McTavish street.

Girl Revived By Heart Massage In Doctor's Office

MARKHAM (CP) — A four-year-old girl whose heart stopped beating while a small growth was being removed from her arm was revived by heart massage in a doctor's office here Friday.

Mary Lou Percy had been given a local anaesthetic by Dr. H. M. Pilkey as he prepared for the minor operation of removing the growth. When the child's heart stopped, Dr. Pilkey made an incision in her chest and began massaging her heart until regular beating started again.

She was taken to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto where her condition was described as "quite good."

TRAIN SEVERS TRANSPORT

NAPANEE (CP)—A loaded automobile transport truck was jinked in two when a Canadian National Railways passenger train struck the vehicle at a level crossing near here Friday. No one was hurt but four new cars were wrecked. Edward J. Wall of Verdun, Que., driver of the transport, crawled from the cab after the front end of the vehicle was carried 200 feet down the tracks.

SPEEDBOAT REGATTA!

For those who do not belong in the outboard-cabin brackets and a lot of those who are, and prefer a bit of Sunday afternoon "blackmarking", just lazin' around doing nothing at all, and who prefer a dash of excitement to help 'eat keep awake, the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club offers a bit of entertainment that should fill the bill.

They're sponsoring a mass get-together of the district and provincial Hot Rod Harry's and their Leagin' Lenses of the waterfaces, off Victoria Park during the regular siesta hour and if it is like any of its predecessors, the walching faithful won't catch many winks.

Some forty boats, representing eight or more classes, will take part in the best parade of the nautical hop-a-longs which will be exhibited on the west side of the park.

The water-bugs and a lot of them have a sharp sting in their tails as well as their innards, will be here from Toronto, Hamilton, Newmarsville, Oshawa, Trenton, Picton, Wellington and other points.

The majority of these boats have raced in competition with each other before and the results have been thrill-spill-chills filled heats that have had the faithful pulling its picnic baskets to places with the dare-ing of the drivers.

Ten classes will be here in the foam-kicking contests and if the water is the least bit choppy there should be some hair-raising episodes with the possibility of some drivers taking a Sunday bath in full dress.

Featured are the 17 cubic inchers, a hydro class that skims over the water with the greatest of ease and the "A-1" class that parades 7½ Mercury Hurricanes and Champion Hot Rods that can kick up more commotion and cream washer-women in a scrubbing flesta. Then there are 20 and 25 cubic inchers, racing runabouts and the well-known Canada One design inboard, a sleek job that can outfoot the majority of the 'ogr-beaters.'

The yacht-club sponsored regatta is the first of its kind to be held here since the Rotary Club fathered the big .225 h.p. dropline meet off Massassaga Point. We recall sitting aboard the official barge when the late "Pops" Cooper, who was fatally injured the following year in the Gold Cup Regatta at Picton, plunged his "Pops II" or "III" to a muddy bottom thirty feet below when he was turning to round a buoy and had inboard.

They picked up the ageless driver from the wind-whipped water and "Pops" flashed that famous grin from a dripping face. "Let it stay there, boys," he said, as Lloyd Hicks and others fished him out of the drink. "I've got four more like it at home."

But they did salvage the craft which was found bogged down in four feet of mud (Brother, was that Satchel Paige of the .225's ever travelling) a few days later. And in appreciation "Pops" forwarded the Rotary Club a substantial cheque for its crippled children's fund.

But while the boys of the outboards do not approach the speed of the classic driven by "Doc" Robinson, "Pops" Cooper, Ed Flos, Paul Sawyer, Cap Edwards, Billy Hanley and others of that speedboat ilk, they provide just as many thrills and in their own classes are as good at the throttle.

A warm June sun, a gentle breeze causing a four-inch ripple and you'll get more thrills off Victoria Park Sunday afternoon than a genuine picnic at County Island. The first heat gets under way at two o'clock. There will be plenty of prizes, cash and otherwise for the drivers who will be luncheoned following the regatta.

MORE THRILLS!

And if you're a double-thrill seeker you can start off a spine-jerking afternoon with that dirt-track hot-rodeo down at the Shannonville Speedway tonight. It is the second meet of the "claimers" with thirteen drivers, plus a dozen-and-one-lately, whatever that tearing into action means. Then there will be the regular field class of throttle-happy hellions plus the possibility of several motorcycle racers. Looks like a week-end of thrills for the excitement-loving Jacks and Jills.

ATTENTION SOFTBALL EXECUTIVE!

President Cy Barriage, of the Belleville District Softball League, announced today that a special meeting of the executive has been called for Monday night in the city hall council chambers.

Extra-special business is on the agenda and it is extremely important that ALL members of the executive be on hand.

JUNIOR BASEBALL!

Bryson Reid's Regent Juniors, battling desperately for their first victory in the Belleville District Baseball League, will tangle with the Prince Edward Combines at the CNR Recreation Park here on Monday night. The kids will be at full strength, and with Billy Strahan back from the honeymoon and ready to do his regular pitching stint, the youngsters will be out to do their darndest to trim the unsorted diamond squad from across the bay.

The Regents have been practicing hard in an effort to shake the jinx that has tailed them in practically all of the games thus far. They haven't been blessed with too much luck and they feel that Monday evening should be their first night to give with the victory yell. And a little support at the box office won't do them any harm, either. Game at 6.30.

Turpin Meets Olson, Young

NEW YORK (AP) — Britain's Randy Turpin will fight the winner of the June 19 bout between Bobo Olson and Paddy Young in New York in late August for the undisputed world middleweight championship.

James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said he released to make room for him. Friday Turpin had agreed to the probably a pitcher.

New York site and August date. Exact date and site will be determined after the Olson-Young bout at Madison Square Garden.

YANKEES BUY MIRANDA

CLEVELAND (AP) — New York Yankees Friday night purchased shortstop Willie Miranda from St. Louis Browns for about $10,000. The 27-year-old infielder has played with Washington and Chicago as well as the Browns. A player will

Whitey Ford Tosses 6-Hitter To Chalk Up Seven Straight; 'Bums' Vault Braves for Lead

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's Bobby Feller, seldom on a fireball against New York Yankees, today draws the tremendous task of trying to stop them from winning 16 straight.

Under normal conditions Feller isn't the pitcher you would pick to beat the Yankees, especially when they are in a winning mood. Even in the days when he was Rapid Robert, he never completely solved the New Yorkers. But the only outfit in the league with a lifetime edge over him, having beaten Bob 26 times in 65 decisions.

But conditions aren't normal in the Yankee camp. The manager's not only are threatening to run off and hide, they've already done it from at least six of the seven other clubs.

Up To Tribe

Only Cleveland holds a whip of a chance—barring a complete Yankee collapse. Before Friday night's 4-2 loss, Cleveland manager Al Lopez pointed out that his club trailed by 7½ games on Memorial Day less than this last season and then climbed to first. All concerned loudly admitted that the Indians didn't win.

Today's game has to be the big one. The Indians are 7½ behind and they have no more ground to make up with New York Sunday. The season is one-third over. Cleveland can't afford to let the series slip by without gaining some ground.

Cleveland's batters weren't hitting recently and Friday night was no exception. Their runs were the homers, by Dale Mitchell and Hank Majeski, but they got only four picked up his first victory.

Native Dancer Favored for Belmont But Element of Doubt Still There

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Many thousands of those who gather at Belmont Park today for the running of the Belmont Stakes, greatest of this country's three-year-old classics, will be there mainly for the thrill which comes of seeing a champion crowned in any sport. In many instances, gambling on the Belmont might be said to be almost incidental.

The carnival atmosphere of the Kentucky Derby will be completely missing when the field, last survivor of many hundreds of their neighbors, will be there to see the high hope, parade to the gate for the start of the marching mile and one-half race.

It is possible that nine out of 10 spectators will be there in the hope and expectation of seeing Native Dancer finally prove himself one of the truly great horses the sport has known. Al Vanderbilt's big, muscled grey is the supreme attraction, his opponents merely the spear bearers.

Failed Twice

Twice the glamor colt has failed to live up to his tremendous billing as a worthy successor to Citation. On the strength of his unbroken two-year-old career the long-striding son of Polynesian was pictured as a sort of super horse. He was beaten by Jamie K. in the Derby. His admirers claimed, though, and perhaps rightly, that he would have ended the race sider Dark Star in another stride. They said wait for the Preakness.

He won that one, but in far less than the impressive fashion expected of true champions. His margin over Jim Norris' surprising Jamie K. was only a head. And so today the Dancer gets another opportunity. His failure to have done so in the first two-thirds of the triple crown makes the Belmont Stakes more intriguing event than it might have been if the grey had strolled his fields at Churchill Downs and Pimlico. The element of doubt still is there.

Arcaro said after the Preakness that if the Dancer made one little mistake in that race Jamie K. would have beaten him.

Alec Bedser took seven Australian wickets for 55 runs. He thus brought his aggregate of test wickets to 189, equalling Sid Barnes' record for England.

When England batted, fast-bowler Ray Lindwall struck down the Australian attack, taking three for 35.

Australian Captain Lindsay Hassett got the first century of the test, with 115. He and Keith Miller put up a fourth-wicket stand of 109.

Captain Len Hutton added 43 for England before being caught by Ritchie Benaud. Reg Simpson and Denis Compton both were out few runs. Trevor Bailey and Godfrey Evans were still at bat when stumps were drawn early on account of bad light.

Bowlers Star In Test Match

LONDON (Reuters)—It was a bowlers' benefit at Nottingham Friday in the second day of the first English - Australia test cricket match, with 13 wickets dropping for 184 runs.

Australia collapsed soon after lunch, their last six wickets going for six runs, to end with 249 on the scoreboard. England replied with the loss of seven wickets at

'Thar's Holds in Them Thar Heels' Mutter Tornadoes After Stalemate

By GEO. E. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Cobalt Tornadoes, they blew into town

From the land of the steers and the setters,

But the time that the dust of the ferry settled down

They were batmy, like soft cornbread fritters.

Two of the most "vicious" characters in the Ontario Hockey Association's top-flight Intermediate loop left their marks on the Tornadoes' collective chins, Lou Jankowski, Cobalt's rough, tee-gallon Stetson, gouged chins and a mayhem smirk after precipitating strode into town last night, and started a very hate club among the ranks of the wrestling faithful.

The two Dick Raines and Lou Passmore, Canadian, taglessed champions of the world, Lords of the skies as their mailing slip. In fact they brought almost everything . . . Texan with them including the mould.

The Texans threw things however. Their spurs, their palomino and their accents.

The only thing they had in the Empire Room was a silver-plated saddle which they hung by a silver chain from a ringpost. They said it was their good-luck charm.

If that is the case, Bobo Brazil and Don Jonathan, their younger more agile opponents should have had a blacksmith shop in their ring-corner workspot.

And Sammy Goddee, the third man in the ring, and their fifth at times, was also minus a choice piece of equipment. He left his white waistband at home, and brought along his blinkers.

Ended by blindness?

And there's no truth in the post-brawl rumor that Jonathan and Bobo were thinking of "Seeing Eye" dog after the bout. Both say they are "Seeing Eye" badges as they are branded, still cling to a somewhat tarnished trophy from their days of the Canadian Tag-Team championship, for the title ended abruptly in a flurry of fists, flings and a stalemate all round.

At least that is what Referee Goddee signalled after he emerged from the fray with the howling Dervishes, which he soloed quite admirably, and called the four gladiators old a "swing your opposite partners all" a fierce bout-end dosido of fist and derogatory.

That's it, pointers. Them that Texans done won the fust fall, lost the second, and wouldn't show up the town if the dinner gong hadn't rung and all hands quit for chow.

It looked bad for the black-and-white sweaters, in the first five minutes of the initial fall. Don Jonathan, powerful young-ster built like an adonis was the victim of practically everything in the book except the saddle-blanket. They gouged, kicked, punched and stalled intensely until it looked as though Bobo might as well go out and collect unemployment insurance.

Black Pastime

Then it happened. Somehow or other, the Bobo got the flag-pat-up green light and a savage black pastime broke out from the ropes. He "conked" Lou the Plummer on hand but his coupling loosened. Cashe the Raines, and lightning struck him in the same places, as the faithful let loose with thunderous applause. He be went wild for a few moments and the Lone Star swaddies thought it was a 1953 version of the Alamo.

The crafty Texans used every trick they had. They switched while La Goddee's back was turned and between them got the upper hand. Bobo ran into trouble when Raines clamped on a backbreaker hold and the "flailing" was the fall after eighteen minutes.

The youngsters had at each other in the second fall and between them had the crowd in an uproar. Bobo "leap-frogged" Raines on one occasion and he, following through, hauled the Texan over his pipes and hurled him out of the ring. Twice the Bobo Texan and Plummer down over the count only to have the other leap the ring and pull him off. Finally after Bobo had drop-kicked Raines out of the ring, he hauled him back, played pancake with him two or three times and ended the match's frantic efforts to intervene, won the fall.

Only eight minutes was left in the third fall when the "Start Firing" bugles blew. It was even-spoken with a minute to go when Bobo and Jonathan got on the rowboat act and had the Texans doing the "Alley-ball" bellies flipping and flopping like a pair of jolted-up bullfrogs.

Goddee finally pried them apart with a threat of ten slaps on the wrist for the whole shebang, when the grand finale occurred. The crowd stood up as the four charged and exchanged body slams in the air and across the floor went cross-eyed trying to figure out who was wrong and who was right. Finally the gong rang and the boys picked up their boots and saddles and adjourned to the bunk-house.

Timmy Goodboy, popular Irish strong man, and Firpo Thyrko, the mustached Pole, battled sixteen minutes in a lively semi-final with Timmy flattening the Pole, who was north and south at times with his famous Irish Sleeper.

Pat Flanagan and Jan Gotch battled to a twenty-minute "no contest" decision when both were counted out after they failed to return to the ring in time.

Hogan Falters But Retains US Open Lead

By WILL GRIMSLEY

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Golf's imperturbable little master, Ben Hogan, showed signs of weakening Friday and a couple of hardened pros jarred his early grip on the 53rd United States open golf championship.

In an exhausting round which lasted four hours and 50 minutes, the thirty-first champion scrambled home with a second-round 72, even par, which gave him a halfway score of 138.

Hogan takes back—with two taxing rounds scheduled today for the championship—Lloyd Mangrum, Sam Snead and Jack Burke, Jr., all of whom posted 36-hole scores of 139 to secure the race-setter 1-liters.

The unpredictable Snead sank an 80-foot pitch shot on the final green for a three-under-par 68, which brought the slammer three strokes nearer the lead.

Mangrum, 36-old Fazio, who with Lloyd Mangrum had tied Hogan for the National title in 1950, added a steady 71 to a previous 70. He is one of the few pros to succeed the race-setter 1-liters.

Burke, who at 143 came another old campaigner, Mangrum, the 1946 champion, who fashioned a 70 for the second round. Ed Oliver, Herbert, a surprise contender from Erie, Pa., and former assistant pro at Oakmont, followed at 144, and then Ben Hogan, the Texas Wizard, to carry pro for 37 years, with 145.

Hogan turned in an erratic 36-36 over the 6,918-yard, par 35-35 Oakmont course. Regarded as the greatest golfer in the game, he three-putted two greens and had trouble with his irons.

Hogan, who won this title in 1948, 1950 and 1951, took a similar six-stroke lead into the final day a year ago only to lose his hold and watch the championship go to a rank outsider, Julius Boros.

Boros, the forgotten man of this third tournament, matched Hogan's round with a par 72, despite some faulty putting, but found himself eight strokes back at 147.

The pro-caddy is confined from its present 190 to the low 50s and ties for that position. The cruise point was 153, so players shooting that and under qualified for the finals.

Barely making it at 153 were such top figures as Jim Turnesa, the PGA champion; Ed (Porky) Oliver, the 1953 runner-up; former champions Lawson Little and Australian Peter Thomson.

Trudeaus Bow To Robb Rockets

Robb Rockets, powered by three hit performances of St. Dennis and White, coasted to a 12-3 victory over Trudeau Motors as St. Dennis and Coe combined for a 4-hit pitching effort in the winners while striking out 22 men between them.

St. Dennis started on the hill for the winners and walked six, and then set 11 in order before being relieved by Coe who finished with six strike outs and seven strikeouts. Neither pitcher gave up a hit. Walks accounted for the Trudeau runs.

St. Dennis aided his own cause with a home run and three singles while White hit a home run, double and single. Charter and Moore each singled for the winners.

Undefeated Jrs. Down Frankford; Win 12-2 in Rain

The Glen Roy Juniors continued their blistering pace at the head of the Belleville and District Softball League last evening as they whipped Frankford Merchants 12-2 at the CNR Recreation Field.

The victory was the Glens fifth of the week and kept their undefeated streak intact.

The game was played in a steady rain for the first seven frames and less than a corporal's guard of die-hard fans clustered under the grandstand to watch the action.

The Glens picked up two runs in the first frame on a walk, a bad throw by Carr, a wild pitch and a passed ball. Day's single and Hallett's double added another in the second, and they went six runs in four in the third after two were down on walks, an error, and a single.

Frankford closed the gap somewhat picking up single tallies in the fourth when they left three men stranded, and in the fifth.

The Glens collected a couple of runs in the sixth on walks to Barclay and Carr, and a single by Goyer, but Frankford came back with two in the eighth as they pounded over the fence runs by three men to center off third and forcing the man coming in from second. Goodyear was able to shoot to end the threat.

Bob Green toiled the route on the mound for the winners. He struck out eight batters in the game, he gave up four hits for two runs.

Carr went the route for the hill for for Merchants walking a dozen, striking out four, and giving up seven hits for 12 runs.

Goyer, with a home run and a single in four trips led all batters.

Remember When

Jimmy Braddock jumped from relief rolls to the world's heavyweight boxing championship by winning the decision over title-holder Max Baer in 15 rounds at New York, 18 years ago tonight. The New Jersey battler, then 28, financial circumstances, made one of the biggest ring upsets in years. He lost the title to Joe Louis two years later, in 1937.

Favorites in Wading Brogues

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Field Specimens, Author and Creator of Selznar Tables)

For forty-odd years . . . a long time, some feel I consider it . . . I have been wading the trout streams and bass rivers. Very early in my angling career I felt I can be called, I formed some definite conclusions in the matter of wading gear, particularly footwear.

In my early teens our wading gear was rather rudimentary. It consisted, simply, of a pair of hobnailed work shoes, wool pants and socks, and, if the weather was cold, some underwear.

To be sure, on "opening day," when sometimes the ice would freeze in the guides of the old, wading in those icy streams was indeed a Spartan piece of business. However, nobody bothered with boots in those days. We simply went fishing and got wet.

Next came the rubber-boot era. We used help boots over them, just as they came from the store. It was a rare fishing trip that brought all of us home dry. Rubber soles do not hold well on slippery rocks and somebody was bound to slip and take a ducking. Creepers helped.

So we bought creepers, those chain, stiffened affairs that strap around the boot soles. Some of the boys had steel cleats screwed to the heels of their boots. These things gave us more footing and we felt braver duckings.

Surer footing gave us confidence and more freedom of movement in our wading. Then we encountered a new hazard; unless we were extra careful we found ourselves getting into water which was a half-inch or so too deep. Result . . . a boothul of cold mountain water.

Then a friend of mine imported a pair of broad-thigh waders from England; also, a pair of leather wading shoes or brogues. The soles of these were studded with iron hobs and they looked quite impressive. To be sure, the brogues required a bit of lacing and were, in fact, just about as heavy, but they gave every assurance that you'd keep a much more right-side-up in fast water.

It so happened that the fellow who owned this wading equipment was not a fisherman, so I made a deal with him and became the owner of the first . set of waders and brogues in town.

Being anxious to try my wings, so to speak, I put the things on and then attempted to cross a waist-deep run of fast water in the Beaverkill. I wound up sitting in the shallow end of the pool, a very wetter angler.

Must Learn to Wade

However, I gained some valuable knowledge from that ducking. I found out that I must first learn to wade if he is to be safe in fast water. Not having psychology to teach me, I had to find out the rules for myself.

These rules are simple enough. They consist of "a series of "don'ts". First and foremost, don't wade in fast water directly upstream from deep water. Next, try an excellent way to get yourself drowned. Don't shift your weight until the forward foot is solidly planted on the bottom. Don't hurry; take your time. Lastly, don't straighten your legs; wade with your knees slightly bent until you are thoroughly sure of your footing.

It did not take too long to learn these things and to discard the wading staff. After a comparatively short time these "don'ts" become automatic and I did them without thinking.

Time went on, and wading gear improved. The new ones were lighter; they fitted snugly and they gave foot support where it is needed, under the instep.

Then somebody came up with the idea of using felt soles on wading brogues instead of leather soles and bingo! Here was indeed a sad day for the angling brotherhood.

I heard so much about felt soles that I finally broke down and spent fourteen big, round dollars for a pair of new brogues with felt soles. They cost when a dollar was worth a dollar.

I took these beautiful new brogues up to Brodhead's Creek in the Poconos of Pennsylvania, blithely. I did not take my time-tested hobs along. In that single day I fell down twice, separate and distinct times.

These falls weren't the easy kind, where you get maybe one arm wet. They were the kind where you come on and down I'd go, up to my chin or completely under. The following week I sold the brogues to one of the unsuspecting. A considerable loss, incidentally . . . and bought a pair of those with hobs and felt and soft-iron hobs.

Then one of the rubber companies came out with those felt-soled moakers or gum shoes. That was an uneven sadder day for the anglers of the nation.

Right Type Scarce

Today it is a difficult job to find a pair of leather brogues, equipped with leather soles and soft-iron hobs. The one company from which I have been buying my brogues, down through the years now finds it bother with the soft-iron hobs. So help me, I think I'll buy a shoemaker's last and do the hobnailing job for myself.

Meanwhile, I have quite a few fishing guests come here to visit me and to wet a line each season. All of them use felt soles. You would be surprised to learn how much time I spend leading these fellows to their hands across fast-water riffles.

But here's the pay-off. This season I've seen several fishermen wearing chain creepers over their felt-soled moakers.

And so the pendulum swings . . . hobs, boots, creepers, leather brogues with hobs, then felt soles, and now back to chain creepers again. What, I wonder, are the spotting goods dealers and the shoe manufacturers going to get smart and give the anglers what they want in wading equipment?

The dealers and some of the jobbers and direct-mail houses do, but then rarely, if ever, do they have a call for hob-nailed brogues. Small wonder, then, is one in ten of the younger anglers has ever seen a pair of them.

That does not alter the fact that, in my opinion, hobnailed brogues are the footgear that will keep you dry, right-side-up, and safe in fast water. If you happen to like felts, all well and good. I'll stick to hobnails.

Wings, Bisons Win Only Games In International

Rain and threatening weather disrupted the International Baseball League schedule Friday night, with only two games completed of the five scheduled.

Rochester Red Wings shaded Springfield Cubs 2-1 and Buffalo Bisons outscored Syracuse Athletics 11-8. A double-header between Syracuse and Baltimore was postponed when the Allan Cup champion at Toronto was postponed because of threatening weather.

At Springfield, the Red Wings made it two straight in their five-game series with Cubs.

Springfield outhit the Wings 10-6, but timely hitting and errors enabled Rochester to win the game.

At Buffalo, the Bisons jumped on two Syracuse pitchers for nine hits and seven runs in the first three innings to ease the way to seventh victory in 10 league starts.

Jimmy Carter Crumples Geo. Araujo To Retain World Lightweight Crown

By JACK HAND

Carter weighed 135, Araujo 132 lb.

Referee Al Berl signalled an end to the contest as the 22-year-old challenger from Providence, R.I., sank to the floor under a thumping right that doubled him up. The 29-year-old champion from New York twice floored Araujo for counts of two and three in a ninth-round explosion that broke the fight wide open.

Up to the ninth there were times when it seemed the nimble challenger might be able to dagce his way to the championship.

Always Carter was the purposeful, grimly plodding after his man.

Lashing out with sudden fury in the ninth, Carter crashed home a hook to the body. As Araujo fled toward his own corner, the champion drove a long right to the point of the jaw. Araujo sank suddenly without warning. He was up at a count of two but obviously in distress.

Carter seemed determined to end it there as he pressed the attack, dropping Araujo with another right to the chin. This time Araujo took a three-count.

Another smashing right to the jaw halted Araujo in confusion and he stood in a daze as the bell rang to save him.

Up to the ninth, Araujo was leading on the official cards. But that smashing bombing took all the spring from his legs.

Bert and Judge Harold Barnes scored it 7-5 in favor of Carter up to the 13th. Judge Bert Grant had it 84 for Carter.

Bauer made the announcement at the official dinner of the club that won the Allan Cup championship this year.

Coach Rafferty piloted the Dutchmen to their first place league standings to a succession of playoff triumphs and then to the Allan Cup.

Movie Column

ADVANCE FOR JUNE 13 PMS
By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movies are again inspiring a volume of popular records, but it's not because of musicals. The dramas are doing the selling.

Film musicals used to bring forth a number of hit songs and records. But something has happened. For one thing, the scores for movies haven't produced the singable tunes of yore. Also, the music business has become a topsy-turvy world in which inane jingles, cornball tunes and shouting singers in echo chambers have become hits.

Now comes a new wrinkle. The scores of dramatic pictures are producing songs and records that click. This is nothing new. In the old days, movies used to have theme songs that were played over and over again for a haunting effect.

Then there was the still-popular "Laura." The background theme of the picture, written by David Raksin, was lyricized by Johnny Mercer, and a song became a hit.

The current favorite is "Where Is Your Heart?" which is billed as "song from Moulin Rouge." The Percy Faith record has topped the record selling, juke box and disk jockey lists for several weeks.

"Anna," by the Italian star, Sylvana Mangano, is another top seller. It is from the Italian film, which has been dubbed into English. Another hit is "Ruby," as done by Richard Hayman and Lee Baxter. It is taken from the Jennifer Jones-Charlton Heston film, "Ruby Gentry."

A popular orchestral number is the haunting music from "The Bad and the Beautiful," recorded by David Rose. A newcomer to the hit lists is "Return to Paradise," the music from the Gary Cooper film made in the South Pacific. It is available in versions by Rose and Percy Faith, among others. The theme from Charlie Chaplin's "Limelight" is also catching on. The ballad from "High Noon" is still getting a play in the record business. The academy award helped to revive it.

Maybe these times will help get rid of that blankety-blank Doggie in the Window.

AT THE McCARTHY THEATRE

The Coronation of Queen Elizabeth on June 2, 1953, and now brought to the screen in J. Arthur Rank's feature-length Technicolor presentation "A Queen Is Crowned", opening next Wednesday at the McCarthy Theatre, climaxed a long series of plans and preparations that went into effect immediately upon the death of King George VI in February, 1952.

Royal life became one busy whirl for the Queen as she started an eighteen month program of preparations that was to be climaxed with the actual Coronation in Westminster Abbey.

"A Queen Is Crowned" is the first Technicolor coverage of a Coronation ceremony.

The actual Coronation of Queen Elizabeth did not, however, take her out of the public eye for a short time after it did bring to a halt a long list of appearances.

Immediately following the Coronation, Queen Elizabeth started another schedule of colorful events which continued to keep her in the eyes of her subjects.

Two days following the Coronation the Queen attended the Epsom Downs races and followed the next day by receiving foreign envoys at Buckingham Palace.

On the eighth of June she attended the Royal Review at Covent Garden and the next day attended Thanksgiving Services in St. Paul's. On July 5 she reviewed the ex-servicemen and women in London and on the eighth and ninth the Queen and Duke were scheduled to visit Wales.

A total of 16 Technicolor cameras were instrumental in bringing "A Queen Is Crowned" to the screen. The cameras were located in six strategic positions with one placed at a vantage site inside the Westminster Abbey where the actual Coronation took place.

Narration written especially for the film by Christopher Fry, British dramatist, is delivered by actor Laurence Olivier, Academy Award Winner for his role in "Hamlet."

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

Broke and desperate Peter Lawford reaches Australia before the turn of the century and encounters Finlay Currie, who owns a cattle station in the drouth-ridden bush country. In a drunken moment Currie bets his of the son he had abandoned in an orphanage years before Lawford, teaming up with Richard Boone, a hard-bitten thug, contrives to have Currie invite them to his station. Bit by bit, Lawford subtly convinces Currie (Lawford) is the long-lost son. The drouth, however has brought desolation and hard times; Chips Rafferty, a trooper, suspects Lawford and Boone, and Lawford falls in love with Currie's daughter, Maureen O'Hara. Finally Lawford confesses his plot; in a savage battle Boone wounds Chips Rafferty to stalk by Rafferty. The rains come, and Lawford is forgiven by Maureen and her father.

Garden Notes

The Herbaceous Perennial Border

BY FLORA M. SAVELLE

Dear Hilda:

You were asking how to plan a perennial border. A perennial is a plant with a root which lives on from year to year, while the stem and leaves die down each fall and grow again in the spring. There are several plants which do not die down completely but remain evergreen through the winter, as the chrysanthemum, but their roots remain alive, so they are often classed with the perennials.

Taking these long lived roots into consideration, we will plan for their well being when laying the foundation for the bed, or border.

If you have a long space available you can have a sweeping curve to the front edge. Avoid a scalloped edge. It is hard to care for and to look at. The border may mark the boundary of the property, or may be planned as a wide border in front of a hedge. A good example of this is often found in parks, or leading up to public buildings. A background of evergreens, or a mixed shrubbery forms a good setting for the perennial border.

Trenching Advised

In any case the soil should be prepared at a greater depth than is usually intended for annuals. Trenching is a favorite method of experienced gardeners. To do this you mark off a strip two or three feet wide at one end of the border. Take the dirtfrom of top soil from this section and place it on a tarpaulin. Spade up the first sub-soil and loosen it up to a depth of one foot. Spread a layer or four inch layer of well rotted manure, rotted hay, or straw, compost, leaf mold, or peat moss. If peat moss is used it will be necessary to add a good complete fertilizer to supply nitrogen. Ammonium sulphate at the rate of one pound to each 100 square feet or surface will act quickly. Where soil is poor it should be turned under to decompose.

Throw the top-soil from the next section on top of this treated sub-soil and work the whole bed in like manner. The first top-soil will be spread over the last section of sub-soil.

It is better to prepare the border soil in July or August and allow it to stand until September when you will set out most of the perennial plants. The others can be filled in next spring. Shortly before setting out the plants give the whole surface an application of balanced fertilizer vigor, or one containing nitrogen, phosphates and potassium in the ratio of 4-8-10. Work it in well, smooth and level the bed. Use 2 pounds per 100 sq. ft. of surface.

A well planned border will have a succession of bloom from earliest spring to late fall. The tall growing varieties should be planted at the back, those of medium height in the centre section, and the low growing plant types along the front edge.

Plans for the border should not be set out in rows, but in groups of three, five, or seven according to the nature size of the plants. Peonies, because of their size could be planted singly.

Suitable Plants

There are at least 50 well known suitable plants with many varieties of each to choose for the border. There are hundreds of different kinds and classes of different chrysanthemums and Homecoming Gaiety's as we will mention just a few in each height range. Visit local nurseries, and study and observe carefully to make your selections. Many of the plants listed can be grown from seed, which you can start now in a corner of the vegetable garden and have them ready for setting out in September. Slower growing plants such as the peony should be bought by the plant. You can also choose the new hybrids for size, color, and vigor.

Tall plants — for the back row —helenium, (sneezeweed) delphinium, false sunflower, hollyhock, delphinium. For the centre section — double perennial sunflower, daylily, peony, falseflax, campanula, coreopsis, bellflower, bearded iris, phlox and lupin.

For the front edge — dianthus, dainty, gallardia, Iceland poppy, and rockcress. To these you can add some of the annuals and the spring flowering bulbs.

Best wishes for your border.
—Flora.

Savage Storm Adds to Floods At Medicine Hat

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)— New flood threats in southern Alberta developed Friday in the wake of a 45-minute electrical and hail storm that struck the Lethbridge area last night.

Lethbridge was recovering from the cloudburst and flood which set the flooding Oldman river and Medicine Hat had battled a flood crest in the South Saskatchewan river when the storm struck.

Reports from Calgary said a line of Calgary Power Ltd. supporting emergency electricity to Lethbridge following flooding of the pumphouse at the southwestern Alberta city, was struck by lightning.

Rain and hail in the Lethbridge area, caused some immediate flooding where storm sewers could not carry the run-off from the heavy downpour.

Meanwhile as the South Saskatchewan crest moved across the Prairie flatlands to Saskatoon, a cloudburst was reported at Drumheller in the east-central Alberta. Heavy rain in the coal-mining town overflowed the storm-sewer system.

MARMORA

Mrs. William Revoy, of Marmora township recently caught one of the largest pickerel to be taken from Crowe Lake.

It was 32 inches long and weighed nine pounds.

Eli was fishing with a minnow for bait when a rock bass took the minnow and then the pickerel took the rock bass.

Her husband who is a guide at Crowe Lake during the open season, was out with a Mr. Crull of Belleville and two of his companions and the party caught 18 in three hours one day that same week.

SAYS MARS BLUE

LONDON (AP)—A Russian astronomer believes there is life on the planet Mars and that vegetation there is blue and violet instead of green because of the cold, Moscow radio said Thursday night. The astronomer, identified as Prof. Fesenkov, said vegetation on the planet Venus, where it's hotter, would be orange or red due to heat rays' reflection.

CIVIL DEFENCE
Gas Attack
By JACK BRETT

War is bad no matter what weapon for or friend you choose. All are forms of human destruction, designed to kill or maim. It seems little difference whether rivilian or soldier weapons play no favorites. History has shown us, it is often the innocent who suffer.

With most weapons one may hear or see them coming. But there is one which is never heard or seen and in many cases, it is more effective and deadly than bombs. It is the most ruthless, most unfair and most feared form of attack, "gas." It is all these things because we are not likely, to be even aware of its presence, and if attention is not soon coming, we will die, as the song goes, "and never know why."

Gas is not necessarily the least painful means of dying, and contrary, to a few stories which have circulated to the effect, "it's an easy way to go," it is not. Death, no matter how it is attained, can never be easy. It is more painfully sudden, but to be easy, never.

The body and entire nerve centre completely rebel against dying. They fight, every organ in the body fights for life against death if it is working properly. Chemical Weapon

It is a chemical weapon, this gas, relying on its poisonous effects. Similar to other weapons of war, its object is to kill or incapacitate. The weapon may be used in the invisible vapor, as its name implies, in past instances it has been employed as mixed solid particles or liquid, droplets, airborne and inviable or it may be used as a liquid which evaporates to form invisible vapor—both liquid and vapor being dangerous.

For study and practical application, war gases have been divided into two main categories, the persistent and the non-persistent. Both terms are self explanatory. For instance, the persistent gases are liquids which evaporate slowly, giving off a poisonous vapor and therefore will remain effective sometimes for days for a considerable period of time. Of course the non-persistent are those which are going to remain active or dangerous for only a short period of time.

We can subdivide the two types into five groups each. Blister gases, choking gases, tear gases and nose gases. The first group, nerve gases, are simply liquids which evaporate, giving off invisible vapors. Having practically no order, they are absorbed only through the eyes and breathing passages and may be detected through their physical effects. The liquid can be absorbed through the skin by penetrating clothing to do so.

Net Must Penetrate

The respirator and special clothing are about the only protection against gases. Naturally, the gas mask is going to be of little avail in the case of gases which are absorbed through clothing.

First aid has as its key note, with gases, speed of action. Again it is going to vary in detail according to the type of gas and the way in which it attacks the body. The first and immediate action is to remove or lessen injury by getting rid of all traces of the gas as quickly as possible. All clothing which has been contaminated by liquid or vapor must be removed and the affected skin rapidly cleansed.

Next week we shall endeavor to tell you something about an air raid shelter in this column.

Govt. Wants Designs For New Bomber

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has asked Canadian companies to submit plans for a new bomber to replace Lancasters for the RCAF's four-engine Lancaster, the main aircraft of Maritime Command, it was said today.

Considered as a possible successor is the Handley Page V-bomber, the new United Kingdom turbo-prop British Britannia. Officials said, however, there still is the possibility that the design finally chosen may be a Canadian product—if the Canadian company can produce something better than the Britannia.

DENY NEW TRIAL

NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. court of appeals again today denied a new trial or a stay of execution to condemned atom spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Their last hope for a court stay of execution now rests with the U. S. Supreme Court. The Rosenbergs are scheduled to die in the electric chair June 18.

Roads Leading To Stricken Areas Ordered Closed

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—All roads leading into three tornado-stricken communities in central Massachusetts were ordered closed to non-residents and unnecessary traffic today to prevent looting.

Governor Christian A. Herter issued the directive closing roads leading into Worcester, Shrewsbury and Holden as the death toll of the Tuesday night twister rose to 85.

The finding of the body of two-year-old Charles Colland in Holden runs left only one person, Clarence Johnson of Worcester, listed as missing.

The Colland baby was whipped from his mother's arms by the tornado's roaring wind. The mother Mrs. Ruth Colland, is in critical condition with internal injuries.

Some 300 other persons were injured in the driving storm which struck Worcester and its towns a few minutes prior to the supper hour. About 8,000 were left homeless.

Boats made of Fiberglass ....

Yes, that amazing discovery of science "Spun Glass", has revolutionized boat building. Now Munro boats are scuff-proof, leakproof, seamless and in fact practically indestructible, yet lighter, faster and more durable than wood.

Lifetime Economy-Here's why

1. Fiberglass banishes annual upkeep. No more scraping, caulking, re-fastening or painting. It's lighter than wood—as strong as steel.

2. Hulls are one-piece construction — no seams to leak, out of water they cannot dry out. In the water they will withstand scuffing on the sand or beating from rocky shores and absorb no water.

3. Imagine! Permanent moulded-in colors. Never need a paint job — always bright and clean inside and out.

4. And safe. Styrafoam flotation under seats assures safety.

5. Durable. Impervious to attack by rot, rust, worms or corrosion, not affected by salt water, intense sunlight or cold. Can even be stored outdoors or left in the water indefinitely with no deterioration or change of appearance. Yes, just bolt on any attachments as with wood, with metal bolts.

REMEMBER! When you buy a Munro fiberglass outboard your expenses end. Your investment does not depreciate and the re-sale value is high because of the remarkable permanent qualities, making your first cost your last. There's a fleet of nine models to choose from and they are much easier to own than perhaps you would imagine.

Naval Guns Boom Salute As Queen Reviews Fleet

206 Ships from World's Navies Inspiring Sight

SPITHEAD, England (Reuters)—The Queen sailed up and down long ranks of warships from all the world on Sunday in the sea-going section of Britain's Coronation festivities—the Royal naval review.

She and the Duke of Edinburgh stood in a glass-enclosed bridge in the converted frigate Surprise, reconditioned to serve as a Royal yacht for the day.

As they passed each of the 206 ships from 22 nations, including Canada, the assembled crews broke into cheers.

Naval guns boomed out a salute as the Queen's ship neared the anchorage in Spithead, the channel between the mainland and the Isle of Wight.

The ships were lined up in orderly ranks, flags fluttering from every mast, as far as the eye could see.

580,000 Look On

On high land along the shores an estimated 580,000 people looked on through numberless pairs of binoculars and telescopes. Many had slept out overnight to be sure of a good vantage point.

Elizabeth stood waving in her saluting cabin. She wore a white coat trimmed with navy blue cuffs.

Aside from Britain herself, the Commonwealth representation was the largest from the Commonwealth countries. The count was 20 nations.

80 ships to be reviewed, led the contingent which included the cruisers Diadem and Newfoundland, destroyer Sioux, the frigate Swansea and La Hulloise, plus the government icebreaker D'Iberville.

Sixteen aircraft from the Magnificent will take part in the flypast.

The United States Navy's representation, the heavy cruiser Macon, flying the flag of Vice Admiral Jerauld Wright, commander-in-chief of U. S. naval forces in the eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean, was resplendent in fresh from stem to stern.

So was Russia's cruiser Sverdlov.

Receives Sender Officers

The scene reminded many local onlookers of the 1944 invasion fleet which moved over the same historic neck of water for the invasion of Europe.

Earlier today the Queen had received the senior officers of the ships invited to be on board the Surprise. Among those she was presented to was Vice-Adm. G. Holtzow, skipper of the Russian vessel, but he went through an interpreter for about a minute.

The sun shone over the channel but a stiff breeze whipped the smoke of the gun salutes as the Royal yacht rounded the 42,500-ton British battleship vanguard to sail down between the lines of battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, frigates and other craft.

Augusta, flagship of the assembly, was the only battleship there, for the ships on parade represented the modern conception of naval strength—speed rather than size.

Tonight the ships will light up strings of lights and a huge fireworks display will be held.

The thirty-two Commonwealth ships represented about one-third of their navies' combined strength.

In addition, every representative British merchant and fishing fleets and a large number of yachts of all sizes stretch around the fringes of the anchorage.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Bright unsettling across the northland and clearing skies over Southern Ontario today. Cop Kicks Cat, Cat Is Skunk, Cop Skunked

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—A city constable on cruiser duty was investigating an alley when he came upon a cat. To clear the thoroughfare the constable nudged the cat with his foot. When it refused to move he kicked it again. It was then found out it was one of nature's striped-stripe types of cats. The constable completed the night's rounds on foot.

Had 'Good Look' At World From Mountain Top

By PETER JACKSON
THYANGBOCHE MONASTERY, Nepal (Reuters)—They only had room ever to have conquered Mt. Everest, told how they embraced each other on the icy summit and had a "good look" at the world before descending 20 minutes later.

Sitting in this snowbound refuge inhabited by Buddhist monks, Sir Edmund Hillary, the 33-year-old New Zealand beekeeper knighted by the Queen, said June 8:

"I felt damn good at the top. It was a beautiful day with a moderate wind. At we got there, my companion threw his arms around me and embraced me."

Col. John Hunt, the Everest guide Tensing Bhutia, 39, who conquered the 29,000-foot mountain with Hillary May 29, crossed into a winning smile.

"It was very happy and not particularly tired," he said.

The less guide, known as the Himalayan "Tiger of the Snows," was asked if he would like to tackle the same assignment again.

"No, no, not again," he said. "Seven attempts are enough. But I would like to go to K.2 for I think it can be done."

K.2—Mount Godwin Austen—is the world's second highest peak at 28,250 feet. A United States expedition is making a bid this year to scale it. The mountain is in the Karakoram range of the Himalayas in northern Kashmir.

Never Again Trust Russ Wholly Says Tito, Accepting New Envoy

By ALEX SINGLETON

BELGRADE (AP) — Moscow and Belgrade today buried Yugoslavia today for the first time since the Cominform split in 1948. Belgrade agreed to return the favor.

The Kremlin's choice for the diplomatic post here was Vasily Alexandrovich Tarasov, Soviet ambassador to The Netherlands.

Tarasov and the Belgrade appointee was not immediately made known.

The two countries never broke off diplomatic relations entirely, but maintained them on a formal and chilly basis through charges of affairs. The new step contained potentialities for setting the five-year-old feud between the two countries, but President Tito in a speech Sunday:

"The exchange of ambassadors does not mean normalization of relations, and does not mean immediate normalization.

"Never again will we trust them (the Russians) 100 per cent."

He said some had tried to picture the resumption of relations on a full basis as a change in Yugoslav policy toward the West. That, he declared, "is wrong."

"Those who say that hope to isolate us or are not loyal toward us but do not understand us. We do not change as the wind blows."

An Associated Press dispatch from Moscow on May 18 noted "a tendency toward a more normal diplomatic relationship between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia." But Tito, in a speech three days later, angrily said that relations between them were just as bad as ever.)

MEMBER TRENTON RCAF STATION, FRIEND, KILLED

Scene of Accident Near Sharbot Lake

Two Perth district youths, one of them a member of the R.C.A.F. at Trenton, met fiery death in their flaming auto early Sunday morning when the car went out of control on a curve a mile east of Sharbot Lake, ripped out two guard rail posts, crashed into a tree and burned. Sharbot Lake is 40 miles north of Kingston.

Dead are Patrick Simpson, 22, R.C.A.F., and Ross McMullin, 17, both of Port Elmsley, six miles south of Perth. One of the boys was burned beyond recognition as the car's inside—of their late model sedan was burned to a crisp.

East of Sharbot Lake

Police said the car was westbound on No. 7 highway when about a mile east of Sharbot Lake the car swung wide on a curve, ripped out two guide rail posts, then went on to crash into a tree and caught fire.

The force of the impact of the wreck threw Simpson clear. The left front door was wrenched open and one of the youths fled half out of the car but one of his legs was pinned beneath the seat and he could not be freed. After the fire was out the body of the second boy was found pinned beneath the dash, burned beyond recognition. A torch had to be used to cut the body loose from the car.

Provincial police coroners used fire extinguishers in an effort to subdue the flames, but they proved almost useless in controlling the fire.

Given Grave Burned

So intense was the heat that green grass along the roadside and the fir trees nearby also caught fire was scorched by the flames. Both the Harvey Funeral Home of the Ontario Provincial Police at Sharbot Lake, was on the scene before the flames were out and assisted in getting the bodies from the burned wreckage. They had to cut one man out with a "blow torch," he said. The other was identified so as to be almost unrecognizable as a human being.

A charred billfold in which a Perth driving licence was found led to the identification of the two men. They were not positively identified by their homes 16 hours after the accident.

Hit No Snags in Truce Talks And Early Signing Is Likely

By ROBERT R. TUCKMAN

MUNSAN (AP)—Signs of a quick truce increased today even as Communist leaders in the east smashed south in a stretch-drive offensive.

Although reasons behind the 11th-hour Red attack differed, observers mystified, these developments pointed to an imminent armistice:

1. Word leaked out that staff officers writing the last details of an armistice have struck no snags.

2. Allied and Red liaison officers met in secret for 19 minutes. A spokesman said they "made progress" to discuss administrative details, but they could have accomplished the next meeting of the main truce negotiation delegations, which have been in recess a week.

3. Troops and supply trucks poured into this base camp as the Allies rushed preparations for the prisoner exchange to follow an armistice.

4. Lt.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, United States Eighth Army commander, warned his 8th army by radio that the impending armistice would not end the war in itself and told the soldiers to stay ready to fight if necessary. He said the "possibility of an armistice has increased to the point that we must consider what a signing would mean . . ."

Hold Long Sessions

The statement of both sides—working in two groups—held lengthy sessions in the truce tents. It is believed drawing the demarcation line for the buffer zone and the other vexing issue, the no-force exchange. They recessed until Tuesday morning.

President Syngman Rhee called off the anti-truce demonstrations which echoed for five days in South Korean streets. However, there was no indication the South Korean government has backed down on its unbending opposition to the armistice and its threats to carry on the fight alone.

One thousand South Koreans met in a local park Sunday for prayer and a less noisy protest against the truce. They adopted this resolution:

"We Christians want peace more than anybody else, but we simply cannot accept any truce which we are sure will not bring about peace at all."

Similar meetings were held in the suburbs of Yongdungpo and Kimpo.

Reasons Drive

Just what was behind the heavy Red blows in the apparently-waning hours of the three-year war was anyone's guess. Military men and truce observers offered these possible reasons:

1. The Chinese may want to win more ground before an armistice and push the truce line closer to the 38th parallel—the pre-war political dividing line.

2. The Reds also may want to be able to claim they fought from a prestige purposes.

3. The attack could be bent on trying to impress the South Koreans, who have vowed to fight on alone.

4. Or they could be deliberately beefing up their defensive strength of their own.

In his broadcast, Taylor warned the Communists not to form any visions of a quick trip home. "The armistice is not a victory. It is only a pause in the fighting" until a post-armistice political conference settles a final peace, he said.

U.S. Arms Costs Over 10 Billion In Three Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has spent about $181,740,000,000 in the new obligational authority—the right to contract for material and service.

With the help of the $101,740,000,000 expenditure, the defence department has built up forces of about 3,500,000 men, started re-equipping and expanding the arsenal of weapons for the air force, army and navy and fought the Korean war. The department does not include money used by the atomic energy commission for bombs.

Colombia Sees Bloodless Coup

BOGOTA (AP)—Aloof to be fired, Colombia's army chief Lt.-Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla made himself president Saturday in what is a lightning bloodless coup. He banned a big political meeting set under military control until "clean elections" can be held.

The move, which is not a shot was fired and which went off like clockwork, came after days of unrest in the usual week-end calm that prevails in this capital high in the Andes. No extra troops or police were seen in the streets Sunday.

Quiet prevailed. Laureano Gomez was placed under arrest in his home. Unofficial reports that could not immediately be confirmed said he may be given a passport to leave the country.

Went Into Canal

St. CATHARINES (CP) — Ronald and Foster McNulty, brothers, escaped Friday night when their car went through a guard rail into the canal at Homer, near here.

The brothers said they had been swimming and were turning their car around, preparing to go home, when the rear wheels slipped over the steel cement bank of the canal and the car slid into about eight feet of water.

Foster was able to open the right door of the car and jump to safety. Ronald went down with the car but managed to scramble out.

FIRE WIPES OUT MOST OF TOWN, ONE MAN DEAD

101 Persons Homeless, Damage Is $300,000

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. NEREE, Que. (CP)—A third of this tiny agricultural village, 38 miles southeast of Quebec City, was levelled in a seven-hour fire Saturday night.

Sunday morning found 101 persons, including 51 children, homeless; a 67-year-old man dead, and damage estimated at more than $300,000.

The partly-burned body of Josaphat Laprise, the church organist, was found in a vegetable garden in the rear of his home. He died with a crucifix and a statue clutched in his arms.

The village convent for 45 boys and girls was destroyed, along with 17 houses, four stores, two garages, a small blacksmith shop and the parish church.

The church, vestry and presbytery were saved by a change in the wind aged before firemen from four neighboring towns could stop the spreading fire.

Came in Clouds

"There were so many sparks, they looked like clouds," said Rev. Lorenzo Cote, the aging, white-haired parish priest. His coat and cassock were burned by flying sparks.

Mayor Georges Laprise, brother of the dead man, said lack of water pressure in the village waterworks system hindered firefighters. Villagers used fire extinguishers to fight the blaze until equipment was brought from Lavis, Que., by tanker trucks and from a stream nearby.

The fire-chief said he would try to have the village council vote $20,000 for improvements to the system.

"But first of all we'll have to build a new convent for the children."

School is Burned

All that was left standing of the $33,000 school was the chimney and a charred wall. Ashes lay on the front lawn. The four Sisters of Perpetual Help, who ran the school, left early Sunday for their mother house in nearby St. Damien.

The children were to start summer holidays next week.

Mayor Laprise said he had hoped to obtain government help to rebuild homes for the 101 burned homes. Most of them carried little insurance.

The fire started in the summer kitchen of Alphonse Lapointe's home in the rear of his dry goods store.

JUSTICE A. D. ANGLIN

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice D. D. Anger of the Supreme Court of Ontario died in Toronto on Sunday. He was 65.

Appointed to the Ontario bench last year, he was Canada's first deputy registrar administrator in 1940 and 1941 and enforcement administrator of rentals in 1946.

Testifies Woman Died from Strangulation

HAMILTON (CP)—Dr. T. Dalton Murphy, pathologist, today testified in court that in his opinion, 46-year-old Ann Alberta Speer, found dead May 29 in a rooming rooming house, died of strangulation.

He was testifying at preliminary hearing of Harry Lafortune, 28-year-old hotel clerk found in the room with the body and later charged with murder.

Pet.-Sgt. William Homer told of finding the dead woman, half-clothed lying across a bed with Lafortune, his face and arms spattered with blood, sat nearby.

Lafortune's statement was quite voluble and thought the police photographer was a press photographer. "He seemed quite anxious that I get good pictures."

S. Koreans Driven Back Two Miles By Savage Assault

Enemy Finally Is Halted In Bloody Trench Fighting

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

SEOUL (AP)—Thirty thousand Communists ripped into Allied lines today, breaking through as deep as two miles in the heaviest Red offensive in two years.

Two South Korean divisions on the east-central front bore the brunt of the attack. Marshall Harris tumbled from a bed-room window and landed in a chimney. Another was briefly turned earth. A seventh-floor radio serial broke his fall. In hospital, where his condition was described as critical, officials gave the child a fair chance of recovery.

"Iron Triangle" and Outpost Harry. The Chinese made lighter headway elsewhere, mostly on the east-central front.

The fighting far overshadowed anything else in Korea except the ferocious 1952 battles for the Kumhwa ridges.

Front-line officers said the Communist gains were so great that the Reds probably outnumbered the opposing armies, supposedly truce-bound, whose reserve legions—at Panmunjom, may have to be revived.

By terms of the proposed armistice, each side is supposed to pull back two kilometers—about 1¼ miles—within 72 hours of the signing, leaving a 2¾-mile "neutral" zone."

More than 500 Allied warplanes plastered the front-line target area, sending smoke and dust nearly 9,000 feet high. Even B-26 light bombers, normally used at night for "intruder" work, joined the fabre jet fighter-bombers, Thunderjets, Panther jets, Corsairs, Skyraiders and Mustangs.

At times the planes lined up four deep waiting their call to dive into the smoke.

In a demonstration of aerial superiority Sunday, Allied fighters and bombers flew a record 1,600 sorties, without loss or damage to a plane. It eclipsed the previous record of 1,525 individual flights Aug. 32.

Babe Lives After Fall Of 13 Storeys

NEW YORK (AP) — 2½-year-old boy fell 13 storeys on Sunday and lived. Marshall Harris tumbled from a bedroom window and landed in a chimney box. He was briefly turned earth. A seventh-floor radio serial broke his fall. In hospital, where his condition was described as critical, officials gave the child a fair chance of recovery.

Asks Denial of Reports Abroad Princess to Wed Divorced Man

LONDON (Reuters)—The mass-circulation Sunday newspaper, The People, Sunday called for an official denial of what it described as malicious reports published widely abroad about Princess Margaret.

The paper in an editorial spread over two columns published on page quotes reports from overseas newspapers linking Princess Margaret, 22, with Group Captain Peter Townsend, 38, engaged to the Queen and formerly deputy master of the household. The editorial is headed: "Marry Them If They Love Now."

Townsend, RAF ace who shot down several enemy planes over Britain, divorced his wife, Cecil Rosemary, last December on grounds of her adultery. He was granted custody of the two sons of the marriage.

Not mentioned was available rubin Buckingham Palace on the issue.

The usual evening court circular issued by the palace each Tuesday accompanied the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh when they left London for Eton Saturday.

The People says in its editorial: "It is quite unthinkable that a Royal Princess, third in line of succession to the throne, should even contemplate marriage with a man who has been through the divorce courts.

"Group Captain Townsend was the innocent party in the divorce proceedings. It was he who procured a decree last year against Mrs. Townsend, citing her co-respondent. Yesterday it was not alter the fact that a marriage between Princess Margaret and Townsend would be a blow to Royal and Christian tradition.

"It is quite certain, therefore, that relations between the Princess and the Queen's equerry have not gone further than a normal and customary between a member of the Royal Family and a devoted servant of the Crown.

"The fact remains, however, that newspaper outside Britain have weekly printed reports of their forthcoming marriage without meeting with any official denial."

AUTOMOBILE JACK NOW IN POSSESSION OF PROVINCIAL POLICE

Police memory of a name mentioned in the inquiry made three months previously has turned up an expensive automobile jack, which was borrowed and not returned to the owner.

Some weeks ago a Herchimer Ave. man came to the provincial police office inquiring about a train whose name he gave, who had borrowed a jack on the highway with the promise he would return it. Police knew the man but did not know his address and gave the matter rested.

But over the week-end during a routine check of a motor vehicle, police recognized the driver as the man who had borrowed the jack three months ago. The officer claimed the jack but finds he has mislaid the name of the Herchimer Ave. owner. If the owner can call around to the provincial police office he may have his property.

Colorful Speedboat Regatta Thrills 5,000 Spectators at Victoria Park

Under ideal weather and water conditions the first speedboat regatta sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club off Victoria Park attracted an estimated 5,000 spectators on Sunday afternoon.

Nearly 30 boats the cream of outboard and inboard craft of the district and province, vied for honors in races that at times bordered on the spectacular.

Spectators lined every possible vantage point under a blazing June sun. They stood three and four deep in the park while the government dock and other points help capacity crowds.

Wm Fenleyne

To Ed. Pike veteran Belleville sp ecial boat driver and still North American points champion, went the feature event of the day.

Driving "Miss Madoc" over a four-inch rippled course, Pike turned in the fastest time for the day at the starting gun and was never headed. The Canada One Design speedster was given a stiff race however with "Chee-Chee" driven by F. Sandy Hawley, defending her right to the wire. Bill Hayden and his main recreation a golf.

Frank Foley throttling his "Bottoms Up" scored his second impressive win in a week to win the Class "A" feature. He showed a fleeting wake to "Miss Painelle" driven by J. W. Foster, Oshawa who finished second, and "Flame" of Peterborough driven by Craig Flail.

"Flibit" a Belleville boat driven by Bill Vaughan won the Class "B" honors with Dave Perrault of Oshawa at the throttle of his fast boat taking the Class B2 race.

Art Wright, Kingston, took the free-for-all honors defeating Bob Barlow, Belleville and Herb Stacey, Gouverneur, N.Y.

Store Ceiling On Front Street Falls to Floor

The collapse of a ceiling at the former Little Hardware Store on Front street that sent a cloud of dust rolling into the air brought firemen on the run Sunday afternoon.

The former hardware store building is now in course of repair following the fire of more than a year ago and apparently the ceiling of the store became too heavy for its supports and fell to the floor. A passerby saw the cloud of dust billow up and turned in the fire alarm.

The call was the second false alarm received by firemen over the week-end. Earlier the department had been called to Frank street but no trouble of any kind could be found. A check back through the telephone office revealed the call had been turned in from a public phone booth in the Coleman and Moira Ave. area. The call was believed the prank of a youngster.

Two other calls were answered by firemen, both for oil burners, with no damage being reported. Monastery Garden, Ketelby, by

First Phone Call to Tornado Area Is Made by Resident of Belleville

First word of the tornado disaster which struck Worcester, Mass., earlier this week provided some anxious hours in one Belleville home. The closest relative of Mrs. Lorraine Cook, 227 Foster Ave., is an aunt, Mrs. E. G. Erickson, living in Worcester.

Attempts to reach her by telephone were futile as the civilian calls in or out of the area were being permitted in the wake of the storm. Finally, at a late hour, Mr. Cook had a happy thought. He telephoned the Chief of Police in Boston, explained the matter to him and asked if he could possibly ascertain whether Mrs. Erickson had escaped the tornado which claimed more than 80 lives.

The Boston police chief did better than that. He arranged that the Belleville call could be placed directly to Mrs. Erickson's home.

To be sure. Mrs. Cook's aunt was unhurt.

"Why in the world are you waking me up in the middle of the night?" the demented little unwitted, of course, that the only civilian telephone call which had been received in Worcester since the storm struck had reached her through the courtesy of the police chief of neighboring Boston.

At that time it was 2.15 a.m.

IN MEMORIAM

WOOD. In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Warner Wood, who passed away June 15, 1936.

Sweet to see in the soft, dim light
Your picture, standing there,
And think of him whom the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far off west.
And the last ray of his life passes
Then I did on the day of your going,
For darkness fell upon the door of my heart
And the light of my love is still flowing,
For you by the truest in all the
Your love the best to reach,
For no one on earth could take your place.
You are still the dearest of all,
And ever remembered by wife and family. 715

VERMILYEA. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Albert Vermilyea, who passed away June 15, 1949.

That hand is gone our hearts to clasp
Her patient face to see,
That loving heart to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But God has taken you away
To rest for each and all,
And clasp each other's hand, once more
In heaven, that happy life.
—Lovingly remembered by Mother, Father, Farley, Vera and boys. 715

ORSON. — In loving memory of our husband, James Gilbert, who passed away June 15, 1951.

The world may change from year to year
And friends may day by day
But one we loved we love and ever
From you we can't stray
—Ever remembered by wife Mabel. 715

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were mixed in slow forenoon stock market trading today.

Construction and utilities sections led a mild decline in industrials. Dominion Bridge topped the losers, slipped $1.50 to a new low of $72. Refining oils and manufacturing companies were on the upside.

Uraniums stepped back slightly in nearly every case with Gunnar leading on a 10-cent loss. Nesbitt-Labine was the only winner as it climbed a few pennies.

Traders ignored most of the golds except Preston East Dome which added 18 cents.

Key stocks like Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge and Quemont led base metals to higher ground. Western oils provided few specialties as the majority of issues faded.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Trade was dull up to noon with scattered sales showing cattle down $1 at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle 5570; calves 460; hogs 290; sheep and lambs 60; holdover, 400 cattle.

Choice steers 29-31; a few good heifers 28; good cows and bulls 15-16; choice fed yearlings 21-22; good light stockers 21-22.75; medium downward to 18.

Pleasure-Bent People Out In Droves Sunday

Brilliant June weather that climaxed a threatening week-end on Sunday afternoon, brought out pleasure bent people in droves.

Highways streamed with traffic until late in the evening while many made the cool breeze sought respite in the swimming places of the district.

The bay front was nearly lined with anglers although none was noticed bringing in an oversize fish.

Picnic tables along the highways were busy as travellers halted to get their afternoon or evening meal.

Some Enjoyed Swimming

Some swimmers were noted on the beach at Wellington and the Outlet near the Sandbanks but on the whole people decided to enjoy the warm sunshine rather than brave the cool water.

Fishermen did not report any big hauls and one pickerel addict who sought his favorite fish in Hay Bay, had to be one of the most prolific pickerel grounds in the district, snorted rig disappointed with the day as he did not believe there was a "pickerel in the whole danged bay."

It was the first sunny Sunday in four weeks and the fourth disappointing week-end to sports organizations. The Shannonville Speedway hosts were cancelled due to the condition of the track, while the softball game at the C.N.R. Recreation Field was also called off due to wet grounds.

300 ATTEND OFFICIAL OPENING OF YACHT CLUB

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club were host to some 300 members and guests at the dance celebrating the official opening of the new clubhouse, Victoria Park, on Saturday night.

Civic officials from the city and Trenton were among the special guests who enjoyed dancing to the music of Jimmy Conrad.

Refreshments were served at midnight.

Oak Lake Couple Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

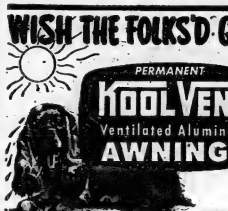
The old axiom that "hard work never hurt anybody" has a pair of firm believers in Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kingston of Oak Lake, near Stirling, who last week observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

Recalling when a number of years ago they catered to summer visitors at Oak Lake, Mrs. Kingston noted that during the summer season they prepared meals for 40 to 50 persons, had up to 15 steady boarders and besides operated the canteen in connection with a dance pavilion.

"We thought nothing of baking up to 75 pies during a week-end," Mrs. Kingston related. "When midnight frolics were held at the dance pavilion we would operate the canteen until three in the morning, then go to bed for an hour and get up at four.

"Sometimes now when we look back we wonder if it was all worth it, but we had a lot of fun," the bride of 50 years said.

Married in Springbrook



Former farmers in the West Huntingdon area where Mr. Kingston was born, Mr. and Mrs. Kingston lived there until 1932, then they moved to Oak Lake. Mrs. Kingston is the former Emma Burkitt of Rawdon township. The couple was married at the bride's home at Springbrook by Rev. W. Nimmo, Anglican Church minister. Mr. Kingston is 77 and Mrs. Kingston is 71.

The couple are members of Marsh Hill United Church where Mrs. Kingston is also a member of the W. M. S. and the Women's Institute. Mr. Kingston is a member of the L. O. L. No. 110 Stirling.

They have four children living, four daughters, Mrs. Wilfred (Vera) Johnston of Belleville; Aleita, at home and Mrs. Wilbur (Helena) Shorey of Sidney township, and one son, Leslie, at home.

Mrs. Kingston has four sister, Mrs. Alex McIlroy of West Huntingdon. There are six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

$60,000 Fire At Cornwall

CORNWALL (CP)—Fire swept through two stores in the east end of the city Saturday night, causing damage estimated at more than $60,000.

The top floor of the two-storey Dergeron Electric Company was gutted and considerable stock lost. The adjacent Cornwall Cleaners Limited, where the fire was believed to have started, was virtually burned out.

Cornwall firemen fought the blaze for more than two hours before it was declared under control. At the height of the fire, Chief Cory Moore ordered the nearby Grand Hotel and neighboring apartments evacuated.

Captain Brightwell said the wrong film had been forwarded from Ottawa, forcing cancellation of the scheduled showing.

District Masons Attend Special Service in City

Over 800 Masons from the Prince Edward District and outlying parts attended the annual Masonic church service held in Bridge Street United Church Sunday afternoon. It was the first time in many years the service had been held in Belleville.

Grand Chaplain for Ontario, Rt. Wor. Bro. Rev. Cidfries Donald D.D. of Ottawa, was the speaker choosing as his sermon, "A Man and God." Assistant Grand Chaplain Rev. H. R. Hills of this city, read the scripture lesson while District Chaplain, Rev. Sidney E. Larman of Holloway Street United Church, was in charge of the service.

The Masonic members assembled on the Collegiate campus and forming a procession marched in a body to the church.

Special music was arranged for the service with organist Clifford Templer in charge of the Masonic men's choir. A Masonic quartet consisting of Dorland Houston, William Colclough, Harold McNish and Alfred Evans sang "Go Forth Christian Abou Ben Adam", while Mr. McNish sang as a solo "I Walk Today Where Jesus Walked."

LEARNING BY DOING

Middleton Park Council plans to assist in an effort to teach the rules of safety to children. With this in view, it will procure from the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Department of Highways a booklet entitled "The A.B.C.'s of Traffic Safety."

The Council is to be commended for its decision, but the average layman will wonder whether the benefits of such a program will be permanent. Even greybeards sometimes need "refresher courses" even in the simplest safety codes. The child who is safety-minded when this instruction period is concluded may, a few years later, regard all that he earlier learned as "kid stuff."

Furthermore, teaching traffic safety rules must be as difficult as teaching spelling or arithmetic—and if the attitude of youngsters towards these subjects is the same in the school room as it is at home where the study hour arrives, we can only express our deepest sympathy for teachers.

There is, however, a system of teaching traffic safety which avails itself of the long-recognized principle that one of the most effective systems of acquiring any skill is to learn by doing.

This is known as the School Safety Patrol and, to the best of our knowledge, was first tested in this province at Windsor. There it proved a great success—and it has since been instituted with similiar results in other, smaller, centres.

Under this system the older students are designated as members of the Safety Patrol and are assigned the task of conveying the younger children across intersections of some of the more heavily travelled streets. Although regular police officers or specially hired school traffic officers generally supervise the children at main intersections, as they do in Belleville today, the School Safety Patrol members are required to wear a uniform in this form of white belts, rain capes for stormy weather and, in some instances, helmets.

The older pupils take great pride in the responsibility given to them and enforce safety rules strictly. They have the power to report infractions to sponsoring teachers of the local Safety Council Committee which, customarily includes among its members the Chief of Police. The younger children, envying the prestige of the Safety Patrol members, seek to avoid demerits in the hope that they, too, may eventually join the Patrol.

The safety rules ingrained by years of "doing" are carried into after life. Collegiate students still obey safety rules—and although the system has not been established long enough to make its full weight felt in adult safety habits, there is evidence that in that field, too, improvement will be noted and safety rules will continue to be observed.

A LITTLE ROUGH ON BRITONS

F. G. Faludi, the noted planning consultant, urges that Canada import qualified town planners. It is, he says, the only solution to the existing acute shortage of qualified men.

Dr. Faludi would particularly like to see men brought here from Britain. This seems a little rough on the British, who, between general strikes and the dole and the Nazis and austerity, have not been enjoying their share of quiet and tranquility for these many years or more. He can think of no occupation in which an exiled Briton is less likely to find life pleasant and easy than that of a town planner in Canada. A native Britisher may be able to disguise himself with a reasonable degree of efficiency, but an adult Englishman would find his actions and accent betraying him to the avenging hordes wherever he might turn.

In most Canadian cities, which are in these boom days bursting their seams like last year's shirt, a town planner is damned if he does and doubled damned if he doesn't. If he permits an industry to locate in an area which was formerly considered to be residential, he is disturbing the peace and well-being of his community and is generally catering to the money-bags of the town. If he refuses to permit a new plant to open among houses, he is throwing sand in the wheels of industry, retarding progress and robbing the working man of his wages.

It is between the horns of this dilemma that Dr. Faludi would place the unfortunate citizens of Britain. This hardly seems fair. We have much greater sympathy for his secondary suggestion, that Canada should engage in a long-range plan to encourage young people to enter the field. As the recruiting drive was limited to 200-suiters, it would be no more than they deserve.

IS THIS TOLL NECESSARY?

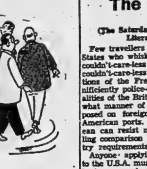
The barbarity of the methods chosen by the Mau Mau in their fight against the white man's rule in Kenya has shocked the civilized world.

The terrorists' persecution of those natives who refused to join in these atrocities made it self-evident to all that this was not a race war—but a struggle between evil and order.

Thus it comes as a surprise to learn that 950 Mau Mau terrorists have been killed, while the terrorists have slain only 433.

The object of the Mau Mau is to kill. That of their opponents is to stop these murders. Yet the number of dead terrorists is twice the number of their victims.

The question which immediately springs to mind is whether this slaughter was necessary. It may well be that it was. At this distance we are certainly not qualified to judge. But unless actions taken against the Mau Mau are unnecessary there is not providing the groundwork for an eventual solution of the problem, but are instead tending to perpetuate it by spreading resentment.



PREVENT FOREST FIRES

Every Canadian at some time in his lifetime will probably have the opportunity to prevent forest fires. If we are going to enjoy our forests as vacationland, or draw wealth from forest products in the years to come, we can only do so by protecting the standing timber from fire.

The rules laid down for those who live and work in the woods are just as essential for those who go into the forests for a holiday.—(Moose Jaw Herald-Times.)

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Everyone concerned over the mounting toll of deaths in traffic is now discussing the mechanics of the problem. All sorts of schemes and proposals are being set forth for the improvement of the mere engineering of our city streets and highways, the creation of wider pavements, safety islands, and the like, signals painted on roads, controls. Nobody among the experts seems bold enough to declare that the trouble is not mechanical. It is personal. The fault lies in the brains, bodies and characters of those who drive cars.

True, many of the children who die are guilty of dashing out into the path of cars. So are one of the aged and infirm who die. But theories of mechanics will not meet that case.

The fact appears to be that a spirit of arrogance animates motor drivers. Because a machine can move it assumes the divine right to move. It can pass there, it appropriates the right to move fast. Speed, whether of thirty, forty, or sixty miles an hour apparently has the blessing of our entire generation. This is the age of material progress. And the sign of our progress is our speed.

Even the appalling increase in innocent death there is a question implied: Why should any motor car go faster than ten miles an hour on a residential street? What would then be lost to any of these high and mighty citizens (nobodies, really; just you and I) who zip arrogantly through the streets of our city?

You do not have to be a psychologist to perceive that a very great proportion of these motorists hustling so importunity are very insignificant parties (you or me for instance) who find in the motor car the means of asserting their egos and reducing their sense of insignificance, after a day's work under the thumbs of their bosses.

Arrogance is the very word for motor traffic. That set their speed should be not a thirty mile an hour limit is ridiculous. Children must walk. Therefore, with children walk, motor vehicles should crawl. In the days of wars of the near future, cars in all probability will be confined as far as fast movement is concerned, to streets as special as railroad rights-of-way. Who do we adults think we are, anyway?

The Questions They Ask

(The Saturday Review of Literature)

Few travellers from the United States while touring the Iron Curtain countries have failed to be impressed by the thoroughness of the French or the magnificent city public-convenience facilities of the British have any idea what manner of inquisition is imposed on foreigners, and even on American ports. Hardly a European can resist making a humiliating comparison between our entry requirements and theirs.

Anyone, whether he is entering or leaving the U.S.A. must now pledge that he has never had one or more attacks of insanity, nor is addicted to narcotic drugs or alcohol, nor is afflicted with tuberculosis, leprosy, or any dangerous disease.

He cannot admit that one is now a beggar or vagrant, that one has not been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, or been convicted of two or more offences for which the aggregate sentenced is a total of five years or more.

Travellers must swear they are not polygamists or even advocates thereof; nor that they are prostitutes or even expostitutes, or procurers or even expostitutes, or have ever received the proceeds of prostitution.

Nobody can come to the United States to engage in any immoral act and is required on a visa-form if you are a foreigner and you submit your visa-form, request a public charge, the road is barred. One must not be a deporte, or a person "likely to become a public charge." Nor may one enter as a former enemy alien unless permission to re-apply for admission has been granted by the Attorney General.

The visitor must affirm that he is not a stowaway, that he has not bought his visa from an illegal source, that he hasn't remained outside the country to avoid military training in time of national emergency, that he has never been convicted of illicit drug traffic, that he isn't coming over to engage in activities that would be prejudicial to the public interest, that he has never at any time been an anarchist, Communist or a member of any such party.

By now our guests have completed 21 questions. Still, if he has not come over to engage in espionage, sabotage, an act of public disorder, or to overthrow the government he has to say so. He must also attest to the plain fact that he is not coming merely to accompany someone who is insane, helpless, or otherwise excluded. Then he may enter and once there if he ever gets even embarrassed or old to any alien who sought to enter the United States illegally.

Having solemnly attested to these 34 conditions and been found not guilty of any, the foreigner must now dip his 10 fingers in black ink, and have them, plus a photograph from our motion pictures is ordinarily reserved for the processing of criminal types.

These procedures have endeared the United States to few people abroad. Invoking the barest amenities of courtesy, the manners of the tables being turned, and Americans become as unpopular in French pier and being aired (in the interests of weeding out the undesirables) as the Russian who is entering France for the purpose of practising prostitution!

Ah, the cries of rage that would echo the Summer from the docks at Le Havre and Cherbourg!!

New Excuse To Go Stag

(Edmonton Journal)

That latter-day Solomon the Queen is in general favor, has many awkward problems to settle.

A Toronto business man appealed his assessment, claiming a deduction for his wife's expenses in accompanying him to conventions of his industry. The board held that he was entitled to deduct his own expenses, but not his wife's. The reasoning presumably was that attendance at certain conventions is essential for a business executive. And therefore implies that the wife's companionship is necessary for the executive in his work. But the economic justification for his wife to go along is not.

That is perfectly logical, but the net effect will be to give husbands another excuse for not taking their wives to the annual get-together. And that will be hard to answer.

"I'd love to take you, dear, but you know the cost deductible, and with the cost of living what it is . . . "

Don't Enjoy Work at Home

(Toronto Financial Post)

When the average young couple today gets a home, they pay $15,000 for a house their parents could have bought for $6,000 years ago, they have little left to spend on extras and maintenance. That is the real reason why many of them are doing their own decorating or adding a room to the garage, verandas and even additional washrooms or bedrooms.

The trouble is, they don't like doing this sort of thing particularly and usually find it rather boring. It is neither pleasing nor safe. But there is a most substantial saving in cash and that fact is important to anyone living on a narrow budget.

Fortunately, however, women rather dig in their gardens, walk their dogs and play with their children than spend their leisure hours with paint brush, pipe wrench or saw.

Professional painters, plumbers and carpenters are not going to get this important home maintenance field returned to them by either raising wages or attempting to stifle competition through fancy apprenticeship regulations. There has been far too much of that sort of thing already. The only way this work will be restored to the workers who can do it best will be to get present excessive costs reduced.

Fine a Licence To Break Law?

(Ottawa Journal)

In Montreal an arrangement has been made between motorists charged with parking offences and the police whereby at any local branch of five chartered banks there will be no extra charge — the city pays the bank fee, if some 7,000 parking tickets issued in April about one half we're settled at the banks, for $1 instead of the usual $2, is indicated on the ticket when it is issued to the "park".

This is no doubt a convenience to the motoring public, but does it quite meet the letter and intent of the law?

The purpose of the parks his vehicle in a forbidden place, or for a longer period than is allowed in that particular spot, is breaking the law committing an offence and is liable to conviction on his conviction, a fine by way of punishment.

When a constable makes out a ticket for parking, he does not mean it a notation that the offence can be settled for $2 at any bank he chooses. He intends a judicial capacity. The offender, in this sort of charge, appears before a sess magistrate or judge, never enters a court where a fine is collected—does not see even the constable who gives him his ticket—and has no part in the small fine to remind him that he has broken the law.

There is a business-like air about all this, a convenience to the public, but one wonders whether it is likely to be effective either as punishment or deterrent. The next step could be a parking ticket machine like the driver's permit (perhaps six coupons for $10) each good for one parking offence. If the parking fine is to be just an added licence fee and a means of revenue then one can understand justification and deepening the machinery of collection.

Maternalism Affects Bird

((Sault Ste. Marie Star)

A baby blackbird fell out of a nest and was rescued by a nine-year-old girl. She put it under a tub. It has since become so thoroughly domesticated that after only a few weeks old, it takes a hand, helping or otherwise, in the little girl's activities. The baby blackbird is described as "practically living with the family," a description which adopted it, or vice versa, as the case may be, no longer begins.

One of the most striking features of its adjustment to a new life, however, is the way it has acquired that "the poor bird would starve" if it had been manufacturers didn't "cut up her worms and serve them to her on a plate."

There seems to be a moral in this somewhere, but no doubt only a reactionary would dwell on it.

Not U.S.-Owned

(Stratford Beacon Herald)

Those people who have heard that Americans own Canada may be interested in the estimate of the President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association that foreign ownership of Canada's resources in Canada total less than five per cent. A generation ago it was about 30 per cent.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

NOW WHEN I WAS A GIRL

"Dear Dr. Brady: My three teen-aged boys, all in excellent health, eat continuously from one bothers to eat any breakfast. They eat a substantial lunch; they eat between school and dinner; at dinner they consume a very large portions with as many helpings as possible, but two hours later they are back in the kitchen eating again, and I mean eating, not snacking. Now when I was a girl . . ." Mrs. J. F.

DR. Brady

That's just it, Madam. You were a girl. Adolescents boys require half as much again from food. The reason is that the girls' metabolic rate comes down to adult level around the age of thirteen; the boys' remains high.

The difference in energy output is usually vast. Any boy in his teens requires three large meals per day, each including meat or eggs or fish, or equivalent protein, milk, fruit and vegetables, whole grain cereals.

If your boys can eat between meals, say one hour after each of good meals, then what disturbs you? I hope you have not been on food bills to spend on doctor and hospital bills?

But that's the about no breakfast? I'm afraid the teaching of Hygiene and Physiology, even overlooked or neglected in your Collegiate Institute. What part of secondary education is left to the Physical Training instructors, who naturally put their training in the "varsity" teams to give any time or attention to health education.

Fortunately, teen-aged boys are as interested in building strong bodies as teen-aged girls are in their appearance. If only you will send your sons for a conference on nutrition to the physician who treats their recognizable illnesses, perhaps they will make the wise decision, and start eating more in the morning.

I said "recognizable" diseases, resulting from poor nutritional habits—such as omitting breakfasts—are often not recognizable to the layman, and your physician, if he has not been confined during his since earning his degree, will examine your boys with this thought in mind.

Your words "only one bothers to eat breakfast" worry me. I hope breakfast is not a grab-and-run affair at your house. For every one, particularly growing youngsters and young adults, breakfast should be a substantial meal and not a so-called "continental breakfast" (beverage and roll). The very minimum breakfast for Young America is as follows:

Fresh fruit in season, or freshly prepared fruit juice.

Entire grain cereal, undoctored, cooked as preferred; or whole wheat bread, toast, roll, waffle or cake.

Ham and eggs, or bacon and eggs, or sausage, or fish, or eggs prepared as preferred.

Drink (under sixteen, milk. For adults or children over fifteen, tea, coffee, cocoa or chocolate beverage permissable, though milk is best for every one.

Butter. Sugar. Syrups.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DISAPPOINTMENTS

Perhaps commonest of hurt experiences are disappointments. We come early, and this is a good thing, for we need to learn from them so as to handle greater and more serious ones later in life.

It always gives me a thrill to see those deserving of merit and rewards justly honored, but I always have a warm feeling for those who experience disappointment. I recently watched a wrestling contest between two athletes. It was a tough, hard competition between two of the best that I have ever seen—clean and full of thrilling holds. But the best thing about the bout was the sportsmanship between the contestants. The winner grasped the hand of the one defeated and there was no doubt but he meant all too rare in such contests. The defeated contestant was also cheered equally with the winner. Baseball is my favorite sport. I like it for many reasons. Mostly the sportsmanship in the game is unbelievably shown, regardless of how his team is being humiliated or of his good days.

I have learned disappointments of various sorts, but the greatest of all disappointments is to disappoint oneself. I am not ashamed to say that we have to share it all alone. For many years no one else knows about it. Then it is that character is strengthened or crumbled. Then it is that we can rise above all disappointments if we have the will and faith.

Disappointments can be borne with dignity, as they so often are, and there is a sense of pride connected with such disappointments. There is even a spiritual lift which may mean far more than if there had been no disappointment. Then, to the mind and heart come a new courage and new resolves.

Strength for the Day

SAND TRAPS

Sand traps are the bane of most amateur golfers. Get in a sand trap, and all hope of a satisfactory score goes glimmering for most of us.

But not for the professionals. Recently an authority on golf was telling of a match played by one of the world's great golfers, and it seems that this golfer was right in the rough every time on his drives from the tee. Frequently he was in a sand trap. But when golfer is skilful, he can sometimes get on the green more certainly from a sand trap than from the fairway.

The truth or the matter is that the professionals know how to handle difficult situations. Some of them have actually made themselves by skilful getting out of troublesome situations that they would just as soon be in the rough or in the sand trap as on the fairway.

All of which, transferred over into the realm of living, means that we should be prepared for situations of life if we prepare ourselves to do so, if we are diligent to make ourselves masters. We have plenty of faith when we find ourselves up against something overwhelming.

You will be in sand traps no end before your golfing days are finished. Don't dub your way through life. Prepare yourself now for the hard situations when they arrive.

Sunday School Pupils, Mentors Enjoy Outing at Cobourg Beach

The week-end, in and around Middleton Park, was a busy one for Sunday School teachers and their 250 pupils.

Saturday afternoon, the cold and dampness failed to drown the enthusiasm of RCAF Trenton Sunday School students and their parents who travelled to Victoria Park, Cobourg, for their annual picnic. Dashes, novelty races and a peanut scramble for young and old alike kept the picnic-goers warm before they sat down to their hampers to enjoy a well-earned feast of good food.

Sunday morning, members bade their pupils farewell for the summer season from their classrooms in Air Chief Marshal Breadner School. Highlight of the final classes was a display of Sunday School work by children from the primary division assembled in the school's auditorium where a large gathering of parents watched activities from the balcony.

Mrs. A. J. Ireland, senior teacher of the primary division, conducted the "good-bye" Sunday School program and spoke on the work of the teachers during the past year. The average attendance in this section is 150 pupils whose needs are cared for by twelve teachers from in and around Middleton Park.

Mrs. J. Harris led her class in prayer, which was followed by a hymn, "God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall," sung by pupils of Mrs. E. W. Plunkett. A class, under the supervision of Mrs. Thomas Fletcher, displayed their activity sheets and a group under Mrs. A. M. Halkett sang the second hymn, "Jesus Bids Us Shine." Mrs. Murray Brown's class opened with a prayer before they displayed their activity exercises for Kingston General Hospital in Grant Hall, Kingston, on Tuesday evening. Miss Doris Calnan, niece of Mrs. Roy Giles was one of the nurses graduating at that time.

Under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Cunningham, pupils of Mrs. R. F. Murray joined in the 23rd Psalm. Activity sheets were displayed by pupils of Mrs. E. J. MacLeod.

Three students, eight years of age, Donald Parnall, Norman McMurchy, and Barbara LaBrash explained their reading books to the audience. The trio are pupils of Mrs. A. J. Ireland. The hymn, "Til Be a Sunbeam" by students of Mrs. W. J. Cunningham preceded the closing prayer by students of Mrs. H. J. Donnelly.

Joining in the brief Sunday School program were class members of Mrs. W. J. Cunningham and Cpl. A. E. Morgan. The hour closed with a prayer led by F/O K. MacDonald, Protestant Chaplain. Pianist was Mrs. J. Spencer.

After the dismissal of the primary division, the Sunshine Corner, whose members are preschool age children, appeared to conclude their Sunday lessons. Under F/S A. Davies, the classes have had a successful 1932-33 season with an average attendance of 120 pupils and nine teachers.

Elizabeth Attends First Trooping of Color as Queen

Queen Elizabeth H, on her mount Winston, and the Duke of Edinburgh, riding Yokefleet, a Royal guidon, are shown taking the salute at Buckingham Palace gates on their way to the Horse Guards parade and trooping of the color ceremony marking the Queen's official birthday. This ceremony was the second for Queen Elizabeth although only her first as Queen. Last year she represented her ailing father, the late King George VI, at the event. For the first time the Duke of Edinburgh accompanied her, due to recent investiture with the rank of Field Marshal which gave him the right to participate. The Queen's actual birthday is April 21, but each monarch is given an official birthday so that such ceremonies as this can be held in favorable weather. — Central Press Canadian.

Visual Problems of School Child Given Special Study by Optometrists

More than 100 optometrists from all parts of Canada, the United States and Mexico met in Toronto this week to culminate seven years of intensive study, and be examined on their knowledge of the Visual Problems of the School Child."

Preceding their residence at the University in Toronto, registrants for the post-graduate course had to complete six weeks of preparatory work, and will conclude their efforts by submitting a written thesis on some aspect of the problems they have been studying.

Chairman and director of the residence portion of the course is Sydney C. Rose, of Belleville, and in his official capacity started the week for planning and executing the program.

"Our registrations include optometrists from as far away as Mexico City, Phoenix Arizona, the British Columbia, because this is the first time on this continent that a specialized course of study of this nature has been made available on a post-graduate level."

He also congratulated the Optometrical Association of Ontario and the College of Optometry of Ontario under whose jobs auspices the course was promoted and carried out.

"Educators and school boards throughout the country are becoming more aware of the appalling number of visual problems that exist in the school population, as revealed by surveys everywhere. In view of the serious problem of overcrowding that exists, to my nothing of the personality and social crippling that results from these visual disabilities going unattended, every effort will be made in the near future to see that these children receive help wherever possible."

The growing demand for this type of specialized service is expected to increase rapidly, and optometrists in practice must prepare themselves by study and clinical work to meet this demand.

In addition to the Dean and faculty members of the College of Optometry, lecturers on the course included four recognized international authorities in their respective fields of child care.

Senior lecturer was Dr. Thaddeus R. Murroughs, director of the Institute of Binocular Seeing, Northern Illinois College of Optometry. Dr. Murrough's is prominent in the field of research and is especially noted for his work on strabismus and amblyopia.

The work of a second lecturer, Darell Boyd Harmon, Ph.D., consulting educationist and director of the health services of the public school system of the State of Texas, has been largely responsible for the revolutionary change that has been seen in the architecture and lighting of schools in the past few years.

Dealing with certain aspects of child behavior was a third authority, Dr. Frances L. Ilg, psychiatrist associated with the Yale Institute of Child Study.

Dr. Louis B. Bing, chairman of the committee on visual problems in schools of the American Optometric Association, completed the quartet of American speakers. Seven Canadian authorities are furnishing material from their particular spheres of interest which include school surveys, reading problems, special ophthalmic appliances, pathology and visual training.

Foxboro United Church Opens W.M.S. Workshop

A "Workshop" was opened on Friday in Foxboro United Church when Auxiliary presidents of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada met with the president of eastern Belleville section, Mrs. William Grant, at pot luck luncheon to discuss problems, ways and means to promote better understanding of the work and a wider interest in missions.

Many suggestions were offered and a great deal of inspiration and help was derived from this meeting. It was found that far too little time is given to the devotional period of M.S. meetings and not enough preparation is made of the study book.

Money to Ship Bales

The presidents were asked to encourage their organizations to send money to the treasurer of the Overseas Relief Fund for shipping bales waiting to go to needy countries from the Toronto depot.

It was also suggested that a sectional library be set up having books relative to the current study book available throughout the section.

Organizations should find out all they can about their missionary for prayer—a suggestion was given that a synopsis be made of the missionary and her work at the beginning of the year and letters of good will and appreciation be written her from time to time. members three or four times during the year or possibly every month. Presidents were also asked to pray for Mr. Douglas Ross, a local full time church worker in Labrador in the Iron Mines.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

If father owns a car, a gift for Father's Day will be easy to get. A few minutes spent looking around a car accessory department or leafing through an accessory catalogue will suggest a dozen good gifts. If extra tickets were available for the ACWW held in the Maple Leaf Gardens later this summer.

There are always any number of different types of auto safety mirrors, emergency lights and back-up lights. Chrome tips for exhaust pipes enhance the beauty of any car. Special memo pads which can be attached to the steering wheel and small tool kits are always useful.

If father likes to garden, there are hundreds of beautiful shrubs and rose bushes to be had. Why not plant a tree in his honor this Coronation year — a red oak, silver birch or a maple?

Clothes closet fittings for men come in a variety of small items which would please a man. If your bathroom cupboard space is cramped, why not buy father a medicine cabinet of his own?

Missing

A girl friend lost a brand new shoe last Spring. It was a two-tone summer pump which had somehow got mislaid. After about a year had passed, she decided to throw out the remaining shoe as useless.

A couple of days afterward she was cleaning out her clothes closet again and came upon the original new shoe. Guess where it was. Hidden inside her goloshes. Should ever lose one shoe, please look inside your goloshes and rubbers before buying new ones.

Coronation Film

We have just seen the full length Arthur Rank Royal film in technicolor and it is magnificent. It runs for a full 80 minutes. The color photography is almost unbelievably beautiful.

It is a pity though that talented streamers weren't inserted at the bottom of the film to denote the various military and state units passing in the procession.

For instance, it was easy to spot the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, but difficult to pick out the various units of the Canadian Armed Forces.

Canadian Army personnel were dressed in navy blue uniforms not yet generally recognized in this country. Canadian observers keep looking for the familiar khaki. The Canadian Navy and RCAF uniforms resemble the British so much that it is hard for the non-military person to know them apart. Consequently Canadian observers will be disappointed in not recognizing their own representatives.

"WHERE PARKING IS NO PROBLEM"

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He said his wife "Just Can't Get along."

Of all the reasons given me why people want to break up their marriages, one of those I hear most often is that they "just can't get along" with wife or husband. Rarely, when such a complaint is made, is there any really serious fault in one or the other, such as infidelity, drinking, cruelty, and so forth. Practically always that description, as an unhappy marriage simply means that relatively minor annoyances and irritations have multiplied themselves over the years until their weight has broken down the will of either man or wife to go enduring them.

Take the case of a 36-year-old husband, who has been married three and a half years to his 31-year-old wife. In that time, they have had three children.

"Our trouble is that we just don't seem to get along," he writes to "All we do is fight."

"My work requires me to get up at half past five every morning. I get home at three in the afternoon, and although I know my wife money every day, there is never anything for me to eat when I get home. She never wants to keep anything clean, not even the children, when company is coming.

"I work six days a week, and I pay, but I know if I left my wife, yes because I recently bought myself a suit for the first time since we were married, I haven't heard the end of it yet. If I go see my mother, she tells her friends I am going out with a girl. I tried to make her see reason, but she won't listen.

"I am getting tired of living this way, but know if I left myself, she wouldn't let me see my children and I love them all. I know there are sides to every story, and I bet I am just about beat, and I wish you would tell me what I should do."

Not at Situation Squared

Now the fact that this man realizes that "there are two sides to every story" suggests that he is a person who might be persuaded to try and look at his situation squarely and to make an intelligent effort to do what he can to straighten it out. Since he did take me his side of the story, let' see if we can figure out something on the wife's side.

For one thing, I am wondering if he has always shown her as much affection and appreciation as he might, and if he has not taken her for granted. He should remember that she was just a teen-ager when she married him, so if must have been pretty hard for her to have children come along as fast and to be as quickly tied down as she must have been all this time. Isn't it possible that she may be so tired out that she has just lost all interest in trying to keep up with her heavy responsibilities?

Moreover, when a girl marries so young, she often feels later, when family duties begin to pile up, that she has lost out on a part of her youth that should have been happy and carefree, and so she feels cheated and resentful.

I suggest that the husband try looking at the problem from this angle, and start doing everything he can to make his wife feel it is really worthwhile to work building up a happy home for him and their children. He might let her know he understands a little great deal on her hands, which may have worn her out, and he might suggest that she get a physical check-up from her doctor to make sure she is in good health. He might also keep his eyes open for ways he can lend a hand with the children, or the household chores, when he is at home. By being thoughtful and considerate, he will show her that he is concerned about her welfare and wants to make things as easy for her as he can.

When she does clean up the house and the children, or prepare food for him, or do any other constructive thing, he may small, let him praise her and show real appreciation, and, for awhile, try to overlook the things that are not done.

There is nothing to which people respond more quickly than thoughtfulness, a n d e n c o u r a g i n g and praise, and he might find that this would start a chain reaction of improving matters. He says himself that all they do is fight. If the energy he now expends in keeping up his end of their quarrels were to be directed into trying out such a program as I have suggested, he might soon notice a remarkable change in the atmosphere about him. Wouldn't it be worth a try?

Strawberry Favorites

By Mary Moore

In June 1952 Mrs. William F. sent to me her careful instructions for canning strawberries. . . . In June 1st of this year, when I turned the page of my daily memo, pad the note was laying in wait to command "The Mrs. William F.'s canned strawberries recipe for sure next week."

On March 30th, 1953, I received a letter from Mrs. D. A. F., giving me her method of making Never Fail Strawberry Jam.

With strawberry recipes like that piling up and time marching on here it is strawberry time and high time for these tried and true recipes to be shared with all of the readers.

If you are a regular eating kind of a Canadian—the kind that thrills goose-pimply to every word of the Coronation ceremony and every glimpse of Elizabeth—you will want to make a thoroughly Canadian strawberry shortcake with the first plentiful supply of the juicy ruby berries. Do it on identical first place.

Emem's Strawberry Shortcake

Two cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2-3 teaspoon salt, 5 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup milk, a little more than 1 quart strawberries—most of them sliced or crushed and sweetened, and the choicest left whole for garnishing top. Sift and measure flour and then sift it with the baking powder and salt. Cut the shortening with a pastry blender until it is fine and crumbly then add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Now stir quickly until mixture forms a soft dough and follows the spoon around the bowl. Turn out at once on lightly floured board and knead for 1-2 minute. Roll out to 1-4 inch thickness in a sheet roughly twice as long as it is wide. Cut it in halves crosswise. Place one-half in greased pan and brush with soft or melted butte; fit second half over and brush it with butter. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 15 or 18 minutes. When cool enough to handle split it and spread bottom with sweetened sliced berries. Put top on again. Cover generously with sweetened berries. Garnish with plenty of whipped cream, dotting perfect berries around rim of cream. This amount serves 5 or 6 generously.

Never-Fail Strawberry Jam

(Contributed by Mrs. D. A. F.) Wash and hull one quart box strawberries. Add 1 cup sugar and mix. Crush strawberries with potato masher. Bring to a boil and boil vigorously one minute. Add 2 cups sugar; then bring to a boil again and boil two minutes. Skim, pour.

Remove from heat and allow to cool in saucepan overnight. The next day pack in clean, dry jelly glasses. Seal with paraffin twice. Of course, you will have to keep it from sticking while it is over the heat.) G. F.

Mrs. F. thanked you before for this D. F. I want to thank you again now.)

Canned Strawberries

(That keep color—contributed by Mrs. William F.)

Wash, drain, and hull the berries and to each quart box of berries I put 1 cup sugar over the berries. (By the way I can't put any more than three quart boxes of berries in a kettle at one cooking.) Let these stand overnight. On the morning I add 1-2 cup water to each quart berries, and bring to a good rolling boil, and handling the berries carefully with a wooden spoon, keep them under in the juice. Put in clean jars quickly and seal. I never process these in oven or steamer as it isn't necessary and I've never had one jar spoil. Do not overcook the berries or they will break and will be mushy. If I have any, I put a dark cupboard or cellar to store them in place each jar in a paper bag long enough to cover, as it is usually the light that fades the fruit. Strawberries keep your color and large water content, and by letting them stand for one hour, they draw on their own juice and the berries shrink and are less inclined to break up.

Thank you too Mrs. William F. Watch for more strawberry recipes on Thursday of this week.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Morning: All-Black, Dull-Back, At The Funeral

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) My husband is very seriously ill, and is not expected to live very long. I would like to know about the correct attire to wear to the service. Black dress, I know. Would it be correct for me to wear a black satin dress? Could I correctly wear white gloves? And wouldn't it be correct for me to wear small simple jewelry as a pearl necklace and earrings?

(2) Would it be correct for my 25-year-old daughter to wear a gray-and-black dress, instead of a black dress?

(3) How long should a widow continue to wear black? - J.C.M.

(1) You should wear all-black for the funeral itself. Black dress of a dull material (such as wool, dull silk, rayon, and so forth) - definitely not a glossy material such as satin. Black gloves. . . And white. Best taste not to wear any jewelry the day of the funeral, except of course your wedding ring and if you wish, your engagement ring.

(2) A 25-year-old daughter should wear all-black for her father's funeral.

(3) Today there are no definite rules about the wearing of period mashes. Bring to a boil and boil vigorously one minute. A 2 cups sugar; then bring to a boil again and boil two minutes. Skim, pour.

Remove from heat and allow to cool in saucepan overnight. The next day pack in clean, dry jelly glasses. Seal with paraffin twice. Of course, you will have to keep it from sticking while it is over the heat.) G. F.

Mrs. F. thanked you before for this D. F. I want to thank you again now.)

Canned Strawberries

Wash, drain, and hull the berries and to each quart box of berries I put 1 cup sugar over the berries. (By the way I can't put any more than three quart boxes of berries in a kettle at one cooking.) Let these stand overnight. On the morning I add 1-2 cup water to each quart berries, and bring to a good rolling boil, and handling the berries carefully with a wooden spoon, keep them under in the juice. Put in clean jars quickly and seal. I never process these in oven or steamer as it isn't necessary and I've never had one jar spoil. Do not overcook the berries or they will break and will be mushy. If I have any, I put a dark cupboard or cellar to store them in place each jar in a paper bag long enough to cover, as it is usually the light that fades the fruit. Strawberries keep your color and large water content, and by letting them stand for one hour, they draw on their own juice and the berries shrink and are less inclined to break up.

Thank you too Mrs. William F. Watch for more strawberry recipes on Thursday of this week.

BEAUTY

WHAT DO YOUR EYES SAY?

Beautiful eyes are "full of gentle salutations" and soft respect, see." So said the poet. No matter whether eyes are large or small, blue, brown, grey, green or hazel, they have tremendous possibilities of adding to the sum total of pulchritude. Good features shine them up, makes them sparkle like the stars. Friendliness and graciousness give them depth and warmth. They have a language of their own.

They show up the meanies, too. The selfish woman has calculating eyes. Watch them shift from side to side as she talks. She's always looking out for Number 1. The best of everything to be had is not too good for her.

There are cold eyes. You will see them in women who have hearts of stone, who are unbending, critical, intolerant. The Gouch-me-not type. Steer clear of them.

The eyes are considered ideal, from a physical standpoint, when they are neither too round nor too long, but a pleasing oval. They should be set apart the width of the eye. Long, dark, curling lashes form an intriguing curtain, said to facial perfection. Eyebrows of good contour contribute their part.

If your eyes are in healthy state they will take care of themselves pretty well, if you do not abuse them. They have their own washing and oiling system. Tiny glands lubricate them, so the delicate tissues will not dry out. When foreign matter gets into them, the tear duct sends forth a flow of water to flood it away. Twice a day, night and morning, the eyes should be bathed, first with warm water, then with cold.

If your eyes become inflamed or there is the slightest sign of pressure of pus, do not resort to home remedies. Seek the services of a medical man who specializes in the treatment of the eyes.

We hear a lot about eye exercises. Some girls and women are superstitious about these than the sillies, doing the exercises according to directions a friend has offered. An authority tells us that they should be done only under the supervision of a specialist. Also, since the eyes are on the job every waking moment, they are more likely to need rest than muscular activity.

TWEED WOMAN INJURED

BEAVERTON (CP)—Mrs. B. Parks of Tweed was severely injured Saturday when the car in which she was riding collided with another, a mile east of here. She was a passenger in a car driven by Jack Hutton Jr., of Beaverton. Police said the second auto was driven by Dennis Bartlett of Orillia.

THIEVES STEAL SAFE

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Thieves entered the provincial bureau at this city on Highway No. 3 at Sherkston four miles east of here Saturday night and made off with a 450-pound safe containing between $400 and $500 in gas bill receipts. Entry was gained by forcing a window in the adjoining warehouse.

Fashion Flashes

DANCING NIGHTS in the country will see a lot of fresh and crisp organdie dresses. One we like is of white cotton organdie with tiny red dots, its deep portrait neckline filled in with tucked white silk organdie, its waist accented with a red velvet sash that ties in long loops and streamers in front.

ADDING UP to a very smart Summer suit is a trio of separate pieces. Blue and white striped wide-wale pique is used for the cardigan box jacket, the slim skirt, and the white pique wee kit-blouse. Jacket has a cutaway front and low-placed side tab detail.

A BEAUTY of a bag for travelling or shopping or for just toting with country clothes is of beige canvas with wide, fringed border of black calf. The bag is slim and deep, with facile frame top and waterproof lining.

JUST WAITING for a chance to whirl is a dance dress of white organdie over taffeta, embroidered all over in tiny red cherries, which also border the rounded, off-shoulder neckline. Wide red taffeta cummerbund-sash with long streamers in back.

A NEW TREND, and a good one too, is the suit of fine cotton, as carefully cut and tailored as an expensive suit of wool-en or silk. Cool and comfortable is a town or travel suit of checked gingham. The fitted jacket has overcollar and cuffs of white linen bounded by red lining, and has silver buttons and bias front paneling.

Readying "Ammunition" for Political Battle Ahead

GEORGE DREW

With the Canadian federal election called for August 10 — the first general August election since 1867 — campaign plans are being made accordingly by those "in the running." Opposition leader George Drew, of the Progressive Conservatives, will "fire opening gun" in his birthplace of Guelph, Ont., on June 18. He also begun his political career there in the city council, later becoming alderman and mayor. From there he is expected to make a short trip to Quebec, following which, he will jump to Winnipeg and Vancouver and then work east across the prairies. —

M. J. COLDWELL

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, plans to start his Saskatchewan campaign on June 15 at Maple Creek, with future engagements all over the province. He will spend from June 29 to July 11 in his home constituency of Rosetown-Biggar but the exact dates and places for his national tour have not yet been arranged. Overall plan is to begin a national campaign July 13 in the Maritimes, spend the third week of July in Ontario and Quebec, the fourth week of July in Manitoba and the first week of August in Alberta and British Columbia, leaving a few days in his own constituency just before polling.

Nurse from Flint Wins Women's Air Race to Fla.

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Jerry Gardner Whyte, Flint, Mich., nurse, Saturday won the all-women's International air race.

Seventeen of the 18 pilots who started in the race from Welland landed here Friday. The other crash-landed en route and did not finish.

But officials of 99s Inc., organization of women pilots in the United States and Canada, waited until the Saturday noon deadline anyway to announce a winner.

They figure the winner on a handicap basis.

Mrs. Whyte bettered her handicap by one hour and 28 minutes. Mrs. Miller Henderson, Flint, was her co-pilot.

Their Cessna 140 was fifth to land here at the finish of the 1,159-mile race. They came in Friday morning.

Edith Long, Charlotte, N. C., brought her Beach Bonanza down first—one of three to make the flight all in one day—but she didn't even figure in the nine places announced.

Corrected handicap times gave second place to Eleanor Davis, Arlington, Va., flying with Jeanette Graham, Falls Church, Va., as her co-pilot. She bettered her estimated time by 58 minutes 46 seconds.

Third was Ruth Thomas, Knoxville, Tenn., who soloed and had a plus time of 47 minutes 5 seconds.

Next in order were Geraldine Cobb, Ponca Cth, Okla.; Beverly Beltry, St. Catharines, Ont.; Elaine Magnuson, Lockport, Ill.; Jean Cooper Moore, Alexandria, Va.; Maretta Scott Corpus Christi, Tex.; Bobby King, Houston, Tex.

Miss Beltry was accompanied by Dorothy Rungeling of Fenwick, Ont. Other Canadian competitors were Phyllis Nelles of Guelph and her co-pilot, Betty Smithan of London, Ont.

MECHANICAL GREETER

King Gustav Adolf of Sweden and his small grandson, now Crown Prince Carl Gustav, represent the present and the future generations of kings of Sweden as they take the salute during the ceremonies held recently in Stockholm stadium. Junior Jumble

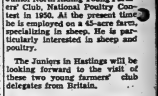
By J. Allen Francis

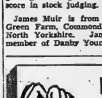


A delegation of four boys and four girls, representing the National Young Farmers' Clubs of England and Wales is arriving at Quebec, on June 18th, for a one-month's stay in Ontario. This is part of the exchange visit program between Ontario and Great Britain, established a few years ago to provide young farm people, in both countries, with a broader agricultural knowledge. This delegation is visiting Ontario as guests of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and the Junior Farmer Association of Ontario.

The Hastings Junior Farmer Association will be host to Miss Elizabeth Bush and Mr. James Muir from June 23rd to June 25th. During this week's visit to Hastings, the delegates will be guests on the farms of Junior Farmer members. On Tuesday evening, June 23rd, they will be introduced at a joint 4-H Club meeting, and on Thursday evening, June 25th, the Hastings Junior Farmer Association will be holding a social evening for the delegates.

Elizabeth Bush is from Knox House Farm, Edenbridge in Kent. Miss Bush is a member of the Edenbridge and District Young Farmers' Club since 1952, and a member of the area committee. She has had experience in market gardening, and general farming on her father's farm, and has specialized in dairy work with a Jersey herd and pedigree Ayrshire herd. At the present time she is employed as manager of the pedigree herd of Ayrshires on her father's farm. Elizabeth has represented the county in cattle judging competitions at the Royal Counties Show and was on the Kent team of two which won the Royal Counties Challenge Cup, for the region covered by the show. She has been a member of the winning livestock judging teams three years in succession and was awarded, last year, the cup at the Edenbridge Show for gaining the highest individual score in stock judging.

James Muir is from Fowlie Green Farm, Commondale, in North Yorkshire. James is a member of Danby Young Farmers' Club and has held executive offices in the club, as well as being a member of the northern area committee. He is interested in public speaking, and was a member of the club Public Speaking Team in 1951 and 1952. He has judged blackface sheep at local shows and ram sales. James was a joint winner of the Junior North Riding Young Farmers' Club, National Poultry Contest in 1950. At the present time he is employed on a 45-acre farm, specializing in sheep. He is particularly interested in sheep and poultry.



The Juniors in Hastings will be looking forward to the visit of these two young farmers' club delegates from Britain.

28 Persons Dead Eastern Canada's Accident Toll

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trains were responsible for five of the 28 violent deaths in Eastern Canada during the week-end.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed that traffic accidents took the highest toll with 11. There were 10 drownings and seven miscellaneous fatalities.

Seventeen persons died in Ontario, nine in Quebec and one in each of New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

In a triple fatality at Bradford, Ont., a train struck three members of a fishing party on a railway bridge Sunday. Dead are Mrs. Glover Goodman, 47, Max J. Title, 39, and his wife, Annette, 37, all of Toronto.

A witness said they froze with panic and Title threw his arms round the two women. They were huddled together when the train struck them.

Mrs. Ethel Rubach, about 35, her daughter, Marlene, 17, and Mrs. Robert Keane, 19, all of Windsor, Ont., were killed in a two-car collision Sunday night on a highway five miles east of Windsor.

Killed by Trains

Mrs. Frank Bunch, 79, of Trout Creek was killed by a freight train and Donald Gordon Smith, 11, of Aldersvood, Toronto suburb, died in an ambulance after a train struck him as he bent to pick up the lunch packet he dropped on the tracks.

Other Ontario deaths: Gordon Kreiger, 25, of Fort Erie, found shot to death in his garage with a revolver beside him; Jean Baptiste Michaud, 69, of Gatchell, struck by a car west of Sudbury; Rene Michaud, 13, of Timmins, drowned while swimming at McDonald Lake; David Staples, 3, of Ottawa, crushed to death by a backing delivery truck; AC3 Patrick Simpson, about 22, of Trenton RCAF Station, and Ross MacMillan of Fort Frances, burned to death when their auto crashed off the road at Sharbot Lake.

Herman Koshkull, 30, of Geraldton, drowned when he waded out into a nearby lake to retrieve his drifting fishing boat; Stefano Constanti, 36, of Toronto, drowned when a canoe upset; Rene Trudel, 38, of Ottawa, drowned while swimming in the Rideau river.

River Authority to Preserve O'Hara's Mill

Century-old O'Hara's Mill, five miles northwest of Madoc, is to be preserved by the Moira River Conservation Authority as a historical site. The last abandoned water-powered mill with its "muley" type upright saw is believed to be the only one of its type remaining in the province.

Top picture shows interior shot of the mill with Reeve Bernard Hunt, of Hungerford; Reeve Jas. Sprackett, of Tudor, and Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., for Hastings West, examining the old upright saw. In the background are Councillor James Campbell, of Sidney township, and Roscoe Robson, M.P.P., for Hastings East.

Fuchs' Arrest First Step In Cracking Big Spy Ring

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, man and wife, are in the death cell at Sing Sing prison. Next Thursday night, unless they can win another stay of execution, they will be electrocuted. The executioner, one of the world's most skilful and the long legal battle to save their lives is told in a three-part series by Arthur Everett.

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—On a winter's day three years ago Scotland Yard Inspector Leonard Burt dropped his hand on the shoulder of a German-born scientist at work in Britain's atomic laboratory.

The scientist was Dr. Klaus Fuchs, who had been present at the birth of the first atomic bomb in New Mexico in 1945. His arrest that Feb. 3, 1950, was the first step in cracking an international atomic spy conspiracy that numbered among its plotters Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel.

Fuchs, now 41, confessed his part in the spy plot. He had been a Soviet agent since 1930. He now is serving 14 years in prison, the maximum under British law.

Gold Arrested in 1950

From Fuchs, the trail of conspiracy led the United States federal bureau of investigation to Harry Gold, a Swiss-born chemist in Philadelphia. Gold was arrested May 23, 1950, pleaded guilty and now is serving 30 years. He cooperated with the government.

Three weeks later came the arrest of David Greenglass, wavy-haired $75-a-week machinist who had been a wartime army sergeant at Los Alamos, N.M., where the first A-bomb was produced. Greenglass, born 31 years ago in New York's lower east side of a Russian father, found himself in a tight spot. His life was at stake if convicted of passing atomic secrets to Russia. So Greenglass talked.

Meanwhile, the Korean war exploded June 25, 1950 as government agents questioned and requestioned the thick-set Greenglass.

By Aug. 1, the government was able to report it was "getting more information every hour." That information was not coming from Rosenberg, however, as he maintained his innocence and offered no co-operation.

It was Aug. 11 that the FBI seized Mrs. Rosenberg in her 833 Seventh New York apartment. A stenographer turned housewife, she, like her husband and her brother, was a product of Manhattan's tenement area. She is now 37.

Accused of Spying

The Rosenbergs were accused of transmitting military secrets to Russia themselves and through Greenglass, who was pictured as a hero-worshipper of his brother-in-law and a pliable tool in the older man's hands.

Gold, it was alleged, picked up A-bomb secrets from Fuchs and Greenglass at Los Alamos. He identified himself to Greenglass with a torn piece of a Jello box top. It matched the other half in Greenglass' possession. Greenglass said his half was given to him by the Rosenbergs.

On Aug. 17, 1950, the government indicted Anatoli Yakovlev, former Russian vice-consul in New York. But it was like indicting a shadow. He had slipped back to Russia in 1946.

Yakovlev was depicted as the minister link, holding together the urbane Fuchs, the rabbity Gold, the putty-like Greenglass and the bold, snickering Rosenbergs.

The government said Yakovlev provided the $200 which Greenglass admitted accepting as the price of his treachery.

Sobell Deported

On Aug. 18, 1950, the government arrested Morton Sobell, 36, who had fled to Mexico before the Rosenbergs were arrested. But he was deported and United States agents were waiting for him at the border.

Sobell, an electrical engineer, had served the navy as a wartime radar expert. A native New Yorker, his parents came from Russia. He and Rosenberg were classmates at the City College of New York. Sobell, it was charged, took part with the Rosenbergs in the plot to pervert Greenglass and to furnish secrets to Russia. The Rosenbergs and Sobell pleaded innocent to the conspiracy charges.

Oct. 18, 1950, Greenglass pleaded guilty and prepared for the difficult role that doomed his sister conspiracy in time of war, even on behalf of an ally, carried a maximum penalty of 30 years in prison or death. In time of peace, the maximum penalty was 20 years.

March 6 the evidence against the Rosenbergs was circumstantial. They have maintained their innocence throughout.

Wilson Concrete Products Firm To Increase Plant

In order to meet the ever-increasing demand for their wide range of concrete blocks, Wilson Concrete Products Co., North James Street, announced this week a major expansion of their existing production capacity.

The announcement coincides with the production of their one millionth concrete block since establishment of the company in Belleville three and one-half years ago.

The company, currently producing blocks in 56 different sizes and shapes, will double capacity immediately with the installation of their new, completely automatic equipment and increase the number of different sizes and shapes produced to more than one hundred.

They are also expanding to produce a brick, and Wilson's Split Rock", an extremely hard, manufactured block with cut stone facing. They intend also to begin production of certain specialty concrete products.

Currently the company is producing concrete blocks at the rate of 500 per hour, which, to the layman, is one basement every two hours or more than one complete house per day.

Capacity Doubled

This capacity will be doubled immediately by new equipment which ultimately can triple present production.

In the past the company's products have been sold over an area extending from Brockville to Cobourg, Prince Edward County, and as far north as Bancroft.

Charles I. Wilson, owner of the company is a graduate of the University of Toronto in mechanical engineering of 1946 and is a registered professional engineer and a member of the Ontario Association of Professional Engineers.

Following graduation he was employed by the Minnespolis - Honeywell Corporation supervising sales in the Transmit Division of Canada.

He is a past president of the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange, and a recent member of the Kiwanis Club. He is married and is the father of two daughters.

All four—the Rosenbergs, Sobell and Greenglass — were charged under a 1917 statue with "conspiring in time of war to transmit to the Soviet Union information concerning the national defense of this country."

The conspiracy was said to have existed from June 6, 1944, to June 16, 1950—which included the war end of the war when Russia was an ally in the fight against Germany. Nevertheless, such a is pleased to announce a major expansion program which will immediately double and ultimately triple the production of "WILSON BLOCKS"

CHARLES I. WILSON
(Proprietor)

DOUGLAS K. BLACK
(Plant Manager)

During the three and a half years we have been manufacturing concrete products in this district, we have found that we have never been able to adequately take care of the demand for "WILSON BLOCKS." It seemed that no matter how long or how hard we worked, we just fell further behind.

With our greatly increased capacity we will not only be able to expand the range of our products from the present 53 different sizes and shapes, to well over 100, but also to add several new specialty concrete products which will make "WILSON BLOCKS" an even more versatile building material.

We feel that this step forward is not only an expression of our faith in the future growth of this district, but also in the part that will be played by low cost firesafe concrete masonry construction.

Lose Belongings

Mrs. Annie Rogers weeps on the shoulder of a friend after viewing the wreckage by floods of her home at Medicine Hat, Sodefist, at Lethbridge, Alta. Eisenhower Warns Against 'Book Burners' in Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, speaking out against "The book burners," said today that Americans must fight communism "with something better, not try to conceal the thinking of our own people."

Eisenhower named no names, but his statement recalled the demand by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.), seconded to by the state department, that the government withdraw from its overseas libraries books by authors who are known communists or fellow-travellers.

The president said even those who disagree have no right to have their views on record in public places—"or it is not America."

"Don't join the book burners," the president told the graduating classes at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N. H. "Don't think you are going to answer something by concealing evidence that it ever existed. Don't be afraid to go to the library and read every book, so long as that document does not defend our way of government. . .

"How will we defeat communism, unless we know what it is, and why it has such an appeal for men? Why are so many people swearing allegiance to it? It is almost a religion—albeit in one of the wrong regions. We have got to fight it with something better, not try to conceal the thinking of our own people."

Right Unquestioned

"And even in their thinking and ideas are contrary to ours," he said, their right to speak and their right to have them in places where they are accessible to others remains unquestioned. Or is not America."

This was the first of two short talks the president made Sunday in the whirlwind finish to a five-day speaking tour which took him into five states. He also flew over storm-damaged areas in Michigan and Massachusetts and pledged federal aid the money toward reconstruction.

From New Hampshire, the president flew to Oyster Bay, L. I., about 30 miles east of New York City, and dedicated the summer home of Theodore Roosevelt as a national shrine.

Bush Fires Rage for 500 Miles Throughout Western Canada; Afraid Loss May Set Record

EDMONTON (CP)—Forest fires were burning today over a 500-mile front in Western Canada, some of them in a dancing wall of flame advancing relentlessly through green northlands.

Starting from the twin towns of McMurray and Waterways in northeastern Alberta, scattered fires have been reported on a straight line through Saskatchewan to north of Flin Flon, Man.

Light rain Saturday and Sunday helped check a series of blazes which threatened to snuff out Mission of Athabasca pur Calling northeast of Edmonton, where flames had moved in on three sides. But a blistering pall of black smoke rose higher in Saskatchewan, about 150 miles north of Prince Albert.

Small lightning fires also were reported at many northern Manitoba points. No accurate check could be made of the number of blazes in the three provinces' north country, desert-dry after weeks without rain.

Fear Heavy Loss

Thousands of acres have been consumed, much of it in desolate muskeg and marshland. Some officials feared the worst destruction in northland history if rain did not come.

Little drizzle fell over most of northeastern Alberta and throughout Saskatchewan during the week-end and more rain was predicted over the entire fire front today.

The 1,000 residents of Mcmurray-Waterways were prepared to flee when rain swept the area. However, the hazard still was high with flames within four miles of the towns and one fire at Waterways still out of control.

Most damage was expected in Saskatchewan's Lac la Ronge district, 150 miles north of Prince Albert. A fire at Pasquia in Reche-lot within the Saskatchewan boundary east of McMurray, had burned through more than 20,000 acres.

Milton Knutson, a staff photographer for the Prince Albert Herald, said all he had seen for the last few days was "fire and more fire." He reported a fire at Waden Lake, 30 miles from Lac la Ronge, covered an estimated 30 square miles Sunday.

Many Other Fires

Raging fires also were reported at Big Otter lake, 180 miles north of Prince Albert; at McIntosh lake near Waden Bay; at Bigstone, 12 miles southwest of Lac la Ronge; Waden Lynx lake, 35 miles northwest of Lac la Ronge. Blazes were uncontrolled at Pelican Narrows, 50 miles northwest of Flin Flon near the Manitoba boundary; Hanson lake, 35 miles west; Wollaston lake, 250 miles north of Flin Flon, and Island Falls, 125 miles east of Lac la Ronge.

Knutson described the scene as "breathtaking." Trees were burning as far as the eye could see. There was some rain over the district, but it didn't do much good.

Fires in northern Manitoba were not considered too serious, but rain was needed badly. No fires were reported in southern Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta.

Prisoners Hold Hostages

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A riot movie out early this morning at the New Mexico state prison.

Abram said the prisoners are demanding the firing of deputy warden Ralph Tabosh.

Kingston Pair Win Robertson Cup at Tourney

The first bowling tournament of the season on the local greens on Saturday was a decided success despite the showers earlier in the morning. The sun came out shortly before noon and although the wind was slightly chilly, the greens stood up well and everyone had an enjoyable time. The bowlers were entertained by Aldo Gerald B. Ellis, president of the club, while Gordon Edwards, the club treasurer of the Kingston Harbour Commissioners, conducted the draw in a most capable manner.

There were 30 rinks on hand for the tournament and Kingston had the honor of winning in the first tournament. Morley Casey and his partners, Ted Gage, were high three-game winners with a count of 94 plus eight,while the Watkin brothers of Belleville, Austin and Gordon, winners of the Robertson Cup last year, were in second place with a count of 93 plus seven. In third place and a most popular win was that of Orin Smith and Jack Smith. They had a count of 91 plus two. Throughout the day Jack Smith was known as the Smith boys and their scores were watched by a large gallery.

Ralph Hinton and Jack Tooley of Kingston were two-game high winners wh'l: A. D. Bennett and William Smith of Campbellford captured the one-game high prize. At the conclusion of the tourney, the prizes were distributed by the president and treasurer of the club.

A large number are preparing to attend the dances at Kingsmere on Wednesday and Campbellford on Saturday.

Indians Make Four-for-Four Swap With Tigers

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Cleveland Indians first baseman, a four-for-four player swap with Detroit Tigers, giving up shortstop Bobby Rosen and pitcher for pitchers Art Houtteman and Bill Wight, catcher Joe Ginsberg and second baseman Owen Friend.

The three pitchers the Indians sent to the last-place Tigers in what the Tribe's front office called "a straight player trade" were veteran Steven Gromek, rookie southpaw Al Aber and Jack Wolf, a righthander off military leave who has not pitched this season because of a sore arm.

Houtteman, 26-year-old righthander, has a 3-6 record this year and a lifetime mark of 33-43. Southpaw Wight, who is 31, is 0-3 this year and has a career record of 51-71.

Boone, with Cleveland since 1948, currently was hitting .241 but had been benched for George Strickland.

The deal, on the final day of the player-trade deadline, followed Cleveland's loss of four straight games here to the league-leading New York Yankees.

Eden underwent surgery last Wednesday to correct an obstruction. He had been operated on twice since April 12 before being flown to Boston for the third operation.

10,000 View 4,500 Marchers In Holy Name Society Parade Held in Kingston on Sunday

(By BOYD UFFER)

More than 10,000 people from all parts of the Kingston Archdiocese gathered in Richardson Memorial Stadium, Queen's University, on Sunday afternoon, in an inspiring demonstration of faith in God and allegiance to their flag and country.

This great gathering, sponsored by the Kingston Archdiocesan Holy Name Society, had as its theme, "Our Faith—Our Flag."

More than 4,500 men and boys from fifty parishes, including 12 from St. Michael's and Holy Rosary, took part in a parade preceding the ceremonies in the stadium.

Special trains brought Holy Name Society men and their families from the distant parts of Eastern Ontario, while hundreds of persons journeyed to Kingston in private cars.

Only members of the Holy Name Society marched in the parade, which was marshalled on the Cricket Field in Kingston's City Park. The parade, led by the 75-piece "De LaSalle Boys' Band from Toronto, marched up Union Street to Richardson Stadium, under the banners of their parish units.

On Reviewing Stand

Church dignitaries reviewing the marchers from a reviewing stand in front of the Dalton McDonald Memorial Union building were: The Archbishop of Kingston, Most Reverend J. A. O'Sullivan, Archbishop of Kingston, patron of the rally; The Most Reverend J. F. Ryan, Bishop of Hamilton, principal speaker of the rally; Msgrs. J. T. Hanley, Smith's Falls; L. E. Staley, Brockville, and P. J. Byrne, Kingston, and Lorne Mc-Donnell, Archdiocesan President of the Holy Name Society.

Spectators began filling the stadium more than an hour before the ceremonies were to start, and following the parade, thousands who lined the route of march filed into the stadium overflowing the seating capacity.

Form Union Jack

More than 750 girls from various parishes in the diocese, including more than 250 from Dalton Street, dressed in red, white and blue capes and coronets, formed a giant living Union Jack in the field as the rally began.

A sixty-foot long, pure white altar dominated the north end of the field. Its central arches rose 40 feet and bordered each side of the arch painted sky blue. A crimson tapestry with a great gold cross in the centre was the fitting for the central panel. Union Jacks decorated the whole structure, including the bishops' thrones and the speakers' stands.

Close to 500 chairs were arranged in the shape of a cross on the field facing the altar. These chairs were occupied by Holy Name men from the Cathedral parish in Kingston.

50 Parishes Represented

Immediately preceding the ceremonies there was a procession into the stadium led by the color bearers from the 50 parishes taking part in the rally. They formed themselves in a great crescent about the altar.

The color bearers were followed by 70 red and black sostained altar boys. Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, resplendent in their black formal clothes and black capes with crimson linings, marched with drawn swords behind the clergy.

The De LaSalle Boys' Band, which dazzled the throng with a display of precision marching and intricate formations for the more than 35 minutes it took the parade proper to enter the stadium, opened the program by playing the National Anthem. The men's choir then sang "Faith of Our Fathers."

Rev. J. A. Carley Heard

Rev. J. A. Carley, English secretary of the Canadian Catholic Conference, and formerly a curate of St. Michael's parish, Belleville, gave the meditations on the glorious mysteries of the rosary, and introduced the faithful who led the saying of the Creed, and the five decades.

In his introductory remarks Father Carley stated "God's work is not restricted to a few, is ioted time, or any one religion. The Kingdom of God embraces all men, all lands, and all times."

"The Catholic Church, our mother church, is our boast and our hope. The church alone unites all men for all ages. It unites the past with the present, the present with the future, and the future with eternity."

A glimpse of the universality of the church and of the faith that bridges barriers of race, language and cultural background was evident from the families of various racial origin that led in the saying of the rosary.

Led in Recitation of Creed

The William Perrus family, Chesterville, representing the 4,000,000 French-speaking Catholics in Canada, led the recitation of the Creed.

The various glorious mysteries were led by the Aloisius Cue family of Odessa, representing the Irish element in Canada; the Gus Scaletta family, of Trenton, representing the Italians; the Ted Kotowycz family of St. John's parish, Kingston, representing the Ukrainian Catholics in Canada; the Rudolph Morawtik family of Belaven, representing the 190,000 Poles in the Toronto Catholics in Canada, and the Matthew Ottenhof family of St. Joseph's parish, Kingston, representing the Dutch Catholics in Canada.

Purpose of Rally

His Excel. the Most Reverend J. A. O'Sullivan, Archbishop of Kingston, stated that the purpose of the Holy Name Rally was twofold: to profess one's faith in God, and to give allegiance to Canada.

"Patriotism is a natural virtue which all Catholics are obliged to practise," stated His Grace.

"Christ taught us unite because (the civil authorities) the things that are Caesar's, and 46 God the things that are God's' No one can be faithful to God and disloyal to just and lawful government. The power of a just government is from God. The Christian patriotism recognizes this God-given power."

"Canadian Catholics are loyal to the cross and loyal to Canada. Loyalty to God means opposition to communism, materialism and secularism, which destroys peace, hope and everything which we all love."

Always a Champion

In introducing the speaker, His Excellency Bishop Ryan, the Archbishop O'Sullivan stated that Bishop Ryan was one of the founders of the Holy Name Society in Hamilton Diocese and has always been a champion of the society in all its endeavors. "He has given more than half his life without purpose," said His Excellency Bishop Ryan in his opening remarks.

"A man, an institution, an organization without purpose, point or meaning is in danger of decay. They lose their dignity, identity and worth. When men find a motive in their lives they are transformed. Their actions are disciplined, and their personalities take on new aspects.

"When men are without purpose they become unemployed, shiftless. If, in this crisis, some cause captures their imagination and purpose they may mobilize their resources and master people. In Europe, tens of thousands of lives were made pointless by an evil purpose."

Must Have Purpose

"There is no excuse for a Catholic man to be without purpose. Apart from purely personal interest he has a purpose to live and die for. This purpose inspired God to come into the world to preach the glory of God and the coming of the Saviour. This purpose gave new direction to the lives of the apostles."

"The interest of the Holy Name Society are allied with those of Christ. It teaches that no occupation must be a vocation and provides an opportunity to be apostles for Christ when all men are seeking Him."

Bishop Ryan stated that the rally of the Holy Name Society renews loyalty to God, belief, reverence, and respect for His Holy Name. It also was a time to pledge love, allegiance and loyalty to Canada, Queen Elizabeth and the maintenance of lawful authority.

"The power of the Sacred Name gave the Apostles zeal and the power to work miracles," said Bishop Ryan.

"Out of savage tribes and hordes of barbarians, those name union, culture, and civilization, under the banner of the Holy Name. When the cross of Greece and Rome and the barbarians on the east threatened to destroy civilization, the power and the love of the Holy Name in Christian men sustained the foundations of culture and morality."

Will Not Be Traitors

"Today Cardinal Mindzenty and Archbishop Stepinac are imprisoned because they will not be traitors to God."

"These are our ancestors in the faith. They seek no honors by disloyalty, and when the rewards of conformity are offered and death, they gave up all for God.

"These are the noblemen of nature and their blood is in our veins. Their heritage is ours and in the Holy Name we too shall conquer."

In a brief outline of the achievements of the Holy Name Society, Bishop Ryan noted the increase in monthly Communions, the greater interest in Catholic doctrine, and the "steady growth in the holiness of manly men."

"Such a firm, unconquerable faith in Divine destiny leads to the building of the finer elements of character in Christian men," said the speaker. "Such men are the backbone of the community and the country. They stand for freedom of faith in Christ and freedom of Christian education. With unconquerable strength as defenders of the Holy Name they stand unafraid of any usurpers of faith, freedom and the sacred rights of the individual and the family. These same rights are the basis of human and the foundations on which Canada rests."

Thus the Holy Name Society

"Thus the Holy Name Society is a solid core of men who stand for respect for authority which they are taught from their early school years. It is precisely for this the Holy Name Society, an army of men strength of character can be depended upon as a bulwark against disloyalty, disorder, and national and International anarchy.

"It is your right as citizens of Canada, on this annual rally day, to salute the cross of redemption and unfurl the flag of Canada, that they may be united in one hearts."

In closing, Bishop Ryan extended respectful salutations to the government of Canada, to Queen Elizabeth the Second, and to the Pope.

Following the major address the men assembled renewed their pledge of devotion to God under the Holy Name, and their allegiance to Canada and lawful au-

700 Children Enjoy Opening Swimming Pool

Seven hundred happy children with a sprinkling of "oldsters" throughout the Dundas Street East Kinsmen Community Swimming Pool on Sunday afternoon as the new recreation area was officially declared open.

Despite a coolness of the water due to weather conditions of the past few days, the youngsters ignored themselves to the utmost. Some 480 went into the pool during the first hour.

A brilliant June sun tempered the coolness of the breeze and the large crowd of free guests basked in its warmth on the spacious edges of the pool during the afternoon.

Alderman Wilbur Countryman of the Swimming Pool Committee was on hand as the official key shortly before two o'clock and declared the pool open for the season.

Chairman "Buster" LaBarr, of the Kinsmen Swimming Pool Committee said that nothing had been spared in time and effort on the part of the club to make the 1953 season an even more successful one than the 1952 inaugural. A new underwater vacuum machine will be in use in the near future to remove accumulative sediment from the pool bottom.

Parking Expanded

Parking space has been expanded at the rear of the pool and ample provision has been made for many cars. Access can be made by turning off Dundas Street along Newbury, east of the pool.

The Kinsmen, Chairman Labarr stated, hope with the cooperation of the parks board and the Belleville Horticultural Society to transform the area existing now into an attractive park.

Free swimming instruction will be available to children starting June 29, with registration beginning June 27. A staff of five lifeguards will be on hand all of whom are qualified swimming instructors. These include Jacques Varcoe, member of last year's University of Toronto swimming team; Ann and Barbara Bennett; Don Pringle and Beth Wilbur.

The pool is under the general supervision of Jim MacDonald and John Matthews acting as his assistant.

Check rooms are in charge of Sylvia Pindle and Pauline Hall while a well-equipped canteen will be available at all times staffing by members of the Kinette Club.

Trenton Buses Cease Service

TRENTON, (Special.) — Arrangements made between the urban bus service in Trenton for the past several years will cease operations tomorrow afternoon, town clerk C. Lloyd Casey was advised today by J. H. Armstrong, owner of the bus company.

Reason for the cessation of operations may be linked to the razing of the bus terminal which was authorized by town council last month and which is just about completed.

Clerk of Privy Council is Named to Cabinet

The appointment of Jack Pickersgill as secretary of state and federal cabinet minister for Newfoundland has been announced by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent in Ottawa. Former farm boy, Oxford student and clerk of the privy council, 48-year-old right-hand man of two of Canada's greatest prime ministers, Mr. St. Laurent and the late Mackenzie King, will succeed Hon. Gordon Bradley, who is the first Newfoundlander ever named to the Senate. He will contest Mr. Bradley's constituency, Bonavista-Twillingate, in the federal general election Aug. 10. Although Mr. Pickersgill, seen above with family, is not from Newfoundland, he has always been interested in the island and its people and played a leading role in the negotiations which led to its decision to enter confederation.—Central Press Canadian.

Joint Exercise Will Test U.S., Canadian Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—A "large-scale" joint exercise will test Canadian and American fighter defences simultaneously in July, it was announced Sunday.

Exercise Tail Wind is the second manoeuvre of this kind but it should find Canadian air defences, at least, in considerably better shape than they were for exercise Sign Post of a year ago.

RCAF statements have indicated that the Canadian radar system should be pretty well in full stride by this fall while a year ago only a few stations were starting operation.

Following the Sign Post pattern, Tail Wind will launch "aggressor" forces — probably including the Comet jet transports —against the joint defences and see how both make out.

It will be housed by the two top fighter defence airmen on the continent, Gen. Benjamin Chidlaw and Air Vice-Marshal A. L. James who head the air defence commands of their two countries from Colorado Springs, Colo., and St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, respectively.

The RCAF said it will commit auxiliary or reserve squadrons and other units in summer training as well as "all elements" of the air defence system including fighter squadrons, control centres, the air ground observer corps, radar and other ground units and the army's anti-aircraft command.

Row for Hours, Never Move Inch Fate of College Training Crews

By H. L. Jones
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Crack oarsmen at a number of top United States colleges take to the water every winter, row for hours and never move an inch. The secret: Isolated indoor training tanks.

It may be frustrating for the crews but their back-breaking November-to-April routine pays off in the balmy summer days with national and international championships. It is probably one of the biggest factors in turning out title-winning crews.

The indoor pool, a device that dates back to the turn of the century in the U.S. and some parts of Europe, is an effective answer to frozen-over lakes and rivers. A pump circulates the water at various speeds and the movement creates the effect of a shell in motion.

One For Canada

The indoor tank may be introduced to Eastern Canada this fall.

Rowing officials from Toronto and Hamilton recently decided to investigate the possibilities of constructing the first Canadian training tank at Toronto. They have been promised an initial contribution of $5,000 from A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, past president of the Canadian Olympic Association.

A Canadian Press survey of Eastern U.S. colleges showed that Canada can't go wrong if the idea is adopted. Harvard Yale, Syracuse, University of Pennsylvania and Navy have had specially-constructed tanks for years and they have proved their value—from $10,000 to $40,000—with well-conditioned top-flight crews.

The Navy Middies are Olympic champions. They don't put it all down to tank training, but last year they won every meet on their schedule, took the U.S. national eights championship and whipped Russia by 30 feet—a boat length—in the Olympic finals at Helsinki.

The American crews also use the indoor rowing machines, such as Canadian crews do, but the tank develops timing and stroke before going through the real thing outdoors. It allows coaches to teach the finer points of the game, check form and wrist action from close range.

Would Prove Timely

Availability of such tanks this fall, for instance, could put Canadian crews in good shape for the British Empire Games in Vancouver next summer.

Reports from the colleges indicate that the tanks cost from $10,000 to $40,000 or more for a concrete and wood tank structure, depending on what is wanted. Some are elaborate, some are not.

Basically, the tanks are the same—actually two tanks on each side of a centre platform which supports a replica of a shell complete with sliding seats on runners and outrigger oarlocks. The free-swinging oars reach out port and starboard into the sloped-bottom tanks. The water is deepest where the oars dip near the outside edge.

Most U.S. rowing tanks are rigged for training eights, but can be used for training smaller crews down to single sculls. In some cases the coach sits on a raised platform facing his crew from where he can watch each man closely.

In Use at Harvard

Harvard has been winter-training its classy crews indoors since 1906. The pool is of reinforced concrete, 22 feet long and 14 feet wide and the two tanks have sloping false bottoms about 2½ feet deep. Thomas D. Bolles, director of athletics, says the "main advantages of a tank are that it enables the coach to instruct individuals in blade work and body work."

Facilities at Penn consist of two concrete tanks about 40 feet long by eight feet wide and 2¼ feet deep.

The Pennsylvania tank hasn't flowing water like Harvard, Penn oarsmen use "sieves"—boards with a hole cut in the centre of the blade—as they slip through the water more easily.

The Penn tank cost about $10,000. Figure; are not available on the original cost of the most elaborate Harvard pools, but present value is placed between $20,000 and $40,000.

Brendon Macken Retires From Davis Cup Play

By MAX McMAHON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's hopes for victory over Mexico in this year's Davis Cup matches suffered a setback Friday night with the announcement that Brendan Macken, the country's No. 1 tennis player, has retired from international competition.

But up-and-coming youngsters from British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec now have another berth to shoot for. The whole policy of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association for some years has been to build young players into international competition calibre.

Bren and No. 2 man Lorne Main were certain of spots on the team. Henri Rochon, ranked No. 3, has not said whether he will be available for competition this year. He played with Macken and Main last year, but hasn't played much this season.

The 30-year-old Macken said the rigorous work of getting into shape for big-time competition and demands of business were too much to allow him to carry on.

Big question mark now is brother Jim of Vancouver. Jim is currently playing in the Pacific Northwest championships, but hasn't said whether he would be available for the team. He ranks No. 3, but pressure of business did not permit him to play on the Davis Cup team last year.

D. Georges Leclerc, last year's non-playing captain, said: "We are sorry to see Bren leave international competition. We were counting on him to win matches for us and we'd still like to see him play if it was possible to make him change his mind."

Dr. Leclerc said the best prospects to fill the team's vacancy seem to be Paul Wiley, No. 4, of Vancouver; Lawrence Barclay, No. 6, Vancouver, and Bob Bedard, No. 7, Victoriaville, Que.

Determined Drive Made to Unseat Premier deGasperi

ROME (Reuters)—A quiet but determined campaign to unseat Premier Alcide de Gasperi began Friday among rightist members of his own Christian Democratic party.

The rightist faction fears that unless he is removed from the job he has held for the last seven years, he will move to the left in an effort to give Italy a stale government. There is a possibility, they said, that de Gasperi may seek an "understanding" with Pietro Nenni's left-wing socialists.

The faction would prefer de Gasperi to move to the right in a pact with the Monarchists but they see little chance of this. The premier has clearly shown his dislike of taking Monarchists into a coalition.

De Gasperi began a series of conferences Friday with political leaders to seek a way out of the election impasse. Many political leaders warned the nation is in a similar position to that which led to Mussolini's Fascist regime in 1922.

Now as then, the centre bloc finds itself caught squarely between extremists on the right and left. A move in either direction might eventually lead to the destruction of the centre bloc by the extremists it takes into its house.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — Frankford Juvenilles continued unbeaten in the Sidney Softball League, as they took a 13-7 game from Stockdale on the latter's home diamond Thursday night, before a large crowd.

Stockdale grabbed the lead in the first inning, as they put two hits and a walk together, plus a fielder's choice to plate two runs. Frankford came right back with three in the second, on three hits and a Stockdale error. Stockdale tied the count in their half of the second.

Frankford got four runs in the third, on three walks and two hits, and from then on were never headed. Stockdale got one in the fourth, but the Juvenilles came back with four in the fifth, on a hit, an error, and three passes. Frankford added another in the sixth to complete their scoring.

Stockdale fought valiantly to knot the score in the final frame, as the Frankford defence completely fell apart, and the homesters collected a couple of good solid hits. However, the fire was extinguished in time, and the Juvenilles racked up their second win.

Tomecek, going all the way for the Juvenilles, gave up eight hits, issued four passes, and struck out four. Stacey, starting for Stockdale, gave up eight hits, struck out four, but had difficulty in control, issuing ten walks. Wannamaker took over in the sixth, gave up two hits, struck out two, and gave up one walk.

Stockyards May Ease Cattle Restrictions

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Thomas Childs, veterinary director-general, said today consideration is being given to removal of some of the cattle restrictions at Toronto stockyards.

Restrictions, which include testing of cattle for tuberculosis, can be removed by declaring the stockyards as accredited areas. Buyers and truckers have complained that the testing is slowing up movement through the yards.

The Ontario Livestock Shippers Association said in an announcement at Wingham Thursday the curbs be may be eased by June 15 There was no confirmation of that date here.

Surging Yankees Head For Unbeaten Record; Win Eighteen Games In Row

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

AT LONG LAST!

It could have been the law of averages or maybe the Weather Stoke had a twinge of conscience. For a while it looked as though the cove would beat the Yankees for consecutive appearances, but Old Sol after a weary start finally healed the sorery one who had given us three rain-in-the-face week-ends in a row, and Sunday bloomed, after a cloudy, threatening start into a typical brilliant June day.

And a week-end starved populace took full advantage of this weatherman's from heaven, so to speak. Highways were strung out with motorists. Lakes, rivers and streams of the district were dotted with fish-hungry anglers. So was the bay bridge. Highway picnic tables were occupied. Afternoon hooper-rulings of television and radio took a beating. It was John Q. Public's day to holiday-howl, and howl he did.

But Dame Fortune flung her most engaging smile on "swizer-boys" of the city and district. The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club in its first speedboat regatta sponsorship and the Kinsmen Club in its official opening of the Community Swimming Pool clashed up two outstanding successes.

It is estimated that over 5,000 people saw the cream of the districts speedboats vie for honors off Victoria Park under almost ideal weather and water conditions. (These yachtsmen and yachtgirls must live right, even if they work and play a bit on Sunday).

The bay off Victoria Park was a sight that must have revived many pleasant memories for veterans of the city's water front, and others who can recall the days not long ago when the bay was a hive of activity on week-ends.

The wind-gods blew gently on Quinte's waters. There was sufficient breeze over the course to provide an almost perfect racing setting while out in the bay proper the white-winged scenes of the sailing squadron healed over to stiffer airs that made their outing ideal.

But more than weather contributed to the success of the regatta. The co-operative effort of the clubmen was equalled by that their ladies, and the whole contributed to the fine success that greeted their efforts.

Outside yachtsmen were loud in their praise of the organization and operation of the regatta as a whole. The committees of the Gananoque Yacht Club paid special tribute in no creat "that was unsurpassed", while drivers from far-flung sections of the province were generous in appreciative comment of the fine hospitality accorded them in the post-race receptions held at the Quinte Yacht Club.

While two minor accidents occurred they did not result in and personal injury to drivers nor mar the evenatal success of the meet. The club plans another meet of its kind later in the summer.

GOOD START!

Meanwhile youngsters and oldsters alike, some seven hundred all told, available themselves of the fine facilities that marked the official opening of the Kinsmen Club Swimming Pool. Pool chairman "Buster" LaBarr and his committee as well as a large number of other members beamed their satisfaction at the success of the formal opening of the season. The pool, gleamed in its new "spring garb" and the delighted shouts of the large crowd of youngsters plus-ultly established with "oldsters" milling in the water under a cloudless sky, brought broad smiles to the service club sponsors. It was a grand success, one that augurs well for the coming season.

JUNIOR BASEBALL

With Billy Strahan back in harness and the entire strength of the team available, the Bryson Reid Regent juniors are confident they will rack up their first victory tonight against the Prince Edward Combines at the CNR Recreation Park. The youngsters appear to have balance and power if they can concentrate at times and produce the baseball of which they are capable. However, they are far from being downhearted, and they will go all out tonight in an effort to grab the laurel wreath. They have dropped their last two starts to the Combines, but with a little more luck they would have pulled out with at least one victory. Game starts at 6.30.

Sweep Series With Cleveland To Kill Indians' Flag Hopes; Braves Jump 'Bums' for Lead

By Ed Corrigan
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unless Al Lopez is an incurable optimist, he could do worse than give his Cleveland Indians a little talk today—something like this:

"We've tried everything to beat those Yanks, but whatever we do, they manage to go us one better. When we streak, they put together a better streak. When we have the pitching, they manage to get the big blow to beat us. When we have the hitting, they pitch us. Let's concentrate on nalling down second place this year and give it another whirl in 1954."

Until a week ago, Lopez still talked pennant. But the clean sweep of the four-game series that ended with a double conquest 6-2 and 5-4 for the Yanks Sunday just about knocked the breath and hope out of the Tribe.

Casey Stengel and his swashbuckling crew now are 10½ games ahead of the Indians with the season not half over.

Third Longest Streak

The Yankees have won 18 games in a row, the third longest winning streak in American League history.

In 1916, Chicago White Sox won together a string of 19 games, and the Yanks of 1947 knocked off the feat. Both won the pennant.

New York Giants of 1916 set the major league record of 26 consecutive victories.

The crowd of 74,708 saw Yankee catcher Yogi Berra knock in enough runs to win each game. In the opener Yogi hit a home run off Bob Lemon with two on in the eighth with his single behind him. In the second game he clouted a triple in the fourth with two more mates aboard.

Lemon lost the first, and Mike Garcia, who permitted only seven hits, was the nightcap victim. Johnny Sain, Allie Reynolds and Allie Reynolds all saw service for the Yanks in the first game. Reynolds was the winner. Vic Raschi toss ed a three-bit shutout in the second contest.

On the subject of streaks, St. Louis Browns lost their 14th straight when they took a twin beflacking from Philadelphia Athletics 4-1 and 3-1. This equalled the Browns' longest streak which was the 1940 club ran up and is only six short of the American League record of 20 set by Boston Red Sox of 1906 and the Athletics of '36 and '43.

The White Sox moved into third place with a pair of triumphs over the Red Sox 6-0 and 1-0. The White Sox now hold a half-game margin over the Red Sox and Washington Senators.

Billy Pierce tossed the first shutout for the Pale Hose, giving up only two hits, and Sandy Consuegra threw the second.

The Senators slugged Detroit Tigers 6-1 behind the strong-arm hurling of Frank Shea.

The second-place battle for first place in the National League continued between Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers. The amazing Braves edged past the Brooks by whipping the Cincinnati-and-Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3 and 8-0.

Lever Clouts Bases

Don Liddle pitched a five-hitter for Charlie Grimm's lads in the first game and Bob Buhl came through with the relief job in the afterpiece.

The Brooks knocked off Chicago Cubs 4-3 in the opener of their scheduled doubleheader. But in the nightcap Cubs were held to 6-6 tie. The Dodgers were ahead 6-2 in the ninth when Ralph Kiner smashed a home run with the bases loaded to tie the count.

Ken Lehman outpitched Robin Roberts as Cincinnati Redlegs beat Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 in the first game of a doubleheader. The Phils came back to win the second 4-1.

Harvey Haddix and Sal Maglie hooked in a pitchers' pitching duel, the former hurling St. Louis Cardinals to a 1-0 victory in the first game of a twin bill. The Cards also won the nightcap 9-4 behind Vinegar Bend Mizell.

By the Canadian Press

Tom Lasorda pitched the Royals to a 5-1 victory in the opener, allowing only four scattered hits and fanning seven. Montreal took the abbreviated nightcap 8-4. The victory outfit Ottawa 12-8 and Ronnie Lee, third of four Montreal pitchers, got the win.

The Royals lost a Saturday game 6-4 to Toronto Maple Leafs, whose Bobby Hogue held the Montrealers to only two safeties until they got to him in the seventh for another three. Lew Sleater finished the job.

American Driver Killed in Race

LE MANS, France (AP)—Tom Cole, a daring, 24-year-old driver from Sayville, N.Y., was killed Sunday at a British car race in the 24-hour Le Mans endurance race with a record-smashing performance.

Cole cracked up in his four-litre Ferrari on the hazardous maison blanche curve of the 8.36-mile course. In his Ferrari 375 model Cole cut too close into the turn and slipped ise a shallow gully. Coming out his rear end whipped around and hit a small barrier, causing him to lose control of his car.

Britain's Tony Rolt and C. Duncan Hamilton won the endurance classic in a Jaguar with British teams in the first, second, third and fourth place. The winning Jaguar set a Le Mans distance record of 303 laps, totalling 2,533 miles. The winning speed was a 106 MPH average.

British Bowler Enters Crickets' 'Immortal' Ranks

By Robert Jones

NOTTINGHAM (AP)—Alec Bedser bowled himself into the ranks of cricket's immortals Saturday by taking seven Australian second-innings wickets for 44 in one of the finest performances since Test matches started in 1877.

He not only shattered the might of Australia's batting for a meagre 123, but he gave England a fighting chance of pulling off victory in a day of fluctuating fortunes.

Bedser's seven-for-44 duvies and Harold Elliott called a halt because they had scored 42 runs for one wicket.

And the game was as open as a barn door. The notorious Trent Bridge pitch was still fairly docile and England on a red spot at one end looked ominous.

Bedser's match analysis was 14 wickets for 99—and that without any help from the wicket.

He beat the Sidney Barnes' English record of 189 wickets in Test matches, and came within an inch of equalling the record of Wilfred Rhodes and Hedley Verity of 15 Australian wickets in a match, and now has his sights firmly fixed on Clarrie Grimmett's mark of 216 test wickets.

The morning started badly for England—Hutton 22 on the board and four wickets standing. Those four went fairly quickly, despite a courageous 29 not out by Johnny Wardle, and the innings finished at 144—106 behind.

Ray Lindwall was the wrecker of the innings when five for 37.

Then came Australia's turn.

Unlucky Graham Hole, Hassett, Miller, Harvey and Benaud all fell to Bedser, who at one time took five wickets for 26 runs in 15 overs, and half the Australian side were out for 58 inside 40 minutes.

Doughty Arthur Morris kept plugging away at one end and by the time he was bowled by Tattersall he had made 60—nearly half the Australian total.

Mulloy Beaten In Tennis Upset

BECKENHAM, England (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., the United States top-ranking tennis player, was beaten in the finals of the Kent tennis championships by George Worthington in a stunning upset, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. Worthington, 20-year-old former Australian Davis Cup substitute now lives in New Zealand.

The match marked the might of Australia's batting for a meagre 123, but he gave England a fighting chance of pulling off victory in a day of fluctuating fortunes.

Bedser's match analysis was 14 wickets for 99—and that without any help from the wicket.

He beat the Sidney Barnes' English record of 189 wickets in Test matches, and came within an inch of equalling the record of Wilfred Rhodes and Hedley Verity of 15

Native Dancer's Terrific Stretch Run Noses 'Jamie K' in Belmont Thriller

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) A busy summer and fall program was mapped today for Arthur Vanderbilt's Native Dancer the great grey colt who won the $118,600 Belmont Stakes and copped the three-year-old championship of 1953.

As horsedom still thrilled over the Dancer's terrific stretch run Saturday at Belmont Park where he caught and defeated Jamie K. by a neck, the Vanderbilt camping managers were looking for reward to more fields to conquer.

"He proved himself to others, but there never was any doubt with me that he was a champion," said Bill Winfrey, who trains the grey son of Polynesian.

Next comes the Dwyer, then to Chicago for the Arlington Classic," Winfrey said Sunday.

The Dwyer is a 1 1-4 mile race for $50,000 at Aqueduct July 4, while the classic is a one-mile affair carrying $100,000 in added money.

Nearly six horses went postward in the 1 1-2-mile Belmont, and it was a terrific battle between the Dancer and Jamie K. from Jim Herriff Eddie Arcaro and Conn McCreary, a duplicate finish of the Preakness May 23, when the grey flyer defeated Jamie K. by a neck.

In the Preakness Native Dancer was in front all the stretch and Jamie K. couldn't catch him. In the Belmont, Eddie Arcaro put Jamie K. into the lead on the final turn after the pace-setting Hasn O'War tired, but Eric Guerin, aboard Native Dancer, did catch the Norris colt in the run to the wire.

Native Dancer's time of 2.28 3-5 was just one second off the track record set in 1942 by Dollingfriska under 115 pounds, whereas the Dancer carried 126.

Best-of-Three Plan Replaces Big Four Two-Game Playoffs

TORONTO (CP)—A complicated playoff plan designed to give the first-place club a break in the post-season series was adopted by the Big Four football union this season. It discards the old two-game, total-points series for a best-of-three plan.

Officials of the Big Four in semi-annual session Saturday came up with a home-and-home series at an all-day session which touched also on television, officiating and individual playing personnel. Apart from the playoffs, set for Nov. 21 and 28, no major changes were made.

Officials, shying clear from television, decided its policy would be unchanged. Montreal Alouettes will televise home games as they did last season, the only club in the four-team circuit given that play-by-play into living rooms.

The four clubs will be allowed to carry three imports above the quota of eight up to Oct. 1. At that date a fourth clean of the league they no longer want to keep. Last season four clubs were allowed as many Americans as they wanted until the eight-import limit.

Under a new regulation adopted this year the last-place club of the preceding season, in this case the Alouettes—will be allowed nine players above the regular complement.

The new playoff system will operate this way:

The team finishing first in the league standings will have the choice of venue. If the first-place club wins the first game and ties the second it will enhance into the Grey Cup final Nov. 28. If the second-place team wins the first and ties the second, a third game will be necessary.

The first-place team can win the playoff with a win and a tie in two games, or a win and two ties in three. The runner-up team must take two of the three games to win the playoff.

If three teams are tied in points at the end of the regular schedule the club with the highest points scored will be given a bye. The other two will meet in a sudden-death game to decide which will move into the best-of-three playoff.

Officials said a detailed outline would be given later.

Toronto Argonauts' bid to have halfback Billy Bass classified as a non-import was approved. Bass played for the Argos in 1951 and then dropped out of Canadian football for one season, after which he was picked up by Argonauts in 1953.

Eligibility a player to be placed in the category of a non-import must have played four straight years in the league.

KITCHENER JOINS ORFU

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo was admitted into the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union as a last minute league schedule meeting here Saturday.

The club will probably be known as K-W Rugby Club with coaching assistance from Kitchener, Galt, London and Stratford, using Kitchener's intermediate club as the base and as the nucleus for the new club.

The new entry will join Kenora Imperials, Toronto Balmy Beach, Brantford Redskins and Windsor Royals.

The Royals, whiteas since they joined the league, have folded and have been reorganized and Windsor officials hope to see the tugging pulls of their former football forts.

Selecting the group behind the K-W entry were Don Goodrow, Ken Preston and Bruce Burns. They apparently convinced the ORFU executive that the entry had the money, players and fans to be a part of the senior series.

Oshawa Merchants have won two of their last three games with the leading London Majors. Saturday they won the nightcap of a doubleheader 17-0 after dropping the first game 3-1. They also defeated the Majors 3-1 Thursday.

Kitchener Panthers edged Waterloo Tigers 3-1 and St. Thomas Elgin Sextet was six strokes a 5-4 in other Saturday game. The Guelph-Galt game was postponed due to wet grounds.

The Majors got five runs off Jerry Burke in the sixth, on as many solid hits plus a couple of walks. Bill Butler went all the way for Oshawa, loaded the bases in the seventh and Bill Bruhm was put in. Bruhm added their total of Oshawa's batting order without getting a hit.

In the nightcap, London used four pitchers in an effort to stop the Oshawa attack. Donald Johnson went the route for the Merchants, fanning eight and got the decision for win in as many starts.

Oshawa got two runs off starter Tommy White in the first frame. White was replaced in the fourth by Bob Penny on the mound. Oshawa launched a 10-hit attack for an other four runs. Oshawa added their final four runs in the eighth with Bob Penny on the hill.

Kitchener won their game in the second inning when they got two unearned runs off right-hander Gord Arisz of the Tigers. Mel Dunnes, the winning pitcher, was relieved in the top of the ninth after allowing one run and nine hits in 7 1-3 innings. Southpaw Bill Allan came in to retire the Tigers in order to end the game.

The St. Thomas victory was their fifth in 15 starts. Right-hander Jim Gifton had a lot to do with the victory after taking over from Joe Gomez in the eighth. Gomez, who until Saturday had won three straight games for the second-place Sox, was the loser.

St. Thomas started the scoring in the first with a run on a hit, a sacrifice and an error. Brantford struck back with two in the third on an error, a walk and a hit. Thomas again took the lead in the sixth with two earned runs and added two more in the seventh on an error and two hits. Brantford got an earned run back in the eighth and another in the ninth on two errors.

Ben Hogan Wins Fourth Open Crown In Dramatic Battle With Sam Snead

By WILL GRIMSLEY

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—Unshakable Ben Hogan made it No. 4 Saturday and joined Sam Snead in blow another one in a pressurized head-to-head bout for the 53rd United States open golf championship.

The leathery Texas master nailed Snead's doom with a dramatic birdie-birdie finish that gave him a final round 71 and a 72-hole total of 283, which shattered Oakmont's heretofore impregnable par by five strokes. His margin over runner-up Snead was six strokes.

Hogan had rounds of 67-72-73-71 around the sprawling 6,918-yard course which plays a rugged 37-35—72. The previous 72-hole competitive record for the layout was 294, set by Willie McFarlane in 1904.

Snead was on the 14th green when Hogan rammed home his five-foot birdie put on the final hole. He limped in with a 76 for a final score of 289.

Snead had the door thrown open to him several times during Saturday's exhausting double round. He collared Hogan on the third hole of the morning round, passed the pace-setter by two strokes at the fifth and seemed headed for possible victory when his game suddenly vanished.

He cut Hogan's lead to a single stroke with a birdie on the morning while Ben took a 73.

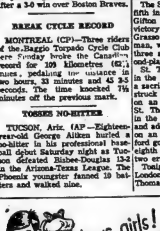
But Sam never could catch his old friend-foe, Ben, Hogan.

Hogan thus became the third man in the history of this classic to win the championship four times joining Willie Anderson and the immortal Bobby Jones.

The other halfway leaders, Lloyd Mangrum, George Fazio and Jay Hebert, faded in the morning.

One over par was the two holes to play. Hogan came to the 17th and put the kindling to a wood shot that rolled to the ball to the green 202 yards away.

He was left with a 35-foot putt and finally sank it for his birdie three.



On the 18th, Hogan powered a drive down the middle and then lofted a five-iron shot to the green, five feet from the cup. His putt slid the back of the cup.

Mangrum, the 1949 champion from Niles, Ill., finished with rounds of 75-74 for a total of 292. This gave him third money.

Fazio, 40, a touring pro from Clementon, N.J., who started the day tied with Snead at 141, two strokes back of Hogan, added by 77-76 for 294, which placed him in a tie with Jimmy Demaret.

Funny eh — except when it happens to you? Oddly enough we are all human and act this way one time or another. Those of us who do, and are unlucky, find ourselves in a serious plight when someone is injured on our property or because of our neglect or misjudgment.

PERSONAL AND RESIDENCE LIABILITY insurance was designed to help us at such times. Remember, not only does this policy indemnify against legal judgments against us—it also takes care of legal expenses, win or lose.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was opening her mail at breakfast, saying to pop, My, well, how nice.

Did somebody send you a check for a hundred dollers with no strings attached? pop said, and ma said, Something almost as nice. My high school class is having a family dinner dance, so the girls can all meet each others husbands after all these years. This is the antics, and it's fined by Estelle Dunbar the class secreterry, although in the course of time she is now Mrs. Jack Ebbenberry, Junior. "The time is 8, at the Hotel Stiltz. It will be a knockout, it will be a blitz, So show up, member, if you possibly can. The girls are dying to meet your man." Estelle was the class poet, William, ma said. The habit must of grown on her, pop said, and ma said, My it will be like old time. Do you remember when you used to take me to class dances, William she said.

Well rather, I remember the very first one we went to pop said. The hall was like an oven. There was nothing to interfeer with the music, not even air. By golies, experiences like that make us thankful for our little blessings, saich as the gift of breathing, he said, and ma said, Now William, dont exaggerate.

I stepped out on the balcony to try my lungs, and I caught the quinzy and couldn't talc for a week, pop said. How grateful it made me for the gift of speech, he said, and ma said, William, I can see through you like an open book, you just dont want to go.

My dear, there's no use trying to hide anything from you, pop said, and ma said, No there's not, and I'm glad you realize it. And there's no use running off to the office like a sheef in the nite, the subject is by no means over, she said.

Which it probably wasn't.

AT THE CAPITOL—A tense scene from Warner Bros. new crime drama "The System" starring Frank Lovejoy, Joan Weldon and Jerome Cowan opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing. On the same program, the best selling novel by Peter Cheney "Uneasy Terms" starring Michael Rennie.

This is how the bidding should go:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 D	Pass
1 S	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 D	Pass	2 S	Pass
4 S	Pass	Pass	Pass

In response to the south one spade reply, north has support for the south suit. And all bidding follows the order of preference in T-A-N; takeout first, assist next, no-trump last.

Then why does north bid no-trump instead of assisting spades in his first chance to assist spades? To do so would have to raise the number. To raise the number a player needs another trick.

The north opening bid promises five tricks. His hand contains no more than five tricks. A raise by him would show a sixth trick. Since he lacks a sixth trick he does not raise.

However, when south bids two diamonds, north can show his spade support without a raise. This he does on the third round. Now, with five tricks in his own hand south sees enough for four spades.

Where support is found for a suit, that suit can be decided on as trumps. It takes ten tricks to make game in a major suit. The pair discovers all this. Game in spades should be easy. Unless, of course, there is an unexpected division of trumps in opponent hands.

Such was the case here. To make it even more troublesome, the west player in most cases led his singleton diamond. And only a few south players made the contract. Would you have done it?

You would if you stopped to count.
